November 8, 1869. To our Customers and Correspondents: The surprising development of our national resources and the rapidity with which the tional debt, by weekly purchases, render it aparent that the time is approaching when the ive-Twenty bonds may be funded at not over our or four and a half per cent, interest.

Meanwhile their high price, as compared with other classes of securities paying an equal rate of interest, is leading to general in quiry for more profitable forms of investment in which money may be safely invested. During the wartho necessities and peril of the government, and the consequent cheapess of its securities, rendered them so attractive that, from this cause, combined with the patriotic faith of the people in their safety, they absorbed almost the entire floating capial of the country, and diverted attention from ther classes of securities which had before
