On taking the chair Col. Pyfer made short but very appropriate speech, which was frequently applauded.

He said:—

I tender you my thanks for the honor you have done me, in calling upon me to preside over your deliberations. I trust the proceedings of this Convention will be entirely harmonious, and calculated to further the triumph of those great principles which have formed the creed of the Democratic party, and given to it its prestige and success in the past, and the power which it long wielded for the best interests of a happy and prosperous country. We have just passed through four years of the most terrible war, and this day we all rejoice in the return of peace to our land; we rejoice to see the Union restored, and the Constitution as framed by our fathers substantially preserved to us as they made it. The mission of the Democratic party is not yet ended.—It remains for it to exercise all its great influence, and to put forth every energy it possesses, in order that the future destinies of this property of the property of s. in order that the future destin possesses, in order that the ruture destines of this nation shall be so shaped that the ravages of war may be speedily repaired, and the future of the United States rendered more glorious, if possible, than its past has been. AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention was called to order by the President, who announced that the first business in order was the report of the committee on resolutions. Gen. Wm. Patton then reported the following resolutions, which were received with applause and unanimously adopted: Resolved, That the Democracy of Lancaster county hail with delight the termination of the long and sunguinary civil war in which the country has been engaged, and will cordially sustain President Johnson in all proper efforts he may make to restore the integrity of the Union upon a sound Constitutional basis.

Resolved, That to the gallant soldiers of the Republic, to whom we are indebted un-der the blessing of Providence for the supder the messing of the rebellion, the people owe a lasting debt of gratified, and the memory of their unequaled toils and sufferings will of their unequaled toils and sufferi be cherished throughout all succeed erations.

Resolved, That we are opposed to negro suffrage and to negro social equality with the white race. We hold, in common with the late Stephen A. Douglas, that this Government was made by white men for white men and their descendants, and that any attempts to social engagement of the attempt at a social analgamation of the races is a war against nature and an insult to the memory of the heroes and sages of s memory of the heroes and sages of tevolutionary period. e following resolution was offered by ry Shaffner, Esq.: solved, That the assassination of President Lincoln was a diabolical outrage upon the American people outrage upon the American people who had elected him to the hig office of Chief Magistrate. It was a bas and murderous crime which meets and re-ceives the execuation of every good citizen. The question was raised as to whether this was in order after the adoption of a rule that all resolutions should be submitted to the Committee on Resolutions without debate, but upon motion of Gen. Wm. Patton the rule was suspended and the resolution adopted.

On motion the Convention proceded to ballot for delegates with the following result: IST BALLOT. Henry G. Smith, City...... Hon. Geo. Sanderson, City... Wm. N. Gibson, Martic.... ah Brown, Fultor Jacob S. Baker, Mount Joy..... Nathan Worley, Mahheim Bor. There being 37 votes cast, and 19 being required to elect, H. G. Smith, Esq., Hon. eorge Sanderson and Charles Laverty were elected delegates. After a couple of other ballots, during which several of the candidates were withdrawn, Messrs. Jeremiah Brown, F. K Curran, and Jacob S. Baker were elected delegates. H. G. Smith, Esq., being present in the hall, was called upon for a speech, and made a few remarks, thanking the Convention for the honor conferred upon him; complimenting the gallant Democracy of Lancaster county on their faithful adherence to principle, and expressing his firm belief in the speedy triumph of the party, and of its vital principles. On motion, the Convention adjourned sine die.

