Below will be found the important part of a letter written by Thaddeus Stevens to M. D. G. Pfeiffer, a German scholar, who is said to have been in the habit of frequently consulting Mr. Stevens on public affairs for many years:

Whatever construction shall be given to the Constitution in its present condition by this Congress, and those nearest the great events which have modified it, will be likely to be accepted, through future time, as its true meaning. It is important, therefore, that the most beneficent interpretation should be given to it, and that it should be most liberally construed, so as to secure all human rights.

In the changed condition of our country and of that instrument, which, while it, as to the old States, may not be perverted, is not so inflexible as to be incapable of yielding to the changing necessities of humanity.

Before the Constitution was amended, I before the constitution was amended, I before the constitution was a mended. ing to the changing necessities of admands?
Before the Constitution was amended, I could not agree with some of my learned friends that Congress could intermeddle with State laws relative to the elective franchise in the United States. The circumstance of slavery seemed, while it was submitted to, to prevent it. After the amendment abolishing slavery I still doubted, and proposed a constitutional remedy, on the 5th day of December, 1865, in the following words: "All national *3 * laws shall be equally applicable to every citizen, and no discrimination shall be made on account of rare and color."

Since the adoption of the fourteenth amendment, however, I have no doubt of our full power to regulate the elective franchise, so far as it regards the whole nation, in every State of the Union, which, when tried, I hope will be so formed as to be beneficial to the nation, just to every citizen, and carry out the great design of the framers of the Government, according to their views expressed in the Declaration of Independence.

The lawgivers of America are now as free

Independence.
The lawgivers of America are now as free to act as Samson when the fire had touched the flak. May they never again be beguiled by any conservative Dellah—suffer their locks to be shorn, and their limbs to be bound by the withes of a twisted Constitution. The laws which were then intended to be interred must now be made universal. to be universal must now be made univers to be universal must now be made universal. The principles which were intended to govern the whole American nationality must now be made to cover and control its whole national action throughout this grand empire. Towns, corporations, and municipalities may be allowed their separate organization not inconsistent therewith, but must not incorporate any principles in conflict with those great rights, privileges, and immunities. and immunities.
What are those rights, privileges and im

what are those rights, privileges and immunities? Without excluding others, three are especifically enumerated: Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. These are universal and inalemable. It follows that overything necessary for their establishment and defence is within those rights. You grant a lot or easement in the midst of your estate, you thereby grant the right of way to it by ingress and egress.

Distrint a community, and you rob them of the means of defending life. Take away their weapons of defence, and you take away their weapons of defence, and you take away their weapons of defence, and you take away their weapons as a monit of the Declaration, and not merely a privilege, and is one of the rights and immunities pronounced by that instrument to be "indicable." If, as our fathers declared, "all just government is derived from the assent of the governed;" if in Federal republics, that assent can be ascertained and established only through the ballot, it follows that to take away that means of communication, is to take away from the citizen by great Meanon of defence. neans of communication, is to take away from the citizen his great weapon of defence, and reduce him to helpless bondage. It de-prives him of an inalienable right. This prives him of an innlienable right. This clearly proves that the elective franchise ranks with "life" and "liberty" in its sacred innlienable character.

But while the Declaration clearly proves what the intention then was, the action of the convention in framing the Constitution of the United States, it seemed to me, bartered away, for the time being, some of those inalmenable rights, and, instigated by the helish institution of slavery, suspended one of the muniments of liberty. Having thus shown that the elective franchise is the heliish institution of slavery, suspended one of the muniments of liberty. Having thus shown that the elective franchise is one of the malienable rights of man, without which his liberty cannot be defended, and that it was suspended by the arbitrary Constitution of 1789, let us see if that suspension has been removed, so as to leave our hands unrestrained in restoring its full vigor, while still acting under the Constitution. That right appertains to every citizen. But while this suspension existed, the natural love of despotism induced communities to hold that each State might fix the qualifications, rights, and deprivations of qualifications, rights, and deprivations of The fourteenth amendment, now so hap-adopted, settles the whole question, places every American citizen on a cet equality of rights, so far as merely onal rights and questions are concerned. perfect equality of rights, so far as merely national rights and questions are concerned. It declares that "all persons born, or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any person be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." liction the equal protection of the laws."

