The Congressional Library. SKETCH OF THE BOOK-MEN OF CONGRESS HOW OUR PATRIOTIC SPEECHES ARE PREPARED.

WASHINGTON, July 11, 1806.
The most costly and wonderful front of the Capitol faces away from Washington City; but the quietest and coolest face of the building is that which overlooks the shady grounds at the head of Pennsylvania avenue, and of this overlooks the shady grounds at the head of Pennsylvania avenue, and of this, the very centre is Library Hall. It comprises much of the main build-ing of the original capitol; the majes-tic iron dome directly overhanging it, and close to its interior entrance are the most venerable and historic places—the old Supreme Court, the old House, the old Senate. From its windows is affordold senate. From its windows is anord-ed a glorious prospect, made soft and sufferable close to the eye by the foliage in the sloping lawn and the plash of waters in the basin where Thomas Ben-ton stopped to drink every morning be-flagiarist so great as an orator. But a lozen or so of his models have lived.—

the rest are the mimics.
The Congressional Library is assuming, by the spacious extensions of it, now almost completed, and by the more generous contributions which are filling even these new corridors, a place of dig-nity among the collections of the world. It has now in it 135,000 volumes, with the solution tion!

Capacity for 50,000 volumes yet unbought. Congress, for eight months, has been capacity for the work of reconstruction.

In 1802 an act of Congress permitted the purchase of $1,000 worth of books for the use of the two Houses. Only 3,000 volumes stood in the library when the British burned the Capitol in 1815. Then Phomas Jefferson, being in straitened circumstances, offered to sell his private library of 7,000 books to the United States. They were appraised at $23,000, and paid for in bonds of the United States. To this transaction the Federalist party, on personal grounds, made a stoutopposition. The library of Jefferson was not the leading private collection of the country, but was well adapted to a lawyer and politician, and to such pleasant smatter of morals and metaphysics as Jefferson loved to in-dulge in. No one conspicuous donation of books was ever received from a private individual, and the general yearly ap propriation for the purchase of books continued to be from $1,000 to $2,000 a year. Now and then the British Mueum and the French Bibliotheque Imperials sent a package of their own publications to its shelves; but in 1861 numerations to its snelves; but in 1801 a defective fitte saused a fire to break into the library, and of the 55,000 volumes there assembled but 20,000 were saved. The firemen, with a traditional disregard for letters, introduced a hose internal library and the same control of the same into the library, and wet everything from Josephus to Kossuth. The value of the books lost, marketably, was prob-In 1852 the old library had been rebuilt, according to the designs of Thos. U. Walters, at a cost of $92,000, entirely of iron. It was in 1852 that Congress gave its only liberal appropriation ($75, 000), since which time the common sum devoted to this cause has been $7,000 a year. Next year $50,000 will be asked for, to meet accruing indebtedness, which is as many dollars as the British Museum annually receives pounds. A recent act of Congress transferred to this place the 40,000 volumes of the Smithonian Institute. THE EXTENSION.

The two new wings have cost $160,000. Their ceilings, shelves, walls, and floors are of solid wrought iron. Only the four times the former capacity of the The shelves have a uniform space between them, and the bottom shelf, around the entire library is practical, so that it can be removed to admit the great folios. There are three floors or stories in the main library, and four stories in the wings; these stories are common in each wing, but are gained from below by two stairways only. In the main hall, which is the south front of the capitol, the architectural decorations next the ceiling take up the fourth story's space, all of which is utilized in the extensions. On each floor there are 44 alcoves for readers, making upward of 140 in all. And there are, besides, of 140 in all. And there are, tables in the new wings, which will make the library accommodate as many as 300 readers at a time.

The ornamentation of the library is not unlike that of the Astor Library. too ornate, possibly, in the main corridor, but not glaringly so; while in the wings care has been taken to subdue all decorations to a consistency with the quiet and contemplate purposes for which the place is to be used. The plaster busts and casts of Socrates, Piato. and other-worthies, which adorned the library some years ago, were, happily, destroyed by the fire. They were cheap. They turned the library into an image vender's shop, and brought into it big booted admirers, who disturbed the readers. In respect to the material of the floor, the library is defective. Every step on the hard marble disturbs the reader, while in the British Museum the floors are of gutta percha, on which the wheels of chairs and the march of visitors is noiseless. The gilding to which we have adverted as possibly out of keeping, will probably be found not too bright for the dark days of Washington, when even the soul of Carlyle would be uneasy.
THE LIBRARY DIRECTORY.