VISIT OF COLUMBIA COMMANDERY, No. 13, KNIGHTS TEMPLAR, TO ALTOONA:-Tuesday last being the day appointed for the annual meeting of the Grand Commandery of the Ancient Order of Knights Templar, at Altoona, the Columbia Commandery of this city, accompanied by the York Commandery, paraded through our streets in full uniform, from their Asylum the depot. They were preceded by the City Cornet Band, which discoursed excellent and appropriate music. A large crowd was attracted by the fine display made by he Sir Knights, and a multitude of friends ssembled at the depot to see them fairly off. Special cars had been provided for the occa sion by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which never does such things by halves. The trip to Altoona was a most delightful one, the veather being very pleasant, and the season of year such as to make the country along the route appear to the very best advantage. At the different stopping points along the route the band played and crowds of people gathered to listen to the music, which was certainly very fine. At about half-past seven o'clock in the evening the train reached Altoona. After partaking of an excellent supper at the Logar House, one of the best arranged and most admirably kept hotels in the State, the Sir Knights formed in procession and marched to the hall where the Grand Commanders

ing as it might be cannot be laid before ou On the following morning the whole body of Sir K nights present, amounting in number to some four or five hundred, assembled in the grounds attached to the Logan House for drill; after which they formed in procession and marched through the principa treets of Altoona, headed by the City Cornet Band of Lancaster. The Band pre ented a fine appearance in their new and bandsome uniform, and were much com plimented upon the superior music with which they enlivened the march.

were in session. What occurred here is no

subject for newspaper report, and interest

After the parade, and before the arrival of the train from the west, the Sir Knights formed in front of the Logan House for the purpose of receiving Lieutenant General Grant, who was on his way East from the great Sanitary Fair at Chicago.

The notice given of his intended passage, and the time he started, were too short to admit of preparation for a formal reception; but the matter was taken in hand by the Grand Commandery, and a most imposing eception given. Previous to the arrival of the train they formed in line, dressed in full regalia, and accompanied by their band, arranged themselves in double column at he depot in front of the Logan House. The ine extended from the track to the door by which the General was to enter the hotel The train was stopped a short distance above the depot to take on a committee apointed to inform the General of the aringements made for his reception. The rowd of people, which numbered thouslow, while the root of the verandah in fron inds, occupied every available foothold beof the hotel was well filled with ladies and entlemen. It was with difficulty that the Knights Templars could keep in line and keep the passage open.

When the train halted at the station the appearance of the General upon the platform was the signal for deafening cheers, while the band struck up "Hail to the Chief." The General was received at the head of the column by Sir Knights Strickland, Turner, Howell of this city, Hutchinson and Robison, after which he passed between the lines, hat in hand, while the crowd sent up cheer after cheer, and the ladies waved their handkerchiefs, and showered boquets in his path. Col. Parker an Indian, who is attached to Gen. Grant's staff as Military Secretary, accompanie him. He is a Mason, and displayed the gold mark of the celebrated Indian Chief, Red Jacket, which attracted much attention.-The column remained in line until the Genoral had taken breakfast, when he passed out etween them as he had entered. Unostentatiously, as is his custom, he received the onors tendered him.

On entering the car he did not turn to give an opportunity for hand-shaking, whereupon a bare-armed, check-shirted, hard-fisted mechanic, who, in his enthusiism, was determined to touch him, at least jumped upon the platform and patted him on the back as he passed in, as much as to say "Bully boy, the General." Shortly after he appeared on the rear platform of the car, where he remained shaking hands with those who presented themselves, and powing to the ladies until the train moved off, amid the cheering of the crowd, the waving of hands and handkerchiefs, and the music of the band. After the departure of General Grant the Sir Knights assembled in conclave at their Asylum, when the annual address was delivered by the Right Eminent Grand Comnander, H. Stanley Goodwin. The Columon Commandery of this city then presented him with a beautiful service of silver ware, consisting of pitcher, goblets and salver. The presentation speech was made by Eminen Commander, Sir Knight C. M. Howell, of this city. His speech was very beautiful and exceedingly appropriate. The Right Eminent Grand Commander received i with that grace and modesty which much distinguish him. The following wa he inscription on each piece of silver:

PRESENTED TO

SIR H. STANLEY GOODWIN,
BY COLUMBIA COMMANDER NO. 13,
Lancaster, Pa.
In testimony of their respect for his virtues a man, and appreciative regard for his services us a Mason.

Through the kindness of the officers.

