The "Secret Motive.

Opinion of President Lincoln's Attorney General on the Vetoed Bill-It wa Planned to Overturn the Government In a letter to a meeting of conservative citizens of St. Louis the Hon. Edward Bates subjects the Freedmen's Bureau bill to a merciless analysis, in which he exposes with unmistakable distinctness the ulterior revolutionary object of the proposed statute, and denounces with appropriate but logical severity the dangerous subterfuge of its contrivers, which was counteracted by the prompt and bold interposition of the President. We subjoin the letter referred to :

St. Louis, February 24, 1866. Gen. E. B. Brown, President of the State Central Committee Conservative Union Party: Sir: I am honored by the receipt of your Sin: I am honored by the receipt of your note of this day, inviting me to be present at a mass meeting of the citizens of St. Louis, to be held at the Court-House this evening at half-past seven o'clock, for the purpose of endorsing the action of President Johnson in vetoing the Freedmen's Bureau bill, and in support of his general policy of national reconstruction.

I am very sorry that the bad state of my health forbids my attendance, and the more so because I believe there will not be a man at the meeting who feels a greater more so because I believe there will not be a man at the meeting who feels a greater abhorrence than I do for the bill whose wicked career has been stopped by the President's timely veto. My feeling upon this subject does not spring entirely from my disgust of the factious spirit and ridiculous egotism of the clique which now domineers over Congress. ique which now domineers over Congress but from the intrinsic demerits of the bill but from the intrinsic demerits of the bili, ascertained by a careful examination of its provisions. I think I understand it. I can see (the most casual reader can see) its glaring and defiant breaches of the Constitution—and I think I can see also the hidden motive, the secret design of the conspirators, who planned the scheme to overturn our Government of law and set up in its stead a ernment of law, and set up in its stead a frightful military oligarchy. And this wicked purpose betrays itself in several provisions of the bill, which are so arrunged in the context as to seem, to a hasty observer, to be secondary and subordinate to the ostensible object, the protection of the freed-

The bill provides (in its first section) for the continuance of the original act (of March 3d, 1865) to establish a Freedmen's March 3d, 1865) to establish a Freedmen's Bureau, and extends it to all refugees and freedmen'in all parts of the United States. It empowers the President to divide the United States into districts, not to exceed twelve, and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint an assistant commissioner for each district. Twelve districts! That is the exact number into which Cromwell divided the Commonwealth of England, and governed each district, despoisantly, by one of his own Major Generals.—This section goes on—"or the said Bureau This section goes on—"or the said Bureau may, in the discretion of the President, be placed under a commissioner and assistant placed under a commissioner and assistant commissioners, to be detailed from the army." And the act does not specify either the rank or the color of the persons so to be detailed from the army to rule the nation through the Freedmen's Bureau.

Section two empowers the commissioner to divide each district into sub-districts, (not less than a county or parish,) and to assign to each sub-district "at least one agent, either a citizen, officer of the army, or enlisted man." The section goes on to say. "each assistant commissioner may "each assistant commissioner may any, "each assistant comments; and each employ not exceeding six cirrs, and each agent of a sub-district (being one or more for each sub-district, as suits the pleasure of the commissioner) may employ two clerks. And so in the twelve districts the clerks will amount to seventy-two; and in the sub-districts the agents will amount to at least as many thousand as there are counties and parishes in the nation; and their clerks to doubte that number, besides the employees mentioned in the bill.