There is probably no gentleman in America possessing a more practical knowledge of books and authors than the present Librarian of Congress, Mr A. R. Spofford of North-Eastern Ohio, an appointee of Mr. Lincoln. One of his first labors has been the cataloguing of the books, a conscientious work which comprises 1,200 pages. He has given a stimulus to the collection which has already made it of credit throughou the country and foreign nations, and i is to be hoped that in this case, at least the country will possess one public savant not subject to the limitations of partisanship. The Congressional Library now outnumbers in the quantity of its works any collection in America Two hundred thousand dollars spent in collecting books in Europe would make it so invaluable that the Capital City would soon become a resort for scholars of all specifications. A Leading Republican's Opinion of the Republican Party. Henry J. Raymond is chairman of the National Committee of the Republican party. That is the highest seat which any man can occupy in a political party in this country. Mr. Raymond is also a leading Republican member of Congress. Nor isthatall. He isowner and editor of a leading Republican newspaper. All that ought to constitute Mr. Raymond very good Republican authority. As such we accept him, and would direct the careful attention of all our readers to the following notice of the Republican party, which we find in Mr. Raymond's paper of yesterday: So intent, for four years, were the electors, upon putting down the rebel-lion, that no very rigid scrutiny was instituted as to candidates for office. sufferable close to the eye by the foliage in the sloping lawn and the plash of waters in the basin where Thomas Benton stopped to drink every morning before going to his desk, and chequered, and sunny, and rolling, further away by the cluster of the city, the silver of the river, the stride of the high Arlington Helghts.

men of the country have left their interests, sitting in silent alcoves to hear what letters had to say for their yet undelivered argument, and gaining insight as they gleaned of the methods of the Master Orators who had passed the Master Orators who had passed the fever of statesmanship and left the utteraces to discourage imitation.

This library is in great part reprosing largely the confidence of the people. This library is in great part reproduced every year in the address of our public men. The Globe may be called a/reissue of it in parts. There is no trush through the House of Representarush through the House of Representa-tives a bill for universal negro suffrage in the District of Columbia. The leaders Demosthenes, Cicero, Cato, Chatham, in both Houses announced their deter-Mirabeau, Webster—those are the men, mination to make negro suffrage a conmination to make negro suffrage a condition of restoration to the Union. The whole power of Congress was surren-dered to a "Committee of Fifteen." When the popular sentiment revolted against universal negro suffrage, that Committee adopted a scheme intended to keep eleven States out of the Union > tion. It is committed, by a dozen votes to the monstrous falsehood and absurdi ty that Tennessee was out of the Union forgetting or disregarding the fact that in every such vote they were stultifying and condemning themselves. Tennessee was represented in the Republican National Convention of 1864. She was then, if ever, out of the Union! Every Resultifican member of Congress weter Republican member of Congress voted for Andrew Johnson, while Tennessee was, if ever, out of the Union! Andrew Johnson remained in his seat in the United States Senate, side by side with Sumner, Wade, Wilson, Chandler, Trumbull, &c., after Tennessee, if ever, Trumbull, &c., after Tennessee, if ever, was out of the Union! Away, then, with the miserable false-pretense that ordinances of secession took States out of the Union. We denied it at the beginning and during the rebellion. It was our best and and strongest ground. We rallied and united the people upon that ground. They gave their money and shed their blood to dispel the heresy of sacession, and to vindimoney and shed their blood to dispel the heresy of sscession, and to vindicate the integrity of the Union.

> The occasion and necessity which produced the Republican party, have recurred again. That party has broken from its anchorage and swung from its moorings. It is at sea with unreliable pilots and an erroneous chart.
> The Congressional leaders have constrained a Union of the conservative elements of both parties for the sake of elements of both parties for the sake of the Union. They have made unprovo-ked, wanton, flerce war upon the Presi-dent. The Republican party has been listracted and demoralized at Washington.

The Destroyed Bridge at Havre-de-Grace.

The bridge of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Com-pany, at Havre-de-Orace, the wooden spans of which were blown off into the river by the tornado, on Wednesday evening, was one of the finest specimens of bridge architecture in this country, ind, next to the great English Victori bridge, the most expensive ever erected by any corporation. Crossing the Sus-quehanna at a point 3,195 feet from shore to shore, thirteen spans were required. These spans rested upon piers, fourteen in number, and the magnitude of the work may be imagined when it is known that some of these piers stand in forty feet of water. The piers were commenced in 1861, and were not ready for the superstructure October last, when the engineers began the construction of the wood work. The bridge was known as the Howe truss, each arch consisting of four ribs, eight by nine inches, making, with the interstices, a beam of thirty-seven and a half inches deep. The traces and girders connecting and strengthening each span made a huge mass of timber sufficient in appearance to resist almost any amount of pressure. There were twelve of these immense spans, each two hundred and fifty feet in length while the draw was one hundred and ninety feet in length. All the spans, with the exception of one to the west of the draw, were in place, and the unfinished one was rapidly approaching completion when the storm occurred. completion when the storm occurred What is most remarkable of the storm is the fact that the little steamer Port Deposit was but a short distance above he bridge when the wind struck it, and those on board only felt a strong breeze. Frail temporary structures erected on rafts and moored near the bridge were left entirely unharmed by the wind. Hanging sign boards on poles at the water's edge, and dilapidated frame buildings escaped unhurt, while the immense structure, built as strong as it was supposed wood and iron could make t, was almost in an instant lifted up and falling into the water, sundered. The storm was one of the most singular impurity is born in the system; while others acquire it through improper treatment of scores of diseases. Under this head may be classed—

