FRED E. LEWIS SEES DEMAND FOR FUSION TO DEFEAT PENROSE

Believes Pinchot Ready to Withdraw as Washington Party Candidate in Interest of United Attack.

ALLENTOWN, Pa. Sept. 15 .- Speculation relative to complete fusion between the Washington and the Democratic parties, part of the program being the withdrawal of either Gifford Pinchot or Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, the Washington and Democratic candidates, of borrowers." The last sobriquet was respectively, for the United States applied to him last July when he awore genate, has been revived here by Fred E. Lewis, Washington party candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs, who returned yesterday from Harrisburg, where he attended the meeting of the Progressive State Committee. The anti-Penrose sentiment throughout the State is so strong, Mr. Lewis deelared, that the probable result will be a popular demand for both parties to unite on one man who can defeat the Penrose machine. Regarding his own position in event of fusion, Mr. Lewis would make no comment. He did not seem to favor the thought of his becom-ing the fusion candidate for Lieutenant Governor. Pentose machine. Regarding his own

This, I take it, shows an indication to see Mr. Palmer take the same stand, whereupon there might be a conference and a canvass of situation to determine which one ought to be the centre of a further fusion movement. Just at present the situation, so far as further fusion is concerned, is mined."

DR. BRUMBAUGH MEETS WITH SUCCESS IN CENTRE COUNTY

Republican Candidate Makes Clear His Stand on Issues.

BELLE FONTE, Pa., Sept. 18-Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh, the Republican nominee for Governor, reached here morning after a successful day cam-paigning in Center County. His prin-cipal addresses yesterday were at Tyrone, State College, and at the Grange Fair, Centre Hall. At the last place he was accompanied by Frank B. McClain, candidate for Lieutenant Governor. Dr. Brumbaugh referred to the work he has accomplished along educational lines in Pennsylvania as illustrating what might be expected of him as governor He declared he would bow to no man's influence and that he would give to the people of the state the best service he

On the local option issue he took a very positive stand, reiterating his previous declaration that the people of Pennsylvania are honest and intelligent enough to settle for themselves the question of the sale of liquor in the various counties.

"I am alone to blame. Segal got the money. I was fooled." Had Segal succeeded in his second attempt to make money out of the Sugar Trust his profits would have been far greater than the first. In the first he got Hipple to finance a sugar factory in Camden. The trust was stifling competition in those days by buying up all rivel factories and closing them. Segal figured the trust would buy his factory, and it did. He tried it again, this time building the Pennsylvania sugar refinery at Shackamaxon street wharf. But the trust, bitten once, had been watching him. It learned of his denis with Hip-ple; it learned that the $5000,000 of funds in the vaults of the trust company had been touched, and it laid the trap. Segal had put too many irons in the fire. While the magnificent sugar plant was building he had conceived the idea of a great hotel on the site of the old Elkins mansion at the northeast corner of Broad street and Girard avenue. The Majestic Hotel was being completed. Segal had been spending money right and left in a social campaign that he planned to insure the success of the hotel. The campaign is said to have cost him $3,000,000. TRAPPED BY SUGAR TRUST

Segal needed money, and the trust beame aware of it. Its agent reached Segal and advanced him more than $1,000,000, but in return it secured control of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refinery. The only hope Segal had of paying the loan was to operate the factory and realize on shares of stock or make the CARDIFF. Sept. 18 .- The source of the trust company come to terms and buy him out. But when the trust obtained control its Board of Directors voted to close the factory, and all Segal's efforts to operate the place were futile. Then came the crash. Alleged Detective, Who Says Vanderbilt Groom Offered to Pay for Girl's Murder, Meant to Kill Wilson.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18,-Charles H. Wilson, Gwynne Vanderbilt's stable manager, whose love affairs have furnished gossip for two continents, was backed up against a wall in the Vanderbilt stables at the Westchester horse show at White Plains yesterday afternoon and shot at five times by Frederick Schultz, said to be a house detective at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Wilson escaped with a slight wound in the foot. According to Schultz, Wilson promised him $1000 to take Florence Rosser Schenck, with whom the famous whip had his best-known affair, to San Francisco and there murder her. Miss Schenck died last January from a broken heart, her friends said. It was after a conversation of 10 or 15 minutes' duration on this subject yesterday afternoon that Schultz suddenly pulled a revolver and emptied it at Wilson.

