GROUND HOG DAY .-- Among other super stitions which provail among the German population of Pennsylvania, no one is more universally noticed than that which prediety the character of the weather which a to follow the second day of February from the character of the day itself. If the day be fair and sunshiny, the universal belief is that six weeks of rough weather will inevitably follow; if it be cloudy all day long the backbone of winter is regarded as broken, and pleasant weather anticipated. Some say that so surely as the sun shines through the crevices of the stable, so surely will snow blow through repeatedly befor spring. But the more general character of the prediction is contained in the report that regularly on the morning of the second day of February the ground hog creeps out of his hole, and if he sees his shadow he retires at once for another nap of six weeks duration. If, however, this weather-wise creature is greeted by a cloudy sky, he knows that open weather is to follow, and proceeds at once on his spring campaign. If there be any truth in the belief the worst of the present winter is over, for no ground hog could see his shadow on this second day of February, and no sunlight glinted through the chinks of any house or stable. We hope the ground hog may prove to be not otherwise than weather-wise.

ODD FELLOWS' THANKSOLVING .-- By direction of the Most-Worthy Grand Lodge of the United States, the 26th of April proximo, (which is the anniversary of the stablishment of the Order of Odd Fellows in this country) has been selected by the Most Worthy Grand Sire of the Order, Hon. READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS IN YOUR HOME PAPEB.—An exchange very truth fully says, the man who does not read the advertisements in his home paper, can never be said to be well posted. The milvertisements indicate not only the business enterprise of the place in which they are published, but the enterprise of the advertiser. When you see a man who advertise liberally, you may be certain of finding a good stock of goods in his store, that h keeps up with the market, and sells cheaper than those who do not advertise, If you want good bargains always patronize those who avail themselves of the advantages afforded through the advertising columns of the home papers.

SPRING WHEAT FROM RUSSIA FOR DIS-TRIBUTION .- The Commissioner of Agriculture is in receipt of a large quantity of the celebrated Amantaka (spring) wheat from Odessa, Russia, imported by the department for distribution among the agriculturists of such sections of the country as successfully cultivate spring wheat. The weight of this grain is about sixty-five pounds, and its superiority, it is stated, has been tested during the past season on the experimental farm of the department. It will be distributed with the assurance that its general introduction will prove of great benefit to the wheat growing interests of

DEATH OF HENRY S. MAGRAW.-Col. Henry S. Magraw died in Washington city. on Friday morning last, at 81 o'clock. The news of his death has caused a feeling of profound sorrow to prevail throughout ancaster, whose whole population may b counted among his friends A special despatch to the Press of Saturday gives the following particulars of the attack which has resulted in Mr. Magraw's death: death:

Hon. Henry S. Magraw.—On Tuesday evening, about six o'clock, while Hon. Henry S. Magraw, formerly of Pennsylvania, now of Maryland, was walking along Pennsylvania avenue with a friend, he was relaxed it and stepned into an adjoining Pennsylvania avenue with a friend, he was taken ill and stepped into an adjoining house for the purpose of obtaining relief. Shortly after he was prostrated by a severe stroke of apoplexy, from which, it is feared, he cannot recover. He has lain insensible during the whole of to-day—being unable to recognize his most intimate friends. Word was immediately despatched to his personal friend, Senator Cresswell, of Maryland, who, in company with Honorable John L. Dawson. of Pennsylvania, Maryland, who, in company with Honorable John L. Dawson, of Pennsylvania, and others, called for the purpose of rendering assistance to the unfortunate man. They telegraphed for Mrs. Magraw, who arrived this morning, and is now attending upon her husband. Mr. Magraw had been in Washington for several days, and although not looking very well, appeared to be in excellent spirits. He has been attended by Doctors Helliy, Miller, Johnson, and Hall, and they have very little hope. Mr. Magraw has filled a very little hope. THE BREAKING UP OF A HARD WINTER The thunder storm of Saturday night yould lead us to believe that we are to hav a regular break up of the hard winter we ave been experiencing. For more than an hour the people of our city were startled by lightning of the most vivid character while the thunder was as loud and as con inuous as in summer. The rain poured lown in torrents, and no requisite of a first class thunder storm was wanting. It cleared off with a warm wind from the south, and on the following morning the sun shone ou with the pleasant warmth and genial brightless of early spring. Our crowded streets told with what a welcome this change was greeted. A thunder storm of such a character at this season of the year is of a very rare

The meeting pened with a decided improvement in the ttendance of members, and after the usual eading and adoption of the minutes of th ast meeting, a large number of gentlemen of the highest character in the county were proposed by their friends and elected as embers, many of whom were present igned the Constitution, and participated n the business of the society. The following named gentlemen were elected: Dr. E. B. Herr, Benjamin Ken

