ANNIVERSARY OF THE DIAGNOTHEAN LITERARY SOCIETY. - Friday evening a very large and fashionable audience assembled in Fulton Hall to witness the anniversary exercises of the Diagnothean Literary Society, attached to Franklin and Marshall The stage was handsomely fitted up and the arrangements for accommodating the large audience most complete. The exercises were opened by a prayer from Dr. Gerhart.

The first performance was a prologue written by Rev. Dr. Harbaugh, of Mercers burg, and delivered by G. F. Rosenmiller, of this city. There were some good hits in the piece, the rhyming was fair and the audience seemed to be pleased with this opening of the evening's entertainment. The speaker delivered the poem properly.

Oration—"Ambition its own Victim."
. H. Dotterer, New Hunover, Penna The speaker labored to show that ambition was sure to bring a curse upon him who cherished it. He instanced Napoleon and others. No distinction was made between selfish ambition and that higher emulation which is the mainspring of all heroic effort. Taking the one-sided view adopted by the speaker, the effort was a creditable one. His delivery was too monotonous to be very effective, but time and care may make him an acceptable public Oration-"Our Great Epoch"-S. S. Ap-

This was one of those rash attempts which so often lead very young men to make failures in public speaking. The theme was a very huge one, evidently much too vast for the grasp of the speaker. There was no exhibition of ability to comprehend aright the great lessons of the war. A few glittering generalities about emanci-pation, emigration, &c., gleaned from newspapers of a certain class and strung together in a weak way, made up the speech. It was not well delivered. The lack of oratorical ability was especially apparent in the attempt to quote that magnificent apostrophe to our Ship of State with which the speaker concluded.

Eulogy—"Milton"—-Wm. D. Seitzer, Womelsdorf, Pa. This was decidedly the best speech of the evening. The sketch of Milton's career, oth as political controversialist and as poet, was complete and graphic. It was admirably written, and displayed decided ability. The criticism upon the works of the great author were correct, exhaustive and worthy of the subject. The delivery was appropriato and effective.

Oration O'ritue Crowns her followers'*

---J. F. Whant, Curllsville, Pa.

This was a fairly written and spoken piece, not very remarkable, but above the ordinary range of such things.

Anniversary Address-"Division of Pow-er," E. O. Forney, Hanover, Pa. This was an effort to show the advantages of a division of power in a government, The speaker took the ground that the natural division was into Legislative, Executive and Judicial branches. He handled his subject quite well, very much better than college boys are in the habit of dealing with political questions. His delivery was appropriate and effective. The speeches were each greeted with anplause, and received testimonials in the shape of handsome boquets from their fair friends present. The music by the City Cornet Band was excellent. INCENDIARISM,-On Tuesday night lasts about 9 o'clock fire was discovered in a frame stable belonging to Mr. William Siefert, in North street. As soon as the alarm was given, Mr. Seifert, who had retired to bed about fifteen minutes before, ran out and endeavored to save a valuable cow that was in the stable; he was unable to do so, however, and would have probably perished in the flames had not a Mr. Fordney broken open a door on North street and afforded him means of escape; his face and hands are very badly burned, and he is confined to bed. The flames soon spread to a twostory frame dwelling house alongside,owned by Mrs. Long, and which was occupied on both of whom were formerly of this county, Beal, and on the upperside by John Schner. get water on the building, the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save it. The tenants succeeded in saving most of their property from the flames, but not, we regret to say, from the thieves. The heat from the burning houses set on fire the roof of a two-story building on the opposite side of the street, belonging to Mr. A. Stiffel and it was with great difficulty the flames wore subdued. The building is much injured; it was occupied by John Weaver and Peter Large; their furniture was badly damaged in removing it from the house. Mrs. Long is insured in the Girard Fire Insurance Dompany for $600; Mr. Siefert in the Home Mutual, but to what amount we could not learn except that he had $30 on his cow: Mr. Stiffel, we believe, is not insured. In addition to the loss by fire, the destruction of vegetables in the gardens is conside-

