Colts injured by heated milk seldom recover from it for a year or two and many times never. They become re-duced in flesh, get lousy in the fall, and during the first Whiter of their exist-ence, when they need health and strength, as under any circumstances it is the most critical period of their growth, they have life just enough to enable them to move, and the sec-ond Stummer, the proper time for devel-opment, is spent in the recuperation of lost vitality.—Horsemen's Manual. sheep fut—to sell finished products in-stead of dividing the profits with others. Sheep in good condition also shear bet-ter, and are less liable to fosses from dis-cases and accidents; hence it pays in this way to keep sheep well, giving the model advantage of metric reducts and two-fold advantage of better returns and better sales for those thus kept. Of course this mainly relates to com-_____ non farming, where wool is the main object, and only the moderate surplus of such flocks go for multon. But in improved farming, where all necessary care can be given, sheep may be managed so as to return a good deal more money. can be given, sheep may be mainged so as to return a good deal more money. There are two principal ways in which this can be done. One is in keeping one of the leading long wool bre n which combing wool and mutton will h pay well; and the other is in rais-early lambs formarket. It has been repeatedly demonstrated that by using a buck of some one of the larger breeds on good common or grade merine eves, so the lambs will come in the Winter, these lambs may be made to sell for $5 or more apiece in the Spring, and the wes give a good fleece besides. If the swes are well-fed, as they should be to have the lambs do well, some to nave the failes do wer, some two months' feeding after the lambs are sold, so they may be ready for market soon after shearing, may make them sell well also. So it should not le difficult to realize $10 each in lambs, fleeces, and advance on cost or value at the commencement, for less than a year's the commencement, for less than a year's keeping, on such ewes. With warm stables and barn cellars, so lambs could come in the fore part to the mid-dle of Winter, and near large markets, much better than this has been done; hence this may be considered a safe es-timate where there is good management. This is the next thing to though not This is the next thing to, though not equal to keeping long wool sheep; as with such sheep more and heavier lambs may be raised, and more money realized. It is also probable that if the increase of the salso probable that if the increase of It is his provide that it the increases of a such sheep is kept until some 20 months old and well fed, giving a heavy fleece in the meantime, they will pay still better. the meantime, they will pay still better. If good blood is secured, and the best are sold for breeding, no doubt a still larger profit may be realized. On good farms, in all the older sec-On good farms, in all the other sec-tions, in reach of good markets, some such course of raising lambs or mutton sheep for market should be adopted.— "Then keeping sheep mainly for wool may be confined to the poorer farms and for ping in the older States and to the farming in the older States, and to the very extensive, rich, and cheap pastur-age of the Western and Southwestern States and Territories, where wool growng is attended with very little expense - Country Gentleman -Country Gentleman. -Country Gentleman. Preserving the Flavor of Butter. The German Agriculturist says that a great portion of the fine flavor of fresh butter is destroyed by the usual mode of washing, and he recommends a thorough kneading for the removal of the buttermilk, and a subsequent press-ing in a linen cloth. Butter thus pre-hards a coording to our authority, is pared, according to our authority, is preserving the flavor of flaver cessive Summers with sheep, was sup-edly brought to the harmer through the owner's death, made several dollars per acre less than had previously been paid for it, and afterwards proved to be the thickest set grass in the neighborhood, I saw an instance given where a mowing had been grazed because it was not worth in moving longer, the intention being to pared, according to our authority, is plow up and plant corn; the result in cessive Summers with sheep, was sup pared, according to our authority, is preeminent for its sweetness of taste and flavor, qualities which are retained and haven, quanters which are related a a long time. The cold, also, was more intense than before, cutsing my teeth to chatter and my whole frame to tremble from the chill. My companion also suffered from general cold, particularly in the feet. Having in the car a both of old port, sent to me by my friend Corporal timpf, the celebrated wine-maker of Lameaster, for "Bon Veyago" from Chambersburg, we took a glass to warm ourselves. It is worthy of remark that at our great-est altitude I could read print and manu-script with the naked eye that I could not read on the surface of the earth without the aid of spectacles. I had experimented on this during former ascensions, and can only attribute it to the diminution of atmos-pheric pressure, causing the eye to become more convex. At half-past four we handed, and soon the balloon was surfamiled by bersons from
