The blacks have relapsed into their normal condition of slothful indolence, and the exports of Hayti, which reached about wentynine millions of dollars in 1789, de not now amount to more than five millions San Domingo hows even a worse condition of affairs. The capacity of the negro for self-government has been thus tested on our own coast, and the proof race they are utterly unfit to manage public affairs even on the most limited scale. One revolution after another has followed in quick succession, and during almost three quarters of a century no man of sufficient capacity to rule properly has been produced. To-day there is no stable government, and different contending factions are engaged in cutting the throats of each

The proposition to establish a protec torate over these black barbarians ought to receive no countenance. This is no time for this country to burthen itself with any such charge. It is costing us many millions of dollars a year to take care of the negroes we have at home. To attempt to burthen us with the charge of themiserable barbarians of Hayti and San Domingo would be an outrage of the grossest character. That the Radicals in Congress will undertake it we have no doubt. They are crazy upon the subject of the negro. He is the chief object of their care, and we may anticipate the adoption of the resolution which has been reported. The Radicals want Hayti and San Domingo admitted to the Union as States, and the proposition to extend a protectorate over them is the initiatory step. The experiment would not only prove to be a costly one, but it would be productive of unmitigated evil. Still we expect to see it put through. We have learned from experience that unwise legislation is the rule concealed the rascality which has been practiced, but here and there one, more honest than the rest, has spoken out. The outrageous increase of useless employees about the two Houses has been noticed quite generally. The people are getting disgusted with the undisguised corruption and extravagance which prevail, and there are healthy indications of the growth of a just in-

> The Inefficiency of Congress. It has been more than a month since the Fortieth Congress re-assembled, and it is safe to estimate that it has cost the people not less than $100,000 during that time in salaries and other forms of expense. Yet really nothing in the way of husiness has been transacted. Ten constructed States. And yet, this Con- cumbered is situated: gress met with a vast field of legislation pefore it. With the finances in disregulation, the shipping interests of the nation prostrate, the reconstruction fabric they had patched up tumbling to pieces, the Indian difficulties unadjusted, and a multitude of other grave subjects pressing for immediate consideration, a whole month of precious time has been completely wasted. If it were reasonable to expect any more energetic action after the members are through their holiday spree, there would be less reason for complaint; but, judging this session by the last, we may expect to see nothing worth the name of legislation accomplished. Nothing new of any importance is likely to be suggested, and the old errors and the past will be left unrepaired. We predict that when the fourth of next March puts an end to this For leth Congress, no man can sum up half a dozen wise acts which have been passed by it.
