release at the time promised I became angry and used pretty severe language to Matchett. He went to Ashley and Butler in alarm, and reported that I was going to expose the entire scheme to you.

After the persons I had sent for to New York, as witnesses, had returned, Ashley wrote, without my knowledge, to persuade them to come here again, and in his letters to two of them he thoughtlessly suggested some additions that it was desired they should make to their statements. He made these, suggestions by letter, as his letter explained, because he was not certain the these, suggestions by letter, as his letters explained, because he was not certain that he should be here when they arrived, or they might meet Bingham or some other person they had been introduced to when previously here, before he could see them and give them points, and he therefore wanted them "posted."

After my talking to him so severely on account of the failure to have me released at the time promised, D. F. Matchett became frightened and seemed to get theidea that I had his letters to those parties, and had sent them, or copies of them, to you. Possibly, in my anger, I had uttered as that I had his letters to those parties, and had sent them, or copies of them, to you. Possibly, in my anger, I had uttered as much. He, therefore, made known his fearrs to Ashley and Butler, and Ashley endeavored by this note to obtain the

The messenger could not be found and Booth asked Allen it he was too tired to waik as far as the Kirkwood House. Allen replied in the negative, when Booth, drawing forth the package which had been brought from Richmond, selected a letter addressed to Andrew Johnson, Vice President elect of the United States, and asked Allen to deliver it. Allen promised to do so, and then accompanied Booth to the barroom to first take a drink.

Allen can be produced as well as the friend who accompanied him to the Kirk-wood House, 'from Booth. Allen, before going to Richmond, had been led by Booth to believe that he was a confidential and secret agent of the Government, and that the letters written home by him had reference to peace propositions, which would speedily tend to a suspension of hostilities and a restoration of the Union. And also, that it can further be proved by two persons, formerly rebel soldiers, that Booth, on the first or second day before his death, fell in with them at Garrett's, and asked foll in with them at Garrett's, and aske their advice and assistance in his efforts to He informed them that he had escape. Private here follows, page 38, commencing; This, Mr. President, completes the full and literal recital of all the papers or other adhering data before me. The parcel comprising all but the pardon papers reached this office in an envelope from the Executive Mansion, endorsed, "Received from Mrs. Dunham, July 30, 1867." The papers having come from the hands of a person whose application for pardon was undergowhose application for pardon was undergo-ing official examination here, were, for very ing official examination here, were, for very obvious reasons, associated with it in considering the matter. Struck by their extraordinary character, yet remembering in how unexpected and casual a manner they had been received at the Executive office, I immediately determined that, until should have made this report, their quality and significance, whatever these may be, should remain unchanged by investigation, or by any extraneous connection or association whatever, not only of record, but as far as practicable in my own mind. but, as far as practicable in my own mind This course it is necessary to bear in recolection in the act of estimating the probable veight or value of the allegations. Never aving seen the handwriting of the Hon. J A. Ashley, I thought it due to him that M. Ashley, I thought it due to him that i should not proceed without acquiring a notion of his genuine chirography. I therefore exhibited that letter, which was written by Mr. Ashley to recommend the pardon of Dunham, to a gentleman acquainted with his handwriting. The latter, without hesitation, recognized that letter as genuine. The others etrikingly resemble it.

The others strikingly resemble it. In conclusion, T beg leave to express the profound sensibility with which I find myself obliged to bring to the serious notice of the President of the United States accusa-

I need not say how greatly astonished mankind could be, was it charged that a scheme so abominable was heightened still by the peculiar wickedness of attempting to induce the intended victim himself, through appeals to his clemency, to qualify by a pardon, with consequent competency to act and testify, the principal instrument of the imposture. But, impossible as the existence of such a conspiracy may seem, is not the President exposed to a grave accountability for what ever consequences may possibly follows. exposed to a grave accommanding for what ever consequences may possibly follow an incredulity far too generous in the premises, to be indulged merely because these adven-titious data have been thrust upon his casual notice by a party who has been dishonored by a criminal verdict, but who is still, in the expressed opinion of competent professional

High Prices to Continue. The Daily Bulletin, a commercial pape published in New York city, thinks the expectation that prices generally will be greatly reduced by the abundant harvest is not vell founded. It assigns reasons for its belief which will strike every reader as being sound and rational. It says:

sound and rational. It says:

Our system of taxation presses with great severity upon the producing classes, and will operate to prevent any marked reduction of prices. It should be remembered that a national taxation of four hundred millions a year, exclusive of onerous local and State taxes, stands between the producer and the consumer. This immense amount of taxes is distributed upon about four thousand articles of consumption, and is necessarily added to the original cost of production. Producers, about four thousand articles of consumption, and is necessarily added to the original cost of production. Producers, of course, add the interest of their taxes to the price of the article; thus increasing the price to the consumers still more. That our Tax system presses very severely upon the industry of our country, and has a very decided influence in maintaining prices is quite obvious to all who may take the trouble to investigate the subject. Unfortunately the prospect of a reform that may remedy the evil seems very remote, and it only remains to consider its effects.

