Several houses in different portions of the city were unroofed, among which was the hall of the Diagnothian Literary Society of Franklin and Marshall College.

Three beautiful shade trees, in front of Augustus Bitner's property, on the northwest corner of North Queen and Lemon streets, were uprooted, and a portion of the pavement torn up.

In North Prince street, the cellars gener ally were overflown with water, fences was a large apple tree in the lot in the rear of Mrs. Speece's residence. In Mulberry street, several large willow trees were blown down, and in South Queen street in front of C. J. Plitt's Hotel, the water and hail on the pavement was a foot A sign of J. G. Moore's, in North Queen street, was blown down and carried to the door of Sheaffer's Book Store. In East Orange street, the gable end of a dwelling house was blown in, and other lamages incurred.

The pavement in front of the Court House was covered with more than a foot of water On the Philadelphia turnpike, a short distance east of the city, at Homedale, the residence of W. Carpenter, Esq., twenty-six panes of glass were broken into fragments, the clover and grain blown down, and at the garden opposite, the plants and vegetables were ruined.

The tobacco house of Mr. Peter E. Lightner, on the Columbia pike, just west of the city limits, was blown over. At the County Prison a large apple and poplar tree were uprooted; and also a large ee in front of Christian Rine's property, in West Orange street. -From the county we have fearful ac ounts of the ravages of the storm. Tops of houses, barns, &c., were blown off, fruit trees torn from their roots, and the crops have suffered fearfully.

A HAPPY REUNION .- On the 1st of April there was admitted into the Lancaster County Hospital an aged German, sick with an ulcerated leg, and has been confined to his bed ever since. On the 13th of April there was admitted a young German girl in the same institution, sick with the typhoid fever. She has become convalescent, and was yesterday walking about in the hall in close proximity to where the sick patients of a certain class of diseases are kept. One of the attendants, who is also a German, being on duty at the time. requested the girl to come along with him to the cell of the sick man, as he was one of their countryman, when, to her astonish ment, she recognized in the patient her aged father, whom she had not seen for many years. Such tears of affection as were shed on the occasion are rarely witnessed. After a separation of many years, to meet under such circumstances, overcame their feelings so much that they wept long, and embraced each other as tenderly as a mother would an infant

THE NEW THREE-CENT COIN .- A few the coin closely approximates the "dime" which had an extensive ante bellum circulation. The head of Liberty, and the words United States of America," and the date "1865" adorn the obverse; while the reverse bears the Roman numerals "III," encircled by a wreath. Like the one and two-cent pieces, the edge is plain. The piece has a silvery appearance when new, but the large proportion of copper contained will probably soon show its original color.

The act of March 3, 1865, authorizing its issue, makes the piece a legal tender for all sums not exceeding sixty cents, and prohibits further issue of three cent fractional

DARING ROBBERY.-The tailoring establishment of Mr. Charles A. Gundaker, (formerly of this city), No. 533 Arch street, Philadelphia, was entered between 11 and 12 o'clock on Tuesday night and robbed of cloths and cassimeres, valued at from $1,500 to $2,000. An entrance was effected by the front door, false keys being employed for the purpose. The theft was committed very quickly. Mr. Gundaker had just closed his store and was about retiring, when he was alarmed by a policeman, who informed him that his door was open. He hastened down stairs and found that the robbery had taken place. It is evident that from the quickness with which the whole thing was arranged the thieves must have unlocked the door about as soon as it was GOVERNOR CURTIN has made arrangements that whenever a Pennsylvania soldier is killed or dies while in the service transportation is furnished for one person from his home to the place where the re mains of the soldier may be, and also for both the person who goes for the body of the deceased and the remains back to his home. The transportation is furnished by Colonel H. H. Gregg, Chief of Transportation at Harrisburg. In applying for transportation the name of the deceased soldier, his rank, company, regiment, date of death and the name of the friend going for his at the large lathe. remains should be given.

READY FOR DELIVERY .- The commissions of the recently elected Justices of the Peace have been received, and are ready for delivery at the Recorder's Office, in the Court House building.

FOUND DEAD.—An elderly man named Samuel Hogentobler, residing at Chestnut Hill, West Hempfield township, this county, was found dead in his bed one morning about two weeks ago. Before retiring, on the evening previous, he was apparently in good health. Deputy Coroner Hunter, of Columbia, held an inquest upon the body, and the verdict rendered was that his death was caused by apoplexy.

