The cows were subsequently found in possession of two Germans named George Xeigler and Jacob Way, citizens of this place, who had pur-chased them from Anderson for 850. The stolen cows were promptly returned to Mr. Stettle; the purchasers of them not having any idea that they were stolen when they purchased them. THE WHEAT PROSPECT.-Everywhere the word is that the wheat, throughout our country, never looked better at this time of year. Traveling agents in all sections of the country concur in this pleasing report. It will be worth the consideration of every farmer who still holds his old crop, whether it is not advisable to dispose of it soon. Let such keep watch a few days longer, both of the prospect of the coming harvest and the tendency of the markst.
