THE MARCH OF IMPROVEMENT.—Slowly but surely our city is moving forward in We paid a the march of improvement. visit this morning to the new Carriage Factory of Messrs. Jacob Zecher & Sons, on North Queen street. The main building. which has taken the place of the old frame structure, is built of brick, has a front of 64 feet and a depth of 40 feet. The back buildings extend to the alley, a distance of 245 feet. In the basement of the main building is a furnace for the purpose of heating it and the adjoining back building. The smith-shop, which is most conveniently arranged, is also in the basement. On the first floor is a ware-room, finishing room and the office. The principal warerooms are on the second and third floors. The carriages, &c., will be shifted from the different floors by means of a hoisting machine. The building is erected in the mossubstantial manner, and has all the modern improvements. It certainly adds much to the appearance of the upper part of North Oneen street. It was built by Mr. Peter Stormfeltz. The Messrs. Zecher have their hands full in filling orders. In the warerooms we noticed an elegant family carriage, built for Patrick McEvoy, Esq., and also a neat shifting-top buggy, which weighs only 250 pounds, built for a gentleman in Chester county. They are both finished in the best style, and prove the excellence of the work turned out by this es

A REVOLUTION. By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that Dr. Hartman will give a public exhibition of the wonderful power of his Patent Safety Bridle and Lines on the 4th of November next. This will doubtless be one of the most exciting scenes ever witnessed in the horse line in this county. Every one has heard of Rarev's success in subduing the most vicious horses by tying up a leg or otherwise hobbling him; but this required an active, daring horseman, and also hours and days to succeed. But few have been able to Rareyize the horse, while Dr. Hartman, with his simple bridle, will at once of kicking or running with very little more trouble than with a gentle family horse; and it is claimed that every one will be convinced on first sight that a boy of ten years can drive the worst horse with more afety than the strongest man with a common bridle the most gentle one. If the Doctor succeeds in accomplishing what he asserts, which no doubt he will, it will at once take the place of our old and universally used bridle.

HIGH PRICES.—These are the subjects of almost universal and perplexing complaints. The dissatisfaction is not limited to condition, calling or ability to pay, nor to youth, age or sex; the prosperous and he man or woman of hard luck are found to alike complain. And what is most cu rious to observe, every special order of complainers seem to think they have more immediate cause for finding fault than any of the others. The man who is drawing his net profits by scores of thousands com plains just as loudly as he who is reeiving his income from Government bonds at the rate of seven and three-tenths, free from all taxation. In the name of justice and the imperious demands for a quantum sufficit of bread and potatoes, to say noth ing of a natural hankering after roast beef what are they to do, whose income arises from the prices paul for daily toil, or keeping boarders with butter at fifty cents a pound and flour at eleven dollars per barrel? Secretary McCulloch's remedy, by funding greenbacks, seems like a slow process for furnishing relief. In the meantime, what shall old-fashioned people who are ac customed to eat make up their minds to do? A friend at our elbow suggests, working with zeal for the success of the Demo-

Johnston, of the Swan Hotel, under the auspices of Ee shah-ko-nee Tribe. The entertainment was protracted until a late hour, and the interludes were filled up with speech, song and sentiment. Some five hundred "red skins" partook of the feast, and the visiting brethren separated with the kindest feelings, and the best possible opinion of their entertaining hosts.

How to Make Corn Bread,-The Louisville Journal publishes the following recipe how to make corn bread.

Corn Bread.—The corn crop the present year is one of almost unexampled abundance Other crops in some parts of the country have been comparatively light, but the corn crop has almost everywhere turned out bountiful. There will be corn in the land, therefore, enough for man and beast. We shall have corn bread, consequently, provided we can keep on the right side of the cooks and get them to make it, which if it is properly made—and upon this everything depends—is the best, most spalatable, and wholesome bread that can be placed upon the table. It requires some skill, considerable art to make it well, and the absence of this in its manufacture is the real reason why many persons fail to appreciate properly corn the white sweet—to make good corn bread and the meal should be fresh every day or two. Then it requires an egg and a little milk and some other fixings. A little sweet potato improves it, and perhaps a small quantity of flour also. We have eaten it when it has been voted by all at the table equal to pound-cake, and a good deal lighter. The real merits of corn bread are not generally appreciated, because it is so often badly made and made out of noor. Corn Bread.—The corn crop the present manufacture is the real reason why many persons fail to appreciate properly corn bread. It requires the proper kind of corn—the white sweet—to make good corn bread and the meal should be fresh every day or two. Then it requires an egg and a little milk and some other fixings. The real merits of corn bread are not generally appreciated, because it is so often badly made and made out of poor materials. If some lady will send us a recipe for making it we shall be happy to lay it before the public.