WARM WEATHER AND ITS EFFECTS.—Many people, especially laddes, complain at this season of the year of general weakness or debility. The use of Speer's Samburg port wine Prevents this. The wine is said to have a most wonderful effect in giving strength, vigor and tone to the whole system; it is extensively used by ladies nursing or about to nurse infants. The wine is not a manufactured article, as no water, sugar or liquor is added to it.

As to size, and as the city of Lancaster is on the list, we suppose they will meet with a cordia reception by our firemen. A MYSTERY-CHILD'S BODY FOUND.

The remains of a child, with a portion of one of the legs destroyed, was found on the premises of Mr. Christian King, in Martic township, on Sunday last. It was buried somewhere in the immediate vicinity, but hardly sufficient earth was put over it, as one of Mr. K's dogs found it and dragged it into the yard. The child was several days old, but who the unnatural mother is or by whom it was buried, has not yet been ascer A coroner's inquest was held, but we have not learned the result.

THE CROPS IN PENNSYLVANIA, -Our exchanges, without exception, speak of the prospects of the coming crops as remarkably flattering. Wheat and rye promise a most abundant yield, and the season has been favorable for oats and corn. So far we have heard of no complaints that the fruit has been injured by frost. The prospect is that the crop of fruit will be a full one.

THE NAME of J. W. Johnson, attorney at law, will be found in the advertising colunins of this number of the Intelligencer Mr. Johnson is a native of this county, and was admitted to practice in the several courts of Lancaster county in 1862, since which time he has been practising at the York bar.

NEW POSTAGE LAW.-Hereafter all do mestic letters, including drop letters, wholy unpaid, or upon which less than one full rate of postage is prepaid, cannot be for-warded, but will at once be sent to the dead letter office at Washington.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT .- Yesterday after 100n, a small boy, a son of William Roat, residing in East Orange street, who was employed at the same works, also met with an accident, which resulted in the loss of a finger of one of his hands and the badly bruising of several others. The next meeting of the National Typographical Union will be the most momenous one ever held by that body, and care ful and wise legislation will, no doubt' characterize its action. The strikes in the various cities will furnish an ample theme for discussion and deliberation, and we hope that the representatives of the craft, in convention assembled, will be able to suggest some means by which to prevent a recurrence of the difficulties which have been witnessed, during the past year, in New York, Boston, St. Louis, and other places. From the well-known hospitality of the Philadelphia printers, we bespeak a very pleasant and agreeable week for the delegates in the City of Brotherly Love, and hope the meeting of the National Union in that city may be looked upon as an epoch in the history of the Typographical Unions

f this country. Messrs, William B. Strine, foreman of the composing room of this office, and John A. verdeer, late a clerk in the Provost Marshal's office, of this district, were, at a meeting held on Saturday evening last, unanimously elected delegates to represent Lancaster Union, No. 70, in that body.

John Chambers, of Philadelphia, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Ancient York Masons of Pennsylvania, delivered an instructive, interesting and eloquent lecture before Lodge, No. 43, of this city, last evening. It was on the the pleasure of listening to. Our only regret is that it was not made public, so that all our citizens could have heard the same. Mr. C. is one of the most gifted pulpit orators in the country, and his eminent christian deportment, and sole attention to the duties of his high and holy calling have given him a name and fame to be envied by all who have noticed his "walk and conversation among men."

DR. KIERSTEAD'S remedy, the Pain Warrior, is sald to be an excellent panacea for many of the aches and "ills which human flesh is heir to." The Dr. is now in this city, and is about establishing an agency for the sale of his remedy. He has met with much success in the sale of the medicine in Centre Square, where crowds congregate every evening to listen to him expatiate on the virtues of the same.