Hoffer he editor of the Mount Joy Herald, wa lected an honorary member of the society Prof. S. S. Rathvon entertained the s lety in his usual agreeable manner by eading an admirable essay on the relations xisting between ornithology and ento ology, two topics with which Mr. Rath on is compared with any other gentleman of this section par excellence well acquaint ed. Upon the subject of entomology, o any of the corelative branches, the views o Mr. Rathvon can be regarded as reliable to the fruit-grower; and it is not too much to say that he justly deserves what he has ac quired abroad—the reputation of being the Entomological Nestor of Pennsylvania Convinced of the utility of disseminating cor rect information on the subject of Entomo logy, the society asked of him a copy of his ssay for publication. Some views in this say elicited a few practical remarks from Casper Hiller, H. M. Engle, and other ractical and scientific fruit-growers. A matter of great importance-that of the distribution of choice varieties of fruit-

was discussed; and it was determined that at the March and April meetings of the Society, a number of gentlemen who hav extensive collections of fruit trees (apples peurs, peach trees, &c.) would come prepare o furnish grafts to any who might desire to increase their collection of fruits, and in this way enlarge the usefulness of the So clety. At one of these meetings an exper will give instructions in the art of grafting fruit trees, and will practically illustrate in the presence of the Society the manner in which this branch of Horticulture is per formed. Although in the midst of Winte there was a respectable exhibition of fruit viz : Apples and Pears. Casper Hiller, the Prince of Lancastor Nursery Men, had on xhibition specimens of the following varisties : The Lady Apple, Pittsburg Pipin, Golden Pipin, Greist's Winter, Norton's Melon, the Baldwin, Hubbardston's Nonsuch, York, Imperial, and the celebrated Newtown Pipin. Indeed the Lancaster County Horticultural Society is rapidly becoming one of the fixed institutions of our county ind, as all its members can affirm, much pleasure and profit flow from an associa ion with this young but flourishing Society At the next meeting of the Society, Casper Hiller will read an essay upon an Horticul-tural topic, and from Mr. Hiller's long exorience as a fruit grower, his auditors ca promise themselves that they will hear something of practical utility. Sensation.—On Monday afternoon, Front street was the scone of "almost a tragedy." It appears that a Constable of York arrived in this place in quest of an "American citizen of African descent" by the name of Isaac Davis. The "gemman" was soon found and in company with the Constable proceeded to the Bellevue House, and just as they were to enter the Hotel, Davis thought it would be the best policy to travel. He made a leap and started down Front street, with the Constable in full pursuit. A "navy" was brought into requisition; one shot was fired; "nig" would not stop; Constable fell down; nigger turned the corner at Locust, and was lost to "sight and nemory dear" of the Constable; "nig" escaped; Constable could'nt find him, and returned to the Hotel, lamenting his mafortune. Afterwards he secured the services of Constable McGimnis, and the black-bird was soon overhauled, and his arms pinoned behind his back and a free sleigh ride furnished him to York. Letter from Harrisburg.

MB. EDITOE—I promised some weeks since to drop you an occasional letter during the session of the Legislature, but have failed to keep my promise so far. You kept your readers so well posted during the contest for the Senatorship that you left me little room to make up anything in the shape of an interesting letter. Since that fight ended times have been rather dull here. There was a crowd of anxious and very hungry applicants hanging round the Executive chambers until Governor Geary had disposed of the few offices in his gift, but it was soon distinctly understood that none stood any chance unless they could perform the war dance of the Winnebago tribe. The last crumb has been given to those who were selected by Cameron, and Geary Letter from Harrisburg.

and the control of th

who were selected by Cameron, and Guary s no longer dogged by the greedy crew. There has been a marked difference in the There has been a marked difference in the style of living of some of the solons since the Senatorial election. Several who came here determined to live economically and who took lodgings at cheap boarding houses, have moved into luxurious apartments at the Lochiel and now dine and wine sumptuously every day. It is more than suspected that they have found legislation a profitable business. profitable business.

