daily nighig the President to iss what he saw at the "Silver Bank," near Hayti: The banks of the coral on which my divings were made, are about forty miles in length, and from ten to twenty in breadth. On this bank of coral is presented to the diver one of the most heantiful and sublime scenes the eye ever beheld. The water varies from ten to one hundred feet in depth, and so clear that the diver can see from two to three hundred feet when submerged, with but little obstruction to the sight. The bottom of the ocean; in many places, is as smooth as a marble floor; in others it is studded with coral columns, from ten to one hundred feet in height, and from one to eighty feet in neight, and from one to eighty feet in liameter. The tops of those more lofty diameter. The tops of those more lofty support a myriad of pyramidal pen-dants, each forming a myriad more, giving the reality to the imaginary abode of some water nymph. In other places the pendants form arch after irch; and as the diver stands on the ottom of the ocean, and gazes through in the deep winding avenue, he finds that they fill him with as sacred an awe as if he were in some old cathedral, which had long been buried beneath old ocean's wave. Here and there the coral extends even to the surface of the water, as if the loftier columns were towers belonging to these stately temples that are now in ruins.

There were countless varieties of diminutive trees, shrubs and plants in every crevice of the corals where water had deposited the earth. They was deposited the earth. They were had deposited the earth. They were all of a faint hue, owing to the pale light they received, although of every shade, and entirely different from plants that I am familiar with that vegetate upon dry land. One in particular attracted y attention; it resembled a sea fan of nmense size, of variegated colors and the most brilliant hue. The fish which inhabit these "Silver Banks" I found as different in kind as the scenery was varied. They were of all forms, colors and sizes-from symmetrical goby to the globe-like sunfish; from those of the duliest hue to the changeable dolphin; dullest hue to the changeable dolphin; from the spots of the leopard to the hues of the sunbeam; from the harmless minnow to the voracious shark.

Some had heads like squirrels, others like cats and dogs, one of small size re-sembled the bull-terrier. Some darted through the water like meteors, while others could scarcely be seen to move. To enumerate and explain all the various kinds of fish I beheld while diving on these banks would, were I enough of an artist to do so, require more than my limits would allow, for I am convinced that most of the kinds of fish which inhabit the tropical seas can be found there. The sunfish, sawfish, starfish, white shark, blue or shovel-nose shark, were often seen.

There were also fish which resembled plants and remained as fixed in their position as a shrub; the only power they possessed was to open and shut when in danger. Some of them resembled the rose when in full bloom, and were of all hues. There were the ribbon fish, om four to five inches to three feet in length; their eyes are very large, and protrude like those of a frog.
Another fish was spotted like the leopard, from three to ten feet in length. They build their houses like beavers, in which they spawn, and the male or female watches the egg until it hatches. I saw many specimens of the green turtle, some five feet long, which I should think would weigh from 400 to 500 pounds.

The "Death Watch."

The 'death watch" (Anobiumstriatum) is a very common inmate of our house. Among those who are unacquainted with the habits of insects. there is a common superstition that the strange ticking sound often heard in old houses is a sign of approaching death. The noise, however, is caused by a small beetle, which, during its boring operations, rubs the neck and thorax (chest) together, by which means this (to some persons) terrible omen is produced—a fact which, if more gene ally known, would save a world of useless anxiety and uneasiness. In the larva state these insects do great injury to our furniture and the wood work of old houses, which they gnaw continually. When captured, this beetle feigns death, and with the strangest pertinacity, preferring, it is said, certain leath, under a slow fire, rather than to betray the least sign of vitality. The "death watch," on account of its retired, habits, minute size, and dark color, is very seldom seen; and, as there are often several individuals working at the same time at their boring operations, the sound seems to proceed simultaneously from opposite directions, thus adding to the superstitious terror wherewith by some persons, it is regarded. The greatest evil, however, to be dreaded from it is the injury it does through its excavations in the wood work of our houses. It is not larger than a good sized flea.

Hunter of Virginia, Declares Himself Onposed to Reconstruction. A CARD.

