Local Intelligence. The Thirty-second Annual Commencement of Franklin and Marshall College was held on Thursday morning last, at 9 o'clock in Fulton Hall. A large and appreciative audience w assembled to hear the closing exercises of the Class of '68. To those who are about to enter the arena of active life, Commencement day is a yery solemn occasion. To their friends and the friends of the institution, the commencement exercises are always fraught with interest. At the appointed hour the Faculty, members of the Board of Trustees, and the Graduating Class took their position on the stage. Prayer was offered by the President of the Institution, the Rev. Dr. Novin. Music followed by the City Band. The Salutatorian of the day—Edward J. Durban, of Philadelphia, opened the exercises of the morning. After a few words of welcome, he turned to the "Niebelungen Lied"—the great German opes. Though an ople poem, he characterized it as dramatic also. The name Niebelungon is taken from a land, the place of which is not known. The poem may be divided into two parts—first that of love; second, revenge. He gave a brief delinention of this interesting German epic, and referred in conclusion to its position in German Literature. German epic, and referred in con-to its position in German Literature, nd the pride with which Germans turn to this their first and most celebrated opic.— The speaker was free and easy on the stage, out hardly did justice to himself. Ho should have entered into it with more animation. He was not forgotton by his friends. He was favored not with flowers only, but with was favored not with flowers only, but with cigars. Harry H. Hartman, of Lancaster, followed in an oration on the "Theory of Volcanoes," Man ever searches for the truth. Thus have old theories been abandoned; nower and more practical ones developed. Atlas has been relieved of his burden, and men have been taught to look for the origin of thunderbotts elsowhere than in ancient myths. The aqueous agencies are reducing the world to a level, which, if uninterrupted, would soon produces a universal doinge. Accumulation of matter at the bottom of the ocean produces pressure, which causes volcanie eruptions. These cruptions counterbalance the reduction by water and preserve the proper equilibrium of forces, and with them the world. The delivery was easy and natural, though lacking somewhat in curnestness. The speaker was rewarded with agenerous share of applauos, several bouquets and a string of pretzels. Joël T. Rossiter, of Blue Bell, Pa., had chosen the "Highway of the Pacific" as his, subject. The Inhabitants of Arabia were considered the first who devoted their attention to commerce with India. The great object of Egypt—and of Macedonia under Alexander atterward—was the establishment of commerce with the Indies. Through Vasco de Gunn's passage to the Indies by way of Good Hope, Portugal rose to be one of the finest commercial nations of that day. Columbus' efforts were rose to be one of the linest commercial tions of that day. Columbus' efforts were briefly alluded to. What others had long briefly alluded to. What others had long sought to do, we are finally doing by means of the great Pacific Railway. Our noble banner will soon be entering the wide domains of Asia. He spoke in eloquent terms of the influence which the Pacific railroad will exert, not only upon our land, but upon the whole world. He spoke slowly and deliberately. The speaker was graceful. He stood back a little too far on the stage. A fair share of bouquets. The oration on the Practical Nature of Philosophy, was delivered by Jas. E. Martin, of Martinsburg, Pa. The speaker took up various systems of philosophy to show that philosophy has a practical as well as a theoretical nature. Stoicism was exhibited to be solish. The destructiveness of the opicurem philosophy was proven of the epicurenn philosophy was proven from history. The French revolution was teachings of the day. The ovil effects of socialism in France, were graphically delineated. The speaker succeeded well in showing that philosophy is not all theory, as falsely supposed by many. Applause and several bouquets followed his effort. Edward P. Kremer, of Lebanon, Pa., discoursed upon "The ago of minstrelsy," While the natural world is unchanged, the moral world is ever moving onward and upward. The lyre remained for a long time untouched. The birth of minstrelsy was a necessary link in the civilization of medicful process, and paid a fearful penalty for doing untouched. The birth of minstrelsy was a necessary link in the civilization of medieval history. No Court was without minstrels. Wherever guity and mirth were found, the minstrel was present. It belonged to the age of chivalry and knighthood. The minstrels were the poets of the age. Minstrelsy was unable to stand after the downfall of chivalry. He entered into his address with great animation and enthusiasm. By his nervous earnestness, and clear enunciation, he succeeded in holding the attention of the audience. He was not forgotten by his fair triends.

J. Calyin Leinbach, of Myerstown, Pa.

his fair friends.

