NUMBER 11

DOCTRY.

Waiting for the Spring. A little rest in the spring, and the world will be a better place. The sun will be shining, and the birds will be singing.

THE GARDEN OF REPOSE.

The garden of repose is a place where the soul finds rest. It is a place of peace and quietude, where the weary find solace.

Miscellaneous.

The Huron's Plea.

By WILLIAM A. SEYMOUR. It was at the close of an October day, in the year 1812, that a young man was standing upon the hill that now overlooks the city of Lancaster.

savage, apparently the chief of his tribe, upon the inmates of the cottage. They were blue eyes and light hair of the Saxon race, and the latter a little brown-haired man, who had been the victim of the effects of the summer sun.

"I have heard," said the Indian, "that you are a white man, and that you have been in the land of the Huron. I have heard that you are a white man, and that you have been in the land of the Huron."

An Incident of the War.

It was in the latter part of the year 1812, that a young man was standing upon the hill that now overlooks the city of Lancaster. He was a tall, young man, and from his eyes he seemed to be a soldier.

While thus unfortunately situated.

While thus unfortunately situated, the young man found himself in a peculiar predicament. He was surrounded by a group of Indians, and he was in a state of great anxiety.

At length, the young man was rescued.

At length, the young man was rescued by a party of soldiers. They found him in a state of great distress, and they were glad to see him safe.
