Kiss Horsfall, the Great Helress-Ex-

Miss Horsnail, the dreat indices par-traordinary imposition. From the Leeds Mercury.] We lately published an account of the career in Leeds of the young lady who pretended to be the niece of Mr. Horsfall, M. P., and who has been com-mitted to the next sessions of the Cen-tral Criminal Court on three distinct charges of embezzlement. The followcharges of embezzlement. The follow-ing particulars relate to her proceedings in Birmingham : As Miss Horsfall, t reputed niece of the rich member for Liverpool, she found no difficulty in obtaining jewels, dresses, and other costly articles, such as a young heiress with expensive tastes might be supposed to require; and by dealings with he "uncle -not the one whose name she bore, but an accommodating relation with a hooked nose, who sports the sign of the Three Balls—she raised and keep up a lady-like appearance.— This was the state of things when a young gentleman from Birmingham arrived on a periodical visit to Leeds, and took up temporary quarters at the same hotel in which Miss Horsfall was residing. This younggentleman (whom weshall call Frank, for the sufficient reason that Frank is not his name,) was traveling on a business tour for his father, who is a most respectable manufacturer, residing in a suburb of Bir mingham. Frank saw and admired the charming Mary, who seemed to oc-cupy a position in the hotel between cupy a position in the notel between that of a friend and a guest, and whose profuse liberality and condescending manners, added to the reputation of great wealthiness, made her an object of no little regard. Frank found her affable, genial and communicative; he had frequent opportunities of meeting her, and, to make a long story short, he fell in love with her. Nor was he doomed to despair, for the fair one confessed preference for the ardent youth, and neglected and left to shift for themthe upshot was that they were engaged to be married. By telling a story made up of the most flagrant untruths, this woman imposed upon a family who bear a high reputation for the strictest integrity, and whose natural love of truth may have disinclined them to distrust; while by simultaneously pursuing a secret course of swindling she was able those whom she had so impudently im-ers and stock raisers give the utmost at-

