STAR MATCHES ARE PLAYED IN WOMAN'S GOLF TOURNAMENT

Contests at Glen Cove Today, However, Suffered by Comparison With Yesterday's Brilliant Work.

GLEN COVE, L. I., N. Y., Sept. 16 .-(Nassau Country Club.)— Sixteen women solfers representing four sections of the country turned their attention today to the second round of match play in the tournament for the championship of the mited States on the links of the Nassau Country Club.

Although there were many star matches and a few surprises in the first round yes-orday which made today's matches seem ather tame by comparison, there was a big gallery out to see the rounds. Miss Georgianna M. Bishop, of Brooklawn, the Georgianna M. Bishop, of Brooklawn, the medal winner, was pitted against Miss Elaine V. Rosenthal, of Ravistoe, and attracted considerable attention, while Miss Lillian B. Hyde, the Metropolitan champlen, had a lot of followers in her match with Mrs. J. E. Davis, of Nassau. Mrs. Renald H. Barlow, the Philadelphia title-holder and the 1912 runner-up, opposed Mrs. Issac Marter, of Richmond County, and attracted the third gallery. The day was bright and much warmer

The day was bright and much warmer the day was bright and much warmer than earlier in the week and it had its effect on the course, which now has become very fast and dusty. The greens, too, show the effect of the dry weather. There was a breeze which blew diagonally to many holes, but it was not attended. to many holes, but it was not strong enough to be much of a factor.

When Miss Hyde and Mrs. Davis went to the first tee the last named had no idea of winning. Although she intended to do the best she could, Mrs. Davis is do the best site could, ars. Davis really ought to have won the first hole, where the Metropolitan champion, after getting into the rough after the drive, getting into the rough after the drive, failed to make the green on her second. Mrs. Davis got home in two, but took three putts, so that it was a haive in five. A better long game gave Miss Hyde the advantage going to the 500-yard second hole, but even so it would have been a haive in six had the South Shore Field Club girl laid her opponent a stymie. That was after Miss Hyde had missed her sec-end putt. She won in six and seven.

To the third hole, a matter of 310 yards.

Miss Hyde drove so far that all she needed was a mashle-niblick for her approach, whereas the Nassau player had to use a brassle. She got bunkered and taking two to get out lost again, her oping two to get out lost again, her op-ponent getting a four. Miss Hyde then stood 2 up.

Mrs. Davis made no mistakes at the fourth, getting to the edge of the green on her second shot and halving in four. Although the drive to No. 5 is all up hill. Miss Hyde hit such a long ball that she was able to reach the green on her next with a balf iron, whereas her opponent pulled her brassle to the rough. When Miss Hyde missed her try for a four. Mrs. Davis got down a good putt

Thus far Miss Hyde's putting had been nothing to brag of and she took three putts again on the sixth green, but it did not matter, as her opponent, who had to play short of the bunker with an iron, falled to get on in three. So it was Miss Hyde's hole in five to six. The South Shore player was then 3 up. Miss Hyde's approach to No. 7 was underplayed, the ball falling short of the sand trap. Mrs. Davis pulled her second hole high to the left, but lost the hole by taking three putts. Miss Hyde now stood four up. To continue the Miss Hyde-Mrs. Davis match, both got into trouble at the short pond hole. Miss Hyde getting into the water off the tee, while her opponent everdrove to the trap. Taking 3 to get clear of the sand Mrs. Davis lost three and became five down, her opponent pulled her nerve to the road. After playing out short Miss Hyde laid the next to within a club's length of the pin and brought off the putt for a 4, good nough to get a half. Miss Hyde, therefore, turned for home 5 up, having gone out in 44 to the other's 50. The tenth, or "circus" hole, is 171 vards and Miss Hyde found the edge of the reen with an iron. Her opponent used wood, and just failed to carry the guarding bunker. The shot lost the hole, as Miss Hyde got a 3. The shot lost there cost the supplemented by a A 220-yard drive,

Fine threes were recorded at the short pend hole and Miss Bishop won the ninth when Miss Rosenthal's drive found the teadway out of bounds. Thus the Chitage girl was 3 up at the turn. Indifferent putting cost Miss Bishop the tenth, and traps lost her the 11th and 12th, so that salved 13th in 5 settled the match in Miss Rosenthal's favor by 6 to 5. The card:

EASTERN RAILROADS URGE REHEARING OF FREIGHT RATE CASE

Interstate Commission Will Take Up Plea in Near Future — Petitioners Are Hopeful.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.-Members of the Interstate Commerce Commission will take up at their next formal conference the application of the Eastern railroads for a reopening of the 5 per cent. advance rate case. Whether this application is so urgent as to call for a special meeting of the commission before the end of the present month has not been decided. If a reply to the application is not made this month the commission will consider it at its first regular meeting the first Monday in October.