A report seems to have obtained currency to the effect that I am in favor of a reconstruction of the old Union; and as this rumor is not only injurious to myself, but may be, perhaps, hurtful to the country, I take this occasion to say that it is entirely erroneous. There is, perhaps, no person in the confederacy to whose feelings and interests such an event would be more repugnant than to mine. I have always held that we ought to maintain the struggle for independence so long as there is hope of success. The General-in-Chief and the President of the Confederate States, are the highest military authorities, best able to understand our resources and prospects. While they have hope in the contest it seems to me that we should do all in our power to strengthen their hands. But, after all, it is in a sense of the justice of their to is in a sense or the justice of their cause that the hearts of our people should be confirmed, and it is to the Chief Ruler of the Universe that they should look for aid in the mighty struggle in which they are engaged.

DESCRIPTION OF SUE MUNDY.

Marcus Jerome Clark, alias Sue Mundy, was nearly six feet high straight and smantrably well duilt, and we think would weight about one hundred and sixty pounds. His complexion was fair; long dark hair, which touched his shoulders, and a beautifully shaped mouth, and in short was a very handsome man. His whole demeanor was firm and polite; and he bore the air of a man of culture and gentlemanly refinement. He said he would have been twenty-one years old next August, and ment. He said he work August, and twenty-one years old next August, and would die before his manhood, and yet had been a man to his country. He wore a black velvet cap, a black or dark blue jacket with one row of Kentucky State buctons, a pair of dark cassimere pants, and a pair of old boots cut down in imitation of a pair of shoes. THE GALLOWS.

Notwithstanding the result of the trial was kept secret, a very large crowd gathered at the place of execution, on Broadway, near Eighteenth street. The gallows was a hastily constructed affair. gallows was a hastily constructed affair. The material was the same that was used in the scaffoldingon which Nathan Marks, the guerilla, was hung some months ago, and was built precisely like the other. The platform or trap door was supported by a prop—a rope attached to the lower end. A rough wooden coffin was brought and placed under the scaffold a half an hour before the ABBIVAL OF SUE MUNDY. He was conveyed from the military prison in a carriage, accompanied by his spiritual adviser, under a strong guard, and arrived at the place of execution about a quarter to four o'clock, preceded by martial music. It required several minutes to form the troops in proper order, the prisoner in the meanproper order, the prisoner in the mean-time remaining in the carriage, his lips moving as if in player, a white hand-kerchief up to his eyes, and his head leaning against the side of the carriage,

THE EXECUTION. Captain George Swope, of the Fifth Indiana cavalry, and provost marshal, had charge of the execution. The prisoner was conducted to the gallows in oner was conducted to the gallows in company with the minister. Both knelt and offered up a prayer, after which Captain Swope read the charges and specifications to the prisoner. He seem-ed to pay little attention to this. His eyes were half closed, and his lips coneyes were nair closed, and his tips continually in motion, evidently offering up his last petition to God. "Lord have mercy upon my poor soul," seemed from the motion of his lips to be his prayer. He was asked if he had anything to say to make it known. He directed his remarks to his sniritual adviser in a very low voice, hardly audible: I am a regular Confederate soldier, and have served in the Confederate army four years. I fought under Gen. Buckner at Fort Donelson, and belonged to Gen. Morgan's command when he en-tered Kentucky. I have assisted, and taken many prisoners, and have always treated them kindly. I was wounded at Cynthiaua and cut off from my command. I have been in Kentucky ever ee. I could prove that I am a regu-Confederate soldier, and I hope in and die for the Confederate cause A white cap was then placed over his face, and at the word three the prop was pulled from under the trap. The fall was not more than three feet, and did not break his neck; he chocked to death. We have seen a great many persons such hard struggles and convulsions. It was feared for a time that he would break the lashings. His sufferings, however, were of short duration. Thus ended the career of the notorious Sue Mundy.

He was left hanging some twenty inutes before he was cut down. Immediately a crowd gathered around the body, some trying to cut off a button others snatching at the cord to secure a piece as a memento. A rumor was started that his jacket contained a lot of greenbacks, carefully sewed in the lin-ing. Accordingly, before he was placed in the coffin, a general search was instituted, but nothing was found.