A WANT THAT SHOULD BE SUPPLIED. There is hardly a day passes over our heads but what we hear one or more inquiries tor vacant houses, by persons desiring to become residents of Lancaster. With the enterprise and capital centered in our city this should not be. Business men should see to it that this great demand should be supplied, for with the more families that more dwellings would bring, more business would certainly flow in upon us. Who, that have the greenbacks lying by, will come to the rescue? Just try the experiment by erecting one hundred new houses, and see if it don't pay.

LADIES' WATERFALLS NOTHING NEW. It will be seen from the following that the style in which the ladies now wear their hair, called "waterfalls," or "cataracts," is no new thing, but an old Roman fashion re-

BEAR THIS IN MIND .--- When you are about a railroad station or depot, where rains of cars are standing on the track, es pecially when they have locomotives to them ever stand on the track either in front or in the rear of the train: for, when you leas think of it, the cars may suddenly move and strike you, and when they hit you they are sure to knock you down and move over ou. Always stand aside the track under all circumstances. The most dangerous place to stand is on the track in the rear end the train. Cars are very deceptive to persons who do not understand the philosophy of momentum. A train may seem to move very slowly, yet owing to its great eight it moves with force. A train of car also very often makes but little noise in starting, and, unless one pays especial at tention to it, he may, before he is aware of its moving, be run over and lose his life.

THE LATE COL. BUTLER AND WIFE.—The Lewistown True Democrat of this week ontains the following notice of the late Col, William Butler and wife, two of the nfortunate victims of the recent railroad disaster near this city: Lewistown probably never before re ceived so terrible a shock, as when, on last Saturday night, the news arrived by tele-graph, that Col. Wm. Butler and wife, two graph, that Col. Wm. Butler and wife, two of our most prominent and respected citizens had met their death in a railroad accident near Lancaster. The first telegram announcing the disaster arrived at about 10 o'clock of that night, and immediately our citizens were aroused, and offering condolence to the afflicted family. The couple left here on board the ill-fated train at 11 o'clock in the morning and at the time of o'clock in the morning, and at the time of the accident were seated in company with Win. H. Butler, a cousin of the Colonel's, and the three were killed togeth-er. The accident was caused, we believe, by the front truck becoming detuch-ed from the car, (some say the broaking of an axle,; the car itself being rent in twain, dropping the fatal party down upon the track, bruising and mangling them in a tero'clock in the morning, and at the time of dropping the fatal party down upon the track, bruising and mangling them in a terrible manner no doubt causing instant death, the three being dead when taken from the ruins. The Colonel has been a life long citizen of this town, and always took a prominent part in public affairs. He was a leading politician in the Republican party, and at the time of his death held the position of whiskey inspector at Philadelphia. He was a gentleman universally esteemed throughout the country and State. His age was about 55 years. About 15 years ago he lost a leg by b. ing thrown from a buggy. Mrs. Mary b. ing thrown from a buggy, Mrs. Mary Butler, his wife, was a generous, amiable woman, and beloved by all who knew her. In the immediate vicinity of her residence

In the immediate vicinity of her residence, her death will be particularly felt. She was a kind neighbor, and with her ever ready jest and smile was the very lite of the neighborhood. Her age was about 31 years. Seven children, one married, are left orphans by this sad calamity.

The bodies of the deceased were brought home early on Monday morning, and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the funeral ceremonies took place, the bodies being placed side by side, in one grave, in the Episcopal Cemetery. As a mark of respect for the deceased all places of business were closed at the hour of their interment, and the remains were followed to the grave by a large concourse of people.

DEATH OF DAY WOOD, Eso.-Day Wood. Esq., a member elect to the next Legislaure, and also a member from this county, died at his residence, in Fulton township, n Thursday, of typhoid fever. His funeral will take place to-day. He was a prominent and influential citizen of the southern part of the county.

The death of Mr. Wood will necessitate the holding of another election to fill the vacancy, ished with great gusto by newspaper men everywhere:

Once in August, wet and dreary, sat this writer, weak and weary, pondering o'er a memorandum book of items used before memorandum book of items used before—book of scrawling head-notes; rather—items, taking days to gather them in hot and sultry weather (using up much time and leather), pondered we these items o'er. While we com'd them, slowly rocking 'through our mind queer ideas flocking), Mame a quick and nervous knocking—knocking at the sanctum door. "Sure, that must be Jinks," we muttered—"Jinks that's knocking at order in the sanctum door." Jinks," we muttered—"Jinks that's knocking at our door; Jinks, the everlasting bore."

