patience and good sense in the trainer, and good sense in the colt, too. Some colts are natural fools, and can never have sense trained into them. It is not at all difficult to train a young horse to be gentle and quiet under almost any circumstances; and if something unusual should happen to terrify him, he would run to his master sooner than run away from him. A horse properly trained will always look to the rider of driver, in the time of fright, for protection; and instead of kicking; and tearing everything to pleces, when scared, he will, when he sees you standing by him, and feels your hand on his head or on the rein, put his trust in you, and regard you as his only hope in time of danger.

This was often illustrated during the war. All who served in the cavairy or artillery force have seen how terribly frightened ahorse appeared the moment his rider tumbled from the saddle. It mattered not how loud the thunder of the guns roared in battle, nor how great the confusion in the hour of deadly strife, the horse seemed unconsclous of danger until left alone, without a rider or attendant. The moment the rider's hold was released and the stead found himself separated from the one he was trained to regard as his protector, that moment he became furiously wild, and would begin to neigh and run in every direction, oftentimes pressing into the group in the front rank, seeming to find offerned to have a cheer with the saddle and harness on their back or under their belly, and also teach them to hold back a carriage on a down hill grade, by bracing their hijps against it. A horse taught in that way would begin to neigh and run is every direction, oftentimes pressing into the group in the front rank, seeming to find offerned to have a cheer with the saddle and harness on their back or under their belly, and also teach them to hold back a carriage on a down hill grade, by bracing their hijps against it. C. M. Hackett, of the Altoona Tribune, was voted the silver composing stick at a recent fair. Cameron (Dec. 8) correspondence St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald.!

About twelve o'clock yesterday a man entered the Daviess County Saving Association, at Gallatin, and handed a $100 bill to Captain John W. Sheets, the president of the bank, requesting him to change it. Captain Sheets went to the safe to accommodate him, when another party entered the bank and spoke to the first one. Captain Sheets had just unlocked the safe when two shots were fired at him by the men, one ball entering his head and the other with the man fell to the floor and instantly expired. The men then took from the safe a large sum of money and started out.

At the time the occurrence took place a titzen of Gallatin, named McDowell, was in the bank; but the affair transpired so at in the bank; but the affair transpired so in the bank; but the affair transpired so in the bank; but the affair transpired so in the shoulder, the shot being fired by a conting when he received a ball in the shoulder, the shot being fired by a clizen. The fellow dropped to the ground, but immediately jumped to his, feet again and sprang on to the same horse with his comrade, and the two left town rapidly, closely followed by the citizens. North of Kidder the robbers pressed a farmer into the service, making him ride between them to show the way. They crossed the railroad, going scuth, during the afternoon, and a large party of citizens followed closely after them.

Captain Sheets was one of the oldest citizens of Daviess county, and this shocking affair has created the most intense excitement. The citizens of Gallatin and Hamilton have almost entirely suspended business and joined in the pursuit of the murderers. A large party passed through this place last night. The scoundrels were thoroughly identified, and it seems scarcely possible they can escape. Several times the pursuing party have come up in sight of them.

The affair is one of the boldest that has ever occurred in Northwestern Missouri, and resulting, as it has, in the death of an esteemed citizen, it is not probable if the murderers are caught, that any court or jury will be ever troubled with trying them.