To all appearances this promises not to be a profitablesession for the lobby thieves and mercenary members. The "diveys" up to this time have been wonderful small, except on the Senatorial question, and the conse-quence is that the legislative market is much depressed, and prices range very low. The determinution of the Pennsylvania The determination of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad to cut down dead heads to the narrowest possible margin has caused some grumbling among new members. Some of them promised to secure passes for friends, and now find themselves utterly mable to do so. Some of the old members Some of them promised to secure passes for friends, and now find themselves utterly unable to do so. Some of the old members of the House and Senate are glad to be rid of the bore. The system was a wrong one from the beginning, and the public will be glad to know that the managers of the road have determined to cut it up by the roots. Hundreds of men have heretofore held annual passes, who were not entitled to any such privilege. The Directors of the road have not begun the reform a bit too soon. As I said, some of the new members would like to secure passes for friends. Now and then the subject is discussed. I beard one declare, rather jocularly, to be sure, that if the road did not "come down" he would introduce a bill compelling the company to fence in the line. The proposition was regarded as a brilliant suggestion, but I rather guess it will not pass into a law.

Large as the Radical majority is in both houses, the Democrats are more than a match for their opponents in talent. This has been proven whenever there has been room for display in debate. Somehow the average of ability in the Radical ranks is lower this session than usual. They have only a single man of marked strength in the Senate, Mr. Landon, of Bradford. In only a single man of marked strength in Senate, Mr. Landon, of Bradford the House Mr. Quay, of Beaver, is their best man, and there are at least half a dozen the House Mr. Quay, of Beaver, is their best man, and there are at least half a dozen Democrats there who are his superior in every respect.

To-day the debate was concluded in the Senate on the unmanly resolution of the Radicals protesting against the confirmation by the United States Senate of Edgar Cowan as Minister to Austria. After a short, carriest and manly protest against the resolutions and manual protest against the resolutions. earnest and manly protest against the reso-lution by Senator Burnett, from Monros, General Joe. Fisher, of your county, took floor, I suppose you are all fa-fair with his peculiar style of ora-y. Here it is newer, and consequent more noticeable. He seems not miliar with his peculiar style of ora-tory. Here it is newer, and consequent ly more noticeable. He seems not to know the difference between the Senate chamber of Pennsylvania and a Lancaster lager beer saloon—either that, or else he is atterly incapable of making a speech with the least show of dignity or decency about it. He "pitched in," to use a common vul-garism, with wonderful vebennence, and was as foul mouthed as any fishwoman in Billingsrate. There was not an original Billingsgate. There was not an original idea in his whole speech, and his stale old charges against the Democratic party were couched in coarse and commonplace terms. couched in coarse and common place terms. His style of speaking is peculiarly ungraceful and disagreeable. He went out of his way to attack individuals, and made a bloody ninded on shaught upon Alderman McMullen, of Philadelphia notoriety.—Finally he concluded with a poetical quotation, changed to suit his purpose. Planting himself in a tragle attitude he cried

Hope for a season bade the world farewell! And Old Berks shrieked as Hiester Clymer fell! And old Berks shrieked as Hiester Clymer fall.
This poetical outburst, delivered as it was in Mr. Fisher's most sensational style, brought down the house. The Democrats roared and the Radicals could not help chiming in. This reception of what he regarded as subline, caused your Senator to subside without the utterance of another received.

General McCandless, of Philadelphia, and General McCandless, of Philadelphia, and Senator Searight, of Payette, took occasion to administer a sharp rebuke to the toploftical representative from Lancaster. We could see him writhe under the keen surcasm of his opponents, which was couched in gentlemanily language. Senator Davis, of Berks, made a short and most excellent speaks in which by dealt the Radlesh's some speech, in which he dealt the Radicals some very severe blows. A speech from a weak and pompous character, who halls from Adams county, brought Senator Wallace to his feet, Mr. Wallace is rightly recognized as the leader on the Democratic side of the Sonate. His speech was short, but exceedingly well conceived.

He told the Radicals that they had received the Government from the hands of the Democratic at a time when there was ceived the Government from the hands of the Democrats at a time when there was peace, prosperity and freedom from debt; that after precipitating the most terrible civil war, and causing the whole land to run red with blood, they had as yet falled to bring back peace to the country; that they had plunged the nation into debt and burthened the people with the most oppressive taxation on the plan of preserving the Union, and yet, with all their pretences, they stood before the world in an attitude of hostility to the Union. He demanded to know what their policy was, declared they thow what their policy was, declared they and none, and asserted boldly that all the alk which he had heard on the opposite this which he had beard on the opposite side of the Senate only convinced him that the dominant party was dreaming of an Utopian Government, which should rest on the shoulders of negroes, while it afforded unlimited political plunder to those in the shoulders of negroes, while it allotted political plunder to those in power.

Mr. Wallace's speech brought Senator Landon to his feet. This Hadical gentleman is an ex-reverend, and no doubt finds in the Legislature of Pennsylvania better pickings than in any pastoral field he ever entered. He possesses all the peculiarities of his class, and as a speaker he is able and bold. He met the taunts of Senator Wallace honestly, and acknowledged squarely that he and his party were in favor of negro suffrage and negro equality. He eulogized Simon Cameron for declaring himself in favor of striking the word white from the Constitution of Pennsylvania, and declared his belief that it would be done speedily. With the speech of Senator Landon the debate closed, and the resolutions of censure were passed by a strict party vote.

