In view, then, fellow citizens, of the tendencies of the doctrines of the opposition, so subversive of the government and of the objects for which this war was begun, what is our duty? In the first place we must be true to the grand principle of liberty—must never rget what we have been, and what is before us. By our example in 1776, we revived liberty throughout the earth. tascended the Andes, awakened France and taught Italy and Greece the lessons of their better days. It inspired Kosciusko, La Fayette, Emmett, Kossuth and Bolivar. May their example not be lost upon us. But what, you ask, if our liberties be threatened? I point to his tory. When King John attempted to destroy British liberty, the grim barons on June 15, 1215 assembled at Runny mede and extorted Magna Charta, and compelled their king to give them the Tower and city of London as security, and as often as their liberties were in aded would they re-enact their great charter—had it read twice a year to the people and fulminated excommunications against all such as disobeyed it. Section 46 said: "Nulli vendemus, nulli negabinus aut differenus, rectus vel justitiam." "We will sell to no met will not deny or delay to any man right or justice. German Emigration. A wonderful stimulus has been imparted to emigration from Germany since the close of the war. It appears that the facilities for transporting to this country the number of people who are attracted hither by the prosperous future in store for the United States is entirely inadequate to the demand. We learn from our Berlin correspondent that two new steamers are being built in Glasgow for the Bremen Lloyd's line to New York, which will make seven large steam vessels on this line. The amburg and New York Company will in future run one of their seven steamers regularly each week. The competition between these direct German I and the Southampton steamers has these direct German lines sulted in a considerable reduction of fare on both lines. From all the projects now in contemplation it would appear that the tonnage of steam vessels ing between the United States and Enrope will amount to a million of tons.

The emigration of Germans will prov a great benefit to this country in the present crisis. A "Loyal" Magnate Fallen --- Reverend Colonel Jacques in Jall for Procuring an Abortion.

From the Louisville Press, Sept. 25.)
The fall of such a man as Col. Jacques is sufficient to arouse the sorrow of every man who knows the former worth of the gallant Jacques. He was one of the first and most influential of the Methodist denomination in Illinois. When that body established a female educa-tional school in Jacksonville he was placed in charge of it. He managed it with such talent and success that when a greater educational enterprise was projected he was transferred to it. He vas engaged in this when the rebellion Colonel Jacques was a man of intense loyalty, of commanding influence, and of great oratorical ability. He took the field in behalf of the Union, and speedily raised one of the finest regiments that Illinois gave to the service of the Union. It was called the preachers' regiment, on account of the umber of preachers enlisted in it. Of this regiment Jacques was made Colonel, and he served with great distinc-

During the progress of the war Colonel Jacques had numerous conferences with Bishop Simpson, and both were wellsatisfied that if a Methodist of proper position in the North could get among the Southern Methodists much might be done toward crippling the re-bellion. This mission Colonel Jacques undertook with the approval of Bishop Simpson and of Mr. Lincoln. Col. Jacques bravely met the peril, and traveled extensively among the Southern Methodists. He returned just before the battle of Chickamauga, and took a conspicuous part in the battle.

Col. Jacques was the companion of Mr. Gilmore in a visit to Richmond for an interview with Jeff. Davis, in which mission they succeeded. The visit was intended to bring about peace.

The Colonel has recently been detailed for breaking up the negro camps, such as Camp Nelson. This is the cause of his presence in Kentucky.

On Friday last Col. Jacques employed a fellow calling himself Dr. H. G. Miller to procure abortion in the case of a Georgia woman. The Colonel was present during the tragedy, and was arsted with the female abortionists, at whose house the murder was perpetrated, and with Miller, the abortionist the murderer of innocents. The victim died in about eight hours after Miller commenced his depredations. whole party were arrested in Haurant deticto, and are now in jail, the coroner's inquest having confirmed all the suspicions that led to the interference of the police. Mr. Turner, the policeman, saw signs of the outrage in progress, and made his preparations for ar resting the guilty parties, in which, as we have said, he succeeded. We do not rejoice in iniquity, and we cannot but drop tears of sorrows over the fall of such a man as Col. Jacques.