Ist, Scrofula,—This disease is hereditary and is transmitted from generation to generation. It is caused by a transgression of the laws of nature, both moral and physical; in other words, it is caused by a transgression of the laws of nature, both moral and physical; in other words, it is caused by use. Acting as a latent posson, it reduces the vitality of the blood, and weakens the depurating organs, so that they fail to discharge or cast out the impurities that are continually generating in the system. A person physically pure acquires gonorhea, or some other secret disease; he undergoes a course of mercury, the disease is dried up, and the patient pronounced well. Vain defusion. The complaint is not cured, its channel is only diverted. Instead of making its appearance outwardiy, it acts on the internal organs, and scroula, which is bequeathed from father to son, is the result. Many persons who are persectly free from all immorality and vice are arificted with scrofula. They are suffering for the sins of their fathers and isborting under the curse inscribed in the Bo kof Books. "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

To cure this dreadful complaint it is neglessary that the blood should be thoroughly phrifted, all the organs of the body brought into healthy state of action, and the system braced up and strengthened by invigorating tonics.—Look at the articles used in compounding Mishler's Bitters; see the array of puritying and uvigorating mendicaments, and say whether there is an article in the whole list of medicines that equals it. We here emphatically asset, without lear of contradiction, that MIS1-LEA'S BITTERS WILL CURE ALL KINDS OF SCROFULOUS DISEASES. It purifies the blood, it strengthens the internal organs and aids them to perform their natural functions, it is a stimulant and a tonic and it will cure Scrotus.

READ WHO SAYS SO From Rev. W. D. Seigfried, Pastor of Twelfth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Gentlemen:—I have recently been habornig nder the distressing effects of indigestion, accompanied by a prostration of the nervous system. Numerous remedles were recommended by friends, and some of them tested, but without relief. Your Hoofhand's German Bitters were recommended by persons who had tried them, and whose favorable mention of these Bitters induced me to try them. I must confess that I nad an aversion to Patent Medicines from the "tbousand and one" quack "Bitters," whose only aim seems to be to paim off sweetened and drugged liquor upon the community in a sly way, and the tendency of which, I fear, is to make many a confirmed our hand and the seeming that yours was stonen, but upon the nervous system, was prompt and gratifying. I feel that I have derived great and permanent benefit from the use of a few bottles.

rom Rev. D. Merrige, Pastor of the Passyund Baptist Church, Philadelphia. From the many respectable recommenda-tions given to Dr. Hoofand's German Bitters, I was induced to give them a trial. After using several bottles I found them to be a good remety for debility, and a most excellent tonic for the stomach. D. MERRIGE  $\mathbf{N}$

From Rev. Wm. Smith, formerly Pastor of th Vincentiown and Miliville (N. J.) Baptis Churches. Churches.

Having used in my family a number of bottles of your Hoofiand's German Bitters, I have to say that I regard them as an excellent medicine, specially adapted to remove the diseases they are recommended for. They strengthen and invigorate the system when debilitated, and are useful in disorders of the liver, loss of the liver. and are useful in disorders of the liver, loss of appetite, &c. J., formerly of the North Baptist Church, Philadelphia, at pre-sent Pastor of the Baptist Church, Chester, Pa. sent Pastor of the Baptist Church, Chester, Pa.

I have known Hoofland's German Bitters favorably for a number of years' I have used them in my own family, and have been so pleased with the'r effects, that I was induced to recommend them to many others, and know that they have operated in a strikingly beneficial manner. I take great pleasure in thus publicly proclaiming this fact, and calling the attention of those afflicted with the diseases for which they are recommended, to these Bitters, knowing from experience that my recommendation will be sustained. I do this more cheerful as Hoofland's Bitters is intended to benefit the afflicted, and is "not a rum drink."

LEVI G. BECK.

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge and Christian Chronicle, Philadelphi.

Aithough not disposed to favor or recommend Palent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus centribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by br. C. M. Jackson, or this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend, Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests and for encouragement to try them when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend directing me to the use of them.

J. NEWTON BROWN, Philadelphia.

From the Rev. Thos. Winter, D. D., Pastor of Roxborough Baptist Church.
Dear Sir: I feel it due to your excellent preparation, Hoofiand's German Bitters, to add my testimony to the deserved reputation it has obtained. I have for years, at times, been troubled with great disorder in my head and nervous system. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of your German Bitters. I did so, and have experienced great and unexpected relief: my health has been very materially benefitted. I confiden ly recommend the article where I meet with cases similar to my own, and have been assured by many of their good effects.
