THE CROPS.—The mild spring weather which has prevailed for the last few days has caused farmers throughout the country to prepare for seeding, and has directed public attention to the condition of the winter crops. Reports from nearly all parfs of the country concur in showing that the prospect for a heavy yield of winter wheat has seldom looked more favorable than at the present time. The past winter has been remarably favorable for wheat. The winter was unusually steady, and although there was but little severely cold weather. the ground steadily remained frozen, and was covered with snow for a longer period than has been known for many years. These are the most favorable conditions for wheat-cold and steady weather, and the ground covered with snow. / It is the variable weather in the winter time that causes winter-kill" in wheat. Changes from cold to warm, freezing and then thawing, cause an exposure of the tender roots of th wheat; and winter-kill follows. Accounts from nearly the entire agricultural district of the West concur in the statement that the wheat never looked better than now; and if it is fortunate enough to escape the fly, weavil, rust, and other possible backsets we may expect a bountiful crop.

SPRING.—In the mornings and evenings the air is still raw and cold, and yet the warbling of the birds, and the warm rays of the sun, and the balmy air of the afternoons, tell us that spring at last has come, in all its freshness and beauty. Nature will soon be changing her robes of dull, sober brown, for hues of fresh and delicate green. Everything seems to have awakened into new life and energy, after an unusally severe winter. It is in such days as these we feel like escaping from the drudgery of every-day life to the hills or along the brooks which run through the valleys. Welcome, glorious spring, standing midway between winter's tedious frosts and hot and quivering summer, coming to us ladened with the first blossoms and flowers of the season, and aughing all over in the very gladness of her heart. What is more beautiful than the first tender flowers of spring? Lovlier far

The War. From Tuesday's Age. ... Richmond and Petersburg have bee evacuated, and General Lee with the Con federate army has retreated towards North Carolina, probably to join Johnson.

Tenthand?

This morning we continue the history of the great battle on the Appomattox. On Saturday morning the Twenty-fifth corps, under Weitzel, was on the north bank of the James, about six miles southeast of Richmond. The Ninth corps was along the Appomattox river, and in front of Petersburg. The Sixth corps extended from the Ninth along the Boydton road almost to Hatcher's run. The Second corps was on the Boydton road at Hatcher's run. The Second corps was on the Boydton road near the intersection with White Oak road Then came the Fifth corps along the White Oad road, and Sheridan's cavalry on the extreme Federal western flank, at Dinwid-On Saturday the battle was begun by Sheridan and the Fifth and Second corps They made a determined attack upon the Confederate works along the Boydton and White Oak roads. They fought from daylight until about two in the afternoon, when the Confederate troops gave way and abandoned their works. At two o'clock in th afternoon, Sheridan and the Fifth corps pushed the Confederates back to the Five Forks, near the Southside railroad, thirteen niles west of Petersburg. A large force of Confederates was cut body; the Southside railroad was soon eached near Sutherland Station, and the second corps was at once moved forward; at dark the cavalry, Second and Fifth corps, were all on the Southside railroad. General Lee withdrew his troops to the north bank of the Appoinattox, and during Saturday night prepared for the evacuation of Rich and Petersburg.

On Sunday morning the entire Federal ine attacked the Confederate works. The Ninth corps attacked Petersburg, and the Sixth corps attacked the Confederate line west of Petersburg. Sheridan, the Fifth and Second corps turned east along the Southside railroad and Boydton road, and advanced towards Petersburg. The Twentyfourth corps was in reserve. Sunday wa the day of fiercest fighting. The battle raged from Deep Bottom, all along the line to the Five Forks, thirteen miles west of Petersburg. For over forty miles length the troops were in conflict. The Confederates fought to cover their evacuation; for during Saturday night Lee began to draw them off towards North Carolina. The Federal line gradually adanced at all points. Sheridan marched east along the Appointation. The Sixth and Ninth corps broke-through the outer Con ederate works at Petersburg. By noon, the Confederates, excepting at Petersburg, had all withdrawn to the north side of the Appomattox. The Federal lines gradually closed around the city, and at half-past four in the afternoon they extended from the bank of the Appomattox, three miles west of Petersburg, around to the river bank again, just east of the city.

