Committee on Resolutions—J. P. Mc-Caskey, Jesse Knight, J. B. Eshleman and Misses Markley and Bean. Reporting Committee—J. H. Witmer and G. W. Guthrie. The following hours for opening and closing the Institute were adopted:

Forenoon-Open at 8,45; close at 12. Atternoon—Open at 2; close indefinite. Evening—Open at 7; close indefinite. On motion the admission fee was fixed at 25 cents.

Over one hundred teachers were present and gave their names as members, Everything promises that the Institute will be well attended and very interesting throughout. Adjourned until 2 o'clock P. M.

Monday Afternoon.-The Institute called to order at 2 P. M. The first exercise of the afternoon was a lecture by Prof. Thompson, of this city, on "The Importance of the Study of Language." ration, he began by showing the distinction between the human language and that of the brute creation. He also spoke of the change many of our words have under gone from time to time, illustrating it by taking one of our most common words and noting its various modifications from the old Sanscrit down to us. His history of the Anglo-Saxon and our present English language was very interesting. In his opinion, the fact of our language being so full of words derived from other languages made its study highly important.

Prof. Thompson was followed by Prof. G. C. Hinman on Penmanship.

He started out by saying that a teacher should interest and instruct at the same time, and proceeded to show how penmanship could be made as interesting as any other branch of study. He interested the audience with his eards, illustrating the various combinations of the principles of writing. After Prof. Hinman, Prof. C. H. Harding, Prof. of Mathematics in the State Normal School at Millersville, gave a lecture on Book-Keeping. He gave several very weighty reasons that Book-Keeping should be taught in our Public Schools and in structions in writing Promissory Notes, &c.

Adjourned till 7 P. M. Monday Evening Session .- At the appointed time the house was called to order and the following preamble and resolution was offered by Mr. Hobbs: WHEREAS, Rewards of merit and prize have been, and are offered by County and State Associations for skill and workman-State Associations for skill and workman-ship in the various branches of husbandry and the mechanic arts; and whereas, by these means a greater interest has been awakened and improvement made in most of the handlwork of man therefore, Resolved, That a committee of five pre-pure a report on a system of prizes for pen-manship, orthography, map drawing and reading to be considered by the Institute at such time as may be designated by the Ex-centive Committee. ecutive Committee. Adopted. Prof. Thompson was then introduced and he resumed his subject-Language. The Prof. elicited great interest in giving more of the history of the various Lantended to make them assume the aspect they now do. He also illustrated many of the prominent characteristics of some of the Languages.

He illustrated the lofty and noble charneter of the Latin expression by quoting from Daniel Webster, and the beauty and simplicity of the pure Anglo-Saxon, by a love song of Tennyson. The lecture was Prof. Thompson was followed by Rev. J. F. Crouch, of this city.

The reverend gentleman dwelt for some time upon the importance of a change in the present form of giving moral instruction in our Public Schools, and amusingly yet forcibly illustrated the moral instruction of his school-boy days, when the terms

"Schoolmaster" and "drunkard" were often synonyms. On motion of Mr. A. O. Newpher the subject of Mr. Crouch's Tecture was taken up and discussed by Messrs. Hobbs, Newpher

The audience was then favored with two recitations, "Mand Muller" by Whittier, and "Sheridan's Ride," by Mr. S. K. Murdoch, of Philadelphia, after which adjourned till 8.45 to-morrow morning, Tuesday Morning Session. Institute opened this morning with prayer by Mr. H. F. After roll call the following question was discussed: In what order should the different branches of study be taken up? The subject was ably handled by Messrs Clark, Burnham, Hobbs, Hoak and Pierce, but when the interest in the discussion was at its height, the morning hour for discussion expired and the question was referred to a select committee, to report at the next County Institute and have the result of their deliberations printed in the Pennsylvania School Journal.

The next hour was occupied by Prof Hinman on Penmanship, treating mostly of the different systems of writing, (all of which he resolved into one grand systemstandard script) principles and position. After this Rev. Mr. Dodge addressed the Institute concerning various subjects of interest to the teacher.