It is generally conceded here that the commission is likely to grant a reopening of the case, otherwise the Eastern roads would have hesitated filing the petition. The petition of the 112 railroads requesting a reopening of the rate case was signed by Daniel Willard, president of the B. and O. Railroad, as chairman of the presidents' committee, and is as follows: "Your petitioners, 113 railroad companies, comprising the 25 railroad compa-nies, comprising the 25 railroad systems in official classification territory, parties to the above-entitled proceedings, re-spectfully petition the commission for such a modification of the order of July 29 1914 as will provide the control of the co 29, 1914, as will permit the carriers to make effective the rates specified in the tariffe which were by said order directed to be canceled. Since the filing of the report and entry of the order by the commission in these cases, facts and circumstances have arisen which, taken in connection with the facts already before your commission, your petitioners believe will justify the relief herein prayed for. These facts and circumstances are briefly as foilows: "First. During the month of October, 1913, your petitioners published and filed with this commission the tariffs involved in these proceedings. At the time of the filing of the report of the commission there were available for the information of the commission the annual reports of your petitioners for the year ending June 30, 1913, as well as the monthly reports of your petitioners up to and in-cluding May, 1914. Since that time the complete income accounts of your petitioners for the fiscal year ending June 20, 1914, have become available.

year ending June 30, 1914, as compared with the year ending June 30, 1913, show a decrease in total operating revenues of approximately $44,700,000, while during that same period operating expenses have increased about $23,000,800. After deductions of taxes and deficit in outside operations there was a decrease in operating income of approximately $72,700,000, notwithstanding an increased property investment., Thus at upward of $750,000 and was still burnthe tendency toward a diminishing oper- ing, though under control. ating income found by the commission in its report is emphasized by the figures covering the complete year to June 30, 1314, while the reports for July and such figures as are available for August, 1914. show a continuance of this declining tendency, notwithstanding the extraordinary efforts that have been made to reduce

WORRIED OVER WAR IN EUROPE, TAILOR ENDS LIFE WITH GAS

His Relatives in Hamburg Found Beside Body of Suicide.

Brooding over the fate of relatives on the firing line in both Russian and German armies, Max Kinos, proprietor of a tailor shop in the Florence Hotel, Eleventh and Girard streets, committed sulcide by inhaling illuminating gas this morning. James Lustr, night clerk at the hotel, while making his round of the building at about six o'clock this mornng, noticed a heavy smell of gas ema natng from the tailoring establishment, which is on the first floor of the building. He notified Policeman Jackson, of the Eleventh and Winter streets station. The two, unable to break through the heavily barred door, got into the shop through a window and found the proprietor on the floor with the gas tube of his working iron in his mouth. Beside him was a letter, in German, which he had recently received from relatives in Hamburg, telling of the privation and hopelessness of many in his immediate family, the general distress and devastation wrought by the war throughout Europe and the pall of darkness that has settled over all the people of the Conti-

After receipt of this letter, the night clerk said, Kinos had constantly re-ferred to its contents in conversation with employes of the hotel. For long hours he had sat motionless at his work table, meditating and melancholy.

Among the papers found in Kinos' possession were his will under date of February 27, 1914, a bankbook showing deposits of $235 in the Third National Bank, and a deed for lots at Atlantic City and a lot at Willow Grove. In the will Kinos bequeathes all his property to the Jewish cemetery that will provide for his burial. Henry M. Brenner, of 515 Pine street, this city, is named as executor of the estate, and the document is witnessed by Dr. M. B. Brenner, B. E. Lapayowker and Edward D. Wadsworth. Other papers found in Kinos' clothing give his address at 103 Main street, Pleasantville, N. J.

MATINEE GIRL AND HER SUNNY SMILE AGAIN IN EVIDENCE

Noticed as She Glides Along Street-Merchants Glad to See Her.

THE MATINEE GIRL With her ever ready dollar And Napol-con-le collar

The matinee girl is here again; se will weep or she will smile At the play that's worth the while And urge the handsome here on t fame.