As an evidence that he did have a heart and a fellow-feeling in his bosom, we append a letter to a young lady of a few moments before he was taken to the place of execution: My DEAR: I have to inform you of the sad fate which awaits your true friend. I am to suffer death this afternoon at four o'clock. * * I send you, from o'clock. * * I send you, from my chains, a message of true love; and, as I stand on the brink of the grave, I tell you I do truly, and fondly, and forever love you. m, ever truly, yours,

Mr. Cobden on Our Financial Management. Our rulers, who have so long slighted the arguments and warnings of the Demeratic party, may perhaps be induced o listen to the opinion of the distinguished English statesman, who is the staunchest friend of our cause in Europe He is a strong abolitionist, and an eminent and universally respected authori-ty in all questions of finance; a class of questions in which he is perhaps the best informed man living. It is obvibest informed man living. It is obvi-ous that this description can apply only to Richard Cobden. The Evening Post publishes a letter from Mr. Cobden to our minister to Copenhagen, full of warm sympathy and hopefulness, but closing with the impressive warning which we here insert:

You will have a task sufficient to employ all your energies at home in bringing your finances into order. There is a dreadful want of capacity at your head in questions of political economy; you seem now to be in the same state of ignorance as that from which we began to emerge forty years ago. The labors of Huskisson, Peel, and Gladstone seem never to have been heard of by Messrs.

— & Co. Depend on it that, as there is no republican path to prosperity. You must follow the beaten track of experience. Debt is debt, whether on the west or east of the Atlantic, and it can be paid only by prudence and economy with a wise distribution of its burdens. which we here insert:

Yours, very truly, R. COBDEN, Hon. B. R. Wood.
This is what we have been insisting on, from the first inception of the crude and ruinous experiment of a paper legal tender. We said three years ago, and have kept saying ever since, what Mr. Cobden says now. We have marshaled facts and statistics, drawn warnings and illustrations from bistery received. and illustrations from history, reason the thing out from first principles in every variety of form, till it was so clear that even a hod-carrier ought to understand it; and have been traduced, denounced as traitors for our principles. denounced as traitors for our pains. But what possible interest could we have in deceiving the country on a point which affects men of all political

A Pointed Rebuke. A debate took place in the U.S. Senate recently, on the question of illegal arrests. It was contended by many lenators of both parties that mooman an be arrested without "due process of law," and that military trials are mere mockerles, unconstitutional, unlawful and villainous. Conness, the miserable reature who misrepresents the great State of California in the Senate, exresped himself in favor of illegal arrests nd trial by drunken military courts. In his speech on the subject he said he cared nothing for the Constitution." Senator Trumbull of Illinois, who is a strong Republican partisan, but unlike most prominent men of that party, opposed to infidelity, perjury and wicked ess, replied to the expression used by Conness, and in doing so liberally skinned the poor California Infidelalive. We quote from the Globe: Mr. Trumbull. A word or two. and only a word or two, as to the Senator from California, [Mr. Conness,] who modestly assumes so much patriotism and if patriotism consists in noise and bluster, he certainly is possessed of a great deal. He made himself heard most certainly, and he talks of "croaking," and of "cowards," and says that ne cares noting for the Constitution, se ne cares nothing for the Constitution, so that he has a country. He had better migrate to Dahomey, or somewhere else, where there is a country. I care, sir, for the Constitution and for liberty, and I think a country or life itself scarcely worth having without liberty —without liberty regulated by law. But he is bold and brave! bold enough to violate his oath and defy the Almighty! violate his oath and defy the Almighty! Yes, sir, bold and brave, and would sink the Government, would yote against all appropriations, sooner than not have the power to try a man by a court-martial or a military commission! That great patriot would stand here and otherwise gainst appropriations for the Army or anything else, if he could not arrest somebody and try him in a loyal state, where the courts are open by military commission or court-mantial! He says substantially, "I will not appropriate to sustain our soldiers; the rebels may come here and tear down the Capitol and destroy the Government, because I, the Infidel Senator from California, cannot be permitted to have somebody arrested—no, not arrested, but cannot have somebody tried by a court-martial;" and that is his activities that is his large of atriotism, that is his love of country And he says no provost marshal arrested him. Why, sir, those who "crook the pregnant hinges of the knee where thrift may follow fawning" are never

