

TAYLOR CARRIES TRANSIT FIGHT TO COUNCILS

Asks Instant Action That Will Give Due Return for Taxes in Form of Better Line Conditions.

Carrying the fight for an adequate transit system for this city direct to Councils, pointing out the necessity for immediate action to give the citizens a just return for their taxes and even pleading for an awakened conscience for an honest initiative in civic affairs.

In a statement today the Director asks Councils to permit the work on the Broad Street subway and related lines to proceed at once.

The plan drawn up by the Department of City Transit and agreed to by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company includes a Broad Street subway, a tube under the Delaware River, and elevated lines to Frankford and Darby.

Director Taylor also announced new surface lines in many parts of Philadelphia which are needed and will be included in the transit plan.

Director Taylor also announced new surface lines in many parts of Philadelphia which are needed and will be included in the transit plan.

Director Taylor, in his statement today said that the plan of the Department of City Transit has been submitted to city Councils and to the stockholders of the Union Traction Company.

Director Taylor, in his statement today said that the plan of the Department of City Transit has been submitted to city Councils and to the stockholders of the Union Traction Company.

Director Taylor, in his statement today said that the plan of the Department of City Transit has been submitted to city Councils and to the stockholders of the Union Traction Company.

MISS EVELYN JACKSON of Atlanta, Ga.

MISS EDITH A. DENING of Rochester, N. Y. MISS M. VALVIKINS MISS DOROTHY RHEAD of this city. MISS CAROLINE GRAFT HAVERFORD ARRIVES WITH REFUGEES FROM THE WAR ZONE.

RETURNED TOURISTS TELL OF TRIALS IN WAR-SWEPT EUROPE

Stories of misery and destitution of homes ruined and families weeping for their loved ones, wounded and killed in battle, of cities laid waste by the fire of the conflict, of women and children in mourning over the consequences of the carnage and the slaughter were told by many of the passengers who arrived on the Haverrford, which docked at the Washington street wharf this morning.

PHILADELPHIANS IN TROUBLE

Three Philadelphia men got in trouble with the British authorities. A. C. Bird-sall, of the Bureau of Municipal Research, whose family live at Swarthmore, had accepted a raw recruit's invitation on the drilling grounds at Aldershot, to "smop" him, and was immediately surrounded by a howling mob.

MOTHER AND CHILD STRANGLER TO DEATH WITH STOCKINGS

The bodies of Mrs. Sarah Graft Newlin, 32 years old, and her eight-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, of Chadd's Ford, Delaware County, were found in a brook three miles from a summer camp in the Adirondack mountains late last night.

RED CROSS REPEATS ITS WARNING TO THE PUBLIC

The American Red Cross Society today repeated its announcement that it employs no collectors to solicit on the street, and that those representing themselves as the society's agents in soliciting contributions should be reported to the nearest Red Cross office.

CARDINAL MERCIER INVITES BRITONS TO BELGIUM

Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium, and archbishop of the devastated city of Malines, invited Britons to attend the future celebration of the double centenary of Brussels, Louvain and Malines, at a public meeting held here yesterday.

TRAIN PASSES OVER HIM

Taylor Resident Only Slightly Hurt, to Surprise of Spectators.

DELaware COUNTY Woman and Daughter Victims of Mysterious Tragedy Which Coroner's Jury Calls Murder and Suicide.

The bodies of Mrs. Sarah Graft Newlin, 32 years old, and her eight-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, of Chadd's Ford, Delaware County, were found in a brook three miles from a summer camp in the Adirondack mountains late last night.

WOMEN APPEAR AGAINST MUCH-INDICTED MAN

Stories of the personal indignities and humiliations heaped upon them by James Baker, of 142 South High street, were related by three young women of Philadelphia at Baker's trial today in Judge Carr's court.

WOMEN APPEAR AGAINST MUCH-INDICTED MAN

Stories of the personal indignities and humiliations heaped upon them by James Baker, of 142 South High street, were related by three young women of Philadelphia at Baker's trial today in Judge Carr's court.

WOMEN APPEAR AGAINST MUCH-INDICTED MAN

Stories of the personal indignities and humiliations heaped upon them by James Baker, of 142 South High street, were related by three young women of Philadelphia at Baker's trial today in Judge Carr's court.

WOMEN APPEAR AGAINST MUCH-INDICTED MAN

Stories of the personal indignities and humiliations heaped upon them by James Baker, of 142 South High street, were related by three young women of Philadelphia at Baker's trial today in Judge Carr's court.

WOMEN APPEAR AGAINST MUCH-INDICTED MAN

Stories of the personal indignities and humiliations heaped upon them by James Baker, of 142 South High street, were related by three young women of Philadelphia at Baker's trial today in Judge Carr's court.

ANTI-PENROSE WAVE ENGULFS MACHINE LEADERS OF STATE

"Where Will It Lead Us?" the Startled Query of Workers High and Low. Doctor Brumbaugh Studying Situation.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—Not in years have Pennsylvania politicians felt the dazing effects of such body blows as have been given them during the past 48 hours by two of the newspapers of Philadelphia—the Public Ledger and the North American.

Doctor Brumbaugh, before leaving the Fort Pitt Hotel today for the Carnegie School of Technology, where he made an inspection of the institution was asked if he cared to comment on the editorial published in the Public Ledger this morning, in which that paper comes out flatly against Penrose in support of A. Mitchell Palmer for United States Senator.