And the same section provides that the President, through the War Department and the Commissioner, shall extend military parisdiction over all the employees, agents, and officers of this bureau, in the exercise of all the duties imposed or authorized by this act, or the act to which this act is supplementary." And here I will draw your attention to that part of their duties especially imposed and authorized by the eighth section of the bill, thus: "And it shall be the duty of the officers and agents of this bureau, tell of this bureau, and wents of this nt of a sub-district (being one or more the duty of the officers and agents of this bureau, [all of them, great and small, with-out distinction], to take jurisdiction of and near and determine all offences committee hear and determine all offences committed against the provisions of this section; and also of all cases affecting negroes, mulat-toes, freedmen, refugees, or other persons who are discriminated against, in any of the particulars mentioned in the preceding section of this act, under, not the Constitu-tion and laws but under such rules and tion and laws, but under such rul regulations as the President of the United States, through the War Department, shall

These are some of the enormities of the vetoed bill, framed in the wantonness of partisan power, in contempt of the written Constitution, and in open violation of the historical opinions and traditionary faith of the people of the United States.

As all these thousands of officers, agents, and employees of the bureau may, at the discretion of the President, be detailed from the army, it is plain that every man of them may be an enlisted man in the army, and the army, it is plain that every man of them may be an enlisted man in the army, and white or black, as may best suit the fancy of the detailing officer.

Only imagine such a military organization, with a despotic head at the seat of the Government, and despotic members pervading the whole mass of the community and exhibiting its power in organized form, in every county and parish, and the President bound, by Trumbull's bill, to extend military protection over them, against every effort to restrain, by legal and civil means, the wantoness of their arbitrary power!

Think you that the people of the United States are already so far degraded into passive obedience as to submit tamely to such an atrocious outrage, even if sanctioned by the unanimous voice of a factious Congress, and approved by a subservient President? No verily. They are not yet ready to abandon their Constitution and renounce all hope of legal liberty, by giving over their lives, liberties, and properties, to be disposed of at the caprice of petty officers and agents of a petty subdivision of the War Department, called a bureau. They will insist upon their legal rights as freemen and American citizens; they will demand the protection of the laws of their country; and if charged with crime, or drawn into controversy about property or contracts, they will insist upon a court and jury, and will refuse to be tried by any petty despot, "detailed from the army," whether he be white or black.

Constitutional government and liberty or black.

Constitutional government and liberty by law are worth fighting for. We have just passed through a bloody war to maintain them against a set of traitors, and I make no doubt that the people will be as ready, if need be, to resist in the same way any other set of traitors who seek to destroy the legal Government by insidious artifice and bold usurpation.

An eminent English publicist, (Mill,) on representative government, gives it as his representative government, gives it as his opinion, that "representative institutions depend for their permanency upon the readiness of the people to fight for them in case of their being endangered. If too little valued for this, they seldom obtain a footing at all, and if they do, are almost sure to be overthrown as soon as the head of the government or any party-leader who ca muster force for a coup de main is willing muster force for a coip de main is willing to run some small risk for absolute power? I think it a fortunate thing for the country, that the Radical faction is so demented as to pick a quarrel with the President because he refuses to be their instrument to overturn the Constitution and substitute in its place a military despotism, and to stake their political fortures upon the monstrous vices and follies of the Trumbull bill. For, in doing so, they do but insure their For, in doing so, they do but insure their own defeat, and consequently, the restoration of law, order, and peace, and revival of national respect for legal government and a national love for liberty by law. and a national love for liberty by law. Even the emancipated negro, for whose sake it is pretended that this wrong is done, will not long fail to see the hypocrisy and fraud of the transaction. They will see that while they are cajoled with the pretence of liberty and equality before the law, this wicked bill subjects them to the power of military overseers, excludes them from all legal protection, denies them the right to legal protection, denies them the right to appeal to the courts of law for redress o grievances, and requires the agents and officers of the bureau to "take jurisdiction

Very respectfully, your friend and fellow tizen, EDWARD BATES.