If by the amended Constitution every American citizen is entitled to equal privileges with every other American citizen; and if every American citizen in any one of the States should be found entitled to impartial suffrage with every other Ameriean citizen in any State, then it follows as an individual conclusion that suffrage throughout this nation is impartial and universal, so far as every human being without regard to race or color shall be found concerned, and so far as it affects the whole nation.

Can be who swears to support the Consti-American citizen is entitled to equal privi

Can he who swears to support the Consti tution in all its parts refuse to aid in carrying this into effect without clear direct rying this into effect without clear direct perjury? a worse perjury than would have been committed by those who, under the old Constitution, could not agree to that construction, and thus refused their aid to their fellow-men.

What a grand compulsion have these despots, rehels, and murderers finally forced upon the American Republic by their impatient, rash, and bloody acts! How they have aided the just men of the nation in producing this great good! It were well if they could claim some merit as a compensation for so great a crime. But if evil must come into the world, "but woe unto him through whom it cometh," I fear that if through whom it cometh," I fear that i good does come into the world through com-pulsion, no merit will be attributed to the annyilling actors. Let no man now, then, who belongs to this great Government, dare to stand up in the face of high heaven and longer deny to God's immortal beings the high, the inalicenable, the God-granted rights which his immortal Father gave them. Let no one in the past or in any future age at-tempt to pullate his offence, either before an earthly tribunal which is to decide be-tween God's creatures, or who is to plead his cause at the bar of a higher tribunal, yenture to insult Divine Justice by longer good does come into the world through com centure to insult Divine Justice by longer plending his inability to excute that justice We must remember that most of us are separated from the dread tribunal occupied by a Judge who cannot be deceived by the narrowest isthmus that ever divided time narrowest isthmus that ever divided time from eternity.

If every citizen of any State is entitled to all the malienable rights all the malienable rights, privileges, and immunities of this Government, and if one of those inalienable rights is the right to east his ballot for every man who is to take part in the government, show me the man who is so tampudent as to deny that suffrage by the ballot is due to every being within this realm to whom God has given immortality. He must be an impudent citizen, this realm to whom cool has given immor-tality. He must be an impudent citizen, and ought never to profess to believe in the existence of a Deity; for that a world could be created and governed without an over-ruling cause, is more feasible than such a Thrilling Railroad Accident. recom the Memphis Ledger, 26th.

While the freight train on the Mississippi Central Radroad was going southward on Tuesday morning from Grand Junction, the strick suddenly spread. The result was the amashing and almost completely demolition of one car, and the damaging or six others. Fortunately, no nerson aboard was indured. Cortunately, no person aboard was injured. On the same morning an accident occurred to the northward bound passenger train on the same road, eight miles from Holly Springs. The train was proceeding over a lenghty stretch of trestle-work, at full speed, suddenly the forward car ran off the when suddenly the forward cur ran on the rails and commenced jolling over the ties. The train was at least fifty feet from the ground, and at a distance of fifty yards from the end of the trestle-work.

The engineer, Mr. Savage, promptly regreat the argine horizon to ston the train versed the engine, hoping to stop the train before it could be precipitated below, which result seemed inevitable, but the impetus was too great, and marvelous as it may seem, the cars continued en route at grea specil, every moment lessening the distance between the trestle-work and the firm track between the tester with and the Interest beyond, and passing to a place of safety without a single car being detached or a single car injured. A gentleman aboard the train informs us that no words could design the burror of the passengers during the train informs us that no words could depict the horror of the passengers during the few moments of peril. All knew that the trestle work was a great distance from the ground, and every moment anticipated being hurled below. When the train finally stopped, the feelings of the lately imperiled passengers may be more easily imagined than described. During the perilous passage of the train, the conductor, Mr. Long, deeming its escape from destruction impossible, jumped from the platform of a car to the ground, a distance of thirty-five feet at that point. SEASONABLE WORDS .- Cool weather is SEASONABLE WORDS.—Cool weather is here; and it is a precursor of the cold season which is drawing near. Let us suggest that many places which have been unused to fires since last winter, will require looking to, as a prevention against accidents by fire. There may be cracked chimneys, with studding or cross-pieces of wood let into them, which needed overhatuling. Unused stove pipe holes should be closed with tin or sheet-iron stoppers; and stove pipe which sheet-iron stoppers; and stove pipe which enters a wall or flue should be secured with sheet-iron stoppers; and stove pipe which enters a wall or flue should be secured with zine flanges. Sell cracked stoves for old iron. All stoves should set firmly on their legs, and zinc or sheet-iron should be placed under them. Stoves should not stand nearer than two feet to any wooden material or to plastered lab; and any permanent wood work near a stove should be protected with zinc. Stove pipe should be put together securely, and should never be put through wood work or plastering, unless well secured with earthen pipe. Thus much on general account. We deem the advice important, and we urge it on our readers. We find the following cautions in the Bidde ford, Me., Union, and we transcribe them for their admirable sense:

