"No man," says the Koran, "know the spot on earth where his grave shall be made." The Bourbons thought they knew, but, like meaner folks, they were out in their reckoning, so far, at least as related to their final place of sepulture. In vain they built themselves a mighty mausoleum. For eleven hundred years the abby church consecrated to St. Denis held the bones of Capets, Carlovingians, and the descendants of "the good king Dagobert," but the revolutionary storm of 1792 swept away all before it, and scattered these and all the other relics till then held sacred. There are few events of that terrible time more completely demonstrating the subversion of the royalty which had endured so long, than the decree of the convention of the 6th of August, 1792, six months after the execution of Louis the Sixteenth, which sent the rabid populace of Paris trooping to St. Denis to obliterate the recollection of the kings of France by destroying their very tombs and buring their remains in the common fosse. In the tombs of hollowed stone of the earlier monarchs, very little worth notice was found. In that of King Pepia there was a small quantity of gold wire, nothing more, but each coffin bore the simple inscription of the name of its inmates on a leaden plate, and the greater part of these plates were much oxydized, and in a very bad condition, as that the names were in many instances, nearly illegible. The plates, however, were not wanted for preservation, but, together with the leaden coffins of Philippe le Aardi and Isabella of Aragon, and the leaden roof of the abby church, were taken to the Hotel de-Ville of Paris, and there melted down, and cast into musket balls. The most remarkable object discovered was a silver zeal, of ogive form, belonging to Constance of Castle, the second wife of Louis the Seventh, who died in 1100. It weighed three ounces and a half, and, silver money being out of fashion, was not converted into either cash or bullets, but found its way to the municipal stronghold, and was thence transferred to the cabinet of autiquities of the National (not the Imperial) Library Though only three days' labor were actually bestowed, the work of demoli tion was from various causes, suspended from August till October, but on the 12th of that month it was resumed, and with renewed vigor the destroyers forced their way into the vaults of the Bour-The first coffin they met with, was one which might have demanded forbearance, had there been any forbearing spirit in the midst of so much unhallowed ruffianism; it was that of Henri Quatre! His body was in a good state of preservation, and his features were perfectly recognizable; the windingsheet by which he was enveloped was also in good condition. For two days his remains were exposed to public view, and then they were remorselessly cast into the yawning trench which awaited them. The same fate awaited the bones of Louis the Thirteenth and his descendants. The first-named monarch was recognized by his moustaches, and Louis the Fourteenth by his prominent features; but his face, that face which had received so much adoration in his lifetime, was now black as ink. To this complexion had it come at last! and especially that of the Grane Dauphin--oh, grandem!--were in a state of liquid putrefaction. The hearts of some of the princes were found under the coffins, encased in lead with enambled inscriptions; the lead was carefully taken away, the withered hearts were tossed with howls and execrations into the common fosse. On the fifth day after having taken all the bodies, which were regularly interred in the royal vault, the depredators came at the further end, to another coffin placed on a stone bench about two feet from the ground, in a recess formed in the thickness of the wall. The situation of this coffin showed that it was that of the last king who had died, which always occupied the recess in question till his successor came to replace him. In this instance the successor never came. As if open day were necessary for fully satisfying the vengeance of the revoluntionary mob, eager to wreak their brutal fury on all the Bourbons in the person of the one, ill called "Le bien aime," the coffin of Louis the Fifteenth was dragged from the crypt to the brink of the trench and there opened. The body taken out of its leaden case, and swathed like a mummy, appeared to be in good preservation; but the instant the bandages were removed the royal corpse took its revenge on the surrounding multitude. It was, as might have been expected, considering the disease of which the profligate king died, in a state of the direst putrefaction, and from the loathsome carcase came so pernicious an odor that all present fled from it in dismay. At length, in order that the Jacobin body-snatchers might complete their purpose, recourse was had to the firing of muskets, and burning of gunpowder to purify the air, and when the fumigation had lasted long enough, the blackened fragments of royalty were hurled into the pit on a bed of quicklime -somewhat different from the sumptuous couch at Versailles!-and quickly concealed from human senses.

The Shenandoah Valley.

Instead of going west, many of our sturdy Pennsylvania farmers would do well to study the advantages certain districts in Virginia present to emigrants. Of the Shenandoah Valley, a Tribune correspondent has the follow-

"This immense valley, hundreds of miles in length, is one of the finest ag-ricultural and mineral regions in the world, and, with free men and free labor, no limits can be set to its future greatness. Its people are disposed to reive frankly northern men and north-The soil is unsurpassed for agricultural purposes, the whole valley being the best limestone land, and generally well-wooded and watered. valley.