Meeting at the Court House-Kilpatrick Kept too Busy in Jersey to Make a Raid into Lancaster County—A Timorous Pleading Speech from His Excellency Pleading Speech from his Exercises, Andrew G. Curtin—A Characteristic Speech from a Negroes' Lawyer of Bal-timore—A Few Silly Remarks from a Very Nice Looking Young Man from Philadelphia – Benediction by John

Cessna. Last evening the Court House bell rung, ike a tocsin sounding a last alarm, at short intervals from dusk until eight o'clock, while the Cit▼ Cornet Band blew its loudest notes from the steps of the building. The word had gone forth that Gen. Kilpatrick, a soldier of renown, who is drawing a salary of some eight thousand dollars a year, while he has no more warlike occupation than making very windy stump speeches in New Jersey, would then and there make a raid on the Democracy of Pennsylvania. A good many Democrats went to see if they could stand the fury of the onslaught, while a respectable number of Republicans gathered to witness the encounter. But the hero of warlike renown came not. From all accounts he has fully as much as he can attend to at home. Here was a very bad hitch. But Governor Curtin had arrived, and had thus saved John Cessna from the necessity of doing what he threatened to do in the afternoon, from taking the first train out of the city, and leaving the meeting to the king, to disobey it. Later still, our own fathers, for causes set out in that indictment, the Declaration of Indetake care of itself. Accordingly the Governor was introduced as the first speaker. We must do Governor Curtin the justice appealed to the God of battles. So long of saving that he neither made a blackguard nor a fool of himself, and when we say that we think we rank him above most of the public speakers who have been traveling as itinerant lecturers for his party during the last five years. He did not make a great party—the only national one now in existence. It had its origin with the but it was about as good and on its asset of the contraction of the contr as we had any cause to expect from him. that Government is no more. Our He thanked the people of Lancaster county country is still on the verge of ruin for their support in the past, as he was in for their support in the past, as he was in duty bound to do. Babyion existed 1,600 years. heard from her, up at his home in Centre county, he told his friends "to go in," that he was elected. He did not attempt in any part of his speech to touch the vital issues of the campaign. He had he could enjoy equal advantages with the not a word to say in regard to the policy of President Johnson, but he praised him, and semed to fear while he denied any such apprehension, that the Democracy might rglariously enter the White House and arry off that sacred personage. Throughut his speech he repeatedly returned to this thought, thus showing how his mind | influence operating upon Andy Johnson was exercised in reference to the matter .-The question of negro suffrage he never mentioned. He left that alone very severe-He had much to say of the danger of epudiation, but he avowed his unwillingness to charge any such design upon the Democratic party. Indeed, he grew quite complimentary to the Democratic party in one part of his speech and eulogized its pas history very highly. He said, however, that he thought the Republican party has bsorbed the brains and the loyalty of that organization. As an instance, he pointed John Cessna. His allusions to poor John's attempt to become the nominee of the Democracy for Governor ought, however, to have been omitted, out of pity, if not out of respect. We pitied the poor little renegade as Curtin put him on the rack and testured him in public. It was a specimen of refined cruelty not offe qualled, but we presume the Governor did not think of the agonies endured by the vretched victim of his thoughtlessly ironied enlory Poor pitiful little scamp infliction. The Governor had, however, scarcely ended what was really quite a fine ly executed eulogy of the Democratic party, until he proceeded to make a charge against it of most glaring falsity. He had the audacity to assert that comparatively few of those who went into the ranks of the army vere Democrats. That was false as any charge could be. We venture the assertion that if the records of Lancaster county could be searched, it would be found that a maority of those who volunteered, even in this inning, the middle and the end of it. The tovernor is evidently alarmed at the condition of the party in Pennsylvania. He and been stumping it some, but had evilently met with little to encourage him. It was plain to be seen that he feared for the result of the coming election. His appeal to the party to come up to the help of "shoddy" and negro suffrage against the Democracy were entreatingly earnest. We venture the assertion that every shrewd Republican in the audience was convinced by the Governor's speech that the ascendency of th party was nearly at an end in Pennsylvania, about to be broken in the coming elec on, and to expire forever on the retiremen of his Excellency from office. So let it be even as Governor Curtin has forshadowed hat it will be. As we have said, the speech did not touch, even remotely, upon the great ssues of the day. It was in this respect far beneath the requirements of the occasion.