Use those lumps only which are protected by glass chimneys, and have them trimmed and filled by daylight only.

Matches should be kept in metalic boxes, and never be permitted to be scattered around loose within reach of children and mice.

Put no ashes in wooden boxes. Ashes

If these hints suggest other precautions, and awaken our citizens, to give more attention to these matters, it may save some lives and prevent much destruction of property by fire.

INVENTIVE PRINTERS.—The Bellefonte editors are inventors as well as writers.— Mr. Meek, of the Democratic Watchman, has lately invented a patent galley, for the use of printers, which promises to be a useful and labor-saving article. It does away entirely with the quoins and side-stick, and the galley can be set in any position without "ping" the matter. He has applied for a patent.

the perilous passage of the train, the conductor, Mr. Long, deeming its escape from destruction impossible, jumped from the platform of a car to the ground, a distance of thirty-five feet at that point. The injuries sustained were of a trivial obaracter. This was one of the most remarkable rail-road accidents on record, and the escape of the passengers from either death or horrible mangling seems scarcely less than a miracle.

Mr. Kurtz, of the Central Press, in Bellefonte, has also invented a new galley, on a somewhat different principle, and will take out a patent. It locks by means or a screw can be turned upside down or placed in any position with impunity. Which of these two galleys will obtain the preference among printers will be seen in the future. They are both much needed and useful improvements.

Mr. farm near Beecher's mill, at Eden. Mr. Lightner being about to thrash some wheat and being short of hands, Mrs. Lightner volunteered her assistance. She took her position on the mow above the threshing machine, and receiving the sheaves which were tossed to her by another hand, unbound them and cast them down into the machine; she was standing on some straw and it is presumed slipped, for at the time mentioned, she suddenly fell down right into the teeth of the thresher, one arm and a knee heing thrust against the revolving into the teeth of the thresher, one arm and a knee being thrust against the revolving cylinder; its motion, although at the rate of 1500 revolutions a minute, being driven by five horses, was immediately stopped by her body. When taken out, her arm was literally ground to pieces and the cap of her knee ground off. Drs. Carpenter, Weidler, Levergood and King, were very soon in attendance, but beyond stopping the great effusion of blood, little could be done for her, as the reaction, which would enable them as the reaction which would enable them to take off the limbs had not set in.

It has, since that eventful epoch, been the custom of the Evangelical Lutheran Church to celebrate as a jubilee every fiftieth anniversary of the bold act of Luther with appropriate religious exercises. Thursday, being the 7th anniversary, or jubilee, the churches—German, Scandinavian, and English—were very generally decorated. The services had more than usual richness, and especially in music; sermons on the Reformation very generally decorated. The services had more than usual richness, and especially in music; sermons on the Reformation and kindred topics were preached and a practical character was given to the whole by systematic efforts to endow the Church institutions of learning, benevolence, and missions. There is a Lutheran population of about three million in this country. There are several Lutheran Synods in our State. Among these the Synod of Pennsylvania, the oldest Lutheran Synod in the United States, was specially active in this movement. She will endeavor to complete, during the coming jubile year, the endowment of Muhlenberg College at Allentown, and of the Divinity School at Philadelphia. In this city arrangements were made to celebrate the anniversary with becoming spirit, and they niversary with becoming spirit, and they

