Trout's.-The arrivals at these stables during the week were to Messrs. D. M. Sharp & Co., 8 head of good horses, bought in this county; 15 head, to the sante firm, of very fine and superior horses-decidedly the best lot that has been brought to this market for a long time-by Mr. A. C. Brindley, purchased in Harrison and adjoining counties, Ohio; also 15 head of excellent horses, from the same vicinity, by Wesley Brindley, and 3 head to Mr. McManus, of N. Y., bought in the county, in all 41 head. Messrs, Sharp & Co. shipped on Wednesday last 16 head to Philadelphia market, and turned 7 head to grass, leaving with 25 head at last report, 25 head still on hand. Mr. W. Brindley sold 3 head in the county, leaving 12 on hand. The whole number remaining in these stables are 40 head .-Messrs Sharp & Co. will ship 10 or 12 head to-morrow to Philadelphia.

The American appeared with white shirts fire hats and black pants; the Shiffler were fully equipped in firemen's suits, and the appeared in new gray shirts, black pants, and wore the New York fire hat and helt. All the-companies made an exceedingly handsome display. The lady friends f the different companies, as usual, were very profuse in the distribution of beautiful boquets. The procession proceeded over the route previously designated, and about half-past four o'clock halted in front of Trinity Lutheran Church. Duke street, where a preliminary trial of the steamer took place. The trial was not as satisfactory as could have been desired, which was owing to a variety of causes. There is not a doubt, however, of the steamer being able to do everything that can be reasonably expected The steamer is named "H. E. Slaymaker," a well-bestowed compliment or the active, worthy and esteemed President of the Union. It is of the third-class build, and plays two streams. It is a neat and beautiful niece of mechanism. The signallamp in front was captured at Resacca Georgia, on the 14th of May last by Mr. Richard Kirk, of this city. It was taken off of a Steam Fire Engine, which was on a railroad truck endeavoring to get away from the Federal forces. It is of English manufacture, and one of the finest specimens of manufacture of the kind we have ever seen. On the sides of the boiler are two silver plates, with the name and motto of the Company. On the small air chamber in front is a silver plate with the following inscription:

Our Own: Thanks to Our Lady Friends.

TRACT ANNIVERSARY.-Years ago, do not know how many, an association was formed in this city, the object of whose mission was doing good. The name of this association is "The Ladies' City Tract Society." Faithfully, religiously, devotedly, during all these years, have these women performed their self-imposed, thankless and vearisome duties, without hope of reward? Did we say without reward? There is always a reward for such in the abode of the good and just. During all these years have these faithful Christian women been laboring, upon a very small capital. for the evangelization and amelioration of the condition of mankind. The "silent messengers of thought," often productive of good, have been from month to month distributed in almost every household in the city. Frequently have we been called to the office door by a gentle rap, and from the lips of a young and pretty face would come the inquiry, "Will you please accept a tract, sir?" How could we refuse? Yes, these women have done a vast amount of good in this city. No sectarian or political feelings have ever been permitted to interfere in their deliberations, but silently, meekly and modestly have they gone in and out among us doing their Master's will. They have sown the seed, and although everything looks unpropitious now, the harvest time will surely come, and then will they have the proud consciousness of knowing that their labors have been abundantly blessed.

On Sunday night the anniversary of this Spelety took place at Trinity Lutheran Church. Duke street. The meeting was presided over by Rev. Samuel Laird, pastor of Trinity, and the exercises were opened with the singing of an anthem by the choir. Able and interesting addresses were made by Revs. Bishop Bigler of the Moravian Mosser of St. Paul's Reformed, and Thompson of the First M. E. Church, The annual report was read by Rev. Mr. Laird. From we learn that 22.108 English and 6 219 German tracts were distributed during the past year, making a total of 28,320. The receipts during the year were $73.44, and the expenditures $38.75, leaving a balance in the treasury of $34.69 After prayer by the Rev. Mr. Powell, and the singing of hymn by the choir, the congregation was dismissed with the benediction. There was a large, interested and attentive congregation present.