She still looks a little tann-ish In a costume somewhat man-ish That's quite in keeping with the after-Yes, it's really quite a treat

To see her on the street
And all the shops will take a welcome

The matines girl is here. She was out by the hundred this afternoon. Remnants of the seashore tan, in keeping with her autumnal colors generally, clung to her well rounded cheeks Armed with her opera glasses, and supporting a mammoth bouquet, she glided down Chestnut street with "a best seller" under her arm and o home coming smile on her face. She glided because the "minced" walk is passe. Furthermore it is not necessary on acount of the new wide skirts.

Although she smiles on the street, she is ready to cry at a moment's potice when the banker's son deceives his trusting bride, or when the heartless andlord ejects the deserted wife. And the matines girl can cry to her heart's content, for, thanks to a vanity box, she can emerge at the end of act three with her original smile and a keen appetite for dinner.

With all her whims, however, this selfsame matinee girl is a real necessity. She is the barometer for the fall styles, and when she is out in full force she gives a rainbow tint to the street and radiates an air of prosperity which makes us all at least temporarily happy.

MERCHANTS WELCOME HER. And there's no one more glad to see her than the shopkeepers. They have the best of reasons. She comes in in the morning, perhaps for a pair of gloves, and ends her impromptu shopping trip by sending home a variety of things which makes her daddy look timidly at his bank balance.

The florist, the confectioner, the druggist and many others see a big jump in business with her arrival. Then, too, she and her hundreds of sisters nearly fill the playhouse. While she turns out in large numbers for the problem play she goes chiefly because she is curious and, let it be said to her credit, that she goes in still larger numbers to the show that has no suggestion of spice.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM DIVESTED OF CITY DIGNITY BY COURT

Letter Telling of Distress of War's Influence On Styles Charter Adopted at Special Election Held in August of Last Year Declared Invalid.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 18 .- Judge Barber, of Carbon County, specially presiding here in the quo warranto proceedings brought by Attorney General John C. Bell to test the validity of the city char-ter of South Bethlehem, today filed a de-cision declaring the charter null and void and ousting Mayor Mitchell Walters and all other city officials from office. South Bethlehem's voters decided to change from the borough to the city form of government at a special election held on August 22, 1913. The main point Fection I, Article 15, of the State Con-stitution had been violated. This section provides: Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least 10,000 shall vote at any general election in favor same.

The special election is held to have not been a "general" election.

The decree of court removes from office Mayor Yalters, City Controller William Miller, Councilmen Samuel Strauss, A. W. Leh, Charles Drumbor and Adam Brinker and Aldermen George Getter, M. P. Cashner, Hugh Kelly, John Enright and Mark Deviln.

Unless the higher courts reverse the decision South Bethlehem must return to the borough form of government.

In a rage at her husband, Vincenzo Cattogio, of South Clarion street, because he had brought her to court on a staggered him with a hard blow on the jaw in court today and struggled flercely with tipstaves to renew her attack. Mrs. Cattogio is larger than her husband. She is nearly 6 feet tall and weighs about 190 pounds. Cattoglo weighs about 130 pounds.

The couple have been in court several times in a dispute over the man's 18year-old step-sister, Maria Cattogio, who lived with his wife on Bambrey street near Tasker. Last April Cattoggio tried to gain custody of the girl by a writ of habeas corpus, but on her statement that she was fond of Mrs. Cattogio and wished to remain with her, Judge Brown dis-missed the petition. Last July the girl is reported to have disappeared, and ac-cording to Mrs. Cattoglo, has not been seen by her since. Cattogio, believing that his wife knows where the girl is, had Mrs. Cattogio summoned to court. When Cattogio was called to testify his wife struck him a hard blow on the cheek. Cattogio reeled, and before his wife could renew her attack she was seized by tipstaves. Judge Brown again dismissed the case.

TODAY'S MARRIAGE LICENSES

THE WAR'S EFFECT ON STYLES.

It was evident from scanning some of the matinee girls today that the struggle in Europe has been reflected in the styles. There was an abundance of red, blue and sold, and a dash of militarism was added by Napoleonic collars, which gave an imperious touch to the combination.

One of the big reserves at Broad street, again. They light up the street and give a holiday look to things. They don't give as much trouble at the corners, for they always have lots of time and they're thankful for every little favor."

It will be noticed, too, now that the perennial Chestnut street boy, who has nothing to do and does it well will spruce tup a bit in order to be in keeping with the atmosphere created by the ever-well come matinee girl.