The Wealth of Illinois. From the official reports in the Auditor's office at Springfield, it appears that But away with forebodings on a wed the assessed valuation of the real and personal property of Illinois for 1864 and 1865, in all the counties except Monroe and Pulaski, was as follows: In 1864, $356,700,050; in 1865, $391,603,284; in crease over last year, $34,894,231. This shows that notwithstanding the burdens of the war the State has added nearly ten per cent. to her actual wealth since the year 1864. The Southern counties ward to a life of purest pleasures and almost invariably show a large increase in wealth, particularly in the case of such counties as Alexander, Johnson, Washington and a few others; while there seems to be danger that Bureau. Jo Daviess, Kendall, Rock Island and directed to a lady in New York, resome others, will eventually become questing her "to accept the inclosed as totally impoverished, unless the ebb of their riches as indicated by the assessment returns, can somehow be stopped.

Poor Caudle said he dreamed that he had an angel by his side, and upon waking up found it was nobody but his wife:

start immediately for Europe. The Postmaster General directed thorough search for the lady, and at last found his.

Johes and the Writer. [From: All the Year Round. One day lately, when I was in a very bad humor, I was passing the palace of Innes. There was a handsome carriage

Jones. There was a nanusome carriage waiting at the door, and presently Jones himself came down the steps, assisted by a footman, and entered it. Jones hair was slightly gray; but he had a plump, ruddy face, and looked like a person who enjoyed himself. Seeing that Jones was going out, for his pleasthat Jones was going out for his pleasure at three o'clock in the afternoon, I thought it probable that he had nothing else to do on the face of the earth but enjoy himself. This man, thought I to myself, is a sort of Fortunatus. Whenver he puts his hand in his pocket he finds money there. He is not obliged to make an effort to obtain it. He toils not, neither does he spin; yet he is magnificent, and has all the pleasures of the world at his command. Now, the aggravating reflection about this, is that if Jones did toil and spin he wouldn't be half so well off as he is. What encouragement is there for me to go home —to Hoxton—and rack my brain, when all my best efforts are not equal in sub-stantial result to Jones doing nothing? I write a tragedy, he has but to write a check. This undistinguished Jones is my bloated aristocrat. When I see him lolling in his carriage, chinking the sov-ereigns in all his pockets, I feel ready for the barricades. I mutter between my teeth:

"Down with the bloated Joneses!" I ask, again, where do all these common people get their money? How should it be such an easy thing for them, and such a difficult thing for me? How provokingly cool they are over it. But if I, after a hard struggle, obtain possession of a hundred pounds or so, I am as nervous as pessible until I get it safely into the bank. And even then my mind is not at rest. What if the bank should break? If I had five thousand pounds instead of five hundred to my account, I feel certain l should never trouble myself about the stability of the bank. That is what I envy-not wealth itself, but its poten tiality.

When I saw Jones in his carriage roll off from his door, I went my way in very ill-humor. I don't know that I wanted anything that day. All was right at Hoxton: no duns nor any disngreables of any kind. I had seen my name in the papers; "rising young man, rapidly reaching the top round of the ladder," one paper said I had reached it already; it was a very fine day; I was in very good health; I had several less coverging in my pocket; and for loose sovereigns in my pocket; and, for that day, and several more if I choose I had nothing to do but to enjoy myself. Still I was hypped and out of humor When I had wandered about for many ours among the gay scenes of the West end, seeking unalloyed pleasure and finding it not, I turned into a famous supper-room, where the digestion is promoted by minstrelsy. I had heard that to sit in this room and eat chops and baked potatoes while a tuneful choir, inspired by the divine Nine, sing glees and madrigals, was to compass the very round and top of human enjoyment. I had heard that those chops and potatoes, accompanied by the lyre, were medicine for the mind diseased; that they were potent to raze out the written of the brain, and cleanse the stuff that weighs upon the heart. Remembering nese things, I said to myself, "If a man should need an antidote to poisoned thoughts, this should be the shop where he may procure it." I entered and encountered the good apothecary. His looks were not meagre; his weeds were not tattered. On the contrary, he had a very jolly, rubicund face, and wore a most unexceptional surtout. He smiled, shook me by the hand, gave me snuff from a chest (box hand, gave me shull from a chest (low is not the word), and called me his dear boy. The pain in my temper was van-lshing at the very sight of the good apothecary. Ere the medicinal chop and potato were set before me, that pain departed Yes, yes; I am willing to own it. I am becoming reconciled to Hoxton, when suddenly my eye falls upon an elderly gentleman at one end of the table. It is Jones. He is sitting drinking claret out of a crystal goblet, smoking a very choice cigar—I know it by the ash—and listening to the music with his eyes shut. I notice that his clothes are fine and rich; his fingers are covered with sparkling rings; his cambric shirt-front is ablaze with three dashing brilliants. He is enjoying himself at every pore. I can see it by the quiet way he puffs his cigar, by the gusto with which he sips his Lafitte, by the artful and knowing way—practiced Sybarite—in which he keeps his eyes closed that his ears may not be dis-tracted from their drafts of delight.