In the House a little affair occurred this afternoon, showing how unscrupulous the afternoon, showing how unscrupulous the Radicals are, and how little to be trusted. A few weeks since in the town of Highspire, Dauphin county, a borough election was held, and the whole Democratic ticket was huppin county, a borough election was lelected. The town had only been incorporated into a borough a short time before. The defeated Hadicals have now appealed to the legislature for the purpose of getting the charter annulled. A bill was brought up in the House this afternoon, providing that anylelection shall be held next mouth to determine whether Highspire shall continue to be ranked in the catalogue of boroughs; and if a majority of votes are cast against continuing it as a borough, then any of the Democratic officers recently elected, are to be fined and imprisoned if they attempt to exercise any official duty. That looks like partisan legislation, but the most singular feature of the bill was that it was couched in such terms as to allow white men, women and negroes to vote. Mr. Boyle, of Fayette, who has made his mark as a leading man in the House, called attention to this singular generality and had it amended. But for his watchfulness the thing would have been snaked through as it was, it being private calendar day.

My letter has strung out to an almost t was, it being private calendar day. My letter has strung out to an almost atterminable extent. The Democratic State Central Committee is now in session here I may write you occasionally hereafter Dead Man Esten by Gulls.

A most shocking sight was presented in the river in front of Cairo on the 21st. The dead body of a man had become frozen fast in the floating ice, and when it passed Cairo there had gathered an immense flock of sea gulls around the corpse, and they were feeding off of it, and fighting over it. Some feeding off of it, and fighting over it. Some were perched upon the body gorging themselves as they tore the frozen flesh from the bones; others flapped around in the cold air, and still others were hopping about on the floating fields of ice, awaiting their turn at the repast. The awful spectacle floated by with the current of the river, and undisturbed passed from view.

The Contraction that is Going On.

The financial editor of the Chicago Republican writes as follows; "Capitalists and bankers all over the country are pursuing the same policy of contraction which Secretary McCulloch has inaugurated. So far as the banks are concerned, this is a matter of necessisty, and outside capitalists are governed by the same policy. Of course, all this reverts on trade and commerce; and in the West, were the banking capital is limited, the pressure is unusually severe. At the same time the stocks of breadsthifts are much lighter than usual, and that of provisions, though heavier than last year, is not considered beyond the capacity of the country. On Friday, Dec. 21, they made their appearance in a small number, near the fort, and challenged us to fight. Col. Carrington shedled them, killing a pony, and driving out thirty Indians from their covert. Capt. and Brevet Col. Fitterman, Capt. Brown and Licutemant Drumond were ordered out to protect the wood train, which had been attacked. Capt. Fitterman commanded the infantry, Lieut. Drummond the cavalry, numbering 27 men, and Capt. Brown some mounted teamsters and citizens, the whole force amounting to 81 men. About 50 of these were armed with Spencer rifies and the remainder with Springfield muskets. The officers, instead of obeying orders, allowed themselvas to be decoyed from the position they had been ordered to take, and consequently fell into an ambush and were all cruelly murdered. The writer, who is on duty at Fort Kearney, was ordered by Col. Carrington to proceed to a point five miles off, and ascertain if the wood train was safe and then join the command. CLIMAY.

A plain statement of facts. I inherited Scrofula, and inany of my relations have died of it. In 1829 my case was frightful. Tumors and theers spread until in 1842, under the advice of my physicians. I went to Avon Springs. I received no benefit—tried every medicine and did everything I could. I had to rest my arm on a cushion, and had not been able to raise it to my head for over a year. The discharge from two ulcers was nearly a pint a day. Amputation was recommended; but pronounced dangerous. I could not sleep, and my sufferings were intolerable. A friend brought me an English physician who applied a saive with which he said he had accomplished extraordinary cures in the hospitals in England, it commenced to relieve; persisted in its use; it finally effected a perfect and entire cure. It is now isse, it is five years since I full the appearance of ascrofulous sore, and my health has been good ever since. I procured the receipt of his wonderful article—this blessing of humanity—and have called it." PAME's Sessing of humanity—and have called it." PAME's and the receipt in a rest of the receipt of the sum of the receipt ordered the receipt of his wonderful article—inlessing of humanity—and have called it "Paus' Limax Salve," and allow the public to use it or no to they choose. This is a brief but candid statement riven more fully in my circular.