The next speaker introduced to the audice was R.Stockett Matthews.of Baltimore This fellow played the part both of blackguard and fool to perfection, and of course there were those present who were enraptured with his performance. He suited their mental calibre exactly, and his style was what they have been taught during the last four years to regard as proper and legitimate in the public speakers of their party. He never attempted to make an ar gument ; perhaps because he had none to make, perhaps because he knew how much better his audience would relish billingsgate and ribaldry. We were at a loss for some ime to tell where the foul-mouthed fellow had gathered so extensive an assortment of fish market slang. The secret came out after a while though, when he announced that his practice as a lawyer was chiefly conined to the negro criminals of Baltimore City. It was in intimate association with eriod with that charmed word at the be-

so freely last evening. Once this fact had been ascertained by his wn boasting admission, we had no diffianty in accounting for his intense hatred of the white men of his own section, and of the Democratic party. It was only natural that ne should wish to extend the influence and crease the power of that class of the comnumity with whom he associated most inmately, and upon whom he depended for living; and of course but natural that he should be closely allied to that political oranization which has in many ways shown is readiness to advance the interests of the negro at the expense of the white race.

He startled the Republicans of the audi-clients of that class that he had gathered the ace, in the very commencement of his speech, by telling them in plain terms that hey were nothing but a set of miserable sniveling political hypocrites, that they had ot a spark of honesty in platform, that they were cowardly ime-servers and not true men, that they had no manhood about them or in them, that they tried to carry elections by shirking the real vital issues of the day, that these chargas were all true and that they knew it. Such a blank look of amazement and such evi lences of alarm as marked the countenances of the leaders about the stand we hardly ever saw. There was an opening of eyes and a lifting up of ears as he proceeded to announce his belief in the doctrine of entire equality between white and black, and his perfect willingness that any negro might take his place, not only along side of him, but in advance of him if he could manage This was taking high ground, not perhaps, in advance of those present, but ahead of their expressed opinions, and there were some ominous shakings of leading heads. Still, there were those who applauded these utterances. Throughout his whole speech he continued to show the bitterest hatred for a large majority of the white men of his own State, and a very decided preference for the negro, and yet so long as he railed at these white men. because they were Democrats.

he found plenty of white men in the audience sufficiently debased by partisan preudice to applaud any and every blackguard