Through the kindness of the officers the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Superin tendent Sir Knight Pitcairn, an excursion train was placed at the service of the Las easter and York Commanderies, in which they made the ascent of the mountain, en joying the grandeur of scenery and bein fully impressed with the wonderful power of man's genius, which here seems to hav triumphed over objects of almost insumountable character presented by nature The day was peculiarly favorable for im pressing all who were on the train Slow! the locomotives struggled to draw the burthen up the steep, gradually rising, un til the region of the clouds was entered. Be low them they lay in the form of mis which fell slowly as they passed throug them. It was a sight long to be remen bered by all who witnessed it as number did for the first time on this occasion. Aft reaching the Summit the train with the ex cursionists stopped at the beautiful res erally a garden of roses, and the ladies of the house seemed to vie with each other plucking the flowers and presenting them to the Sir Knights. The names of the fair ones are, Misses Ida Huber, Hetty Huber, aura Gilson, Annie McAffee, Mrs. Lemar and Mrs. Gilson. To say that the favor ted were enjoyed and appreciated by he Sir Knights is to use a very moderate form of expression. The ladies will please onsider the thanks of the party hereby endered to them for their courteous treat

On arriving at Cresson, one of the mos delightful summer resorts in the country, he party paraded through the beautiful grounds and proceeded to the saloon where efreshments were had that were much elished. The hotel has only been open for few days, but there is already quite a number of visitors who have thus early re tired from the heat of the crowded cities The train was under the management or Mr. John McCormack, train master, and Mr. Eli Green, engineer, to whom all on poard were indebted for care and kind treatment.

By dusk the party returned to Altoona all being delighted with their trip. In the course of the evening the Sir Knights atended a meeting of the Grand Commandery, which adjourned to meet at Lanaster on June the 14th, next year.

On the following morning, Thursday quite a number of the Sir Knights were con ducted through the Workshops of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which employ over a thousand hands, by Mr. Power, one of the Superintendents. After ooking at the various objects of interest, they accompanied Mr. Power to his room, where they partook of refreshments. He is entitled to their kind remembrance for his attention and hospitality.

Upon the arrival of the Philadelphia Exoress from the east, the Sir Knights of Columbia Commandery formed in double column and received General Hambright, who, accompanied by Adjutant Bodie and Quartermaster Zecher, was on his way to take charge of his command at Louisville. The Band was present, and a large crowd embled, who received the General with rounds of hearty cheers. After breakfasting he proceeded on his way in the train, being loudly cheered as the train departed. The Sir Knights took the 12 M. train, and after a pleasant ride in special cars, kindly provided for the occasion, reached this city ast evening at half-past seven o'clock. So nded one of the most pleasant trips imaginable, which those who participated in it vill long remember as such. During the excursion on several occasion member of the Columbia Commandery, ustinguished for his portly proportions an is fine appearance personally, was taken by the crowd for General Scott, and most stily cheered. Taking the cue to the joke

e doffed his chappeau and bowed most nilitarily, while renewed cheers invariably rent the air. PENSIONS .- Now that the war is over, it may be interesting to many to learn the following items showing to whom pensions may be granted:

1. Invalids, disabled since March 4, 1861, n the military or naval service of the Jnited States, while in the line of duty. 2. Widows of officers, soldiers and seanen who have died of wounds received, or lisease contracted in the service as above 3. Children under sixteen years of age, of either of the aforesaid deceased parents, i there is no widow surviving or from the time of the widow's re-marriage. 4. Mothers of officers, soldiers or seamer leceased as aforementioned, and who were dependent on the son for support, in whole 5. Sisters under sixteen years of age, de pendent on said deceased brother, wholly or in part for support, provided there are none of the last three cases above mentioned. Invalids and friends of deceased soldier are reminded that in order to have said pensions commence when the service terminated, the application therefore must be made within a year of the discharge of the invalid, or decease of the officer, soldier seaman, or as the case may be. THE WHEAT MIDGE,-The Reading Gar-zette says:

