e. Prof. Rathvon read the following article in relation to connections existing between Ornithology and Entomology, and their Ornithology and Entomology, and their relations to agriculture. The question of the position which birds occupy as protectors of the various productions of the soil, against the destructions caused by noxious insects, is one that is engaging the attention of the whole agricultural world, and the examination of the stomachs of birds at different capacity of the year, reveals the fact of what ons of the year, reveals the fact of wha their food consists in, at those differen their food consists in, at those different periods. And here permit me to say, that although examinations by different individuals have been made during the last five years, of a large number of bird's stomachs, and although thousands of insects of various kinds have been found in them, yet I can not recall a single recorded instance, in which the carcadio, that destroys of plants charged as a constant of the carcadio of the last plums cherries, &c., was found. I have plums cherries, &c., was found. I have a faint impression that Dr. Trimble, State Entomologist of New Jersey, on a single occasion, found a few. Many birds that feed on seeds and fruits, feed on insects of different kinds, before those seeds and fruits are in season, and therefore, they perhaps prevent a great deal more injury from insect depredations, than they thomselves could possibly inflict upon the crops they feed on, while they are in season. For instance, the author of "Anderson's Recreations" says, that doctor Bradly has compated that a pair of English sparrows carried to their young, in one week, not less than three thousand three hundred and sixty caterpillars, at which rate, in the course of three months, this family would consume 43,000,680 caterpillars. We have various species of sparrows in this country, similar in habits to the English species. Let any man, therefore, compute the damage aint impression that Dr. Trimble, State similar in labits to the English species. Lot any man, therefore, compute the damage of these caterpillars, and the infinite progeny that are likely to have issued from them, had they been permitted to reach the winged state, and he may then see how wise it is to destroy a bird, because it chooses to make a descent now and then on fruit, after its long senson of animal food. I venture to say, that even the much hated erow has claims to our consideration, for crow has claims to our consideration, to the grubs and cutworms he feeds upon a certain seasons of the year. THE CRYSTAL BRIDGE OVER THE SUS QUEHANNA.-The Wrightsville Star says the present crystal bridge over the water of the Susquehanna is strengthening daily by the cold weather, and proves a great con venience to quadrupeds as well as to bipeds. A red fox was seen crossing the ice on New Year's day; a half mile above town. Reynard commenced the new year by changing his residence from Lancaster to York county, in a very leisurely manner, not being molested by man or dog during his transit. An otter was also seen on the ice, not far from town, a few days since. Whether he too preferred York to Lancas ter county, deponent sayeth not. I gave the usual alarm and two or three short whistles, when found he would not get out of the way. found he would not get out of the way. I immediately, put on the brakes. When I stopped, the man was on the cow catcher of the locomotive. The distance from where I first saw him was about one hundred and fifty yards; his body was carried about seventy-five yards. I supposed at the time he was one of the repair men. Dr. Houston, who examined the body, found no marks on it, but supposed the shock was sufficient to cause his death.

The verdict was, accidentally killed while walking on the railroad.

STOLEN PROPERTY RECOVERED.—Guided by the confession of John Clark, who was arrested for horse stealing, officer Baker found the horse and sleigh belonging to George Insley, of New Jersey, and for which a reward of two hundred dollars was offered, at the public house of Lewis Suter, in this city. CATTLE WEIGHT .- The only instrument necessary is a measure with feet and inches marked upon it. The girth is the distance around the animal just behind the shoulder blades. The superficial feet are obtained by multiplying the girth by the length. The following table contains the rule to ascertain the weight of the animal:

If less than one foot in girth, multiply superficial feet by eight.

If less than three and more than one, multiply superficial feet by eleven.

If less than five and more than three multiply superficial feet by sixteen.

If less than seven and more than five, multiply superficial feet by twenty-thre
If less than eleven and more than nin

If less than eleven and more than nine, multiply superficial feet by forty-two. Example: Suppose the girth of a bullock to be six feet three inches; length five feet six inches; superficial area will then be 34, and in accordance with the preceding table the weight will be 782 pounds.