The fire was doubtless the work of incendiaries, and by reference to our adverti-sing columns it will be seen that the Mayor has very promptly, offered a reward for thier

AN ATTEMPT AT INCENDIARY,-A base attempt was made during Thursday night to fire the Carriage Factory of our enterprising townsmen S. B. Cox & Co., at the corner of Duke and Vinestreet. On Friday evening it was discovered that the chips and shaving in the woodshop up stairs had been not fire to and were much charred. No fire is ever used in that room, and the place was locked up on Thursday evening as usual, so that the person who made the attempt must have entered by the window. If it had got under way and destroyed the premises, between forty and fifty hands would have been thrown out of employment and a number of fine vehicles destroyed, as the firm manufacture no less than four carriages a week. They now employ a night

Pollard, which we have before noticed, is now at the City Hotel, and intends to call on the citizens of Lancaster of all political parties for subscriptions to the work, during the next two weeks. If he should fail to favor any one with a call through mistake, he may be found at the Clty Hotel, and wishes them to call on him and give him their names. POLITENESS in business is a large addition to your capital already invested. It keeps your customers in a good humor and gains new ones for you every day. It is the charm that smoothes and softens the rough paths of business. It is the "philosopher's stone" which turns everything you touch into gold. It invests commercial life with most of the poetry which ever adorns it. It makes men like you, and love to deal with you. It gains you the kind words and good offices of those with whom you daily come in contact. It has been humorously and truly said by one, that he preferred making his yearly dealings with a polite merchant who would cheat him a little. rather than with a rude, rough, and habitually impolite one who would honest him a great deal! Honesty and honor are commendable and shining qualities, it is true, but they never look better than when they are found in a setting of genuine politoness and good breeding. LANCASTER FREIGHT TRADE. -- The freight trade from this place has been more than usual this season, the increase being principally in the article of coal. The business in flour shipping has been dull, but more than an average quantity of grain has been received here from the West

HABEAS COBPUS-Before Hon. H. G. Long.—A writ of habeas corpus. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania vs. William Boas, was sued out by John Adam Gembe and made returnable on Saturday. The writ called for the production in Court of Marcellus Gembe and Sevenor Gembe, children of the said John Adam Gembe. The casas stated by the counsel for the plaintiff appears to be that the plaintiff married Miss Boas, a daughter of the defendant, and that in 1861, whilst pregnant with her second child, she left him in Harrisburg and wen to live with her father. Gembe afterwards enlisted and served some three years in the army, and upon his return home discovered that his wife was living in Philadelphia, and was pregnant with child by another man. Counsel stated that he had numerous witnesses in Court to prove these statements.

The counsel for the defendant called the ttention of His Honor to the return which stated that it is true that the two children are in the custody of William Boas, who alleges that he holds them in custody law fully by virtue of being appointed Guardian over their persons by order of the Orphans Court, on the 14th day of January 1865. The Judge decided that until such order was revoked, he could not take cognizance of the writ of habeas corpus. F. S. Pyfer Esq., was counsel for plaintiff, and J. B. Amwake, Esq., for defendant.