How is he any better than the origand who meets you at night and calls upon you to stand and deliver? No regard for law; he cares "nothing for the Constitution," so that he has a country, and he talks of cowards and croakers! Sir, I am not brave enough, thank God! I am not bold enough to walk up to that stand and lay my hand upon the words of Eternal Life and promise, calling God to witness, to maintain the Constitu-tion, and then say I care nothing for it am not bold enough to make such a declaration. I hope I never may be. Sir, if nothing else should restrain us from treating with contempt the Constitution of the country, the oath we have taken should restrain us, the appeal we have made to the Supreme Being should withhold us from such a ing, should withhold us from such a declaration. I say that I do care for the Constitution and for law and for liberty, and that I am for preserving them all, and the country and the Union also, for it is the Constitution and liberty that make the Union worth preserving. Without them a Union forced by arbitrary power, a Union such as is brought about by the head of despatient is not the Union Jacobsen time. such as is brought about by the heel of despotism is not the Union I am struggling for. It is not the Union that the brave soldiers of the republic are fighting for. They go forth to battle for the purpose of maintaining the Gov-ernment their fathers founded, for the this State, written in the military prison purpose of maintaining the Constituion under which they themselves have enjoyed freedom, and handing it down for the protection of their posterity. It is for this we are fighting, and not simply for power, or to try a man by a court-martial or a military commis-

I have no disposition to prolong the debate. I do not desire the bill to be lost, but I have felt it due to myself, after the remarks made by the Senator from California, to say thus much.

We do not now have the clamor for blood, and the demand for complete and thorough confiscation of Southern property. The alarm which exists in our commercial circles is known to be well founded. We do not hear so much blatant assertion of our ability to continue the struggle indefinitely. Even the dethroned monarch "King Cotton" is again being spoken of with great respect. Forney bows before his imperial Expediency and duty are always in harmony, but it is not often in human affairs that the parallel is so unmistakable.

A little of the same spirit of wisdom and moderation, had it been exercised four years ago, would have prevented all the evils that have come upon us. We are now very much in the condition of the foolish fellow who killed the goose that laid golden eggs for him. We may grieve over the destruction which the war has wrought, but we cannot escape from the punishment which must neessarily be the attendant of our criminal folly. We see sure indications of the speedy coming of a great financial crash, which must necessarily entail wide-spread ruin and great general suf-fering. The properties of the Company bonsist of FOUR HUNDRED and THIRTT-ONE ACRES of land in separate tracts.

The Clarion river is a large stream navigable for flathouts and raits capable of carrying on each boat one thousand barrels o Oil, westwarde, direct to Pittsburg and the Ohlo river, and eastwardly to Ridgway on the Anumber of years ago a few experienced and practical of men noticed the great deposits of Asphaltum, and beds of Bituminous Coal and Bituminous Limestone, which abound in Jefferson, Elk and Forrest counties, and from their formation and the declination of the slopes of the strata, became convinced that Jefferson county was the great oll basin of Pennsylvania, they accordingly purchased large quantities of land, and are now disposing of it at fabulous prices.

We cannot point out anumber of wells yielding freat quantities of oll in this immediate vicinity, from the fact that no efforts have hitherto been made to develop it; but a little further down the river a large number of the most valuable wells in the country have been obtained, with more flattering results the nearer theylapproach this location, and by comparing the geological formation of the country with their of the best oil-producing territory, no douty exists in the minds of scientific men that it will be at least equal to the best.

No. 2. A lease for twenty years of a tract of land known as the "Patton Farm," containing elighty acres in Hocking county. Ohio, on the river runs through this tract. This river is navigable for Flat boats patt of the year. The property fronts on the river, about one-third of a mile and is distant only one-fourth of a mile from the Hocking Canai, which intersects the Marietta and Cincinnati Railroad, at Athens. There is an abundance of bitmainous coal on this tract; the land is, billy and has deep ravines with every indication of an abundance of oil. There is a spring on the farm which cannot be used for watering stock on account of being so strongly impregnated with oil.

ark railroad runs through the farm. There is a mountain on each side of the tract—the one has an abundance of excellent iron ore, and the other a large quantity of coal, and there is a furnace within half a mile.