WORMS ON THE CURRANT BUSHES.-The ime is at hand when those who would receive a vield of fruit from their currant and goosberry bushes should be attending to them. Hence the following from a writer to the Syracuse Journal is pertinent, He says:

I notice that the leaves of the gooseberry

I notice that the leaves of the gooseherry are already infested with the eggs that hatch into those worms that proved so destructive to this bush and to the currant last year. The insect that lays these eggs is rather smaller than a house-fly, which it slightly resembles. The abdonen is, however, of a bright value of the province of bright yellowish brown color. The insect is rather stuggish in its movements, and may be caught without much difficulty and destroyed, and by its destruction the production of many of the worms is prevented. The eggs, which are white, and about one-twentieth of an inch long, are deposited on the under side of the leaves in rows along the more prominent veins. They are readily removed by rubbing the leaf between thumb and foreinger, or, if preferred, the infested leaves may be picked off and burned. If this plan of destroying the eggs and mature insects, where found, is thoroughly carried out by giving the necessary attention to the bushes for a few minutes every day or two, it must of course, save the bushes. From the slight observation I made last year, it appears to me those worms come in successive crops, and, perdestroyed, and by its destruction the worms come in successive crops, and, perhaps, the destruction of this early spring crop may prevent the development of the crop may prevent the development of the later crops. It will do so, if the insects that lay the later litters of eggs are matured forms of the larvæ of the early crop.

The gooseberry leaves seem to be first attacked because they come forward earlier than those of the currant. Of course, attention should be paid to the currant leaves as soon as the eyes begin to be denosited on as soon as the eggs begin to be deposited on them. The suggestion of this correspondent are well but if the mischief goes on and the worms are hatched, then they may be destroyed by the use of hellebore, which may be sprinkled over the bushes in the morning when the dew is on, by the use of a tin box with a perforated cover. Perserve the currants by all means, for they are useful and come to the table at a season when no other fruit can be had.

LANCASTER HORSE MARKET, MONDAY, Ital of the Conspirators....The Parties May 15th, 1865.—The trade still continues Arraigned....Their Antecedents. om the Washington Star The prisoners now on trial on charge

f being concerned in the assassination conspiracy are David E. Harold, George Atzerott, Lewis Payne, Michael O'Laughlin, Edward Spangler, Samuel Arnold, Mary E. Surrat and Samuel E.

Mudd. We have already given the anecedents of some of these parties, and as there is a general interest to know all possible concerning them, we append the following further particulars coming to our knowledge: WRS. SURRATT. Mrs. Mary E. Surratt was raised near

Waterloo, on Calvert's manor, in Prince George's county, Md. Her maiden name was Jenkins. Her father died when she was quite young. As she grew up she displayed considerable force of character, and expressed a desire to have a better education obtainable in her neighborhood, and she was sent to a female seminary in Alexandria Returning to her mother's home, she became an acknowledged belle in Prince George's county, and quite as noted for her strong will, she seldom failing in anything she undertook. She married Surratt about the year 1835, and the couple first settled at a place known as Condin's Mill, near Camp Stoneman, Giesboro',) which property Surratt herited from an uncle, named Neal.-After they had lived here a few years the house was set on fire by their slaves, who seemed to have been infuriated by some cruelty to which they were subected through the imperious will of Mrs Surratt. The Surratts barely escaped from the fire with their lives

Surratt afterwards engaged on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad as a contractor, and on finishing his work returned to Prince George's county and bought a farm, on which he estab lished the tavern known as "Surratt's." and afterwards was appointed Postmas-ter at that point, but he being an uneducated man, the duties of the office devolved upon his wife.

They had three children, a daughter and two sons. One of the latter (Issae) went South at the outbreak of the re-bellion, entering the Southern army, it is said. The other son (John) staid about home, spending his time in idleness or worse. The father was known as a pro-slavery man, and a sympathizer with the South in the rebellion to some extent, but was not looked upon as an open secessionist. He was an inoffensive, good-tempered man, and was generally esteemed in his neighborhood.—

He died very suddenly about three years since, and soon afterwards his widow leased the property and came to this city, where she opened a boarding house on H street, which house has since become notorious as the scene where was concocted some of the most stupendons deviltry of the world's his

ory. Suratt's house and farm is situated on the mail route from Washington to Leonardtown, Maryland, and is twelve miles from Washington post office, at the junction of the Marlborough and Piscataway roads. The house is a com-fortable two-story double frame build ng, containing nine rooms, and on the front and one side are porticos for the visitors to enjoy the fresh air during the sultry seasons. The farm is well adapted for gardening purposes, and though not very extensive, is profitable for wheat and tobacco.