Example; Suppose a pig to measure in girth 2 feet, and in length i foot and 9 inches. There will be 31 feet, which multiplied by 11, gives 387 pounds as the weight of the animal when dressed. In this way the weight of the four quarters can be ascertained substantially during the life of the animal.

Two New Patents .- John Best of this City, has received letters patent for improvement on Steam Boilers; dated Jan. 8th 1867. This improvement consists in proyiding a gas burner or chamber over the furnace in front of the boiler and central partition so as to carry the heat under the boiler, then upwards on the water level, for wards through the chamber where the gaseous products are again inflamed and carried back on the water level again to the stack, thereby greatly economizing and wholly utilizing the fuel.

Franklin Brua of Gordonville, Lancaster ounty. Pa., also obtained letters patent for inprovement in Harvester Rakes, dated the same day, Jan. 8, 1867. This is a simple, durable and highly efficient raking ttachment and performs its office with perfect satisfaction. perfect satisfaction.

The next news we get of this body is contained in a resolution that has just passed Congress appropriating "fifteen thousand dollars for the expenses of the retrenchment committee." A sensation was created in Girard, Pa, last Friday, by the abduction of a little girl named McIntyre, nine years of age, daughter of M. F. McIntyre, from one of the schools of Girard. On the evening preceding, a gentleman and two ladies arrived at Girard, by rail, and the next morning one of the ladies consulted a lawyer as to getting possession of the little girl, she claiming to be her mother. The lawyer would not assist her, and the ladies then called at the Academy, when the young Miss immediately recognized one of the visitors as her mother. The two ladies immediately left the school with the girl, and took the first train for Pittsburg, en route for California, the school with the girl, and took the first train for Pittsburg, en route for California, where the mother resides. While in Girard, the lady stated she had married McIntyre some years ago in Michigan, but left him with their daughter, owing to ill-treatment, and started for California, where her relatives resided. The husband followed, abducted the girl from her mother, and moved to Girard. Mrs. McIntyre subsequently got a divorce, married a wealthy gentleman of California, and for nearly a year has been hunting her child. The color of the sky at particular times affords wonderful good guidance. Not only does a rosy sunset presage good weather and a ruddy sunrise bad weather, but ther and a raddy sunrise bad weather, but there are other tints which speak with equal clearness and accuracy. A bright yellow sky in the evening indicates wind; a pale yellow, wet; a neutral gray color constitutes a favorable sign in the evening, and an unfavorable one in the morning. The clouds are again full of meaning in themselves. If their forms are soft, undefined, full and feathery, the weather will be fine; if their diges are hard, sharp and definite, it will be foul. Generally speaking, any deep, unusual hues betoken wind and rain, while the more quiet and delicate tints bespeak fair weather. These are simple maxims, and yet not so simple but that the Britisth Board of Trade has thought fit to publish them for the use of sea-faing men.

is two hundred and eighty thousand four hundred and thirty-live dollars and eleven cents ($28,4,5,1,1). The Board congratulates the Company that the losses have been compositely small since the nast assessment was made, on the 14th of November, 1835, and are as follows, to wit:

Tripple 6 Wartel, a partial ioss to their store and contents, $25,07, op the 8th of December, 1835, George W. Compton, barn and contents, $45,00 on the 4th of Anuary, 1895; A. G. Kliman, a partial rost, to store and warehouse, $2,9,00, on the 7th of July; William Moneel, $4,000, on the 7th of July; William Moneel, $2,9,00, on the 7th of July; William Moneel, $1,000, on the 2th of September; and George H. Kutter, a partial loss to his house, $13,00-making in the aggregate $1,943.7; from which deducting the resources of the Company, serves the indebtedness at this time $1,80,03. As a portion of the amount yet due for assessment No. 17, may not be collected, this amount may be somewhat increased in consequence thereof. As it would require less than one-half of one per cent, on the amount of premium notes to meet this indebtedness, the Board determined not to lay an assessment to rice yet of the present, as money can be berrowed, the interest on which will be less than the expense of advertising and collecting.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
