WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 14, 1870. The Action of the County Committee.

When the Democratic County Com mittee met on Monday, it was ascertain ed that there was a very general dissatisfaction among Republicans throughou Lancaster county, with the ticket which was recently nominated, and the Committee was found to be almost unanimously of opinion that it would be well to allow time for the effort being made to put an Independent, ticket in the field to develop itself. In accordance with such a belief it was decided t postpone the calling of a Democratic County Convention for the present, and a committee composed of D. G. Eshleman, H. B. Swarr, Dr. Henry Carpen ter, Henry Shaffner and B. J. McGrann with R. R. Tshudy, the Chairman of the County Committee, added, was anpointed to take the matter under advis ment and to report to a meeting of the County Committee to be held hereafter. This movement may be productive good, and we are sure the Democracy of the county will be ready to endors any judicious course of action which nay be determined upon.

Beath of Hon, Wm, H. Miller,

Hon. Wm. H. Miller died at his res dence, near Harrisburg, yesterday afternoon. He was in his usual health, attending to business in the city on Saturday, but was taken with a congestive chill on Sunday, and died on Monday He was the son of Hon. Jesse Miller who for many years bore a distinguished part in the politics of Pennsylvania; was born in Landisville, Perry county; graduated at Franklin College, Mercers burg; studied law and was admitted to practice in Bloomfield; was Prothonoary of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania from 1854 to 1863; was Clerk of the Senate of Pennsylvania during one session; and was elected to Congress in 1862 from the Dauphin district in the face of a heavy Republican majority. He was connected with the Harrisburg Patriot for a number of years. In every position he discharged his duty with zeal, faithfulness and ability. He was a vigorous writer, a popular political speaker, a judicious counsellor and a fearless and eloquent advocate. The wronged and oppressed always found a defender in him, and he never stopped to calculate the conse gences, or to count a fee when the humble and the weak appealed to him for eounsel and assistance against injustice. In public life he was a pure man, scorning all the corrupt acts of modern legislation. He was a warm and sinfere friend, and every appeal made to his bounty met with a generous response. In the midst of a life of usefulness, he has been suddenly removed; and hav ing been very widely known, the intelligence of his death will cause genuin row throughout the State. He died in the forty-second year of his age, in the prime of a busy and useful life.