O'LAUGHLIN. Michael O'Laughlin is a young man of twenty-five, or thereabouts. In size, and some other particulars, he resemble Booth; with glossy black mustache and rather gentlemanly appearance. He hails from Baltimore. O'Laughlin was the the first person confined on the monitor. He was brought from Baltimore, where it is said he surrendered himself to the military authorities. ATZEROTT.

George A. Atzerott is short, thick-set round-shouldered, of muddy complex-ion, with brown hair, light-colored mustache and goatee, aged about thirty-three, and is a blacksmith by trade. He was born in Germany, but raised, we learn, in Charles county, Md., where he has spent most of his life. His haracter has stood none of the best heretofore, and for some years he has been living with a woman not his wife near Port Tobacco, by which woman he may be gathered together in one countries. has one child. For some months previous to the assassination he had been missing from Port Tobacco, and it is believed he had been engaged in blockade running and other traitorous practices. SPANGLER.

Edward Spangler is a rough looking, ordinary man, of about forty years of age, hails from Baltimore, and has for some two years past been employed as an assistant to Gifford, the stage carpenter at Ford's Theatre, he having worked with Gifford at house-carpentering, for many years in Baltimore. Spangler came originally from some interior town in Pennsylvania, but, we believe, learnduties and obligations of Masons, and was led his trade in Baltimore, where he was decidedly the ablest and most eloquent lecture on that subject that we have ever had the pleasure of listening to the regret said that he appeared to be considerably under the influence of liquor on the morning of the day of the assassination. He was the subject frequently of practical jokes by his companions behind the scenes, and in this connection an incident is mentioned that in the yes of the superstitious might be deemd to have an ominous meaning. During the winter of 1864-765, when some new scenery was being prepared, the scene painters were in the habit of displaying the names of different employees of the establishment upon the backs of the establishment upon the backs of the various slips. Spangler remarked that his name had been neglected, when one of the painters, as a joke at his expense, hauled out a piece of scenery designed to figure in connection with a prison ard, and which bore a representation of a gallows. Upon this he dashed with a few broad strokes of his brush the spangler, it will be remembered, was the man who had charge of Booth's horse in the rear of the theatre, but who turned the animal over to "Pea-nut lohn" before Booth made his evit form. This occurred in the 1st Wissenstein Wissenstein Communication of the 1st Wissenstein Order of the 1st Wissenstein O the theatre. It is supposed that he may know something of the bar of wood fitted to the door in the rear of the stage box; and also that he had something to do with keeping a path clear for Booth behind the scenes, and with af-fording ready means of exit through the rear door: The bar above mention ed served as a brace to keep the audience from entering the box while Booth was accomplishing his work, and the job of fitting it accurately to the position required was one in which Booth would need the aid almost certainly of some one connected with the establishment, and naturally one in the carpen-ter's department. Of some other employees at Ford's, now in durance, the following may be of interest: James Gifford, stage carrenter, is large square-built man, approaching 50 years of age, with dark brown hair, smooth face, and is by trade a carpen-ter. He formerly was a house carpen-ter and builder in Baltimore and vicinity, and as such built the house of Booth's father, near Baltimore, it is said. Sev-eral years since he engaged as stage carpenter at Holiday Street Theatre in Baltimore, and has followed that business since. He was of an unpleasant temper and not generally liked by those under him. He has a fine family living n Baltimore. On the establishment of Ford's Theatre here he came to this city and superintended the work of altering he old Baptist church into a theatre and has been employed there ever sinc and superintended the rebuilding of the theatre after it was burned. He is not a very loquacious man, but his sympa-thies are known to have been with the South throughout the war. James Maddox is a young man well known about Washington. He was born at or near Dumfries, Va., is 26 years of age and has lived many years n the lower portion of the second ward For a long time he was an active member of the Franklin Fire Company. He s about 5 feet 6 or 7 inches high, round and compactly built, light hair and blue eyes, with a ruddy complexion. He went to school at Henshaw's public school, and, after leaving it, learned the saddle and harness making business, but has been employed about the theatre for been employed about the theatre for about ten years. He was first at the National, then at the Washington, and for a short time was at Holliday street, Baltimore, but since Ford's theatre has been in operation he has been constantly employed as the property man there. He was married about two years ago to one of the actresses of Ford's company, known on the bill as Maggie Burns. He has always been regarded as a worthy young man, his only fault being that he would get drunk occasionally: and he was ooked upon as soundly loyal. ARNOLD.