Bloated Jones! hated member of a nameless but pampered class. At the very sight of Jones, Hoxton starts up before me in all its meanness and loathsomeness. Look at him, how he wallows in pleasure! What a power of enjoyment he has! I feel certain of enjoyment he has! I reer constitution of this I could not extract choice cigars of his I could not extract half the enjoyment from it that he does; I could not find half the flavor in the Lafitte. And see how thoroughly he enjoys the music; never opens his eyes, while his face beams with an expressi of the most exquisite pleasure. By-and-by, when he has had his fill of delight, he will roll home in his luxurious carriage, while I-ah! I see he is about to go now. He has thrown away the end of his cigar and is putting on his gloves. A gentleman from the other end of the table comes forward with his hat and stick. The gentleman is evidently Jones' servant, his butler, or his vale Fancy that! The gentleman hands Jones his hat and gold headed walkingstick, and takes him by the arm. Bloated pampered nobody! The waiters are making way for him as he passes along; the gentlemen at the tables arising to draw their chairs out of the way.

"Is he so very distinguished a person, "Oh, no," is the reply, "but the poor old gentleman is blind."
Blind! Let me go home to Hoxton and say my prayers.

Sneech at a Marriage Festival. The following little speech, which smacks of poetical genius, was made in Memphis, by a bridegroom at the wedding supper table: To-night I shake hands with the past I live henceforth in future joys. An unknown door is opened wide, and I enter an abode of perfect beatitude.-These two persons, whose lives have been well spent, have reared and train ed in love and kindness the sharer of my future joys and woes. If my life be blissful, I will owe them much, in that they have imbued the mind and heart of their adopted child with lessons of purity, kindness, truthfulness and love. I am confident of the future. The shadow of the present shall fall upon it, even when my bride and I have grown old, and invest it with sunset glories .-The man who in youth knew some soft soul-subduing air, melts when again he hears it sung. Although it is not half so touching, yet it awakes sweetest echoes in dreamland, and to age it repeats the story of youthful passions, hopes and love. I may not deserve the good I have won. Love is not won. It gives itself, and, if not given, no wealth genius, beauty, state or wit, no gold of earth or gem of heaven, is rich enough to purchase it. Loving thee, my bride my heart shall keep its old memories, like the sea-shell its wonted melody. ding night! Love's music steals on us like dawning light, which over all the heavens spreads and invests the world with beauty and glory. The road that led on through the unknown future was

The Oldest Republic on Earth. The American Quarterly Review co tains a letter from W. G. Irving, Esq., giving a sketch of his visit to San Ma rino, a small republic in Italy between the Appenines, the Po, and the Adri atic. The territory of this State is only forty miles in circumference, and its population about seven thousard. The republic was founded more than fourteen centuries ago, on moral principles, industry and equity, and has preserved its liberty and independence amid all the wars and discords which have raged around it. Bonaparte respected it and sent an embassy to express his sentiments of friendship and fraternity. It is governed by a captain resident, chosen every six months, by the representatives of the people (sixty-six in number), who are also chosen every six months by the people. The taxes are ight: the farm houses are neat; the fields well cultivated, and on all sides are seen comfort and plenty—the happy. effect of morality, simplicity and frugality.