expression he saw fit to use. He said he did not agree with the gentle man who preceded him. He never could ee anything about the Democratic party to entitle it to credit. It had always been everything that was despicable and vile, and its leaders from Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson down to James Buchana had always been-well we could not begin to repeat what he said of them. There was not a foul image to be gathered from among the negro stews of Baltimore, or a filthy epithet to be picked up among his negre clients which did not seem quite at home it his mouth. His attack upon Mr. Buchana was so wretchedly low and vulgar that even the bitterest Republicans held down their heads, while some involuntarily muttored "shame" During his indiscriminate abuse of the Democratic party throughout its whole existence, we kept an eve on the little renegade, John Cessna, who is in the habit of prefacing all his speeches with a highly wrought eulogy upon the Democratic party as it existed until he left it in 1864 How he did writhe and twist, and squirm in his seat; how incessantly he annointed hi lips with some substance taken from a little tin box which he constantly reproduced from his vest pocket. He was evidently suffering extreme torture, vet through it all he had to smile and smile, and look delighted. We never saw smiles so ghastly They resembled the grin of a galvanized corpse. Poor little wretch! looked to be what he was, an object to be pitied. During the course of his remarks the Speaker offered a gross insult to Governor Curtin. He said Northern trimming politicians might come there and talk nam by pamby and shilly shally and thin soup, but he meant to speak out what he believed This rude personal allusion to the Governor brought an indignant flash to his face, and he looked annoyed. One of his friends no ticing this stepped up and whispered a word in his ear. The Governor thereupon left, we hope, to be more pleasantly entertained. At all events he seemed glad to get out of reach of the Baltimore blackguard's voice, and returned no more. The orator took occasion at this point to hector his political friends again. He told them that they threw up their caps and shouted over the freedom of the negro, when they knew that they lied in their throats: that the negro was not yet free. that he could not and would not be free until he was placed in a position where white man. He then proceeded to attack the reconstruction policy of President Johnson with vindictive bitterness. He had n patience with it. He wanted to see rebels hung. He wanted Jeff, Davis hung, and he wanted Robert E. Lee hung, though he feared the Democratic would prevent him from ever beholding the execution of the latter, which would b the grandest consummation of civilization He declared that the policy of the President if persisted in, must necessarily undo the Republican party forever and give power again into the hands of the Democracy Ie hated them and he hated the men of the South. He knew these Southerners; and he knew them to be a whiskey-drinking, card-playing, horse-racing, cock-fightingand he would say more if there were no ladies present. At this point, fearing no doubt to stay longer, most of the ladies who had remained made a unanimous bolt for the doors. We are glad to say that they looked perfectly disgusted. A few with stronger nerves and a greater love for what was really no longer decent still clung to their seats. Their presence, no doubt, act as some restraint on the vulgarity of this consummate blackguard. He finally wound up by telling the Republicans that if they let the Democrats get power in Pennsylvaia again that they deserved to be damned to the lowest depths of perdition which humanity was capable of reaching. Such an exhibition of indecency, of bare-faced lying, of low blackguardism, of utter profanity, of all that is low, mean and vindic tive we hope never to witness again. The speech did the party harm. It convin o man, and could not have failed to dis gust even any decent Republican.