"I must beg your indulgence. These things are coming a little too fast for me to decide offhand what I shall do, or what I shall say."

"Some time during the day or evening I hope to read and digest both editorials thoroughly, and then I may have something to say. For the present spare me. I must give these sudden changes of front mature consideration before I declare myself."

Doctor Brumbaugh's reference to "things coming too fast" for instant comment included the Public Ledger's editorial and the "open letter" addressed to him by the North American. Of this letter he said:

After a tour of inspection through the schools, during which he commended freely on their equipment and modern methods, Doctor Brumbaugh and his party were driven in their autos to the Schenley Hotel, where he addressed an address before the convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars and United Spanish American War Veterans.

Doctor Brumbaugh was introduced by Commander-in-Chief Elie W. Means, of Denver. After a short address he returned to the Fort Pitt Hotel to prepare for his trip to the Carnegie School of Technology this afternoon, where he will visit the towns of Natrona, Tarentum, Brackenridge and Appinville. Short speeches, hand-shaking and a tour of the industrial and domestic buildings will occupy the afternoon and evening.

After a tour of inspection through the schools, during which he commended freely on their equipment and modern methods, Doctor Brumbaugh and his party were driven in their autos to the Schenley Hotel, where he addressed an address before the convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars and United Spanish American War Veterans.

After a tour of inspection through the schools, during which he commended freely on their equipment and modern methods, Doctor Brumbaugh and his party were driven in their autos to the Schenley Hotel, where he addressed an address before the convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars and United Spanish American War Veterans.

After a tour of inspection through the schools, during which he commended freely on their equipment and modern methods, Doctor Brumbaugh and his party were driven in their autos to the Schenley Hotel, where he addressed an address before the convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars and United Spanish American War Veterans.

After a tour of inspection through the schools, during which he commended freely on their equipment and modern methods, Doctor Brumbaugh and his party were driven in their autos to the Schenley Hotel, where he addressed an address before the convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars and United Spanish American War Veterans.

BURGLARS ROLL SAFE INTO REAR YARD AND FORCE OFF THE DOOR

Delicatessen Storekeeper Loses $1100—Proprietor of Saloon Finds Unwelcome Guests at His Bar.

Two burglars, downtown early this morning, in one of which they coolly carried a heavy safe into a rear kitchen, blew it open, netted the operators nearly $1100 in cash, jewelry and cigars. The victims are Daniel Baxtain, a saloonkeeper at the southeast corner of 27th and Mifflin streets, and Morris White, who keeps a delicatessen store at 41 South 10th.

The robbery of the delicatessen store took place between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning. Burglars pried the shutters of a side window. They calmly rolled the safe from the store, through the house to the rear yard and blew off the door with nitro-glycerine.

Apparently the thieves were experts. Investigation of their work by City Hall detectives showed that they had performed a clean job. Only the broken hinges showed that the safe door had been blown open. The hinges still were intact.

From the safe the thieves got two diamond rings, two diamond necklaces and $100 in cash. The jewelry, according to White, is worth $50, making his total loss $550. Some of the occupants of the house was aroused while the burglary worked. White and his family knew nothing of the burglary until this morning, when they found the riddled safe in the yard.

Three men operated at Baxtain's saloon. He surprised them quenching their thirst at his bar about 9 o'clock last night, and when he rushed at them they dropped through a trap door to the cellar. The men escaped through a window. Police of the Twentieth and Federal streets station are searching for the men.

Baxtain spent yesterday with his family at Atlantic City. He saw a light in a small room at the rear of the bar when he returned, and found that the door of the safe had been pried open, the inside doors battered and $125 in cash removed. A box of old coins, valued at $5, was overlooked.

Burglar tools were strewn about the floor, and Baxtain came to the conclusion that the men were still in the house. He opened the door to the bar, but the men saw him before he could get out of the escape. The burglars left their tools.

Later Baxtain found that a large quantity of fine cigars had been stolen. The combination handle of the safe had been taken off by a long-handled bar, with prongs like a claw hammer. The heavy end of the bar was used to batter in the small inside doors. The men entered the place with a false key to a side door.

Burglar tools were strewn about the floor, and Baxtain came to the conclusion that the men were still in the house. He opened the door to the bar, but the men saw him before he could get out of the escape. The burglars left their tools.

Later Baxtain found that a large quantity of fine cigars had been stolen. The combination handle of the safe had been taken off by a long-handled bar, with prongs like a claw hammer. The heavy end of the bar was used to batter in the small inside doors. The men entered the place with a false key to a side door.

Burglar tools were strewn about the floor, and Baxtain came to the conclusion that the men were still in the house. He opened the door to the bar, but the men saw him before he could get out of the escape. The burglars left their tools.

RESCUES SLEEPING CHILD FROM BURNING HOME

Man Risks Life by Plunging Into Flame-filled House.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

At the risk of his life, Henry E. Sisk, 1210 South Fourth street, plunged into the smoke and flame-filled house of Leda Grechow, 1210 South Fourth street, this morning and rescued seven-year-old Morris Grechow, who had been left in a room. Sisk discovered the fire and turned in an alarm. Then he tried to awaken the Grechow family. Failing he burst open the door and plunged through the household furniture to the bedroom of the house.

STEAMBOAT SINKS IN OHIO

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.

GALLIPOLIS, O., Sept. 14.—After striking a hidden obstruction the large steamer boat Greenway, an Ohio River boat, sank near Crown City today. Passengers and crew were saved.