Maxims. Geo. Francis Train teaches his chil dren as follows. He says: My child, commit this short sermon to memory, and teach it to your little friends at school, and you shall receive ten dollars every Christmas:

"Don't drink. Don't smoke. Don't chew. Don't swear. Don't gamble. Don't lie. Don't steal. Don't deceive. Don't tattle. Be polite. Be generous Be kind. Be neat. Study hard. Play hard. Be in earnest. Be self-reliant. Be just and fear not. Read good books. Love your fellow-man as well as God. Love your country and obey the laws. Lovetruth. Love virtue and be happy.

Long Hose.-A lady, a regular shop per, who had made an unfortunata clerk tumble over all the stockings in the store, objected that none were long enough.

"I want," she said, "the longest hose that are made." "Then, Madam," was the reply, "you had better apply to the next engine house." - "Well, Charley," said a friendly gent to an urchin of three years on Christmas Day, "what did you find in your stocking this morning?" "Find," replied the young hopeful, "why lound a big hole." The questioner gave the boy one cent.

- "Do you propose to put Ike into store, Mrs. Partington?" asked a friend. "Yes," replied the old lady, "but I'm pestiferous to know which. Some tell me the wholesome trade is the best, but I believe the ringtail will be the most beneficious to him."

to church in Quincy, Illinois, with some matches and some "eggs of Pharaoh's serpents" in his pocket. The sermon was long, and the young man became uneasy; the matches were lighted by the friction caused by his movements, the eggs hatched, and the serpents made their way out of his pocket, wriggling and squirming with a great and disagreeable smell of burning chemicals The congregation were greatly scandal ized, and the clergyman considered the illustration of his denunciations of the wicked a very feeble one.

—If there be a pleasure on earth which angels cannot enjoy, and which they might almost envy man the possession of, it is the power of relieving distress. If there be a pain which devils might pity man for enduring, it is the deathbed reflection that we have possessed the power of doing good, but that we have abused and perverted it to purposes of ill.

Although me disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effect. I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the binefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chieffy an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend, Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests and for encouragement to try them when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident reliefand restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend directing met the use of them.

From the Rev. Thos. Winter, D. D., Pastor of Roxborough Baptist Church.

Dear Sir: I feel itdue to your excellent preparation, Hoofland's German Bitters, to admy testimony to the deserved reputation it has obtained. I have for years, at times, beer troubled with great disorder in my head and nervous system. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of your German Bitters. I did so and have experienced great and unexpectereller; my health has been very materially benefitted. I confiden ly recommend the article where I meet with cases similar to my own and have been assured by many of their good effects. Respectfully yours, SPEER'SSAMBURG PORT GRAPE WINE VINEYARD, PASSAIC, NEW JERSEY. PURE AND FOUR YEARS OLD. From Rev. J. S. Herman, of the German Re ormed Church, Kutztown, Berks County. Pa Respected Sir: I have been troubled with

This is an article of Wine from the Pure Port Grape Trice, fermented, without the addition of spirits of any liquors whatever. Has a full body, rich flavor, and slightly stimulating.—None is disposed of until four years old. The beneficial effect derived from it use is astonishing thousands, and cannot be realized from other wine, nor from the thousands of Patent Bitters now crowding the market.

All who try it express their surprise that so delicious a Wine is produced in this country, and that it is so far different from what they had expected. and that it is so far different from what they had expected.

Some who knew nothing further of the Wine then seeing it advertised, thought at first it was a humbug, not knowing it was pure grape juice, have found out their mistake, and now lay their lives to the use of this Wine.

Excellent for Females and Weakly Persons and the Consumptive.

A great Remedy for Kindeys, Affections, Rheumatism, and Bisadder Difficulties.

Try it once, and you will not be deceived,