INQUEST.—The Deputy Coroner held an inquest on Saturday, on the body of an unknown man who was found lying at the corner of Groffstown road and Chestnut street. The evidence showed that Mrs Adeline Housner saw the man about & o'clock in the morning some four hundred yards from the spot where the body was discovered, kneeling in an attitude of prayer. He was next found lying by the fen by William Gibson who was passing by at about 9 o'clock going to the mill. He went to him and seeing that he was dead, started for the Mayor's office who referred him to the Coroner. Dr. William Compton made a post mortem examination and was of opinion that the man died of apoplexy. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the Doctor's testimony. Nothing whatever was found on the person of the man by which to identify him. He appeared to be about five feet six inches in height, stout built, fifty years of age. Had on grey shirt with red buttons, grey vest, dark sat inet pants, blue cotton socks, monroe shoe nearly new and white slouch hat.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, May 22. [Correspondence of the New York World.] A BLIP OF STEVENS. In the course of debate to-day, in the House, on the Tobacco sections of the Tax bill, Thad. Stevens made some incidental allusion to the condition of the cigar interest since the end of the war. Randall, of Pennsylvania, promptly interrupted him, and congratulated the House and the country that the distinguished gentleman from Lancaster district was at last willing to allow that the war was really over. Thi sally occasioned some laughter, amidst which the Pennsylvania Mephistophiles arose with a grim smile, that betrayed his consciousness of the awkward character of his inadvertent admission, and declared with vehemence that he did not consider the war at an end-on the contrary, in his opinion, it had just begun; he then took his seat, muttering that the copperhead army was still in battle army. The discomfiture of the hoary radical chief was evidently hugely relished on the Democratic side. THE ASSASSINATION CHARGE AGAINST DA-

The Senate Committee, it is said, have abandoned the investigation of Jeff. Davis's connection with the assassination plot. No additional evidence has been elicited beyoud that indicated in the conspiracy trials and it is said that most of the evidence developed in that trial implicating Davis has peen disproved. It is due to the country that all the facts in this matter now in the hands of the committee should be given. [From Associated Press Agents.]
Washington, May 28.

The President and the various members of his Cabinet were seronaded to-night by the National Union Club, attended by very large concourse of citizens, numbering several thousands. The President was the first to be complimented in this way.

In acknowledgment of it, he came in front of the Executive mansion, and standing on the coping of the balustrade, he made a very brief speech. His appearance was the signal for enthusiastic greetings. His words were na follows:

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

FELLOW-CITIZENS: In appearance before you this evening, it is simply for the purpose of tendering to you my thanks—for this demonstration, and for the approbation which you have manifested on this occasion, and on many occasions before. Such approbation is peculiarly gratifying and oncouraging to me under existing circumstances. All that will be necessary is to persist in the support and maintenance of correct principles; and the day is not distant when the American people will satisfy you that the good work you have continuously is right, as it will so prove in the THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH. nonced is right, as it will so prove in the end. [Cheers.] I repeat my thanks for your approbation of my conduct as a public man and a public servant. The President then retired, amid hearty applauso. lelivered a speech which he had previously written, so that his opinions might neither be accidentally misunderstood nor wilfully nisrepresented. The following is the mos important part of it. Mr. Stanton said : Another measure or series of measures of prime importance now pending before Congress, merits a brief remark, namely the plan of restoration, or reconstruction as it is sometimes called. To the plan reported by the joint committee, I have not been able to give my assent. It contemplates an amendment to the Federal Constitution, the third section of the proposed article being in these terms: rticle being in these terms:

Section 3. Until the fourth day of July, in the year 1870, all persons who voluntarily adhered to the late insurrection, giving it aim decomfort, shall be excluded from the right to vote for Representatives to Congress and for electors for President and Vice President of the United Street It is urged by the advocates of this plan It is urged by the advocates of this plan that this third section is the vital one, without which the others are of no value. Its exclusive action will no doubt commend it to the feelings of many as a wise and just provision, but I am unable so to regard it, because for four years it binds Congress to exclude from voting for representatives or presidential electors "all persons who voluntarily adhered to the late insurrection, giving it aid and comfort." Nonnature what ziving It aid and comfort." No matter what nay be the condition of the country, nor what proofs of present and future loyalty what proofs of present and future loyalty may be given, an absolute constitutional bar is to be erected for four years against a large class of persons. Change of circumstances and condition often works rapid change in party or political sentiments, and nowhere with more marked results than in the South nowhere with more marked results than in the South.