Sam Arnold was arrested at Fortres Monroe. He was a Baltimorean, and had been for a short time at Fortress Monroe as chief clerk to the cashie of the sutlery establishment of J.

PAYNE, Of Lewis Payne little is known a yet. He was apparently a hired assas in despatched from Canada to do a joi dy work. He is said to be an outlaw from Kentucky originally, and to have been concerned in the St Albans robbery and other schemes of deviltry concocted in Canada.

Speech of President Johnson to th Colored People. President Johnson gave an audience to a number of colored men on Thursday. They were introduced by Rev. E. Turner, D. D., the President of the National Theological Institute for colored ministers, the centre of whose operations are in the city of Washington He said, in the course of his address that some of them were members of th Institute and pastors of churches, while others had been preaching to their own people in different sections of Virginia coming in contact with a colored population of probably not less than two or three hundred thousand souls, thus exerting a healthful influence on their condition. coming in contact with a colored popu

He gave to the President a copy of the esolutions passed by them with reference to the assassination of Presiden Lincoln and expressive of their grati tude for the emancipation proclamation and their loyalty to the constitutional authorities, etc.

President Johnson in response, remarked that it was scarcely necessary for him to repeat what his course had been in relation to the colored man, as everybody within the reach of information had already been made acquainted with it. It was known that though he was born and raised in a slave State and had owned slaves, yet he never sold one and they have all gone free. There was a difference in the responsibility which persons who reside in the slave States have to take on the subject of emancipation from those who reside out of them. It was very easy for men who live beyond their borders to get up a sympathy, and talk about the condition of colored persons when they knew nothing about it. Their great sympa thy was not reduced to practice. known that there were men in the South notwithstanding the two classes once occupied the position of master and ser vant, who felt a deep interest in their welfare and did much to ameliorate the ondition of the freedmen. He repeated that it would be unnecessary for him to make a profession of what he had done on the subject of emancipation, for which he met with taunts, frowns and jibes, and incurred all the dangers to property, life and limb. He claimed no merit for this, because he was only carrying out the principle he alway entertained, namely—that man could not hold property in man. And he was the first who stood in a slave com-munity, and announced the fact that the slaves of the State of Tennessee had as much right to be free as those who claimed them as their property. When the tyrant's rod is bent and the yoke broken, the passing from one ex-treme to the other, from bondage to freedom, is difficult, and in this transiion state some think they have ng to do but fall back upon the Government for support, in order that the may be taken care of in idleness and debauchery. There was one idea which those whom he addressed ought to inculcate, namely, that freedom simply means liberty to work and to employ the product of a man's own toil, and how much he may put into his stomach and on his back. He meant this in its most extensivesense. Gentlemen, in Congress and people of the North and South talk about Brigham Young and debauchery of various kinds existing among the Mormons; but it was known that fou millions of people within the limits o the South have always been in open and notorious concubinage. The correction of these things is necessary in commenc in this there must be a force of example. His He would do all in his power to secur

Wilson, E. M. STANTON, MACON, Ga., 11 A. M., May 12, 1865. Hoo. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:
The following despatch announcing the capture of Jeff. Davis has just been handed me by Colonel Minty, com-manding the Second division. SIR-I have the honor to report that at daylight yesterday, at Irwinsville, surprised and captured Jeff. Davis and family, together with his wife, sisters and brother, his Postmaster-General, Regan; his private Secretary, Colone Johnston, A. D. C., on Davis' staff Lard dull Colonel Lubbick and Lieut. This occurred just at daylight, after we had captured the camp, by the advance of the 1st Wisconsin. They were mistaken for the angur. taken for the enemy, I returned to this point last night and shall move right on to Macon without awaiting orders from you as directed, feeling that the whole object of the ex pedition is accomplished. It will take me at least three days to reach Macon as we are seventy-five miles out, and our stock is much exhausted. I hope to reach Hawkinsville to-night. I have

D. B. PRITCHARD, (Signed) D. B. PRITCHARD, Lieut.-Col. 4th Michigan Cavalry. The 1st Wisconsin belongs to Lagrange's brigade, McCook's division, and had been sent due east by General Croxton, via Dublin, Colonel Mintz had distributed his command all along the south bank of the Ocmulgee and Altamaha. This accounts for the col lision between parts of the First and Second divisions and shows the zeal of the command in pursuit. I have direct ed increased vigilance on the part of the command in the hope of catching the other assassins. Our dispositions are good, and so far none of the rebel chiefs ave been able to get through. Breckinridge's son was captured night pefore last, eleven miles south from here. I will send further details as soon as received. J. H. WILSON, Brevet Major General.

