Plant Fruit Trees.

If people generally, were as fond of oultivating fruit, as they are of eating it, what a plentiful supply of this health-ful luxury we should have, and how much better it would be for the interests of all We force with The sector strates before they have become thickly coated with aftermarth. It is bad economy, very injurious to meadows, while the seemingly "fair feed" is swept away in a few days, and a scanty yield of milk is the result for the balance of the season. There is no crop, therefore, that pays the da ryman better one year with another, than the few acres devoted to corn fodder. Corn fodder should be fed in the stalls, as there is no waste, besides the stoor thus fod are more quiet besides the stock thus fed are more quie and less disposed to hang about, waiting for their feed, as they do when the fod-der is given them in the open field.— Each cow in the stall gets its proper share of food, and there is no hooking or soiling of the fodder by master cows. The herd should be fed regularly at stated hours, and they soon become ac customed to the time, coming of their own accord to the stables, and during other portions of the day they will feed ore in the pastures. Corn fodder for soiling should be wet ted before feeding. It is a good plan to cut in the morning and let it lay in the sun till afternoon and then feed. Ir with the alternoon and then leed. In this way some of the external moisture will be got rid off, and the food will be preferred by animals, and produce bet-ter results. Corn fodder is very succu-lent, and does not need to be farther diluted by foodimentation the driver diluted by feeding when the dew or water is adhering to it. Better reduce the water in it by wetting and partially drying.

The Product of one Weed.

A gentleman desiring to know what would be the influence of a single weed upon the agriculture of a field or garden, selected a plant of pursiane (pusley or pursley as called by some), and care fully counted its number of pods. It was a large, but not the largest, sized plant from a rich spot of ground. The number of its seed pods was 4,613. He then took fourteen of the pods—seven smallones, four medium, and three of the largest—and counted the seed in them largest—aud counted the seed in them. The result gave us an average of ninety seeds to the pod. Thus in this singl seeds to the picture of the enormous number of all states were spread over a plat of ground, and should all germine the of ground, and should all germine the states of th

Shocking Tragedy.

At half past 12 o'clock on Monday morn-ing a terrible tragedy occurred at the Lake View House, at the corner of Seneca and Summit streets, on the bank of the lake. Philip Gilmartin, proprietor of the house, shot and instantly killed his son, Thomas ilmartin, while the latter was attempting to enter the house. The circumstances, a related by the father, who is a gray-haired related by ne father, who is a gray-haired old man, sixty-three years of age, are as bi-lows: He renired with his wife, at the usual hour, and the lights were extinguished. Thomas was not then in the house, but his was nothing uncommon for him, as be was in the babit of being out about the city at all hours of the night. At the time mentioned Mr. Gilmartin and his wife were awakened by the rattling of a window sush, and were soon convinced that some person was at tempting to enter. Being old people, and having a sum of money in the house, hey were naturally suspicious of burglars. The noise was at a window on north side of the house, opening into a room adjoining their sleeping apartment. Mr. Gilmartin had in his room an old Harper's Ferry musket shortened to the length of a carbine, which he kept loaded for an energency of this kind. Taking this in his hand, he proceed ed to the window. Discerning in the dim fight the form of a man just in the act of clambering upon the outside without in timediately raised his gun and fired. The man fell upon the outside without and correctization. Weaving. Weaving. A complete revolution, in weaving is prophesied from the introduction of a meth-od by which the woof is carried through the chain in a curve instead of at a right and that in a curve insided of at a right angle. A variety in the pattern, both in shade and markings, can be attained in this way of which the oil process was wholly incapable. This new process is adapted to fabrics of any kind, and can be used both for weaving by hand and with power looms.