He was one of the oldest and best of our Pennsylvania Canal and Railroad contractors, and one of the very first, if not his first important contract, was entered into on the Lehigh Canal, under the Supervision of the writer, in the summer of 1827, or a little over forty years ago. In the conduct of that work he showed himself to be industrious, energetic and honest; and at that time we energetic and honest: and at that time we commenced a friendship which has always remained unbroken. We were afterwards remained unbroken. We were afterwards associated in other public improvements, and in every instance he proved himself not only capable, but honorable in all his transactions. Gradually he acquired wealth, and in 1857, or .hrty years after his beginning on the Lehigh Canal, he established a Banking House in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. He was very successful, and always noted for his liberality and genial disposition. He was a good man; and the world has net too many such. Forty years is a long period many such. Forty years is a long period to look back. In that period Pennsylvania has made wonderful strides in population has made wonderful stride; in population and wealth; and during all that time, Mr. McGrann was in some way connected with most of the public improvements of the State. When such a man departs, he leaves a void not easily supplied. Those who have known Richard McGrann longest, will agree with the writer, that this little expression of friendship and esteem, from one who knew nim well, is fully deserved. Could his shade look down and see the heart of the writer, he would know that heart of the writer, he would know the this tribute is sincere.

25 Schenck's Seaweed Tonic.
This nedicine, invented by Dr. J. H. Schenck, hiladelphia, is intended to dissolve the food at nake it into chyme, the first process of digestion. By leansing the somach with Schenck's Mandrak cleansing the somach with Schenck's Mandrake Pills, the Tonic soon restores the appetite, and food that could not be enten before using it will be easily digested.

Consumption cannot be cured by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup unless the stomach and liver is made healthy and the appetite restored, hence the Tonic and Pills are required in nearly every case of consumption. A half dozen bottles of the Seaweed Tonic and three or four boxes of the Mandrake Pills will cure any ordinary case of Dyspepsia.

MoMut's Life Pills and Phoenix Bitters, were first used in private practice in 1825. They were introduced to the public in 1825, since which time their reputation has extended, until they have a sale introduced to the public in 1833, since which time their reputation has extended, until they have a saie in excess of all other Cathartic and Puritying Medicines. There is hardly a family among civilized nations who have not personal evidence of their beneficial effects. Their great success is owing to their uniform reliability in cases of Constipation, Billious and Stomachic diseases, whether of long or short duration, They are entirely vegetable in their composition, and harmless to the gentlest lufant. One ingredient opens the pores of the skin; another is directle, and stimulates proper action of the kidneys; a third is emolient, loosening phiegm and humor from the lungs; other properties are warming and cathartic, and cleanse the stomach and bowels from unhealthy secretions. Their combined effect is, to regulate the impaired functions of the system, and to produce health. It is not asserted Moffat's Pills are a cure all—that they will cure all complaints—but under ordinary circumstances they may be relied upon to cure Nervous and Sick Headache Costiveness, Dyspepsia Indigestion, Jaundice, Liver and Billious Complaints Colds, Scurvy, General Weakness, 4c. They are expressly made for these diseases. Millions upon millious of cures can be cited. In no single instance has a complaint ever cometo our knowledge, where they have not operated as recommended.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM RAV. RICHARD S. EDES, OF BOLTON, MASS.

"For years I was a sufferer from Bolls, so that my life became wearisome through their frequent and persistent recurrence; finally a carbuncte formed in the small of my back.—During his progress large pieces of decomposed flesh were every day or two cut away, and the prostration and general disturbance of the system were great. Before I had recovered from this attack two smaller carbuncles broke out higher up, and I was again threatened with a recurrence of the sufferings to which I had so long been subjected. It was at this time that I commenced taking the PERU-VIAN NYRUP. I continued taking it until time that i commenced taking the PERU-VIAN SYRUP. I continued taking it until I had used five bottles; since then I have had nothing of the k.nd. For years I was one of the greatest sufferers, other medicines gave me partial and L importary relief, but this remarkable remedy, with a kind and intuitive sense, went directly to the root of the evil, and did its work with a thoroughness worthy of its established character."

Is the unquestioned fact that it purifies the biood, and equalizes its circulation througaout the wincle body. It is impossible to have a sound, healthy body, without pure blood.—The slightest disease no matter how trivial, where it is located, or what its character, is the direct result of some impurities classing in the blood; and if these impurities be not promptly expelled, sickness and disease, in some form, must be exhibited. In all diseases of the stomach, kidneys, liver, bowels, lungs and heart the blood is necessarily impure, and the more virulen' and dangerous the disease, the greater the impurities. One doctor told his parents that the bone was effected, and that in a short time small pieces of bone would work out, and it appeared that the boy was gettling worse instead of better, under their treatment, and indeed they could give no assurance of his cure.