A New Orleans writer furnishes the Northern papers with the following showy description of General Sheridan, his staff and equippage:

"The state carriage used is a landau, which opens at the top, so as to give an unobstructed view of the inmates. Therein sits the General, surrounded by members of his staff, bedecked all over with gold lace and gold buttons. To this vehicle are at tached six horses, and these are caparisoned vith the most elaborately ornamented har-less. All this finished off with a grand with the Host elaborates, states are ness. All this finished off with a grand display of long white plumes, tipped with red feathers, which are fastened to the horses' heads in such a fashion as to cause them to undulate in all the graceful muzes of poetical motion. The cortege is completed by a train of out-riders and guards, consisting of two regiments of mounted troops, who, on such occasions, appear in their best bib and tucker."

Mr. Eby had returned from camp meeting, and had laid his vest, containing a considerable amount of money across a chair, which was not disturbed. A bottle of "Old Reigart Brandy" attracted their attention, which of course they emptied.

RELIGIOUS .- The Rev. W. A. White expects to officiate at Grace Church, Gap Mines, on Wednesday night, Aug. 14, and on Thursday morning, Aug. 15. Also, at All Saints Church, Paradise, on Thursday night, Aug. 15.

Baptisms will be administered at any o these services, and the Holy Communion will be celebrated on Thursday morning. SUGAR.-The word sugar, says the Scientific American, is derived from the Bengaword shukkur, which is still in use in India. The Chinese were acquainted with the process of manufacturing sugar from cane more than two thousand years ago, but Europe did not use it to any extent prior to the discovery of the West Indies Chinese sugar was used in small quantities in Europe in the early times as Medicine. Although sugar cane is generally supposed to be indigenous to America, it has never been found growing wild on this continent. It was probably introduced by the early Portuguese discoverers. Next to the British the people of the United States use more sugar than any other nation in the world. THE OATS CROP.—Owing to the amount of rain that has fallen in the last three eeks, the farmers in this county have been unable to get their oats in. Much of the crop, which was a very fine one, has been lost. With oats at 60 cents a bushel, it will be seen that the loss is quite severe. The last two days of bright weather must have gladdened the hearts of many of our country friends, and we do not doubt that nany a load of oats has been safely housed.

NEW COUNTERFEIT .- A new and dan gerous counterfeit—National currency—5's denomination-has recently been put in circulation, which will most likely mislead careless handlers of money, and even the careful without close observance. On the left end of the note the wrist of the left arm of Columbus is scarcely visible, whereas in the genuine it is distinct. At top read "this note is secured by bonds." The letters "B" and "Y" are too far apart, and the "O" in "Bonds" is under the "Y," whereas the "B" in the same word is immediately under the "Y" in the genuine. The general appearance of the bill is a close imitation of the genuine.

BINKLEY'S BRIDGE.—The County Comoners and the Board of Directors of the New Holland Turnpike Company mel at Binkley's Bridgeon Monday afternoon to is meeting with great approval. view the broken arches of that ancient structure and to endeavor to arrive at some understanding as to what should be done petent judges to be first-class produc The Bridge appears to be in the interesting condition of having nobody who claims to own it. From what we were able to learn of its history, it was built in 1797, as a mere private enterprise, by a single individual Mr. Christian Binkley, the "original Jacobs" of all the Binkleys who have lived at the Bridge. It is, we believe, about three undred feet long, is built of limestone and contains seven or eight arches. When we consider its great size, its erection by a single private citizen excites both our wonder and our admiration. We have heard it stated that it was the first stone bridge erected in Pennsylvania, but not being booked up in the history of bridges we cannot say whether this is true or not. But this we know for a fact, that having reached the orthodox age of "three-score years and ten," the venerable structure has at last "peggeo out." And so the Commissioners and the Turnpike Directors, with a few "sympathizing friends" in the shape of members of the Printers' Paper Mill Company, met yesterday afternoon to view the remains and pay them whatever "tribute of respect" the occasion might seem to require. As already stated, nobody claims the ownership of the Bridge. The heavy expense he incurred in its erection embarrassed Mr. Binkley, and the County Com-missioners, as well as the authorities of some of the townships accommodated by southeast line, as it passed through the the Bridge, came to his assistance and paid anorthern end of this county and poured a part of its cost. The New Holland Turnpike Company was incorporated after the Bridge had been erected, and never had anything to do with it till 1857, when the Legislature passed an act which thenceforward required them to keep it in repair This, they maintain, does not impose upon them any obligation to build a new Bridge, or even to rebuild that part of the old one which has fallen. They express a willingness, however, to pay a part of the cost o erecting a new Bridge, and they ask the County Commissioners to make an approprintion for the same purpose. We believe the latter have resolved to call for the action of a Grand Jury upon the subject before determining to undertake the erection of a new Bridge. It must be clear to any one who will ex amine the old Bridge, that an entirely new one ought to be built. Other arches besides the two that have fallen are in an unsafe ondition and would be certain to fall down in the course of a very few years. A part of one of those now standing did fall down and was rebuilt not more than ten years ago, and its unsound condition at this early period after its reconstruction fully demonstrates the folly of patching up the old Bridge. It will be wise economy to build a new one, and if the act of 1857 does not impose this duty upon the Turnpike Company, then it is clearly incumbent upon the County authorities to take it in hand.