Lee spent all this time in withdrawing his army, and during Sunday night his rear guard abandoned Petersburg. Almost at the same time his troops evacuated Richmond. The line of retreat was westward, oward Burkesville, and from there southward towards Johnston's camp, in North Carolina. Early on yesterday morning Petersburg was discovered to be evacuated and the Ninth corps marched in. At half past eight, some of Weitzel's negro troops from Deep Bottom, on the north side of the ames, marched up to Richmond and found it deserted. It remained for the negroes carefully spared from doing any of the fight ing, to be the first to enter the captured week, and we found them this morning The great siege is at length ended. Rich mond has fallen. The losses in these conflicts which have continued almost without intermission for five days, are not known They must be enormous. Part of Rich nond was in flames when Weitzel entered t, and all the heavy guns and much valuable property fell into his hands. The Confederate retreat is west, towards Burkesville. The Richmond and Burkesville all his army yesterday on a march north-west across the Appointation towards Burkesville, to intercept their retreat, if possible, but the Confederates have had so much time that they will probably succeed

From Monday's Age. General Grant has gradually closed his lines around Petersburg. The Confederates have abandoned their works defending th Southside railroad, and all those east and West of Petersburg. They still hold the nner line defending the city. The fighting has been continuous since Wednesday, and at half-past four yesterday afternoon was still raging.

The Federal expedition against the South side railroad is commanded by Generals Meade and Grant in person. It is composed of Humphrey's Second corps, numbering twenty-eight thousand; Warren's Fifth corps, numbering twenty-three thousand, and Sheridan's cavalry, numbering nine thousand; twenty-five hundred being mounted, the others dismounted. The expedition is sixty thousand strong, and was ordered to start on Wednesday last. Two divisions of the Twenty-fourth corps, from he north bank of the James, crossed the river on Tuesday and were sent to Hatcher's run to occupy the Federal entrenchents. On Tuesday night these troops held the works and the Second and Fifth corps lay in the rear of them prepared for the movement next morning. Hatcher's run flows southeast from the Southside railroad. It is crossed by several common roads running southwest from Petersburg. Five miles from the Southside railroad is the Boydton plank road, running to Dinwiddie Court House, thireen miles from Petersburg. This gradually separates from the Southside railroad, and at Dinwiddie is eight miles from it. About a mile south of Hatcher's run the White Oak road diverges from the Bodyton road towards the railroad and runs far down into Southern Virginia. It does not at any point approach within five miles of the railroad. Along the Boydton and White Oak oads, the Confederates have a formidable line of works parallel with and defending the Southside railroad. Grant's object was to capture these works. On Tuesday night his troops lay along Hatcher's run, southeast of the Boydton road crossing. The Second corps was on he Vaughan road. The Fifth corps farther down, and the cavalry still farther down he stream. The line faced southwest and the next morning was to swing around, with the Second corps for a pivot, so as to face northwest. Sheridan having the farhest to go, started at two o'clock on Wednesday morning, made a long detour to the southward, and in the evening halted at Dinwiddie Court House, eight miles from the Southside railroad. The Fifth corps started at three in the morning; crossed Hatcher's run; marched southwest some distance and came to the Quaker road, which runs northwest towards the Southside railroad. The corps turned into this road and marched northwest, and at noon found the Confederates in force about a half mile from the Boydton road. The Second corps started at six in the morning; crossed the run on the Vaughan road, and turned northwest, marching towards the Boydton ead, along the southern bank of the run.

The Second corps did no fighting. It enamped in line of battle on Wednesday night, one mile from the Boydton road. The Fifth corps had a severe contest on the Quaker road and lost four hundred men. It succeeded in beating back the Confederate advance however; crossed the Boydton road south of the intersection of White Oak road. and at night encamped in line of battle one mile from the White Oak road. The Federal line was thus six miles from the Southside up reinforcements, strengthened their works, and assumed the offensive. On Friday morning before daylight they concentrated a strong force in front of the Fifth corps on the Federal left. The Fifth corps was attacked, and, after stubborn fighting, Full Particulars of the Great Engage was driven back a mile. At noon it was on the Boydtown road. Grant sent large podles of troops from the Second corps to emforce the Fifth, and the Confi were driven back to their line of works on White Oak road: On Friday night they were in their works, and the Federal lin was again advanced to the position occupied by it on Thursday. The battles of Friday were bloody, and resulted in the Confederates still holding the works along the Boydton and White Oak roads. There had oeen no serious attack made against these vorks, and at no point were the Federal troops within five miles of the Southside ailroad. The loss of the Fifth corps in Friday's battle was about twelve hundred. On Saturday morning the Federal line was reinforced and renewed the attack.— Sheridan advanced from Dinwiddie Conrt. House and Warren's Fifth corps was moved some distance westward so as to support the cavalry. The line of attack along the Quarker road was abandoned. The Federal troops advanced and succeeded in penetra ting between the Confederate main body and three brigades of infantry, that were some distance to the westward. The battle raged with great fury. The Second corps was not engaged and in the afternoon it was reported that Sheridan had captured the three brigades with their trains. Still the Confederates held their works and could not be driven out of them.