MACON, GA., F: 30 A. M... May 13th. E. M. Stanton Secretary of War: Lieut. Col. Harden, commanding 1st Wisconsin, has just arrived from Irwins ville. He struck Davis' trail at Dublin Laurens county, on the evening of the 7th, and followed him closely night and day through the pine wilderness of Alligator Creek and Green Swamp, via Cumberlandville to Irwinsville. At Cumberlandville Col. Harden met Col. Pritchard with 150 picked men and horses of the 4th Michigan. Harden ollowed the trail directly south while Pritchard, having fresher horses, pushed down the Ocmulgee towards Hope well, and thence by House creek to Irwinsville, arriving there at midnight of the 9th. Jeff. Davis had not arrived. From citizens Pritchard learned that his party were encamped two miles of the town. He made his dispositions the town. He made his dispositions and surrounded the camp before day. Harden had camped at 8 P. M., within two miles, as he afterwards learned rom Davis. The trail being too indistinct to follow, he pushed on at 3 A. M., and had gone but little more than one mile when his advance were fired upon by men of the 4th Michigan. A fight ensued both parties exhibiting the greatest determination. Fifteen minutes elapsed before the mistake was discovered. The firing in this skirmish was the first warning Davis received. The captors report that he hastily put on one of his wife's dresses, and started for the woods, closely followed by our men, who at first thought him a woman, but seeing his boots while running, suspected his sex at once. The race was a short one, and the rebel President was soon brought to. He brandished a bowie knife of elegant pattern, and showed signs of battle, but yielded promptly to the per-suasion of the Colt's revolvers, without compelling the men to fire. pressed great indignity at the energy with which he was pursued, saying that he had-believed our Government magnanimous than to hunt down a woman and children. Mrs. Davis remark to Col. Harden, after the excite ment was over, that the men had er not provoke the President, or he might hurt some of 'em.

THO FARMERS!

WITH DORSEY'S SELF-ACTING RAKE.

The manufacturers of this machine have the best reason for believing that it is the best Reaper in use. The advantages claimed for Dorsey's Self-Acting Rake on the Jerney Reaper are these: It is of lighter draught than any other Muchine known. It is extremely simple in construction; compact and durable. It dispenses with the Reel entirely; the Revolving Arms serving a far better purpose, gathering the grain gendy to the euters.

When sufficient straw has been cut to form a proper sized sheaf, the Rake, in an easy, graceful manner, removes it from the platform by side delivery, leaving the track perfectly clear, so that an entire field may be cut, if desired before binding a single sheaf.

No straw will be found scattered between the sheaves. The sheaves are delivered with regularity. Their compact and neat appearance cannot be equalled by any hand-rakes, from reaping machine or cradle swaths.

WHITENACK'S IMPROVED NEW JERSEY MOWER AND REAPER.

my 10 4tw 18]

Lancaster, Pa.

M'CORMICK'S IMPROVED SELFRaking Combined Reaper and Mower for 1865, one of the greatest labor-saving machines of the age, It is superior to all others, because it is made of the best material, and for field work strong enough to be safe, durable and reliable at all times. It has the advantage of making a perfect separation by the Rake, in all kinds of grain, whether tangled or lodged, long or short, by reason of the operation of the Rake in revolving over the reel, and making the separation in the uncut grain, or before the sickel. The certainty of a clear cut apparatus and platform at the making of each shear, no matter how tangled or short the grain may be. The grain may hang over the separator to the left and be out of reach of other Rakes and make a trail certain, while ours cannot fall to clear all out every time. The motion of the Rake and Sickel can be stopped at pleasure. It rakes the grain off the side of the Machine, and deposits it in a most excellent shape for binding. Yet so loosely does the gavel lay on the top of the stubble that there can be no heating if it has to lay there a longer time than usual, and the bundles being less compact than others, will dry up after a shower of rain. This is a very important feature of our Machine. Should order early.