CAMP MEETING AT MANHEIM.-Sunday was a very pleasant summer day, and the attendance at the camp meeting near Manheim was very large. Nearly two thousand excursion tickets were sold by the Reading and Columbia Railroad at their depot in this city, two large trains being necessary to accommodate the crowd. Two trains were also run from Columbia and Reading. It is estimated that there were not less than fifteen hundred carriages on the ground, and the number of people present during yesterday could not have fallen much short of ten thousand. All who saw the multitude agree in saying that it was by odds the largest assemblage ever seen in this section. The grove where the meeting is held is a very beautiful one, the tents, about eighty in number, are handsomely located and arranged, the circle is large, the accommodations for seating people ample, the shade dense, and the preachers eloquent and zealous. The most erfect order is preserved, and throughout vesterday, notwithstanding the vast multitude present, there was not the slightest disturbance or disorder. Rev. Mr. Smith, of Chambersburg, preached in the and Rev. Thos. Miller, of Philadelphia, in the afternoon. Rev. Alfred Cookman was expected to arrive on Tuesday, and will renain during the progress of the meeting. Other distinguished ministers of the M. E. Church are expected to be present. The attendance will no doubt continue to be arge throughout the continuance of the meeting.

Successful Operation.-Yesterday Jno. B. Musser, of Elizabethtown, formerly a nember of the 191st Regiment Pa. Vols. had a minie ball removed from his side by Dr. Levergood. Musser was wounded at the battle of the Wilderness, after which he became an inmate of Haddington Hos pital, and although he repeatedly insisted on having an operation performed for the removal of the ball, the Surgeon having iim in charge declined operating. His sufferings becoming intense, he came to town yesterday, when Dr. Levergood performed an operation for its extraction suc-cessfully and expeditiously. During the operation the patient was kept under the influence of chloroform by Dr. Huber. Emanuel M. Shay, residing in N. Lime st. met with an accident resulting in his death on the railroad, at Shoch's Mills, near Columbia. Mr. S. was a brakesman on the road, and something being wrong with one of the wheels, he looked over to see what was the matter. As he did this, the blood rushed to his bead, and falling he was caught and badly crushed, after which he lived but a short time. Mr. S. served hon orably during the whole war, was a young man of very steady habits, and was liked

Horrible Casualty.—On Saturday last, Mr. John Richards living at Cecilton, met with a fearful accident in the following manner: He was engaged in driving a reaper in the field of Thos. T. Price, Esq., and carelessly rode on a saddle without a girth. The saddle horse becoming frightened, threw Mr. R. in front of the reaper, and before it could be stopped his right arm had been entirely severed above the wrist. But this was not all, Mr. R's body became entangled in the advancing knives, and one of them took effect on his neck. A large gash had been cut, and, with another vibration, the head must have been severed. But the saddle which had also fallen off, caught between the guards and stopped the motion of the knives just in time to prevent a fatal result. Horrible Casualty .- On Saturday last

CLIMAX.

A plain statement of facts. I inherited Scrofula, and many of my relations have died of it. In 1839 my case was frightful. Tumors and ulcers spread until in 1842, under the advice of my physicians I went to Avon Springs. I received no benefit—tried every medicine and did everything I could. I had to rest my arm on a cushion, and had not been able to raise it to my head for over a year. The discharge from two ulcers was nearly a plut a day. Amputation was recommended; but pronounced dangerous. I could not sleep, and my sufferings were intolerable. A friend brought me an English physician who applied a salve with which he said he had accomplished extraordinary cures in the hospitals in England. It commenced to relieve; persisted in its use; it finally effected a perfect and entire cure. It is now 1848. It is five years since I had the appearance of a scrofulous sore, and my health has been good ever since. I Procured the receipt of his wonderful article—this the state of the scrope of humanity—and have called it "PAOS'S CLIMAX SALVE," and allow the public to use it or not as they choose. This is a brief but candid statement given more fully in my circular.