Miss Horsfall came to Birmingham as the affianced wife of Frank, and was received by his family in that capacity. Her conduct was not in every respect satisfactory, but the minds of those dis-posed to believe the best are easily satisfied and as Miss Horsfall added hypocrisy in religious affairs to her other fatal acin religious affairs to her other fatal ac-complishments, she managed to avoid detection for a time. The period for the wedding, was fixed, and a house near the town was taken for the young couple to reside in. This house Miss American Stock Journal. Horsfall undertook to furnish from her own private resources; and she pro On Tuesday night, the 25th of Novem-ber, a fire broke out in the east wing of ceeded to carry out that undertaking in a style which showed that her "re sources" were as large as her tastes the Louisianna State penitentary, locat-ed at Baton Rouge, utterly destroying the building—the walls cracking and tumbling in on all sides. The night were extravagant. Tradesmen in London sent down furniture worth hun-dreds of pounds to order. There were four or five plano fortes from different was bitter cold, but perfectly calm, else the entire establishment would have met makers, chairs worth ten or twelve pounds each—much too good to sit upon; the same fate, as owing to the scarcit of water, the height of the wall and of the building, it was impos ible to control or check the flames cushions to cover them-also too valuable for ordinary use; carpets, tables, and household "fixings" of all kinds, and household "HAIngs" of all KINGS, the stable though the fire department did all that had to be enlarged to make room for the could be done, and after getting in had to be enlarged to make room for the splendid carriage horses sent down from London, and special provision had to be tend them. While all these prepara-tions were in progress Miss Horsfall was the guest of the family of which geograd the guest of the family of which accord-ing to the programme, she was soon to be a cherished member; and she en-deavored to show her gratitude for the kindness of her new-found friends by loading them with costly presents. She tried to mix herself are erates taking possession of the town immediately after the evacuation, under order of Governor Moore, the remnant tried to mix herself up in the business affairs of her dear papa that was to be. She offered Frank's father the use of affairs of her dear papa that was to be. She offered Frank's father the use of several loose thousands belonging to her, if he chose to accept them; but the of-fer was declined, or "dear papa" might have been wheedled out of promissory stock of cotton destroyed by the Con-notes in advance and have found them sequently destroyed by fire. At so very low estimate, the loss to the State in this property, together with the large is tock of cotton destroyed by the Con-for was declined, or "dear papa" might have been wheedled out of promissory notes in advance and have found them converted into hard eash for which he would have been liable. The mechanism of Miss Horsfall's daring scheme appeared to work ad-mirably. As the wife of an honest and merespectable man, whose name she might legally bear in any contingency, she could better face the exposure that was bound to come some day, even if her new connections could have been pre-valled upon to avoid public scandal by settling with her dupes. Or, perhaps, the bold adventuress really loved this young man, and wasimpelled by resist-the sold adventuress really loved this young man, and wasimpelled by resistor consequences. Whatever her motives or expectations, she was anxious to get consequences. Whatever her motives or expectations, she was anxious to get married as quickly as possible, anxious to spend as much time as possible in the society of her intended husband, and anxious to stand well with his relatives. But though, as we have said, the mechanism appeared to work well, there was a screw loose somewhere. Frank was not altogether satisfied with his bargain, and the evasion of his inquir-ies made him more determined to have the mystery cleared up with respect to the woman whom he was about to marry. The required explanations were the woman whom he was about to marry. The required explanations were not for the coming; the plot thickened; doubts in the young man's mind deep-ened into certainty, and the match was broken off. The resolve once made, it a passionate and desperate woman were was firmly adhered to. All the arts of a passionate and desperate woman were exercised in vain. The heart that had proved so soft and pliant at Leeds was heard and firm as adament at Birming. proved so soit and pliant at Leeds was hard and firm as adamant at Birming-tham ;and the adventuress, even though she urged that she could not survive the the expiration of its supremacy in office. There is a settled opinion that the radiseparation for three hours, was rejected by the man who had loved her. That the shock did not prove fatal is estab-lished by the fact that Miss Horsfall is progress is over and the account upon now lies in jail awaiting her trial on three charges of embezzlement. We believe that the family who have suffered so much annoyance by her peridy have acted most honorably all through the matter, even to the assumption of liabilities they were not bound to un-dertake. Even since her imprisonment Miss Horsfall has written to the family of her intended bushand imploring a of her intended husband, imploring of her intended husband, imploring a continuation of their friendship in her trouble, and making violent professions of religious sentiment, which we hope, rather than believe, to be the result of sincere repentance. The Army Consumption of Horses. Some interesting facts in regard to the supply of horses and their consumption by the army have recently been presented by a Newburg, (N. Y.) veterinary surgeon, Dr. Vogeli. The census shows that the number of horses in the United States in 1860 was 6,115,468.— After making deductions for the South-ern States, for horses under and above a working age, diseased and unservice-able, Dr. V. reduces the total resources of the horse market in the lowed shows that the number of horses in the States to 1,067,808 animals. The an-nual want for civil use is 144-States to 1,067,808 animals. The annual want for civil use is 144,nual want for civil use is 144,-018; for military use, 108,742, or one-fourth annually of the total resources of may take refuge, and if captured they the horse supply. The colts under four are under no circumstances to be surren-dered, but are to be sent to these head. years old are estimated at 1,114,175; one-fourth of these, or 278,,544, will anone-fourth of these, or 278,,544, will an-nually-reach the age of four years; but as this number may be reduced one-tenth for deaths and disasters among the colts, the ultimate actual annual supply is put at 250,690, while the an-nual need for the army and for civil life is 252,760, showing a deficiency of 2,670 horses each year. Dr. Vogeli makes no statement of the mules which are used in the army, though he allows for their use, which reserves just so their use, which reserves just so many horses. If his estimates are cor-rect, there is good reason for the high price of horses besides the depreciation price of horses besides the depreciation in the currency. The waste of horses in the army from bad treatment and neg-in thearmy from bad treatment and neglect is enormous. This probably is something which cannot be remedied. One means of economizing horses in civil use is to substitute steam whenever it can conveniently be done. All about to inaugurate another eastern war.

TO ALL INVALIDS!

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

It is well known to the medical profession that IRON is the vital Principle or Life Ele-ment of the blood. This is derived chiefly from the food we eat: but if the food is not properly digested, or if, from any cause whatev r, the necessary quantity of iron is not taken into the circulation, or becomes reduced, the whole sys-tem suffers. The bad blood will irritate the brain, will clog up the lungs, will stupefy the brain, will obstruct the liver, and will send its discase producing elements to all parts of the system, and every one will suffer in whatever organ may be predisposed to disease.

IRON AS A MEDICINE

is well known and acknowledged by all medi-cal men. The difficulty has been to obtain such a prepuation off tas will enter the circulation and assimilate at once with the blood. This point, says Dr. Hayes, Massachusetts State Chemist, has been attained in the Peruvian Syrup, by combination in a way before un-known.