Stable men rushed forward and wrenched the revolver from Schultz, while others lifted Wilson to his feat. Sheriff Doyle took charge of Schultz, who began to talk to the excited crowd around him. He deciared that he had avenged the death of Miss Schenck. whom Wilson cast off. Before he could talk further he was hustled away to a cell. One of the high priced Vanderbilt horses, according to witnesses of the attack, saved Wilson's life. When Schultz opened fire the stable manager leaped behind one of the animals, leaving the sleuth the alternative of killing the horse or using for his target that part of Wilson's anatomy that was still in range. This was Wilson's feet, and Schultz made the most of his opportunity.

Although Schultz denied that he had intended to harm the famous whip, but had planned only to scare him, witnesses say that as he was being led away from the stables to jail he shouted back to Wilson:

"I meant to kill you, but I didn't because you are not good enough for that. If the shooting follows, as his assailant asserts, from Wilson's treatment of Florence Schenck, it is the fourth or fifth event in the aftermath of trouble directly connected with six months in the summer of 1906, when the whip and the beautiful daughter of Dr. P. S. Schenck, of Norfolk, Va., finished a senson at the London horse show with a gay tour of smart set cafes in that city and Paris. Wilson met Miss Schenck that year, when she was eighteen years old and he was 45. He persuaded her, the girl claimed, under promise of marriage, to make a secret trip to Richmond, Va., on which Wilson explained that he was married. but that as soon as he was free he would make her his wife.

LONDON, Sept. 18.

In the King's address proroguing Parlinment today he discussed the war and declared that England was fighting for a worthy purpose and would not iny down its arms until that purpose was achieved. He declared that every endeavor had been made by the British Government to maintain the peace of Europe and that finally, with reluctance, England went to war for the protection of public law in Europe which had been set at naught as had published treaties.

The King declared that he had every confidence in the patriotism of the country and that he looked forward to a successful conclusion of the war.

The King did not deliver his speech in person, but it was read by a royal com-missioner. In opening, His Majesty said After my government has exhausted every effort to maintain peace in Europe I was compelled by the exer-

Now at the age of 61 years, when white is showing in his one-time glossy black hair and his fortune and financial wizardry are gone, even his mind has failed him.

PRYSICIANS CERTIFY INSANITY

Application will be made today or tomorrow by attorneys for Mrs. Segal and Berl Segal, the son, for Adolph Segal's admission to the State Hospital for the Insane, A statement to this effect was ing by Dr. Pierre N. Howard E. Coffin, Puts End to Car Over-Tax

Welcome this new-model HUDSON.

It brings a new zest to motoring, and it lifts a good many burdens.

It marks the end of excess-in size and power, in weight and upkeep, in price and fuel cost.

Howard E. Coffin and his 47 engineers have solved many problems in this new-type car.

The problems of beauty, comfort and convenience. There are many attractions found in no other car.

The problems of lightness. Crudely built, this car would weigh 1,000 pounds more. Skill and ingenuity reduce weight just as they reduce cost and increase quality.

The problems of operative cost. The lightness saves tires. The new-type motor has greatly reduced fuel cost.

The problems of price. In the past year alone they have reduced that $200. . Now a quality Six -in many respects the finest car of the day-sells for $1,550.

The Future Type

This, beyond question, is the coming type of car. All advances now tend in this direction. Modest in size, yet with ample room for seven. Light and economical. A car of the finest quality yet not over-priced. An impressive satisfactory car.