Mayor Sanderson, on taking the chair, made a short speech in his usual happy style. Before he had finished his remarks, however, Colonels Davis and Linton, accompanied by Hon. C. L. Pershing, of Cambria county, made their appearance at the door of the Hall. As they passed up the aisle our candidates were greeted with loud expressions of rapturous applause. Col. W. W. H. Davis, our gallant and distinguished candidate for Auditor General, was introduced to the audience as the first speaker. He looks every inch a soldier even in citizen's dress. As a speaker he is clear, plain and forcible. His arguments are all arranged with logical precision and nicety, and presented in elegant and chaste language. His voice is clear and pleasant, and his method of delivery free from anything like ranting or ostentatious display. He is decidedly an effective public speaker

He said:

Mr. President; I am here to-night, by invitation from the Democracy of Lancaster city, to discuss the political issues involved in the present campaign. The Democratic State Convention, without my having sought the office, saw fit to nominate me in connection with my friend there, that brave and true soldier, Col. John P. Linton as your candidates for the offices of Auditor and Surveyor General. But if I did not seek the nomination, I will do my best by all fair and honorable means to secure my election and the triumph of the Democratic party. party.
I hear it remarked that this is not an im-

I hear it remarked that this is not att methor that the portant election. I think it is. Never were more vital issues presented for the consideration of the people. It seems to me that it is not now a mere question of administration, but of government; whether we tration, but of government; whether we shall continue to have a government of Constitutions and laws such as our fathers gave us. It is an old saving that history continually repeats itself. What were the issues at the formation of this government: Were they not similar to those now presented? Then under the lead of Alexander Hamilton and others, a strong party contended for a strong government. They wanted the Executive to hold office for life. Senators of the United States to be appointwanted the Executive to note ones. Senators of the United States to be appointed for life, and wished to place in the ed for life, and wished to place in the hands of the Executive a veto power which would have enabled him to nullify not only the acts of Congress but of the State Legislatures. In what respect is the theory of the Republican party different? They clamor for a strong government, one which shall swallow up the reserved rights of the States and of the people. This they insist upon in the very face of that clause of the Constitution which declared that all rights and powers not granted to the Fedupon in the very face of that charge of the Constitution which declared that all rights and powers not granted to the Federal Government are reserved to the States respectively or to the people. Here, then, we have with the Republicans the same old fight over again which our forefathers waged with the Federal party. In this we have history repeating itself. Under the elder Adams we had the alien and sedition laws, under which aliens were seized and sent beyond the limits of the State, while on a charge of sedition citizens were made the charge of sedition citizens were made the victims of unrestrained arbitrary power. Over here in Berks county, the editor of the Reading Adder, the old Berks County Bible as it is familiarly called, was seized and thrust into prison without form or warrant of law. Have we not seen history repeating itself in this respect? Let the innumerable arbitrary arrests and the violence done to the plainest rights of the citizen during the first term of Mr. Lincoln's ration answer.

Col. Davis then proceeded to review the contending theories as to the restoration of the Union. He said: I don't know how etter to state both sides of the contest that the language of your townsman, Mr. tevens. He says in his speech recently

Two positions have been suggested.
First—To treat those States as never having been out of the Union because the Constitution forbids secession, and therefore a fat forbidden by law could not exist.
Second—To accept the position in which they placed themselves as severed from the Union; an independent government defacto, and an alien enemy to be dealt with according to the laws of war.

according to the laws of war. The first proposition embraces the theorem which President Johnson has been ac ing, and it is heartily endorsed by the Democratic party. The other is the doctrine of ing, and it is heartily endorsed by the Democratic party. The other is the doctrine of State suicide and is the pet theory of Mr. Stevens and the leaders of the Republican party. If their adherence to this doctrine does not put them on the same platform with the original secessionists then I am at a loss to conceive what could do so. Men of Calhoun's stamp never made any bolder claim of power in the States to annul' the Constitution and dissolve their relation to the Union, than is conceded in the admisthe Union, than is conceded in the admis sion by Mr. Stevens that the States in revol sion by Mr. Stevens that the States in revolt were by their ordinances of secession carried completely out of the Union, with power to form, what he asserts they did form, a de facto government completely foreign to that of the United States. Mr. Stevens is high authority in the Republican party. When he speaks it is ex cathedra, and what he says is entitled to be received as the voice of his party. His doctrines are simply atrocopy. Having boxed the political compass Having boxed the political compass and followed his party through all its vary-ing names and mulations be is now a consist nt representative Republican. The hatred ent representative Republican. The hatred which he has always borne toward the South is now the sentiment of his party, and when he proposes to hold the Southern States in subjection until the whip' of the black man shall be heard cracking over the shoulders of the white man, his backers applaud the vindictive utterance. His whole theory as developed in his speech made here is redicable wrong and computely subversive