J. Calvin Leinbach, of Myerstown, Pa., followed in an oration on the "Pride of Intellect." Man is a fallen being. Truth should be the great foundation. The light should be the great foundation. The light of the understanding alone is not sufficient for man. The moral faculty must guide it. The presumption and pride of intellect always precede its fall. As long as humility walks side by side with intellect, nothing can bar its onward march. As with individuals, so with nations. Greece and Rome could not resist the necessary consequences. During the "heated term" the air is always ould not resist the necessary consequences flicentiousness. Intelligence is no longer timited to the few—but extended to all. A great chauge is going on everywhere. Knowledge is producing a universal crisis in the world's history. The speaker apnowledge is producing. The speaker up the world's history. The speaker up the world's history. The speaker up the world for the was say speaker. He was say the world for the was say the world for the world for the was say the world for the was say the world for the was say that was say the was say that was say the was say that was say th dignified in manner, and perfectly at home on the stage.

James Crawford, of Baltimore, Md., delivered the Franklin Oration. The subject chosen by this gentleman was "Sense for History." History is human. The animal is not included in historical development. Christianity is the life of history. The movement is onward. It is a development of our human life. To understand history, something more than koowledge is necessary, viz., a sense for history. It is not found in the barbarian, nor necessarily in the mere possessor of knowledge. sarily in the mere possessor of knowledge. There is a sense for mature—a sense for the

There is a sense for mature—a sense for the organic. The world is not a mere mechanism. A sense for the scaramental and the liturgical in religion. So there is a sense for history which sees in it more than a mere collection of dry facts, i. e. a movement of humanity. The rationalistic method, once prevalent in Europe, and at present common in this country sees no pervading principle, no design in history. This one-sided view robs history of its truth, and is the parent of infidelity. It is the characteristic of radicalism to break altogether with the past. The present must that it is regarded as the most invaluable medicine of its kind ever discovered. Indeed, medicine of its kind ever discovered. Indeed, tory thus studied liberalizes our views. This was the best production of the morning. It exhibited a generalizing grasping power of thought to take hold of history in this manner. The speaker deservedly oc cupied the position of honor on the morning's programme.

**Afternaon Session.**—The afternoon exercises were opened with the Lord's Prayer by the Rev. E. V. Gerhart, D. D. The City Band, which enlivened the exercises of the morning in their usual excellent manner. morning in their usual excellent manner, followed with one of their choice pieces.

The Franklin Orator of the afternoon, J.

Warron Yocum of La Trappe, Pa., dis-coursed upon the "Will o' the Wisp." Great applause greeted his appearance The phenomena of nature, misunderstoo The phenomena of nature, misunderstood by the ignorant, have often been a sourced superstition. The "will of the wisp" is an unsteady light, dancing merrily here and there. Many have been misled by its uncertain light. The ignorant have ascribed it to an evil spirit. In a "by the way" he referred to those fairy creatures who have misled many an unsuspecting swain to the hymenial altar. The "will o' the wisp" has yielded to the investigation of science. There are "will o' the wisps" in the moral world—yes, everywhere in life. Even in educational matters we find the same flick. nal matters we find the same flick-He defined the free as more actual char-the real. The true, the good and the benu-tiful constitute the trinity in esthetics. The true is addressed to the reason, the good to he will, the beautiful to the sense, be it in true is addressed to the renson, the good to the will, the Senatiful to the souse, be it in fart or nature. Beauty is the union of the real and the ideal. When idea and form fully correspond we have true and complete beauty. In all nature-beauty there is some imperfection, from the inorganic, through the various stages of the organic, to man. No tree embodies the full idea of the vegetable world. So with man. The artist musremove the imperfections and form his ideal. He leaves out the incongruous and supplies what is wanting. This is the ideal. In a landscape painting, some animate thing must be introduced. The natural world thus brought into connection with mind gives the true ideal.

The idea is the object of art—the poet creates the ideal and represents it in form—this then is a work of art. The true poet writes not for fame, nor for pay, but because he is impelled to it. This most excellent production was marred by rapidity in delivery. He could not at all times be understood distinctly. Young speaks or rapidly. He was greeted with applause and rewarded with a fair proportion of bouquets.

The Veledictory was pronounced by and rewarded with a fair proportion of bouncets.