A few minutes before the time for ad-journment, Prof. Murdoch entered the room, and after being called for repeatedly. he recited "Barbara Fruchie" and "Mares Bozarrus," which greatly pleased the audionce. Aujourned till 2 o'clock, P. M. This evening, addresses will be delivered by Prof. Edw. Brooks, Principal of Millersville State Normal School, on the "Culture of Imagination," and by Dr. Thos. H. Burrows on "The Sphere of the Common School System." To-morrow morning, Prof. Himman will continue his lectures of Penmanship, beside which, there will be several questions of professional interest discussed by the Teachers. In the afternoon, a lecture on "Object Lessons" will be delivered by Mr. A. C

Newpher. Prof. Brooks will explain fully the Metric System of Weights and Measures, the use of which has been authorized by Congress, and Prof. J. P. Wickersham, State Superintendent, will in his official capacity, lecture on "My Policy." In the evening lectures will be delivered by Rev. W. V. Gottwald, on "The Importance of the Common School," and by Prof. J. P. Wickersham, on "An American Edneation for the American People." The sessions of the Institute are open to tho public without an admittance fee, ex cept on Friday evening, when, as has been announced in the different papers, Prof. Wm. B. Hall, assisted by the best musical talent of the city, will give a grand musica entertainment before the Institute, tickets of admission to which will be twenty-five

THE POTTSVILLE DIRECTORY .- We have received a neatly-bound copy of Lant's Pottsville Directory, compiled by Col. M. W. Lant, and published by J. M. Westhaeffer, of 44 North Queen street, this city. It is a valuable little work, and is gotter up in the neatest and best style. It was printed by Cooper, Sanderson & Co. Col. Lant is the most indefatigable and correct

PRESENTATION OF SILVER SERVICE TO AN OLD LANCASTERIAN.—James M. Boon, Esq., a native and former resident of Lancaster, and the only son of our esteemed fellow-citizen, Col. James Boon, has been the recipient recently of an elegant set of pure silver service from the employees of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Shops, at Fort Wayne, Indiana of which he has been the gentlemanly and efficient Foreman for the past six years. The Daily Gazette of that city says that "it is a chaste and beautiful set of modern design, highly finished, consisting of ten pieces, neither galvanized nor plated, but made o pure sterling silver, costing four hundred and forty-five dollars, from which the manufacturer, A. H. Miller, Esq., of Chicago, deducted a liberal discount on account of the purpose for which it was purchased." The same paper, of the 29th ult., contains an interesting account of the presentation and reception of the beautiful and appropriate gift, from which we extract the following

Half past eleven on Saturday forenoon October 27, 1896, was the hour appointed for presentation. Isaac Dripps, Esq., Master Machinist, with his usual kindness, gave permission to have the whistle blown at the ppointed hour. At the same time was teard the booming of the "Little Giant, heard the booming of the "Little Giant," commanded by a company of artillerists belonging to the shops. In an instant all work was suspended, when the employees and others, including a fair sprinkling of the gentler sex, in all about one thousand persons, repaired to the South end of the spacious machine shop, where the articles for presentation were tastefully arranged. A messenger was dispatched to summon Mr. Boon to the theatre of attraction. Never make assertions about her that von hink are untrue, or allusions that you feel she herself would blush to hear. Many a worthy woman's character has been forever ruined and her heart broken by a lie, manufactured by a villain, and repeated where it should not have been, and in the presence of those whose little judgment could not deter them from circulating the foul and flendish report. THE POPULATION OF LANCASTER.—The ote of Lancaster City, at the recent elecion, was within a small fraction of 3600.-This, allowing one voter to every 61 of the inhabitants, which is the estimate gener ally given in the old States, would indicate a total population of not less than 22,000and this, we think, is rather under than ver the mark. If we are correct in this view, then the increase, since the last census was taken in 1860-1, is a little over 5,000, or at the rate of about 1,000 per annum. If this ratio of increase holds good for the payt ten years. Lancaster City will be able o show a population of over 30,000 souls.