His propo-tion to keep the Southern States out of the Union, and to refuse admission to their regularly elected delegates to Congress ne-Union, and to refuse admission to their regularly elected delegates to Congress nocessarily involves the same power over delegates to Congress from Pennsylvania. If Congress can refuse to allow members regularly elected to take their seats for one reason they can for any other. They may make religion a test if they choose. Such is the doctrine advanced by Mr. Stevens in his speech delivered here; and it is the doctrine plainly set forth in the platform of the Republican party of this State. That document was framed to suit the views of Mr. Stevens, and may justly be regarded as an ment was framed to stit the views of interesting the state of the state of restoration it is in plain and palpable opposition to the plan adopted by President Johnson, which has been working so admirably. Here is the authoritative declaration of the party.

and the treatment they are to receive and he laws which are to govern them, should be referred to the law-making power of the the laws which are to govern theil, should be referred to the law-making power of the nation to which it legitimately belongs."

Let any man of candor and sense contrast that with the position of the Democratic party on the same subject. The fifth resolution of the Democratic platform says:

"Resolved, That we fully concur with President Johnson in the conviction expressed by him in 1860, and repeated several times since, that the Federal Government is sovereign within its proper sphere; that it acts not through or upon the States but directly upon individuals; that the States could not absolve the people from their federal obligations; that the State ordinances of secession were nullities; and, therefore, when the attempted revolution came to an end by the submission of the insurgents, the States were as much a part of the Union as they had been before, their people were bound to the same duties, and classes were also and the same duties, and classes were also and control of the same duties, and classes were such as the same duties, and classes were as much a part of the Union as they had been before, their people were bound to the same before, their people were bound to the same duties and clothed with the same rights duties and clothed with the same rights, excepting, of course, such rights as individuals among them had legally forfeited by their own acts in the meantime. And we hereby declare that, so far as we can prevent it, the resumption of their proper places in the Union by those States, some of whose citizens were lately in rebellion, shall not be impeded or delayed by the unlawful interference of that faction at the North which was always hostile to the Union, which now pronounces it legally Jnion, which now pronounces it legall dissolved, and which is still malignant! dissolved, and which is shift manghanty laboring to prevent its restoration."

What would be the consequence of adopting the theory of Mr. Stevens and his radical friends? Huge standing armies would have to be kept up for many years; the national debt would be constantly and rapidly increased, while the South would be in no condition to aid in bearing its share of the expenses of the Government; taxation would be enormously greater than at present; and all this for the purpose of conferring the right of suffrage and eventual ferring the right of suffrage and eventual social equality upon the negro. Singular as it may sound we have the self-same party which, in 1861, demanded troops to whip the revolting States into the Union, demanding the aid of the troops now to keep them out. And to this doctrine the Republican party is fully committed.

Colonel Davis then proceeded to review the record of the Republican party on the negro suffrage question. He said: I take it for granted that no two antagonistic races can peaceably co-exist in the same country it for granted that no two antagonistic races can peaceably co-exist in the same country if there is once inaugurated between them a struggle for the political supremacy of one over the other. All history proves the truth of the assertion. In San Domingo revolutions have always been the order of the day. In Mexico the evils of the same thing are plainly to be seen. Colonel Davis here proceeded to read extracts from leading Republican newspapers and public speakers, which proved completely that, as a party, that political organization was fully committed to the odious doctrine of universal negro suffrage. Six States have lately indorsed the doctrine openly in their State Conventions. All New England favors it, and in the only one of the Yankee States where negroes are not now allowed to vote, where negroes are not now allowed to vote in Connecticut, an election is to be held in where negroes are not now allowed to vote, in Connecticut, an election is to be held in October for the purpose of deciding whether the word white shall not be stricken from the Constitution. In Pennsylvania the party dodged the question, but not so fairly as to free them from the imputation of favoring it. Already in six counties of this State the Republican party has boldly declared in favor of negro suffrage, while a majority of their newspapers in this State have indorsed the doctrine. Do we do the party any whong then when we charge them with being in favor of it? They know that the very existence of their party organization depends upon this scheme. Here in this State there would be a voting population of twelve thousand negroes; enough to turn the tide at every election. Are the white men of Pennsylvania prepared for this?