The best lands may now be purchased on the most reasonable terms—say for less than what they would comnd a year or two hence. Good farms mand a year or two hence. Good farms where the fences have been destroyed may be bought for $25 per acre; farms with excellent buildings and fences for $40. For example, a farm containing 400 acres of good arable limestone land, and 200 acres first-rate whiteoak timber land, a fine two-story brick mannion land, a fine two-story brick mansion house, large barn, stabling and other outbuildings, with a finestream of water running through the land, good springs in various parts of the property, and good fences, was offered for $40 per acre. On the farm was a splendid crop of wheat, corn and grass. It is within six miles of a railroad, and about 120 miles from Washington or Baltimore. "Many German families from Lancaster county, Pa., found their way into this valley many years ago, and taking with them their industrious and thrifts habits, have become large and prosper-ous land owners. The inducement now held out in the cheapness and fertility of the lands, their close proximity to markets and removal of that great drawback, Slavery, will doubtless attract a Maximilian's troops have captured Camargo. Many rebels are in Mexico taking part with him. Negrete's liberals have been defeated, with a loss of 2,700.

Suicide of Edmund Ruffin.

Edmund Ruffin, the father of seces sionism in Virginia, and who will be remembered as proceeding from this State to Charleston Harbor for the purpose of firing the first rebel gun Fort Sumter, committed suicide Saturday evening last, near Matoax Station, in Amelia county, where he was temporarily sojourning. The act was a deliberate one, the deluded man taking a musket loaded with buckshot, and placing the muzzle in his mouth, with the aid of a stick touching the trigger. The first cap failed to explode, when he replaced it with a better one, fired the piece and was instantly killed. The upper portion of his head was entirely blown off. In a diary of his was found a memorandum stating that he could never live under the United States government, and took death in preference. In the same memorandum he said that he would have committed the deed on the 9th of April (the day General Lee surrendered), but was pre-vented by the presence of visitors in

It is now said that Mr. Ruffin's mine had been very perceptibly affected since the evacuation of Richmond and the surrender of the rebel armies. week previous to terminating his life Mr. Ruffin kept his chamber, busily employed in writing what subsequently turned out to be a history of his politi-cal life. He also wrote letters, and in one of them he left directions as to the disposal of his body.

Mr. Ruffin, though a politician of the old school, never held any office of dis-tinction. He was an agriculturist, and wrote much on the development of Virginia's resources. He was at one time, years ago, President of the Agricultural Society of Virginia, and published the Farmer's Register, at Petersburg, a paper devoted to farming interests.

These Bitters are rapidly winning their way to public favor, and before long will be the only ones in popular demand. The cures they have effected for years past has induced the proprietor to bring them more particularly before the people. They are not a new remedy, the recipe for making the "Bitters" having been in the possession of the proprietor for many years. The ingredients are composed of the following medicinal herbs and roots, all possessing well known curative powers, and are warranted not to contain any other article: Elecampane, Burdock, Spikenard, Soapwort, Peruvian Bark, Enchu, Spicewood, Mullein, Slippery Elm, Sassafras, Sarsaparilla, Gentian Root, Juniper, Spirits Nitre, Balsam Copavia, Cubehs, Dandellen, Pure Spirits and Barbarry. The Bitters have been used by persons afflicted with varibusent that the proprietor is now induced for the first time to offer them to the public, with the full confidence and a willingness to guarantee that if properly used they will effect permanent cures in the most obstinate cases of diseases. RACKER, BISCUIT AND CAKE BAKER!

ABINET-WARE MANUFACTORY,

Raking Combined Reaper and Mower for 1855, one of the greatest labor-saving machines of the age, It its superior to all others, because it is made of the best material, and for field work strong enough to be safe, durable and reliable at all times. It has the advantage of making a perfect separation by the Rake, in all kinds of grain, whether tangled or lodged, long or short, by reason of the operation of the Rake in revolving over the reel, and making the separation in the uncut grain, or before the siekel. The certainty of a clear cut apparatus and platform at the making of each sheaf, no matter how tangled or short the grain may be. The grain may hang over the separator to the left and be out of reach of other Rakes and make a trail certain, while ours cannot fail to clear all out every time. The motion of the Rake and Sickel can be stopped at pleasure. It rakes the grain off the side of the Machine, and deposits it in a most excellent shape for binding. Yet so loosely does the gavel lay on the top of the stubble that there can be no heating if it has to lay there a longer time than usual, and the bundles being less compact than others, will dry up after a shower of rain. This is a very important feature of our Machine, warranted. Farmers who want to secure a Machine, should order early.

INVALIDS IRON IN THE BLOOD

It is well known to the medical profession that IRON is the vital Principle or Life Element of the blood. This is derived chiefly from the food we cat; but if the food is not properly digested, or if, from any cause whatev r, the necessary quantity of iron is not taken into the circulation, or becomes reduced, the whole system suffers. The bad blood will irritate the heart, will clog up the lungs, will stupefy the brain, will obstruct the liver, and will send its disease producing elements to all parts of the system, and every one will suffer in whatever organ may be predisposed to disease.

IRON AS A MEDICINE is well known and acknowledged by all medi-cal men. The difficulty has been to obtain such a preparation of it as will enter the circulation and assimilate at once with the blood. This point, says Dr. Hayes, Massuchusetts State Chemist, has been attained in the Peruvian yrup, by combination in a way THE PERUVIAN SYRUP THE PERUVIAN SYRUP Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Drops and Ague, Loss of Energy, Low Spirit THE PERUVIAN SYRUP infuses strength, vigor, and new life into the system, and builds up an "Iron Constitution." THE PERUVIAN SYRUP