The next speaker introduced to the audi ence, was a dapper little specimen of humanity from Philadelphia, by the name of Soforth. He had raven locks, very nicely alled and exclude and a most elaborately ultivated moustache. It was evident first sight that there was too much care bestowed on the outside of his head to expec nuch from the inside. He said there were candidates before the people to be noticed, and he proceeded without further ado make an assault upon Wm. A. Wallace who is not a candidate at all. He falsified the Legislative Record, and made a few stammering false assertions, but the audi ence soon concluded, as we did, that ther was nothing in him. They began to break for the door. He appealed to them to stay nd hear him, but they "couldn't see it." He broke off from his dissertation on ien, abandoned his disposition to quote Carlisle, and attempted a few remarks on the issues. With a tremendous flourish he nnounced his belief that a black man it lue coat and brass buttons was better entitled to suffrage than any Dutch, Irish or English traitor present. Even this grand climax would not do, the audience still beating a retreat; and so he proceeded to escend from the tragic to the comic. He told the old story of Betsy and the bear. with variations, and varied it so badly as to take all the fun out of it. The audience vere now nearly gone, and those left were apidly stampeding. With a look of inef-fable disgust, the fancy youth thereupon subsided-taking care, first, to introduce John Cessna, who had been figuring before them all evening, to the slim crowd left. We have no doubt Johnny would like to have made a speech, but he knew himself oo well to trust to any effort to hold even the dozen or two who still lingered, with he screeching tones of his cracked voice He accordingly pronounced the meeting ad ourned, and looked like one relieved from npleasant duty in a disagreeable situation So ended a meeting in which it was made vident that the Republican party is hopeessly distracted and divided, that it has no vital principles left except that of negro suffrage, that it is in the very agonies of political dissolution, and without hope of carrying Pennsylvania in the coming elec tion. The meeting made votes for the Dem ocratic party. ery choice vocabulary which he ventilated LANCASTER HORSE MARKET, MONDAY OCTORER 2d. 1865.—The arrivals and sales during the past week have been unusually was celebrated by the Israelites, all over the world-it being the tenth day of Tishree, or day of Atonement. It is considered the bo liest day of the year, and is set apart entirely for fasting, prayer and repentance, as it is related in the Bible: On the tenth day of the Seventh month, is the day of Atonement; it shall be a day of holy convocation and ye shall afflict your souls (by fasting: ve shall do no work on that day, for it is a day of Atonement, on which you shall be pardoned by the Eternal, your God! While the Israelites were in their own land worshipping at the altar of their temple, and in strict accordance with the rites die tated by their God, through Moses. His servant, the service of the day was grand and splendid; it was the only day thr out the year on which even the Kohen Ha gapel (the High Priest) presumed to enter he most holy sanctuary of the temple, and pronounce the venerated and dreaded ame of the Deity, which at any other time it was unlawful for him to utter. The glories of this great day while it was still celebrated in the place "which the Lord had chosen, there to Enthrone His name," are commorated in the service of the language. The pious Israelite approaches this day with mingled feelings of holy awe and beatitude. The Jews of our city observed the occasion strictly and entirely suspended

LUCKY ESCAPE.—On Thursday last, young lad named Frederick H. Williams. residing in Vine street, this city, jumped on board of a freight train at the depot with the intention of riding out to Dillerville and getting off there. It so happened, however, that the train did not stop, and the lad, not wishing to go to the next station, endeavor ed to jump off. In the attempt his feet slip ped and he was pitched off, and being caught by his clothing was dragged a short distance over the stones between the two tracks. His face, head and other parts of the body were seriously cut and bruised, and one of his ears was almost cut off. We saw him this morning, and his face presented a sad picture, hardly human. The practice of jumping on freight trains by boys and men is largely indulged in, and is a very dangerous one, and we are often astonished that more accidents do not occur.

Accident.—Col. James Humphrey, of was standing with one foot on the cars and the other on the plank landing heading off the cattle: he may have been struck or wished by one of the cattle, for he fell back such a manner as to produce insensibility, rom which he had not recovered, when our morrough left are her covered, when our yards, some six feet, striking his head in imformant left—an hour afterwards Chester Jeffersonian. ROBBERY.-Mr. A. C. Brindley, whose arrival with a number of valuable horses we noticed last week, while on his way from this city to Cadiz. Ohio, was robbed of $1,900 in greenbacks, which he had tied up in a package and carried in a pocket on the inside of his vest. He had disposed of his horses to Mr. D. M. Sharp, who advised him to take drafts on New York banks in payment. He accepted a draft for $1,000 which, being in another pocket, escaped the thief, and too late saw his error in no taking entirely the friendly advice offered. He had made rather a display of his money while here, and, it is generally presumed was followed by some of the sharpers lying about this city. LANCASTER GRAIN MARKET, MONDAY October 2, 1865: Family flour, 3 bar. amny nout, to the state of the Extra. Wheat (red)... Rye.....do Whiskey, per gallon.

LARGE BLACK-SNAKE KILLED .- On Saturday afternoon last, while Mr. Jacob Myers and several others were at work along the railroad, near the village of Bird-in Hand, a large blacksnake 4 feet, 8 inches long, was seen making its way across one of the tracks which they succeeded in killing after some difficulty. This is the first snake of the species, that has been seen or known in that vicinity, and is supposed to have been conveyed there in a car-load of bark, forwarded from some of the western ounties the day before.