Col. Davis then proceeded to show that the leading men of the Republican party were as fully committed to the doctrine of negro equality as they were to that of negro sufferces.

as fully committed to the doctrine of negro equality as they were to that of negro suffrage. He read extracts from the speeches of leading men and from the editorials of leading republican newspapers, all going to show that this was part of the party creed. He instanced the bill passed by Congress and the bill passed by the Pennsylvania legislature of last winter, making it a penal offence to refuse to let negroes ride in the offence to refuse to let negroes ride in the same cars with white men, stating the fact same cars with winte men, same cars with winte men, same cars with winte men, standing to furnish cars exclusively for the use of the blacks. But this did not suit our modern Republican solons; fney were not satisfied with the enjoyment of the same conveniences by the negro to which the white man was entitled, but insisted that he should enjoy them side by side with the white man. Both these enactments were opposed by Democrats and forced through by an overwhelming Republican majority. When the Territory of Montana was organized last winter a Republican Congress deliberately struck the word white from the enabling act, thus fastening negro suffrage upon that territory. Last winter the Massachusetts Legislature passed a law making it a penal offence for any hotel keeper to make a distinction between a negro and a white man. If any of you should travel much in that State it might chance that you would be compelled to share your that the railroad companies were willing travel much in that State it might chance that you would be compelled to share your bed with a negro, unless you should prefer to fork over the sum of five dollars to enable the landlord to pay the fine imposed upon him for denying the negro the privilege of sleeping with you. It is even said that certain sharp negroes make a good thing of it in Boston, and elsewhere in Massachusetts, by going to first-class hotels and insisting upon taking a seat with the guests at the table, until they force the landlord to compromise by paying them two dollars compromise by paying them two dollars and a halt.

What further evidence is needed to prove that the Republican party is in favor not only of negro suffrage, but of entire negro equality? The one is an inevitable consequence of the other. The Freedmen's Bureau is another evidence of this. Who have beard of a bure institution being organever heard of a huge institution being organ-ized under the supervision and at the expense of the Government to take charge of the interests of white men. If a white man the interests of white men. If a white man desires to go to some distant point to seek work he pays his own expenses; while negroes, being a privileged class, are transported over the railroads at the expense of the Government. It is only a short time since several cars passed through Philadelphia filled with negroes, which were being sent at the public expense to find employment in Rhode Island. So it goes. The white man must take care of himself, while the negro is made the peculiar pet of the Government.

Colonel Davis concluded by reading the patriotic resolution offered by Mr. Crittenden, and unanimously adopted by Congress, declaring that the sole object of the war was the restoration of the Union. Under this, said he, it was that our soldiery went forth as willing volunteers. They did not go to confer peculiar privileges upon an inferior race, and they will not be found voting with a party which makes this the cardinal doctrine of its political faith.

We have given but an imperfect and foolde state of Colonel Davis' able speech.

feeble sketch of Colonel Davis' able speech. It was listened to with marked attention by the large audience, and was frequently interrupted by spontaneous outbursts of enthusiastic applause.

SPEECH OF COL. JOHN P. LINTON. After the applause had subsided Mayor Sanderson introduced Col. John P. Linton, the Democratic candidate for Surveyor Genaral to the audience. Col. Linton is quite a young man, with a fine form and open, nanly face. He evidently spoke under some embarassment, but he has a strong oice, a good delivery, and all the elements that go to make up a popular and efective speaker. He commenced by paying a very neatly turned compliment to Col

Davis, saying:

The distinguished gentleman who has just preceded me, I perceive, carries into political life the same characteristic for which he was noted as a soldier. As the boys say, "When he goes in" he makes such clean work of what is before him as to leave nothing to be done by the reserves. such clean work of what is before him as to leave nothing to be done by the reserves—besides, he has another decided advantage over me; every time he waves his right hand in a gesture the audience can see how he is stumping it. [This allusion to the shattered hand of Colonel Davis drew out a round of applause.] I never sought the nomination the Democratic State Convention can fit to confer upon me and when some saw fit to confer upon me, and when some enthusiastic friend telegraphed to me that I had been nominated for Surveyor General had been nominated for Surveyor General, I stuck the despatch in my pocket and said nothing about it, thinking it only a hoax. But when the news came in reliable shape I resolved to assume the responsibilities, but I did not then think I should be called when the make way a partial converse of the upon to make even a partial canvass of th Col. Linton went on to speak of the bold and unequivocal stand always taken by the Democratic party on every great question that came before the country. It never that came before the country. It never dodged a public issue, or tried to escape by a subterfuge from the respensibility attachto any of its public acts.

It always spoke out boldly and fearlessly. The platform recently adopted by the State Convention is of that character. It alludes in no ambiguous terms to the great rights that everywhere attach to the persons of freemen. Some might be disposed to call that everywhere attach to the persons of freemen. Some might be disposed to call these mere glittering generalities; and so in ordinary times they would seem in the platform of a political party. But not so are they now. Would that they were. Within the past four years what right of the individual citizen has been secure from violent assaults of arbitrary power? The writ of habeas corpus has been denied, and multitudes of unoffending men have been seized and thrown into prisons without form or warrant of law and without any charge ever being brought against them. Trial by jury has been denied, and one by one the being brought against them. Trial by jury has been denied, and one by one the bulwarks which our fathers reared to bulwarks which our fathers reared to protect us against the encroachments of tyradny have been swept away.—

The Democratic party has always resolutely opposed all such things, and it will in the future continue to maintain the rights of the people with the same vigilance as it has exercised in all the past.

But, continued Col. Linton, while these may be regarded by some as merely negative issues, there are important positive issues, there are important positive issues to be settled by the impending political contest. The position of the Republicans on these questions, is to say the least ambiguous. Colonel Linton went on to give a graphic sketch of the struggle at the time of the formation of the Constitution between the advocates of a Governthe time of the formation of the Constitu-tion between the advocates of a Govern-nient modeled after that of England and those who desired the adoption of a Repub-lican system. The Federal Government, founded on the Constitution of the United States, and deriving all its powers from that instrument was a wise compromise States, and deriving all its powers from that instrument, was a wise compromise between the two contending parties. Is it not strange that we should have the very same struggle over again after the lapse of so many years. It seems to me that a secessionist is one who runs to one extreme, while the republicans take the opposite. The one would make the Union of the States a mere rope of sand, while the other would destroy our republican institutions and erect upon their ruins a censtitutions and erect upon their ruins a ce stitutions and erect upon their ruins a car-tralized military despotism. Both are alike completely destructive of the Union. Our fathers made three departments of the gov-ernment, each independent in itself, the ex-ecutive, the legislative, and the judicial, and these the republican party would swallow up and merge in their proposed strong centralized government.

Col. Linton declined to enter upon a of Baltimore, which was to take place yesterelaborate argument upon the question on negro suffrage. This, said he, is now a mere war of opinions. If the white men o day. It was doubtless a magnificent affair. as every preparation had been made to this country do not at once assert their su premacy, it may become in the end a san guinary war of races, not to be ended except with the extinction of one or the other. He instanced the Mormon war as a case in point, Political parties pandered to them national debt would be constantly and for influence, and they as a separate and for influence, and they as a separate and distinct people were ready to cast a solid vote for that party which was most ready to grant them exclusive privileges. This in the end led to the war of which you have all read. He gave a most graphic picture of the evils which must necessarily result from conferring the right of suffrage upon the negro.—He closed with an eloquent appeal to the Democracy, urging them to activity and vigilance in the struggle in which we are now engaged.

low engaged. Throughout Col. Linton held his audience as eager listeners, and he was constantly interrupted by applause.

SPEECH OF HON. C. L. PERSHING. After Col. Linton had concluded, Hon Cyrus L. Pershing was introduced to the andience. Mr. Pershing protested against making a speech, but proceeded to make a most excellent one. He said: The Democratic party, it has been said by my friendlCol. Linton never dodges an issue and it presents to you in this contest candi-dates who would as little think of dodging dates who would as little think of dodging any responsibility, as they did of dodging rebel bullets on the battle-field. Col. Davis I have long known by reputation and Colonel Linton was my student and law partner. Of course I know him, and I tell you that a braver or a truer heart never beat in any human bosom. I disagree with him in one assertion He said the offices to be filled were not im The office for which he is a candidate, and to which I am confident he will be elected, is a highly important one. You had better have a corrupt Governor than a corrupt Auditor General. There are corporations in this State which could afford to give him a this State which could afford to give him princely fortune for merely shutting princely fortune for merely shutting his eyes.