Ah, well do we remind us, in the walls which then confined us, the "exchanges" lay behind us, and before us, and around us, all o'er the floor. Thinks we "Jinks wants to borrow some newspapers till tomorow, and 'twill be relief from sorrow to get rid of Jinks, the bore, by opening wide the door." Still the visitor kept knocking—knocking louder than before.

And the scattered piles of papers cut some —knocking louder than before.

And the scattered piles of papers cut some rather curious capers, being lifted by the breezes coming through another door; and we wished (the wish was evil, for one deemed always civil) that Jinks was at the d—l, to stay there evermore; there to find his level—Jinks, the nerve-unstringing bore! Bracing up our patience firmer, then, without another murmur: "Mr. Jinks, your pardon, your forgiveness we implore. But, the fact is, we were reading of some curious proceeding, and thus it was, unheading your loud knocking there before— Here we opened wide the door.— But phancy, now, our pheelinks—for it wasn't Jinks, the bore—Jinks, nameless evermore!

"Now, it's time you were departing, you scamp!" cried we, upstarting; "get you "Now, it's time you were departing, you scamp!" cried we, upstarting; "get you back into the office—office where you were before—or the words which you have spoken will get your bones all broken" (and we seized a cudgel, oaken, that was lying on the floor). "Take your hands out of your pockets, and leave the sanctum door; tel the foreman there is no copy, you ugly little bore." Quoth the devil, "Send him more." And our devil, never sitting, still is flitting, still is flittingback and forth upon the landing just outside our sanctum door.—Tears adown his cheeks are streaming—strange light from his eyes is beaming—and his voice is heard, still screaming, "Sir, the foreman wants some more!" And our soul, pierced with that screaming, is awakened from its dreaming, and has lost the peaceful feeling it had before; for the fancy which comes o'er us, that each reader's face before us, bears the horrid words—"We want a little more!" Words on their foreheads glaring, "Your funny column needs little more!"

Astonishing News.—The earthquake which was felt in Lancaster city and county a few weeks ago, did not astonish us more than did the low prices we paid at the new Cheap John store, 64, North Queen street, for various goods we purchased upon last Saturday evening. Cheap John may well be called the poor man's friend. He has got on hand a splendid assortment of goods of all kinds in the notion line, besides boots and shoes of all kinds, essence of coffee, table and floor oil cloths, by far the cheapest and best in Lancaster, and hundreds of "The French milliners plumed themselves doubtless when they brought out a certain prevalent style of hair dressing, as the inventers of something. I assure you that when Cæsar was slightly massacred, the admiring Antony made the exclamation, "Water-fall was there my countrymen" proving at-once the presence of the fair sex on that melancholy occasion, and the truth of the preacher's assertion that there is "nothing new under the sun."

AN IMMENSE ESTATE.-The following description of an immense estate in Eng-land will be perused with interest by our agricultural readers. The cost of tilling the same will open the eyes of the farmers of the "Garden Spot of Pennsylvania:"

the "Garden Spot of Pennsylvania:"
Professor John Wilson has lately published an account of the estate of the Duke of Northumberland, the facts for which were derived directly from headquarters. This estate comprises: In woodlands, 3,000 acres; hill pastures, grass lands, &c., 116,200 acres; tillage occupation, 38,900; waste lands, rocky, sea shore, &c., 4,700; total, 162,800 acres. The hill grazing lands are mainly let in farms of about 3,500 acres each, the largest single farm, however, being 8,000 acres. The rents vary from 1s. 6d. to 6s.—say from 35 cents to $1.50 per acre. On the tillage lands, the farms average about 250 acres each, renting from 10s. to 60s. per acre, (82.50 to $1.5) "All permanent improvements to the estate—as ermanent improvements to the estate—a arm buildings, cottages, roads, &c.—are done at the sole cost of the Duke; for draining, an annual charge of 5 per cent on the outlay is made, the tenant also undertaking to lead the tiles. No less than 35,203 acres have thus been thoroughly drained at an average cost of about £5 per acre. Liming is usually done by the tenant, except when an especial arrangement is made for an allowance from the landlord in shape of material or more. made for an allowance from the landlord in shape of material or money. The same understanding also exists in reference to laying down land to permanent grass."
The books of the estate, from the time the late Duke assumed possession in 1847, up to Dec. 31, 1863, show the following vast expenditure during that period of sixteen years for the purposes named excluding years, for the purposes named, excluding all expenditure upon the Castle itself, and