It is believed that elements of change are now at work there, stimulating on one side to loyalty, and on the other tending to con-tinued hostile feelings. In my judgment, overy proper incitement to union should be costered and cherished, and for Congress to limit its own power by a constitutional amendment for the period of four years, might be deplorable in its result. To those who differ I accord the same honesty, and who differ I accord the same honesty, and perhaps greater wisdom than I can claim for myself. As the proposed plan now stands, I am unable to perceive the necessity, justice or wisdom of the measure, but having no place nor voice in the body before which the measure is pending, I disclaim any purpose to interfere beyond the expression of my own opinion.

Italy. CASE INVOLVING THE CONSTITUTIONAL has just been decided adversely by Judge Thomas, of the Circuit Court of Virginia, dtting in Alexandria. In a civil action be tween white men one of the parties offered to produce negro evidence. The Judge deaided that, inasmuch as the State laws of Virginia forbade the introduction of negro. estimony in civil suits to which white men alone were parties, the evidence of the negro was inadmissible, and that no Congressional legislation could impair her right to lecide what persons or classes of persons were competent to testify in her courts. This will, no doubt, lead to much discussion and create no little excitement before its final settlement by superior authority. The tobacco tax having been fixed in Committee of the Whole on the ad valorem principle, it is creating much dissatisfaction among the heavy manufacturers at the East who make expensive brands of eigars pay a heavy tax, while the Western and cheap manufacturers pay a very light one.

Another effort will be made to have the tax changed when the bill comes from the Committee to the House. Ex."Admiral" Semmes, recently elected to the office of Probate Judge for Mobile. reached Washington yesterday for the purpose of obtaining the clemency of the President, to enable him to assume the duties of his office. It is asserted in high quarters that the President has resolved to change his Cabinet, and that several members of it will be invited to resign in the course of a few days. The Comptroller of the Currency has presented a statement showing the amount of money deposited in the national depositories to the credit of the Government disbursing officers and agents. The amount is upwards of fifty millions of dollars. The repor shows that millions are on deposit in banks which give only $50,000 as security for the same.

The receipts from customs during the past ten days, at the ports of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore, were upwards of five millions in gold. Returns from the other ports will swell the amount to upwards of six millions. It is intimated that the Government will have on hand on the first of September after paying all interest about one hundred and ten millions in gold.

Among the avalanche of statistics says the London correspondent of the Boston Post, that have been let loose upon the English nation, is the annual budget of Mr, Gladstone, who states at the present rate of con-sumption in one hundred and four years from time, all the coal in England within last night a fire was discovered burning under the parquette of the Academy of Music. The smoke was first noticed on the north side of the building, near was at once given, and promptly responded to by the Fire Department. Owing to the dense volume of smoke, which soon filled the interior of the building, the firemen had great difficulty in conting the area! culty in locating the exact spot where culty in locating the exact spot where the fire was burning. It was supposed that the great mass of fire was under the floor of the stage. Streams of water were at once directed throughout the building, but without effect, as the flames gained so rapidly that the fire-men were driven from the interior of the Academy, and it is feared that several of the firemen were unable to extricate themselves, and are bur-ied under the rules. The flames then spread so rapidly that in a few moments the whole of the interior was a mass of roaring, seething flames. The brisk breeze blowing at the time caused the fire to burn more flercely and it was found that it would be impossible to save the building. The attention of the firemen was then directed tention of the fremen was then directed to saving the adjoining property. The medical college on Fourteenth street, immediately adjoining the Opera House, was on fire on the roof, and efforts to save this building proved futile. The piano factory of line & Son, adjoining these test fire on the roof suit in these, took fire on the roof, and in a few minutes flames were seen gushing out of all the windows. The flames then communicated to the restaurant on the northwest corner of Third Avenue and Fourteenth street, and to the building Nos. 122, 124 and 126 Third Avenue, which were nearly all destroyed.

The restaurant of John F. Lyng, No.
6 Irving place, also took fire, as did all the dwelling houses on East Fifteenth street, and, with their contents, were almost entirely destroyed.