Yesterday the contest was again renewed. To assist the attack, all the Federal line in front of Petersburg and the Appomattox, and on the north side of the James, was ordered to advance. At noon it was reported that the troops in front of Petersburg had penetrated the Confederate lines and captured some of their works. Along the Boydton and White Oak roads, however, he Confederate line was still unbroken. Sheridan moved to the eastward again, and the entire Federal line-the cavalry, the Fifth and Second corps-turned to the eastward, and moved towards Petersburg.

A short distance west of Petersburg, the Sixth corps succeeded in breaking through the Confederate line and reached the Southside railroad. The troops at once began destroving it. The Federal lines gradually ed around Petersburg, pushing the Confederates before them. At half-past four yesterday afternoon the line had moved up and extended from the Appomattox river, three miles west of Petersburg, around to the Appoinatiox, east of the city. The Confederates abandoned all their works east and west of the city, and held only the forts immediately in front of the town. General Grant states that he has captured fifty cannon and twelve thousand prisoners. Full accounts have been received of the Federal advance against Mobile. The roops have been concentrated on Dauphine Island, at the mouth of Mobile bay. Large numbers of Federal soldiers have been sent rom Dauphine Island to advance up both sides of the bay. On March 22, however, they were still at the lower end of the bay, with Confederate troops in front of them. Several days before, the Federal fleet shelled some batteries on the east side of the bay, but since then had done nothing. On March 13th the Federal troops marching from Pensacola were forty miles east of Mobile. The column marching from New Orleans has not been heard from. We have no news of Wilson's Federal cavalry raid from Eastport.

RICHMOND TAKEN. NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

fews from Gen. Weitzel at Richmond Washington, April 4—11.15 A. M. To Major General Dix, New York:

The following particulars dated City Point, April 4th, 8 A. M. gives the latest information received from Richmond: General Weitzel telegraphs from Richnond that of the railroad stock, he found there 28 locomotives, 44 passenger and baggage cars and 106 freight cars. At 3.30 ast evening General Grant from Sutherland Station, 10 miles from Petersburg, toward Burkesville, telegraphed as follows Gen. Sheridan picked up 1,200 prisoners o-day, and from three h hundred more have been gathered by other troops. The majority of the arms that were left in the hands of the remnant of Lee's army are now scattered between Richmond and where his troops are. The country is full of stragglers, and the line of retreat is marked with artillery, ammunition, burned or charred wagons, caissons, ambulances, &c.

E. M. STANTON Secretary of War.

From Fortress Monroe—Further Par-ticulars of the Fall of Richmond. FORTRESS MONROE, April 3.-Intellience of the capture of Petersburg and Richmond reached here to-day at 10 o'clock by a dispatch from Gen. Weitzel, dated 8:45 A. M. in Richmond which announced the the glorious event. The mail steamer Dictator, arrived from City Point at 4:30 this afternoon with additional particulars of this great struggle. Petersburg was occupied by our troops at 3 A. M., on Wednesday; the gunboats were all well up James river, and it was thought a fight had taken place with the rebel iron-clads. Large fires were seen up James river, towards Fort Darling and in vicinity of other rebel works, from which

Immense numbers of prisoners captured, estimated at 15,000 to 18,000, were continually coming in at City Points. It was estimated that there was 15,000 there this morning. When the Dictator left, this A. M., a salute was being fired by all war vessels at City Point. The steamer Cossack also arrived here to-day, with a large number of Union prisoners, including Gen. McLaughlin and men of his brigade, captured by the rebels in 2,000 will cover them, many valuable offithe assault on Fort Steadman. Such was the haste of the rebels hurrying Union prisoners through Richmond on Sunday, that in many cases they were not even paroled. 500 out of 700 on board the Cossack never signed the parole. These prisoners say that in coming through Richmond yesterday (Sunday), they saw manifest indications of evacuation of the city. The hills were alive with people of all classes and conditions manifesting intense All prisoners in Libby had been ordered to be exchanged by rebel authorities, and were hurried through the city towards Varina Landing in the greatest possible haste. Rejoicing at City Point, &c. Washington, April 4.-From the mail ooat Dictator, which left City Point yesterday at 10 a. m., the Star obtained the folowing, among other items: She reports that the receipt of the news of the fall of Richmond was received at City Point with the greatest enthusiasm, and the vessels in port were immediately gaily decorated with flags, presenting a handsome appearance. At Fortress Monroe a salute was fired, and the sailors and soldiers expressed their joy in various ways. On Sunday night, before evacuating Rich mond, the rebels blew up their forts and rams on the James river, the explosion of which was terrific, resembling an earthquake, and being heard for nriles around. Our gunboats have moved up the James and are engaged in removing the obstruc-

These movements were put pre-liminary, and everything was yet to be done. On Wednesday night rain fell in torrents, and the Confederates availed themselves of the storm to get their troops into position, and to feel the Federal lines in front of Petersburg.