We regret to learn that serious injury is being done to the growing wheat crop in some parts of Berks county, by the Wheat Midge, or Weavil. In Cunru, Spring and the Heidelbergs, nearly every wheat field has been attacked by this little pest, and its feared that a fourth of the crop will be destroyed in consequence. Out of ette says: is feared that a fourth of the crop will be destroyed in consequence. Out of twenty-four heads of wheat plucked indiscriminately, the grains in eight were nearly entirely destroyed, and the remaining heads were more or less injured. This was along the fence, and it is hoped that the interiors of the fields have not suffered in the same proportion. In other respects the wheat fields look well and promise an abundari harvest harvest parts of the State, and in this county some of our farmers are apprehensive of damage to the crop from this source. The terrible little pest it was hoped was dead and done with, but it seems to be an established nuisance among us.

Consumption.—Notwithstanding the many articles advertised to cure Consumption, we do not believe, when once fully seated in the system, it can be perfectly cured. But we do know of hundreds of cases where persons were supposed to be suffering under that fatal disease, who have suffering under that latal disease, who have become perfectly well and robust from the use of Speer's Samburg port wine. Many times people for years waste and at last die from diseases of the kidneys or glands, when they were supposed to have, and were treated for consumption. A long-continued affection of the kidneys, however, may eventually result in consumption. The eventually result in consumption. The Samburg port wine used alone, or taken with a fresh raw egg, or new milk, daily, has been found to be an excellent remedy, and has the reputation in some places, rendering a perfect cure for consumption. It does not follow that every negro who has held a bayonet has served the country; nor does it appear that every negro who "gave his life to save the country"—that is, who went into the army—did so through patriotism. Perhaps the least said about negro patriotism; in the fere of the bourties offered ism, in the face of the bounties offered. ism, in the face of the bounties offered, the equality promised, the persuasion used and the force employed to get up a black army, the better for both the negro and his admirers. As to the military service performed with the bayonet by the black troops, in consideration of which the ballot is claimed for them, the contraction of the manufacture to the manufacture of the the country remains in very dark (if not blissful) ignorance; in fact, to use the current phrase, "they can't see it." Taking their numbers into consideration, there could not probably be selected from any of the armies of the Republic an equivalent number of white roops who have performed less service. Perhaps this may have been owing to the fact that that class of troops, through special favoritism, were always kept in reserve, in holiday trim—to grace re-views and dress parades, and to take quiet possession of cities and battle fields ifter the white veterans had defeated and routed the foe. Whatever may have been the reason, we ask if such is not the truth? If denied, will the negro suffrage advocates please contrast the services of the white and black soldiers, numbers with numbers, and show wherein the latter have been superior -Patriot & Union.

The Town of Greensburg. The editor of the Westmoreland Republican, one of the ablest Democratic papers in the State, being, like many of his fellows, a little hard up for local matter, has got upan interesting sketch of the town of Greensburg, from which we make the following extract: Greensburg, like Rome, was not built in a day. The county of Westmoreland was erected out of that part of old Bedford county lying west of the Laurel Hill, by an act of the Provincial or Colonial Legislature, passed February 26, 1773. The boundaries of Westmoreland, when first define, comprised within their ample limits, the present, popu-lous, wealthy and well-cultivated counties of Washington, Fayette, Allegheny, Butler, Mercer, Crawford, Erie, War-ren, Armstrong, Clarion and Indiana. The first county town of Westmoreland was Hanna's town, so called after Robt. Hanna, Esq., the first Presiding Judge of the Courts. Hanna's town was situ-ated three miles northeast of Greens-burg, on the old road to New Alexandria. It consisted of some thirty two story log houses, a wooden Court House and Jail, and a small fort, with a stock ade. Hanna's town was the first place west of the Allegheny mountains, where justice was dispensed according to the forms of English and American law. The first Court of Common Pleas was held in April, 1773, and the first Prothonotary and Clerk of the Courts was Arthur St. Clair, afterwards a Major General in the war of the Revolution. Hanna's town was attacked, taken and burnt by a party of predatory and hos-tile Indians in July, 1782. After the destruction of Hanna's town, the seat of justice was removed to Greensburg.