The free chapel of Grace Church, a beautiful building on the south side of Fourteenth street, was on fire several times, but by the application of copious streams of water, it was hoped that the building would be several

The Hippotheatron, on the south side of Fourteenth street, was in great danger. All the live stock were removed their frightened antics caused great amusement to the assembled crowd.
The plane factory of Worcester & Co., on the northeast corner of Fourteenth street and Third avenue, was also on nre, and it is feared that the building will be destroyed. Nos. 128, 130, 132 and 134, Third avenue, were also on fire and partly de-

FIREMEN SUPPOSED TO BE KILLED.

The missing firemen are Foreman David Waters, of Engine Company No. 5, and Fireman Welch, of the same company. They were both on the stage company. They were both on the stage with the pipe of the engine, when the great rush of flames surprised them, and they were unable to make their escape, and it is therefore feared they have perished in the flames. IRVING PLACE.

Irving place is all quietude. There's certainly nothing strange about this fact, for at this hour (ten minutes after twelve, midnight) it's always a quiet old neighborhood. There are gay audiences which having thronged the Academy of Music, Irving Hall, and other adjacent resorts. have returned to the silence cent resorts, have returned to the silence of their homes; and the streets which pealed with their musical laughter, as they jaunted gaily towards their domi-ciles, are again all silence. Hence the remark—"there's nothing strange about On the corner of Seventeenth street and Irving place, however, something is occurring which certainly strikes as "strange" such stragglers as may happen to be passing that point—for they stop, and gaze, and make inquiries.—Half a dozen men are working rapidly about something that puffs, and hisses, and spurts, but seems intent on making as little noise as possible. This proves on examination to be a fire-engine, and its proximity suggests fire close at hand. This was, as stated before, at ten minutes past twelve. Just ten minutes later a dense black smoke breaks out from the roof of the celebrate dold Academy of Music, just over the stage. The darkness, which has become intensified by the rolling cloud, is suddenly rendered pieroing in brilliancy by a bright eddy of solid flame, and then bursts upon all who have witnessd the passing incidents, the knowledge that the great hall of song, fashion, and frivolty is consuming by fire.

Brighter and brighter grow the flames as the flery element licks up and swallows each dry protein of the weed work. lows cach dry portion of the wood work. The roof gradually gives way from rear to front, and as it falls into the raging furnace beneath—seems to add to in-stead of assuaging its horrible appetite.

The wind, which is blowing strongly from the west and northwest, soon drives the flames with furnace blast against the walls of the Medical Institute, which quickly shares the fate of its predecessor. From the house tops n the vicinity the scene was now pallingly sublime.

The sky was as brilliant as at noonday, and the little birds, under the be-lief that day had arrived, were flying in all directions. From all parts of the city people were flocking to the scene of destruction. The street cars were huddled together and immovable, while each cross-street was swarming with those "night owl jehus" who haunt the regions of saloons of gin and vice, ready to pounce upon their drunken quarry.

The people in all the vicinity were on house-tops contemplating the scene, and everywhere the busy firemen tolled on. This morning a mass of ruins freets the eye, where so recently caroled the goddesses of song. Noefforts could save the doomed structure.

1.088 OF WARDROBES. All of the wardrobes belonging to the stockholders of the building, and valued at $100,000 was destroyed, as was also that of Mr. Grau's company, valued at $25,000. A great portion of Maretzk's wardrobe was also in the building at the time and was totally destroyed. The amount of the loss on this could not be ascertained. Palmer & Co., publishers of the opera, lost in pictures and other property over $10,000.

THE NEWS THROUGHOUT THE CITY.