Mr. Pershing proceeded to expose some of the lies of the Republican party by which they had constantly striven to embitter the soldiers against the Democratic party. He stated that the very first resolution, thanking our soldiers for their gallantry, was introduced into the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania by himself, after the battle of Fort Donelson. The very first resoluof Pennsylvania by himself, after the battle of Fort Donelson. The very first resolution asking Congress to increase the pay of the soldiers was introduced by a Democrat, Mr. Alexander, of Clarien. The Republican majority referred it to a committee. It came back emasculated. Mr. Myers, of Bedford, a Democrat, moved to make it one dollar a day. That proposition was voted down by the Republican majority, who would pass no resolution majority, who would pass no res fixing any higher amount than that alread determined by Congress, which was just thirteen dollars a month. After striving in determined by Congress, which was just thirteen dollars at month. After striving in vain to get a definite sum inserted, the Democrats, finding they could do no better for the soldier, all voted for the miserable bill prepared by a Republican committee. A great noise has been made about the opposition of the Democratic party to the soldiers voting. All this, too, has been a tissue of glaring falsehoods. The law allowing Pennsylvania soldiers to vote in the field is very old. It existed on our statute books for many years. Under David R. Porter, a Democratic Governor, it was reenacted by a Democratic Legislature, and the regiment of Colonel Davis no doubt voted in Mexico under that law. The vote was strongly Democratic, but the returns did not reach here in time to be counted. Thus the law stood in 1861. The Pennsylvania soldiers again voted in the field under the old law, which, if it had any political proporter, was a Democratic massure. old law, which, if it had any politica old law, which, if it had any political parentage, was a Democratic measure.—Again the returns were in favor of the Democracy. By the vote of the Philadelphia soldiers a Democratic Sheriff and a Democratic Register of Wills for that city were elected. Then the Republican papers, the Evening Bulletin, Forney's Press and others, denounced the law as unconstitutional, and Republican election officers undertook to chest Democrats out of their election by recheat Democrats out of their election by re-fusing to count the votes cast by the Phila-delphia soldiers for Register of Wills and delphia soldiers for Register of Wills and for Sheriff. This they persisted in until Judge Ludlow informed them that they might refuse to count the soldiers vote at their peril. Then, when forced to do so, they admitted the soldier vote and the democrats were declared elected. In the meantime another contest had arizen in Luzerne county, where Judge Cunningham had declared the law to be unconstitutional. Both cases were taken to the Supreme Court. had declared the law to be unconstitutional. Both cases were taken to the Supreme Court. Had Judge Woodward been influenced by any but the purest motives, he might have given such a decision as would have secured the highly lucrative offices of Sheriff and Register of Wills of Philadelphia to his own party friends rather than to their opponents. The bill amending the Constitution of the State, so as to allow soldiers to vote, had its origin in a Democratic House and a Democratic committee. I was on it myself. Democratic committee. I was on it myself bemocratic committee. I was on it in year, being that the public expense to find employment in Rhode Island. So it goes. The white man must take care of himself, while the negro is made the peculiar pet of the Government.

Colonel Davis concluded by reading the particitic resolution offered by Mr. Critten-the particitic resolution offered by Mr. Critten-the property of the particitic resolution offered by Mr. Critten-the property of the prope hope is in subterfuges and falsehood. Las fall we gave you as gallant a soldier as live as our candidate for President; this yea in Pennsylvania we have as our stawo as brave soldiers as ever went forth to They bear on their bodies numer ous honorable scars to attest their devotion o the Union.

That they will be triumphantly elected

That they will be triumphantly elected I verily believe. Men are beginning to think for themselves and to talk out. Every where we hear of gratifying changes. The Democratic party is full of vigor and activity, while its opponents are divided and only kept together by the cohesive power of public plunder. The signs of the times are most cheering. From all parts of the State we hear a good report. The principles of the Democratic party are the hope of the country and it will yet gloriously triumph. It still stands firm and immovable.