About the year 1784 Greensburg was laid out as a town, and made the place for holding the civil and criminal Courts. In February, 1799, it was incorporated as a borough. The town is situated on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, and on the old Bedford and Pittsburg turnpike, about seventy miles west of Bedford and thirty miles east of Bittsburg.

To One Handerson. · 1694 A Person About the Evening Pos MY DEAR SIR: If I had ever heard your name in any decent connection. I should have remembered the initials and addresse you more formally. I only recollect your name as that of a certain Henderson was detected a year or so ago, in some petty but uncommonly brazen piece of this I believe about the New York Custon House. I always thought of you, when I saw your name in the police colu Dailies, as some small associate or perhaps tool, of Palmer, the man of proclamations, or Stanton, the man of fees, or Cummings, the man of herrings and Scotch Ale, or even of Simon Cameron, the man of moc casins and plunder in general. I may even now be taking too generous a view of your case in thus addressing you as one at large. It is not long since the public understood you were in the custody of Col. Baker or some gentleman in the like business of ferreting out and restraining the bodies of unfortunate persons whose ideas about the rights of property had become confused .-But then the World tells us that "Hender son is out on bail," and it is more than probable that this will find you at your little table in the garret of the Evening Post This note is called for by a leader in the Post. of May 9th. entitled "A Bit of History Revived," and which, partially sanctioned by Mr. Bryant's more respectable name has been extensively copied by the Shoddy Press of the country, and again its falseheod as extensively exposed by the Demo cratic Press. Yet the copying of the stupid and transparant coinage of your brain still continues by the poor country editors equally capable but not sufficiently industrious to manufacture a new story every bit as good. I accuse "Henderson" of that precious leader, because I know Mr. Bryant would exculpate himself and say was Henderson," the moment the slander was so stiffly proved that he must retract it. 1 suppose you occupy that unhappy relation to him which the mythical foreman does to the country Editor. Whenever any particularly outrageous calumny appear in the paper, and the Post is threatened with suit and damages, the story goes done without my knowledge or consent,' "Henderson is the man," and so every body says "Henderson's a poor devil-in trouble enough already," and the breeze which threatened the Post blows over .-You are a convenient person, Mr. Henderson, but whether you are selected for this hase scribbling, because of your peculiar aptitude for the business, or driven to it in view of the fact that your ready cash is swallowed up in defending yourself upon the indictments lodged against you on information of Government detectives, I do not pretend to say. You say you were at the Cincinnati C vention, and that you reported proceedings not found in the official record or in any of the Democratic papers. You need not have told us that. Nobody would have expected you to report what other people reported or to have heard what other people heard.— You have a perfect genius for seeing and hearing what no other person can, try he never so hard.

In this leader, you draw quite a graphic picture of a Convention in breathless expectation of something, (of course though this foolish Convention was expecting so thing, Henderson alone knew what.) This you dub the Democratic Convention of 1856. You then proceed to call upon the floor "Judge Black, of Pennsylvania," afterwards Attorney General under Buchangu) and put into his mouth one of your most startling speeches. He gave on Mr. Buchanan's behalf a terrible pledge to the nullifiers. If ever they wanted to secede Mr. Buchanan would not only not prevent them, but he would go with them, and carry Pennsylvania and pretty near everything else along with him. In short he would never cease from "following after