This is a valuable investment, independent of the oil we expect to obtain from it, the indications of which are very strong here. There was a well dug on the farm several years ago for the purpose of watering cattle, but there is so much oil in the water that cattle will not drink it. The oil found on the Ohlo lands is the "Lubricating Oil," which is much more valuable than that found in Pennsylvania. There are a number of valuable producing wells in close proximity to all of the above properties; but the regions are only beginning to be developed, and have every indication of being located in the very best oil territory.

The great excitement now only commencing to rage in regard to oil territory on the Clarion and Hocking rivers and their tributaries, and the fact of the Company having so large an amount in different locations, leaves no doubt in the minds of the Directors that the Company will be able, in a short time, to dispose of a portion of its property at prices far exceeding the original cost, thereby securing large dividends to the stockholders, even before any oil is obtained; as, after disposing of a large portion, the Company will still have amply sufficient territory for the purpose of development. In calling the attention of capitalists and the public generally to this enterprise, the Directors have determined to spare no efforts to push the sinking of wells to the stockholders, even before any oil is obtained; sa, after disposing of a large portion, the Company will still have amply sufficient territory for the purpose of development. carrying on each boat one thousand harrels of Oil, westwardle, direct to Pittsburg and the Ohlo river, and eastwardly to Ridgway on the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, only a few miles distant. The completion of this great thoroughfare through our State to the great West, which has been opened within the last few months will, by affording facilities of communication and travel, insure the rapid development of this whole region. Proposals for running a new Railroad directly through this locality to Venango county are now being made. The valley of the Clarkar river is fast bedoming the most popular and valuable Oil Territory in the United States.

RTANT

It is well known to the medical profession that IRON is the vital Principle or Life Floment of the blood. This is derived chiefly from the food we eat; but if the food is not proper; digested, or if, from any cause whatev r, theneessary quantity of iron is not taken into the circulation. the control of the co

 IRON AS A MEDICINE is well known and acknowledged by all medi-cal men. The difficulty has been to obtain such a preparation of it as will enter the circulation and assimilate at once with the blood. This point, says Dr. Hayes, Massachusetts State Chemist, has been attained in the Peruvian Syrup, by combination in a way before un-known.

And even where this fearful disease has taken hold it will afford greater relief than any other medicine.

Miss Kate Vanderslice, of Pottsville, says:
"I was benefitted more by using the Phœnix Pectoral than any other medicine I ever used."
Elias Oberholtzer, of Lionville, Chester county, was cured of a cough of many years' standing by using the Phœnix Pectoral.

Joseph Lukens, of Hall street, Phœnixville, certifies that he was cured of a cough of two years' standing, when all other medicines had falled, by the use of Phœnix Pectoral.

Jacob Powers certifies that he has sold hundreds of bottles of the Phœnix Pectoral, and that all who used it bear testimony of ats wonderful effects in curing cough.

John Royer, editor of the Independent Phænix, having used it, has no hesitation in pronouncing it a complete remedy for cough, hoarseness and irritation in the throat.

The West Chester Infersonian says: "We have known Dr. Oberholtzer personally a number of years, and it gives us the greater pleasure to recommend his medicines, inasmuch as the public rarely have the benefit of family medicines prepared by a physician of his acquirements and experience."

Dr. Oberholtzer is a member of the Alumni of the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania, at which institution he graduated in 1854.

The Reading Gazette says: "This cough remedy is made by Dr. L. Oberholtzer, of Firenix-ville, Pa., and it has acquired an unsurpassed reputation in curing coughs. It is carefully and skillfully prepared from, Wild Cherry Bark and Seneka Snake Root."

Dr. Geo. B. Wood, Professor of the Practice of Medicine in the University of Pennsylvania, Physician to the Pennsylvania Hospilial, and one of the authors of the United States Dispensatory, says of Seneka Snake Root. "It action is specially directed to the lungs."
