the ruins of their homes. Four women were burned in the Arcade block. A thief was suffocated and burned white stealing from a jewelry store. Plundering was prosecuted with a lawlessness never before witnessedand when, pillerers were caught in the act the officers were compelled to release them, for the jail was burned. The streets remaind one of the streets of Fredericksburg after the battle, presenting every phase of the bivouac. I saw a strong man sitting upon a wayside box, weeping like a child, his wife, meanwhile, cheerily being ing edfee with some bits of the unhald Nicholson pavement, and his children paying hide and seek among the exist out wares. Certainly there must have been great loss of lim. One ffreman declares that three families were surrounded and burnt to death in the block bounded by Adams Jackson. Canal and water streats We saw groups of all classes of people in the streets, some hatless, coatless, barefoot, and shivering. They were shelterless homeless and poverty-stricken and broken hearted. Chicago, det 12 11 A. M.—There was pore removal of fires last night and nothing occurred to disturb the city.

Water is running in the basement of most dwellings on the south side and on the west division. It is being pumped in the pipes by steam fire engines. On examination of the engine works it is thought practicable to have it running in ten days.

More than fifty have been shot down in the streets or swung to the lamp posts at five minutes' notice.

Former reports with reference to the probable loss of life seen about to be confirmed. Already ninety black oned corpses have been removed from the ruins, and but a small portion of the burnt district.

More than $2,500,000 has already been subscribed to relieve the more pressing wants of the stricken people, and doubtless as much more will go forward within the eek. The Western railway companies are do The Western railway companies are doing their best to thin out the number of mouths to be fed by conveying all who have riends living elsewhere to their homes thousands have availed themselves of this opportunity. The losses are, of course, undetermined, although they cannot fail far short of $200,000,000. It is enough to say that the city is a mass of ruins, and that thousands upon thousands have lost all they possessed in the world. It is gratifying, however, to know that there are some who still retain pluck enough to begin over again.

A single extinguisher on the ground, or the active work of the police in tearing down one or two shandes, would have prevented the spreading of the flames, but the ongines were waited for, and when they arrived, the firemen, supended by their exertions, at the first fire, on Saturday night, worked slowly and clausily, and their efforts were unavailing.

"The wind was from the southwest, blew a gale, and the flames shot rapidly from lotice to house, and from board-yard to huard-yard, and mean while had crossed the river north of Twelth street to the south side, and made for brick and stone business blocks, railroad freight depots, and manifacturing establishments.

The surrender of Cochise, the great Apache chief, or, rather, his relinquishment of nostilities, is a notable event in the history of Indian warfare in New-Mexico and Arizona. If it is made in good faith, it may lead to a permanent peace with the tribes who have roudered Arizona almost uninhabitable. Cochise is chief of an important and rawerful branch of the Apache tribe, and was originally a sincere friend of the whites; by an act of the darkest treachery, many of his family, race, and friends were stain by the settlers, and he escaped, wounded and with difficulty. He swore vengeance on the deceitful white man, and, from that time, became a terrible scourge, devastating the country and making his name a terror to the whites. If the Peace Commissioners have secured the quiet of this warrior, they have done enough to repair all the errors that have been charged to them.

A deaf man named Winters, was killed on Saturday, a short distance West of Elizabethtown, by being struck by the Mail train while he was walking on the track.

SHOT IN THE FACE.—On Wednesday afternoon while the Democracy were cele brating their victory in this city, by firing a salute of 100 guns, on the Common near the Locomotive works; the cannoti was, by accident, preinaturely discharged, the load of powder taking effect in the face of a little boy, 11 years old, named James Kilchrist, living in the alley in rear of East King street, between Shippen and Lime streets. The boy was taken home, and Dr. S. H. Metzgar called in to dress his wounds, His eyes are entirely closed and much inflamed, but it is thought he will not lose his sight.

Harrison, Van Buren, Adants, Monroe, and Madison streets were soon reached, and the intervening blocks from the river to Dearborn street, on Eastbridge street, were consumed.

Three quarters of a mile of brick blocks were gone as if by magic. It being kinday, the proprietors and employees were at home, utterly unconscious of what was transpiring. Those who saw the flames supposed it was the remains of Saturday night's fire, and, having confidence in the fire department, were unconcerned, but between II and 12 o'clock a rumor got abroad that the fire was in the business portion of the Cay, and the people com-STIGHT FIRE IN COLUMBIA.—On Sunday
