A man Visits his wife's Grave, then Goes Home and Kills Himself.

Yesterday morning a young man, named Charles A. Handwerker arose from his bed in his usual health, which has not been good for something over a year, and after breakfast proceeded to the barber shop of his brother-in law, William Stitzel, on Market street, where he spoke of his bad health, and remarked that if he did not get better he would kill himself. Nothing was thought of this, but in the afternoon about 4 o,clock a friend met him just as he was entering his house, and seeing that his boots were dusty asked where he habe were dusty asked where he his boots were dusty asked where he wife, who was in the yard hanging clothing out to dry, heard the report of a pistol, and running up-stairs found her husband a corpse, he having shot himself through the heart with a Smith & Wesson six-shooting pistol. The alarm brought hundreds of people to the house, who were eager to heart he news, and for some time the excitement in the United States.

"Again we are threatened with a scarcity of water. Why is this? The answer is at hand. It is the fault of Councils, First, in retaining as Chief Engineer a man so notoriously incompetent as Mr. Graeff; and second, in withholding until so hate a period the appropriations necessary to place the works in a condition to supply the city with all the water needed at all seasons of the year. The conduct of Councils in this respect has been so inexcussably dereiet that no satisfactory apology can be offered for it. All the facts of the case were before them. They knew, if they are supposed to be capable of knowing anything, that for months last summer the safety of the city was not only imperilled in consequence of the scarcity of the water supply, but that the comfort and health of our citizens were very seriously interfered with.

Millions of dollars are appropriated by Councils for ormamentation of the Park, which, like the payment of the national debt, might very appropriately be left to posterity; but where an absolute want, such as a full supacre an absounce want, such as a turi sup-y of water for household and other pur-ses is wanted, an incompetent engineer continued at the head of the department, and the funds necessary to meet the ex-penses required to put the work in a com-plete state of efficiency withheld until too ate."