IMPORTANT TO TOBACCONISTS.-Unde he Internal Revenue Law of July 13th. 1866, all Tobacconists are required to give bonds to the Collector, and will not be permitted to manufacture Cigars, Snuff or Chewing Tobacco until such bonds are given. It therefore becomes highly impor ant for the community at large to examine the law and comply with its requirements

DEATH OF JACOB B. TSHUDY, ESQ.-

acob B. Tshudy, Esq., a life-time resident of the village of Litiz, and one of the bestknown citizens in Lancaster county, died on Thursday afternoon, at his residence in that village, after a short but very painful illness. He was a successful merchant, prompt, honorable and reliable in all his lealings with his fellow men, and also filled many positions during his life of trust and esponsibility. He was the first Treasurer of the Reading and Columbia Railroad Company, and for many years, and up to he day of his death, Secretary and Treasurer of the Lancaster and Litiz Turnpike. He was exceedingly affable and polite in ntercourse, and was respected by all who knew him for his many virtues and social ualities. He took a lively interest in all that pertained to beautifying and increasing the prosperity of the village in which he resided. In every sense of the word he was a public-spirited citizen. He leaves an interesting family to mourn his demise, and his loss to the community in which he spent a useful life will long be severely felt EMPLOYMENT FOR LIFE,-Under the above caption the Pittsburg Commercial has very sensible and will-timed article, which should be read by every youth in the land. We commend it to the careful consideration of the youths of this city: "It is said that if a merchant or any man wants a clerk and advertises at the same time, it is a matter of while, at the same time, it is a matter of no small difficulty to secure an adequate supply of apprentices to learn good handicraft trades. These we do not take to be good signs of the tone of feeling among our older boys and our younger class of young men who have their business in life yet to choose. It is inferred from these facts, and we see no error or defect in the logic, that there is, among the candidates for future business, standing and prossperity in the country, a among the candidates for future business, standing and prosperity in the country, a prevailing and somewhat uniform prejudice against personal and physical labor.

"We have nothing to say in the least degree disparaging to clerkships, whether they be at the counter or at the desk, in the store, the office, or the banking house. But the number of such situations is necessarily limited, and cannot afford places for all the rising young men of the generation. Besides, the advantages of them are greatly overrathe advantages of them are greatly overr ted, as the more thoughtful and provider of those who occupy them will testify. Their present pay may be more than that of a journeyman at a trade, though this is far from being allways so, but they have not the same prospect of increase as a good work man at any trade has when he sets up for himself. But, after all the trials consafe resort. But, after all the trials connected with the season of apprenticeship—trials which might be greatly diminished by humane and christian treatment on the part of employers and their families—the attainment of a good trade, to a steady and virtuous young man, is enough to compensate for them. If taken in a moody, cross or despairing condition of the mind, digestion is much less perfect and slower than when taken with a cheerful disposition. The very rapid and silent eating—too common among Americans-should be avoided, and some topic introduced at meals that all may partake in; and if a hearty laugh is occa sionally, indulged in, it will be all the better. It is not uncommon for a person dining in pleasant and sociable company to eat nd digest well that which, when eaten alone and the mind absorbed in some deep study or brooding over cares and disappointments, would be long undigested in the stomach, causing disarrangement and pain; and, if much indulged in, become the cause of permanent and irreparable injury to the system. DEMOREST'S YOUNG AMERICA is the title of a new and very attractive Magazine for Boys and Girls, that will both delight and instruct them. It is furnished at $1.50 yearly, and with other inducements in the way of Premiums. Single Copies, 15 cents. SINGULAR AFFECTION OF A GANDER!-History records that on a memorable oc casion Rome was saved by the cackling of geese. It does not say, however, that it was from any suddenly conceived affection of the web-footed fowls for the inhabitants of the Seven-Hilled City. It must have been then, because the geese were disturbed in their slumbers by the foes of the Romans. At any rate Rome was saved, and although it has lost much of its pristine glory and splendor, still it is revered and honored as having been centuries ago the seat of wisdom and learning.