Now, Mr. Henderson, if you were the harmless man of the pen, which no doubt you pretend to be when arraigned on an indictment, you would have made that other place and at some other time, and you would have invented some new names, or culled them from some odd book in Mr. Bryant's library. In that case the great Democratic party of the Union would not have been belied, and Buchanan and Black would not have been so grossly standered. But to settle your "Bit of History" forever, Judge Black, of Pennsylvania, afterwards Attorney General under Buchanan, vas never in Cincinnati in his life, he was not in that Convention, nor was he ever in any but one Convention, and that was a Jackson State Convention. He did not even make a political speech during the campaign of 1856. Montgomery Blair once used this wretched invention of yours in a public address in New York. Judge Black hearing of its circulation, by the mouth of a gentleman, addressed hint a note setting aim right, and Mr. Blair promptly published the correspondence with a handsome acknowledgement of his error. You will find it among some of the campaign rub bish of last fall, though I suppose you did see it long before you reiterated the slander There was in that Convention a Col. Sam W. Black, of Pittsburgh, who has since fallen, like a brave and gallant soldier, at the head of his regiment, fighting for the Union, while you and other loyal gentlemen were plundering the Custom House and laying plans to throw Col. Baker off your scent. Mr. Dawson delivered the authorized speech of the Pennsylvania delegation, and if Mr. Buchanan had had any oledges to make he would have made them through him. Col. Sam. Black did make a kind of volunteer address, but you have given not a single word of it, with the exception of the passage from Ruth, and it only expressed that spirit of brotherhood which created and maintained the Union. It was uttered for the Union and in the name of the Union. He who spoke it rests in an unknown spot in a Virginia swamp surrounded by the graves of his own Union soldiers, while you are torturing his lanuage to malign his living friends. I think Judge Black has clearly proved an alibi. My sincere wish is that in your Heretofore, the Southern people only had a three fifth representation for their slaves-now the entire population, black as well as white, will be counted in per capita, the same as is done in Pennsylvania and other Northern States. To make this still more plain: It is estimated that there are. or were, 3,600,000 slaves in the fifteen Southern States. the other number the dividend, and you have an additional representation in Congress, for the black population, of fourteen and a fraction over. This is so transparent that the most obtuse intellect can see through and understand it. What, then, has been gained by the North in its crusade against Southern slavery? instead of weakening the South in numpers and influence in the Congress of the United States, the emancipation policy will have largely augmented both. And not only so, but it will give the Southern States an addition of fourteen Presidential electors! We ask our Republican friends to think over this matter. It is a question of deep import to them and to us, and disposes, in a very summary way, of the principal argument they have been using for years against the Southern people on account of their three-fifth slave representation. The result of the insane policy of the Abolitionists is well calculated to remind one of the old story about the foolish man who bit off his nose to spite his face. "THE CAPON IRON WORKS," situated in Hardy county, Virginia, are offered at private sale.

The furnace is a cold blast charcoal furnace with water power and about five thousand acres of Timber Land.

The forge has three finery and one chafery fires, and one run out fire; is situated on Big Capon River, an excellent water power; would be plenty strong enough for a Rolling Mill.

The ore is a brown hemaetite; the principal ore bank is about two miles from the furnace; the vein averages at least five feet thick, supposed to be inexhaustible; the quality of the iron is not surnassed by any in the State, with the vein averages at least five feet thick, supposed to be inexhaustible; the quality of the iron is not surpassed by any in the State, with a great home demand for bar iron; for boiler plate the iron is first quality. There is a Foundry connected with the Furnaee; and a great demand for Cooking, Wood and Franklin Stoves, Hollow Ware and other Castings to supply all that section of country. There is also a SAW MILL on the premises. This is one of the few Iron Works that escaped destruction in the South during the rebellion. For facilities for making the cheapest and best quality of charcoal iron these works cannot be surpassed by any in the country. They will be sold at a bargain.—These works are situated about thirty miles southwest from Winchester, near Wardensville, on the Moorfield pike.

Farmers having the Kirby or the Jersey Reaper and Mower can have them repaired at short notice, as I have the castings on hand. Having had ten years' experience in the Drill business, and having employed the best mechanics, I feel confident I can turn out good work. Persons in want of a genuine Grain Drill will be careful that they get the Keeler & Barthel, patent, manufactured by Jacob Barthel, patent, manufactured by Jac