Notwithstanding the lateness of the hour, the news of the conflagration spread throughout the city, and crowds from every quarter flocked to the vicinity to witness the burning. Every car was crowded with persons coming down town and going up town for this purpose, and the Third avenue, Irving Place, Fourteenth street, Fourth avenue and Union Square, was literally packed with thousands of people. Every wooden awning and shed, every lamp-post, every tree and all the house-tops were occupied, and the sight revealed in the brilliant glare of the fire was one of unusual magnificence. The whole city was illuminated, and the Bowery, for the north alongth, was almost as legal to a contract of the contract tis entire length, was almost as light as day. The gilt signs on the buildings shone with the prilliancy of sunset, and could easily be fead at a distance.

People residing in the neighborhood came from their beds, men, women, and even children hurrying out to see the even children hurrying out to see the even character has sights.

FOURTEENTH STREET DESERTED.

Owing to the terrific heat of the fire the whole section of Fourteenth street from Fourth avenue to Third avenue was almost deserted. The firemen were unable to stand their ground here, and the only persons visible two or three gangs of men who were doing their utmost to keep the Hippo-theatron from taking firs. The portice of this building, however, was in flames a number of times, but the wind being a number of times, but the wind being favorable, the flames were speedily extinguished. The dwelling houses, it was feared, would take fire, but the efforts made to save them were successful, and at the latest report from the scene of the fire they were untouched by the flames. THE SCENE at 11 o'clock was one of thrilling magnificence. The entire block encompassed by Fourteenth street, Irving place, Fifteenth street, and Third avenue, seemed to be one mass of fiame, and in-deed every building standing in this block was at that time on fire. Every building fronting on Third avenue, it building fronting on Third avenue, it was expected would be destroyed, although the firemen were engaged in doing their best to save them. The street was actually covered with burn-ing coals, and the clothing of a number of spectators took fire.

On the easterly side of the street the only building on fire was Worcester's Plano Factory; but it was feared that the dwelling adjoining this would yield to the pressure of heat and the immense volume of blazing coals that were constantly falling upon it, and be consumed with the other buildings. As far as the eye could reach up the avenue every eye could reach up the avenue every object was plainly visible as if seen by abylight, while the rushing of crowds, the working of steamers, and the shouts of the multitude, and all the other cit cumstances incident to the occasi made the scene unusually thrilling.

The Philadelphia Age comes to us vith the above parade of headings. The strong feeling which we have noticed a existing among the soldiers seems to be general throughout the State. The soldiers of Cumberland County meters to-day to elect their delegates to the Pittsburgh Soldiers' Convention, in pursuance of the call of Major General Hartranf, Delegates were elected, and a series of resolutions adopted. The resolutions were traced. Delegates were elected, and a series of reso-tions adopted. The resolutions were strong and dedded, and fully express the senti-ments of "the boys in blue" in this region. They denounce the Radical disunionists; repudiate negro suffrage; declare that the Southern States are entitled to representa-tion in Congress; indorse the restoration policy of Andrew Johnson; and also indorse the nomination of Hiester Clymer for Gov-ernor of Pennsylvania. Missouri as it is Coming. A correspondent, who has recently made a business trip through many of the interior counties of Missouri is sur prised and amazed at the rapidity with vhich the Radical party of that State is going to pieces. He says the desertions from its ranks may be numbered by hundreds and thousands. The rea sons therefor he thus states in a letter to the St. Louis Republican:

"There are many reasons great and desirable change, chief among which are the outrageous character of many of the provisions of the new Con-stitution, the inhuman and disgraceful persecution of ministers of the gospel, the arrest and imprisonment of teach-ers, the wild and wastful extravagance of the party in power, saddling upon the people aload of taxation which they can illy afford to bear and under which they are fairly groaning, and the unholy fanatical and suicidal course of the ma-jority in Congress. These and many other reasons have operated upon th minds of the people until they have de-termined to have a change. Missour is thoroughly aroused, and, with energy, vigilance and untiring zeal on the part of the triends of the Union and the supporters of Andrew Johnson, the nex slections will bury Radicalism in a grave so deep that for it there will be no resurrection. I believe it the easiest matter in the world to make the Con-servative majority from forty to sixty
