Geary's Position on the Temperance Question.

When Sharswood was running for Judge of the Supreme Court against the narrow-minded partisan who is now up again for the same office, John W. Geary came to Lancaster and made a speech. It was so poor a speech, such a jumble of nonsense expressed in barparous English, that every Republican in the Court House hung his head in shame. The most remarkable feature of the rambling and disjointed discourse was his attempt to set himself right on the liquor question. He reminded us very much of the orator out the "Monroe Doc Constitution ' men," and he put his hand on the region of his heart, " these are my sentiments, the sentiments of an honest man-aye an honest politician; but, gentlemen, and fellow-citizens, if they don't suit you, they can easily be altered." In the same vein, Geary, who had joined the Good Templars a few months before, and sworn to use all his influence to secure the speedy passage of a prohibitory liquor law, honey fugled the liquor loving Radicals of Lancaster county. His long winded spece's might easily have been boiled down to read as follows: "Gentlemen, I am a member of the Good Templars I have pledged myself to them in favor of a prohibitory liquor law, but gentle men," and here we fancy we see him making one of his most graceful bows, 'if it is necessary I can pledge mysel to the Anti-Temperance men equally as well. Let us have harmony in our such an association is more than we can ranks, and not differ about trifles."-We see Geary is advertised to speak at mer and office beggar all his life. He several points in the State, and we have no doubt he will repeat in substance the speech he made in Lancaster during the Sharswood campaign. Verily John Covoderdescribed him perfectly when he said. "Geary is the humbuggedest Governor Pennsylvania ever had."

Names of the Betrayers A solemn and formal promise was made the Radical leaders, in the Chicago Platm of last year, to their followers and the ople of the United States. It was a pledge nat in all the loyal States, the question of uffrage should remain under the control of the people. We quote from the Platform, word for word, as follows: "The guaranty by Congress of equal suffrage o all loyal men at the south, was demanded by every consideration of public sufety, of ratitude and of justice, and must be maintained; while the question of suffrage in all the toyal states, properly belongs; to the people of those scales," On the faith of this solemn avowal, a majority of the people of the United States voted for Gen, Grant, and on this formal as surance the Radicals were permitted to surance the Radicals were permitted to retain the ascendancy in Congress and the State Legislatures. Thousands and thousands voted for Grant and the Radical candidates for Congress and the Legislature, who would not have touched them if they had not been persuaded by this deliberate promise in the Chicago Platform that the Suffrage question would be allowed to remain in the hands of the people. Mark, now, how the confiding voters were betrayed!

No sconer had Congress assembled after the Presidential election, than the Radical leaders rushed through that body the measure known as the Fiftenth I Amendment, and sent it in hot haste to the Legislatures and sent it in hot haste to the Legislatures then in session, with a view to its immedi-ate ratification! This indecent hurry was ate ratification! This indecent hurry was intended to steal a march on the people, and if possible, to flank them, by making the Amendment a part of the Constitution by consent of three-fourths of the Legislatures, before the people could vote on it, or elect new Legislatures with the Amendment an issue. GOV, JOHN W. GEARY was an actor in this shameful intrigue, and on the very day on which he received the Amendment from the hands of Congres, he sent it to the Legislature with the following message recommending its prompt ratification:

"EXECUTIVE CHANDER, HARRISBURG, March 8, 1869. To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania: GENTLEMEN:—I have the honor to transmit or the consideration of the Georgia Assembly duly attested copy of a concurrent resolution of the Senate and House of Kepresentatives on the United States of America, entitled 'A re ution proposing an America, entitled A re-ution of the United States, this day re-red from the State Department, Washing-

Remonstrances against the ratification of the Amendment poured in upon the Legislature, signed by tens of thousands of citizens, many of whom belonged to the Radical party, but they were received by the Radical Senators and Representatives with contempt and deriston. Resolutions were offered in both Houses, to postpone action on the Amendment until next year, and to submit the question at the October election. They were voted down by the Radical side. On March II, 1862, the resolution to ratify the Amendment passed the State Senate by the following vote:

As it nover was intended that the public debt should be paid at a premium, the more Mr. Boutwell pays it at the market price and not at par, the more be increases it, for every one thousand dollars of indebtedness becomes twelve bundred and fifty dollars, and every million becomes one million two hundred and fifty thousand. We should like our Itadizal financiers to study out this problem, and explain to the people how it is that the more the Secretary of the Treasury pays, on the Radical system, the more ho owes. The problem of squaring the circle is not more intricate and difficult.

The singular coincidences which in Wall street have preceded and attended, but street have preceded and attended, but principally preceded, Mr. Boutwell's sales of gold and purchases of bouds, have led to the very natural inference, which no one seems in a condition to deny, that the Secretary of the Treasury deems it necessary to the public interests that certain brokers shall be informed in advance of those proposed sales and purchases. One thing cannot be denied, that a certain broker, and sometimes more than one, invariably precede the Government a day or so in selling gold or buying bonds, and we need not say, always make heavy profits in the transaction. If these gentlemen, however, are on such intimate terms with Boutwell that he furnishes them with information that enables them to make immense profits, of course he has no share in them.—Phila. Horrible Massacre in Spain. A Madrid letter says there is a great excitement in Spain over the recent execution of nine men near Barcelona, by Lieut. Col. Cosalis. Eight of the executed persons were Carlists, and the ninth was a game-keeper, and they were all shot without any form of trial. The officer who directed the executions had been promoted by the government for the part he had taken, thus verifying the recent statement of Gen. Prim that the government would be cruel, if need be, in putting down rebellion. ____

Our worthy Secretary of the Navy would not probably, even dressed in the same costume, compare in point of personal beauty with the famous Egyptian Queen; but in fitting up the Tallapoosa for his summer pleasure tour he seems to have been bent upon rivaling the splendor of her barge, so far as the difference between a modern seagoling steamer and an ancient smooth-water galley, and the general discrepancy, between ancient and modern manners would permit. The Pittsburg and Connellsvitle Eail-read.

The operations for the past year on the sixty-one miles of this road, eastwardly from Pittsburg, our which trains are now running, have been exceedingly gratifying. The exhibit made at a late meeting of the board of directors shows an increase of thirty per cent. of tonnage as compared with the preceding year. Some idea of the business the road is already doing may be had from the fact that the amount of coal and coke hauled over it was not less than three hundred thousand tons, and the total amount of raw material for manufacturing purposes, excluding coke, taken to Pittsburg, was not less than five hundred thousand tons. What the road is destined to do when the rich mineral and agricultural regions through which it will pass are opened up and developed, can scarcely be estimated.—Cumberland Alleghanian.

Upon rubbing it with the hand the light increased and followed up the foot, the fumes filling the room with a disagreeatle odor.

This lasted some time, when the foot was immersed in a basin of water, hoping to quench the light, but to no purpose, for it continued beneath the surface of the water, the fumes rising above. The foot was taken out and wiped dry, but the light still romained. A second immersion of the foot followed, and soap was applied—with the same result. No more experiments were tried, and after a time it gradually faded and disappeared. The time occupied by the phenomena was about three-quarters of sin hour. The lady's husband substantiates the above.