On Thursday the rain continued. The Federal troops made no attack. They lay in camp all day. The Confederates brought up reinforcements, strengthened their works, and assumed the offensive. From this time till ate in the afternoon the struggle continued the enemy using every effort to recover Fort White. Our men were determined to retain possession of what they had fought so hard and paid so dearly for. About noon chances seemed that we should lose it, but soon after the Provisional Brigade, under ien. Collis, and the Engineer Brigade, under Gen. Benham, with Gen. Hamlin's Brigade of the Sixth Corps came on ground, and by their timely arrival saved the gallant men in the works from capture, and again caused the enemy to retire. The fire which rained on the ground around this fort was of most fearful character, and to see men advance on a run through the very thickest of it, many of them torn to pieces and lost sight of before they crossed half the distance, was a sight not soon to be for-

At dark the position of the contestants was the same as during the day. General Wilcox, with a part of his division, made an attack in front of Fort McGilvey, near the Appomattox, and took part of the line but was soon after forced to rmer position owing to a lack of support. They at once pushed for the Southside road, which they reached about 9 o'clock, and in a very short time several miles of it were torn up and destroyed. LANCASTER AND VENANGO MUTUAL PETROLEUM ASSOCIATION.
The property of the Lancaster and Venang Mutual Petroleum Association consists of Ninety-One Acres of Land, in fee simple, situated on the eastern bank of Big Sandy Creek and on either side of Stony Run, which flow through the middle of it, in French Creek township, Venango county. It presents a large proportion of boring ground, amounting to at least sixty acres.
Part of the land is covered with fine oak timber, well calculated for the manufacture ocul oil barrels, this alone is of great value in coal oil barrels, this alone is of great value in that locality where thousands of barrels are wanted daily to hold the rich products of sur-CITY HOUSEHOLD MARKET .- The prices that locality where thousands of barrels are wanted daily to hold the 1ch products of surrounding wells.

It is evident also that large deposits of bituminous coal exist in the elevated portions of this tract; they are however undeveloped. Within one unile east and west coal mines are wirked on an extensive scale.

Riccent experiments demonstrate that the "Big Sandy" is not second to old Creek in oil wealth as to quantity, what the quality is far superior, and worth nearly twice the price of the illuminating oil upon Oil Creek; the Big Sandy producing the heavy labricating oil. The excitements of word and being bored all along the water of the Big Sandy. Oil was struck $\frac{1}{2}$ of a nite above this tract on the 7th of February, $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{2}$ tock up from one to twenty-location a few days.

It is the determination of this company to fully develop their whole territory. Subscribers to stock can feel satisfied that no eff rt will be spared on the part of the officers and managers to bring out the oil, which must be within reach of faithful labor. We invite a careful examination of our prospectus by all. We have to bring out the oil, which must be within reach of fathful labor. We invite acureful examination of our prospectus by all. We have every confidence in our oil prospects, and every asstrance that the stock of the company will soon advance in price.

The managers of this association, while they do not wish to misrepresent, at the same time beg leave to bring the stern fact before the public, that after all that is said about this, that and the other tract of oil land and oil wells, in nine out of ten times there is no oil there, outside of Venango county. Venango county is the oil county. Remember that! Examine the list oil roundy. Remember that! Examine the list oil producing wells. We point to it with pride: Cherry Run, Sugar Creek, Cognette Well, Reed Well, Auburn Well, Big Sandy, Dalzeil, McClintock, etc., etc., all in Venango county, in close proximity to the "Lancaster and Venango cout exists, but not everywhere in sufficient quantities to pay for boring and pumping. The working capital is to be $30,000, which will be a very landsome fund for commencing the development of the property, and it is the intention of the managers to push the work energetically, and with confidence of the great success of the undertaking. The subscription has been placed at the low figure of 50 cents per share, so as to enable all to have a chance for investment in this profitable business, where so many fortunes have been made.