But it was not about Rome, either ancier or modern, that we intended to write; it is of the singular affection of a Gander that has come under our observation. We have read of tame geese and wild geese, and have frequently tested the qualities of a dead oung goose, after it has been properly basted and roasted. Webster defines a goose to be "a well-known aquatic fowl, of the genus Anser, but the domestic goose lives chiefly on land, and feeds on grass. The soft feathers are used for beds, and the quills for pens. The wild goose is migratory.' But it is not even of this we intended to write; it is, as we said before, of the singular affection of a Gander. We have heard of the affection of the geese one for another and have frequently been an interested gazer of a procession of geese, single file, neaded by a "gay old gander." In our poyhood days we were wont to be delighted with a negro song, given in Kunkel's inimitable style, of the courting scene between a gentleman of the "genus Anser," and a ady of the same species. The chorus was คน follows:

O look-a thar! O look-a whar? O look right over yonder, And don't you see the old gray goose A-smiling at the gander? But we started out to write something bout the singular affection of a cander and. for fear our readers will become impatient, ime promising to

Nothing extenuate, Nor aught set down in malice." Some weeks ago a gentleman, residing in the eastern part of the city, was the fortuinte possessor of two Ganders, who loved each other with an affection that tongue annot speak nor pen write about. But an evil day came, the aquatic gentlemen had quarrel, and agreed to separate. When hey met it was to be as perfect strangers to each other. The one Gander attached himself to the person of a young man named Lambert, who is also a resident of the eastrn part of the city, and from that day to this this Gander has been as constant and aithful as any spouse could be. Every where the young man goes the gander is sure to follow him. In the morning it will appear at the front door of his residence and patiently await his appearance. If he happens to have escaped the observation of he Gander, the poor fowl flies from corner ns found the object of its search. Its de light on seeing him is manifested in different ways. On Saturday morning, whilst conversing with a gentleman in the P. R. R. Depot, our attention was called to the movements o this Gander. Young Lambert, who was carrying a valise down Chestnut street to the depot, commenced running, and no sooner had he done so than the gander, which had been following after him all the while, began to fly. A number of gentlemen witnessed these singular movements and were much amused and still more as tonished. The above is no mere fancy sketch, but is an actual occurrence which is taking place every day. We never heard or saw the like before and concluded to give our readers the facts of the singularly-conceived affection of a Gander! FUNERAL OF JACOB B. TSHUDY. ESO. The funeral of the late Jacob B. Tshudy Esq., which took place on Sunday in the village of Litiz, was the largest ever witnessed in the northern part of the county. There were a large number of person present from this city. The funeral ser vices were conducted in the solemn and impressive form of the Moravian Church. while the funeral sermon was being eached in the church by the pastor, Rev. .. F. Kampman, the coffin containing the body was deposited in the dead house, the id of the coffin removed, and the friends and assembled spectators permitted to take a last look at one who was respected in life nd whose memory is revered in death. After the services in the church, the choir, accompanied by a trombone band, sung a funeral dirge, and the body was subse quently interred in the burial ground. Upon these was placed a layer of sawdust, and so on until the box was filled. The boxes, after being the box was filled. The boxes, after being packed in this way, were placed on the wall in the cellar, up from the ground, where they kept perfectly sound, retaining their freshness and flavor, brought out and ex-hibited at the fair."

THE REAPER DEATH,-The Reaper Death has been busy gathering his victims in our midst the past few days. It is with regret that we announce to-day the rather sudden decease of our friend Mr. E. M. Hartman, one of the Letter Carriers in the City Post ()ffice. He had been ill for about ten days, but was attending to his duties, and it was only on Saturday evening that he was compelled by a complete prostration of his system to be confined to his bed. He died last night, at his residence in North Lime street. He leaves a young wife and child and a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn his early loss.

A HINT TO LADIES.-An Eastern coten porary, who has evidently been shoved into the mud, and also been in danger of having his eye put out by the tip of an umbrella arm, takes revenge in the following language: "Ladies, when two of you are walking side by side, taking up every inch of the cross-walk, and the day is rainy and the mud deep, don't think of such a thing as for one of you to step behind the other, so as to allow one of the "lords of creation" what a misnomer! to pass you dry shod, but always do as you did—crowd him off into the mud, and keep your umbrellas bolt upright, too; it's no difference to you if he has to hold his at arm's length away. from him so as to avoid a collision with yours; and then it looks so lady-like and will at once proceed to do so, at the same becoming for you to assert your superiority upon every such occasion."

This advice may not be amiss in Lancas NEW CATTLE YARD,-Our enterprizing fellow-citizen, Jas. Stewart, Esq., is about establishing an extensive cattle vard near the Norris Locomotive Works.