He kept his name before the people, the people have bought his goods, and he is now a wealthy man. The New Haven Register says, "We have a similar example, in a different line of trade, in this city. A young man came here with a few hundred dollars and opened a store 17x18 feet, but brought with him what was more valuable—thorough knowledge of his nore valuable—thorough knowledge of his ousiness and of the value of advertising. He now owns largely in real estate, is sound for we don't know how many thousands and is still enlarging his business and carrying it with an energy and success which cannot fail to place him high on the roll of the income tax list. THE radicals welcome anything which promises to wipe out State lines and lead to consolidation. The Tribune is highly pleased with the precedent set by the Republicans of the Sixth District of Massachusetts who have nomi-nated General Banks for a vacancy in Congress, although he forfeited his resi dence in that State, by being admitted o the bar in Louisiana. The Tribune thinks this country should adopt the English practice of electing representa-tives without regard to their residence. The next thing these radicals will be nominating a man in Boston to represent a District in New Jersey, and elect-ing a resident of Ohio or Wisconsin to present New York or Pennsylvania Trenton True American.

THE unity of the Republican party is charmingly demonstrated by the fact tha: Mr. Thurlow Weed, their most prominent leader in New York, is decribed by the Tribune as a "Judas Is while General Banks, their ariot." most conspicuous candidate in Massa-chusetts, is politely indorsed by Wen-dell Phillips as "a vagrant mountedell Phillips as "a vagrant mounte-bank." Decent people will do well to wash their hands of a party which paints itself in such colors.— World.

Printers and Boctors. An Eastern paper very justly comments on newspaper and medical cred-ts: "It is a notorious fact that doctor's bills and newspaper bills are the last accounts in the sum of every man's indebt-edness which he thinks of paying.— Whatever may be his ability to pay, no difference if his chests be filled with old rusty dollars, he thinks some indefinite time will do to settle the aforesaid ac counts. People somehow have a tradi-tionary notion that the practice of a phy-sician and the publishing of a newspaper are mereamateur professions, followof which little or nothing is expended. Yet there is not in the whole round of pensive employment than that of publishing a newspaper." The Commissioner of Pensions is preparing for Congress his report for the current year. In 1862, there were only 8147 pensioners of all classes on the lists. In 1863, the list increased to 14,780; in 1864, to 51.135: and to this date (Octobe

17), the certificates issued on admitte-claims amount to about 93,000. COMPLETE SUCCESS .--- THE SUB-A COMPLETE SUCCESS.—THE SUB-Scribe has just received Letters Patent for his second improvement on Riding, Driving Bridles and Lines. His invention is now so complete, that it not only renders it impossi-ble for a horse either to run away or kick, but it entirely overcomes all possible objections to the former patent. Martingales, trotting-lines Safety Bridles and Lines are so combined as to make it complete. Safety Bridles and Lines are so combined as to make it complete.

In order to convince every one, whether in favor of, or predudiced against it, the undersigned will give a free public exhibition of the Patent on the 4th of November, 1865, at Lechey's Hotel, in Millerswille, 3 miles from Lancaster city, where he or his agent will drive, free of charge, any and every kicki g or runaway horse that may be brought. He earnestly invites every body to crome and see for themselves and especially every person who owns a kicking or runaway whorse. The Patentee will pay $200 for each and every horse that can either kick or run away when subject to the control of the invention. By combining the two patents, just double the p wer is had over the original.

The object o this exh bition is to show that no man is for a moment justifiable in driving any horse, no matter how genile, without this patent bridle, as there is nothing that wick dorses do that gentle ones cannot do when fr gutened. Nine out of every ten accidents with horses, take place with the get the family horse.

The exhibition will commence at 10 o'clock.

The price of countles is so small as to place the investment in the bands of every one, for I ware so poor a tobe enable to raise one hundred do lars. An ther leature about his invention it that the proprietor of territory need not manufacter the bordles and lines at the oddnary bridle can be easily altered into a $a$ ety Bridle. The lines only require to be made to order, and these can be made by any saddler for a infle more than the ordinary lines. Hence unlike other patents, the right to use it only is sold. After the 'xhibition, individual, count, and State rights can be had of the patentee. For further particulars address