The Valedictory was pronounced by Charles E. Gast, of Lancaster. He started out with a reference to those island architects, the coral insects. Man was born-to struggle. His whole existence is a conflict. This must be overcome by truth. The hopes of humanity reside especially in the scholar. Where are the empires of other days? Such the fate of things present. This is not the tale of indestructible truth. Time gradually throws off error. The spirit of truth defices time, fate and change. Monuments may disappear, but the simplest truth shall remain to the last times. He closed his oration with a few purting words. In his address to the faculty he allowed and the control of the Board of Trustees to elevate the institution was gratefully remembered by the speaker. In his farewell to his class mates he alluded to the various spheres of life which stand opon to receive them. He expressed the hope that the class apheres of life which stand open to receive them. He expressed the hope that the class might separate in harmony and friendship. The Valedictorian's production was chaste in style, and the delivery was highly creditable to the young speaker.

The degree of A. B., was conferred on the graduating class. The following degrees were announced by the President, Rev. J. W. Nevin, D., D.;

of time on Prof. D. M. Wolf, class of 1863;
E. L. Reed, class of 1865.
The honorary degree of A. M., on W. R.

The degree of D. D., on Rev. S. H. Glesy, of Philadelphia; Rev. T. G. Appel, President of Moreraburg College, and Rev. J.

The Rev. E. V. Gerhart, Vice President of the College, delivered the Baccalaureate Address. Being on the eve of leaving the institution to enter upon his new duties as r Professor in the Theological Seminary in Merceraburg, Pa., he delivered an address to the audience, from which we take the following statistics: Marshall College, graduated 18 classes and its graduates number

Franklin and Marshall College. It has

Those who have pursued a partial or irregular course in the College number about muon shape, as good as the best. The RED JACKET (Coburn's Patent) AXE cannotibe excelled. We guarantee regular course in the College number about 200.

Number however is not a proper test of an institution. The quality of the educational work it is performing is the great point to be considered. The institution is not indifferent to numbers, and is proud to say it has graduated equally as many as the majority of the colleges of Pennsylvania, the older institutions alone excepted. Want of space prevents us from publishing more of the Doctor's excellent address, with its plea for the development of mind. The interest of the highly intelligent audience, assembled in Fution Hall this afternoon, was kept up to the last. 1000, was kept up to the last.

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS cures so many diseases is found in the fact tha it invigorates the entire human system, strengthens all the nervous fibres, elevates the standard of all the vital forces, and sustains a healthy tone of man's organism. Medicin that will do this will cure any disease for the simple reason that nature will do the rest. Now, the vital principle of life is always and everywhere in danger, and it suffers continually from the successful attacks of diseases Hence, it has become a question of very grave importance as to what is the true course to be pursued in fortifying this vital principle against disease. Enlightened judgement as the result of long experience, and added by the light of practical solonco teaches us that the old methods of the medical faculty are not only valueless, but really dangerous, because they war against the little remaining strength of the invalid and too frequently hurry liminto a premature grave. It has been proved a thousand times over that depletion is invariably attended with bad results—sometime fatal but always more or less perflous. It stands to reason that this is so, when we consider how disease meets with less opposition on its coroding march in a system reduced by bleeding. flicted with intermittent, remittent and other malarious fevers have submitted to this bane-

PHILADELPHIA. CHURNING MADE EASY. Good Fresh Butter all the Year Round. FARMERS, ATTENTION! AVETIME! SAVE MONEY! SAVE LABOR!

SAVETIME: SAVE MONEY! SAVE LABOR!

By using Tominson & Co.'s (Lincoin England) Celebrated Butter Powder. By the use of this inexpensive Powder, churning for hours is reduced to minutes, and is applicable to the making of Butter at all seasons of the year. A small quantity anded to the milk or cream at the time of churning will produce Butter in much less time, in larger quantity, and of a superior quality, flavor and consistency: It removes the unpleasant flavor caused by the cows feeding on turning sprile, weeds, ac, and prevents all rancidity peculiar to butter; also makes it firmer and sweeter even in the hottest weather.

This Powder, now being introduced into this country, has long been in use throughout Europe and the Canadas, and Butter made with the last invariably taken the prize at all Agricultural Pshows, whenever exhibited dby all respectable Drugsters and Storo-keepers throughout the Academy of the Country, Jeff-inney?