"Like some tall clift, whose awful form,

Like some tall cliff, whose awful form, Swells from the vale, and midway leaves the storm;
Though round its base, dark, rolling clouds are spread, Eternal sunshine settles on its head." The audience were delighted with the admirable speech of Mr. Pershing, to which we cannot pretend to do justice in this mea ere report, and he was frequently inter upted by enthusiastic outbursts of applause At the conclusion of Mr. Pershing's peech the meeting adjourned with a round of cheers for our gallant standard bearer.

THE ()DD FELLOWS' CELEBRATION AT BALTIMORE.-We merely made mention resterday of the return of the delegations the Odd Fellows' Lodges of this city from the great celebration of the Order at Baltinore. It was the grandest affair of the kind ver witnessed in the United States, and those who participated in it from this city ever expect to look upon its like again. Our Lancaster Odd Fellows are in ecstaries over their visit, and will never forget the hospitality of the citizens of the Monu mental City.

On Tuesday evening Lancaster and Mon terey Lodges and Washington Encampnent of this city, accompanied by the splendid City Cornet Band, complimented the Grand Sire of the Order in the United States with a serenade at Barnum's Hotel, The Baltimore American of Wednesday hus speaks of it:

Last evening the Grand Sire of the I. O F. and other dignitaries, were serenade at Barnum's by the fine City Corne Band of Lancaster, in the presence of a large audience of Odd Fellows grthered from all nates of the Union, South as well as North.
Speeches were delivered by Representatives Hill, of California, Ford, of Massachusetts, Hill, of California, Ford, of Massachusetts, R. A. Lamberton, of Pennsylvania, and Burnham, of Maine. All the addresses bore on the reunion of the Order and its significance. Just on the crushing of the rebellion followed the union of the Order and that union was, without doubt, prome ive of the firm reunion of the States. I he Grand Lodge that day everything ha assed off harmoniously between the dele rates from the South and North. "It was gates from the South and North. "It was a love-feast," fervently ejaculated one of the speakers. All differences were forgotten; all prejudices dead; all the burden of trouble and blood lifted from their shoulders, and they came together as brothers.—The sentiments, especially those embodying patriotic and conciliatory ideas, were loudly applauded; at the conclusion of the serenade the assembly sang an ode with the band as an orchestra, and then quickly dispersed. Quite a reunion, practically, was persed. Quite a reunion, practically, was had in one of the rooms of the hotel, where had in one of the rooms of the hotel, where the delegates met in a social way and toasts and sentiments cemented the friendly and brotherly feelings already engendered as one of the principles of the Order and strengthened by the associations of the past two days. Congratulations were exchanged over the happy, results attained in the new reunion made during the day and new hopes sprung up, with a glance over the auspicious future.

The grand parade and dedication of the monument to the lamented Wildey, the founder of the Order in the United States, took place on Wednesday. The procession was over two hours in passing any given point. The Lancaster brethren were assigned prominent positions in the line. The American has the following notice of Monterev Lodge of this city:

A feature of the display of this Lodge were the little boys who walked between the band and the delegation, dressed from top to toe in the old Continental uniform. The little fellows trudged along bravely, and seemed to feel highly honored by the distinguished marks they made for obs A great many of the Lancaster brethren remained behind to participate in the grand bonquet to be given by the city authorities

CAUTION TO GUNNERS Mr. Jacob Myers residing in Manheim township, near this city, has, within the last month, had two young steers and a heifer shot by gunner carelessly shooting among his cattle. The Stopes have died and the helfer in all nrohability will. Mr. Myers has never interfere with persons gunning on his premises, and such carelessness is rotally inexcusable and serves the severest punishment.

NEW FRACTIONAL CURRENCY,-Theney ten cent fractional currency has been put in circulation and is an improvement on the old issue. The pieces are a little larger than theold tens, and shorter than twenty five cent slips. Upon the face is a medi lion head of Washington, with a factory chimney and a ship's rigging on either side and a figure "10" in gilt in four places. The back is of a red color, and the figure '10" in large gilt. They are printed on bank note paper, and promise to be more durable than the present currency.
