

U.S. REVENUE CUTTER WRECKED IN PACIFIC SENDS CALL FOR AID

Vessel, With 72 Aboard, Lands on Bering Sea Shoal—Steamships Rushing to Her.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 22. Two ships are rushing to the rescue of the crew of the United States revenue cutter Tahoma, which was ashore and was wrecked on a reef between Atka and Attu islands in the Bering Sea.

A wireless dispatch from Captain Richard O. Crisp, of the Tahoma, picked up at sea and relayed to headquarters from Sitka, Alaska, says the cutter is in imminent danger, but it is believed the nine officers and crew of 63 on the ship can take to the small boats with which the cutter is well supplied and seek safety on one of the small islands which dot the sea in the vicinity of the wreck.

The Tahoma is a cutter of the first class. She was built at Wilmington, Del., in 1908 and is of 87 tons, with 125 tons displacement and 152 feet in length. The vessel is of steel construction.

The officers are: Captain Richard O. Crisp, commanding; First Lieutenant Thomas M. Malloy, executive officer; Second Lieutenant John J. Hutson, secretary; Lieutenant William S. Stummel; Third Lieutenant Stephen S. Yeandle, who received a gold medal for heroism during a hurricane off the Georgia coast in 1903; and Assistant Surgeon H. M. Thomas, of the Public Health Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. Messages to the revenue cutter service here today announcing the wreck of the cutter Tahoma in the Aleutian Islands, contained assurances that the entire crew of nine officers and 63 men would be saved.

"U. S. S." calls from the Tahoma were picked up by ships and wireless stations along the Alaskan coast, and the Japanese liner Tahoma Maru and the steamer Senator are speeding to her rescue.

The Tahoma is one of the newest and best cutters in the service and fear is felt that she will be required to piece on the reef where she is fast.

FINANCIAL TANGLE HALTS DEPARTURE FROM VERA CRUZ

France Lays Claim to a Portion of Customs Receipts to Satisfy Loan to the Huerta Government.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. Representations made by the French Government regarding customs collections made by General Funston at Vera Cruz, it was learned today, are postponing American collection of the Mexican port. Until the financial tangle is unraveled Funston will not move his troops.

Part of the collections are claimed by French financiers as security for a loan to the Huerta government. That these claims should be satisfied by Funston out of Mexican funds he has collected, without being paid to a constitutionalist representative, is the contention of the French government.

Officials today disclaimed knowledge, and scoffed at reports of a Villa "uprising" in Sonora. All consular advice, it was stated, point to complete harmony between Villa and Carranza. It was pointed out that Villa personally telegraphed such assurances to President Wilson only a few days ago. It was also pointed out that the accession of rumors of trouble between Villa and Carranza originated at El Paso, where a Huertista junta is and has been in operation. Secretary of State Bryan recently issued a public warning against placing credence in the El Paso reports.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22.—Plans are being completed today for a monster reception to be tendered to General Villa when he enters the city on Thursday with 90 of his delegates, who will bring in the convention that will choose a Provisional President.

One hundred and thirty million dollars in new Constitutionalist currency was put into circulation today.

READING OFFICIALS PLANNING TO RID TUNNEL OF GASES

Working Now on Project to Blow Deadly Fumes Out to Prevent Repetition of Phoenixville Accident.

Officials of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, when asked today what action would be taken by the management to prevent a recurrence of the accident in the Black Rock tunnel, near Phoenixville, yesterday, in which three persons were killed, two being asphyxiated by coal gas in the tunnel, would make no reply.

Other railroads throughout the country which have long tunnels on their right-of-way have placed large blowers in them which keep them clear of all gas, or at least keep it down to a minimum, so that if a train becomes stalled in the tunnel passengers will be in no danger of asphyxiation.

The dead are Charles T. Shambour, of 1515 Courtland street, Philadelphia, conductor; James F. Harley, engineer, of Potomac, and an unidentified woman, about 60 years of age, believed to be Mrs. Moyer, of Reading. Those who were overcome and who are in the Phoenixville hospital, where they are recovering, are E. Newton Moll, fireman; George Billman, East Hamburg, passenger; Burden Leshar, Mohrsville, passenger; Mrs. Edward F. Lawler, of Tower City, was also overcome. She was removed to a hotel in Reading, and has fully recovered.

The accident was the result of train No. 87, the Williamsport express, striking and killing the aged, unidentified woman south of the Phoenixville station. The engineer, James F. Harley, before the train struck the woman, applied the brakes and the train stopped in the tunnel, the rear end of the train being at the south end. The train, after being assisted by a switch engine, proceeded a short distance into the tunnel and again came to a stop. Engineer Harley, having been overcome, Freeman Mull went to the engineer's assistance and was also overcome.

WOMEN STAND FAST IN POST HOLES IN BATTLE OF CAMDEN

Attack by Workmen on Entrenched Position of B. Pellicoff Resisted by Aroused Garrison.

All of the war news does not come from Europe, some of it comes from Camden, where the clan of Pellicoff is staunchly resisting the overwhelming forces of the Pennsylvania Railroad in a war over property rights. Latest advice from the front show that the railroad achieved a slight advantage last night when they stormed the Pellicoff's entrenched position in a series of postholes, captured it and erected a strong fortification in the form of a trench.

The first warning of the enemy's advance received by the clan of Pellicoff was when Mrs. Fanny Bell, who lives next to the coal yard, was awakened by the sound of the walls of the fortress falling under the violent bombardment of the railroad's sleds. She quickly notified her husband of the attack and when he telephoned to B. Pellicoff, who headquarters are at 134 Princess avenue, the latter effected a rapid mobilization of his forces, but arrived on the scene too late to save the main fortress, the office. He then deployed his forces on what he alleges to be the frontier of his territory, and prepared to resist the enemy's invasion.

Mrs. Fanny Bell was assigned to occupy one post-hole which had been dug by the enemy preparatory to the erection of a large fence, while her sister, Miss Ethel Pellicoff, was placed in another. From these strongly entrenched positions the women successfully resisted the attack of the invaders all day long. Their line of supply was kept open by privates of the Pellicoff forces, who brought meals to them at noon and again at eight. Finally, however, the attack became too heavy, and after an all-day vigil, in which B. Pellicoff and the other members of his staff, alleys they received round handling the railroad's forces dislodged them from their position and erected the posts and a portion of a trench fence.

NURSE DENIES SHE TURNED CHILD FROM HOSPITAL

Corner Told Baby Burned With Matches Had Received Treatment. Sister Clantella, of the St. Agnes Hospital, denied before the Coroner today that Mary Pellicone, an 11-month-old baby, who the parents assert, died after being refused admittance to the St. Agnes Hospital, was turned away from that institution.

The child had been burned while playing with matches, and the father claimed he carried the baby to St. Agnes Hospital, but was told to take her to an institution nearer his home. He took the child away, and she died several hours later. He did not deny the statement made by the sister to the effect that the child had already received medical attention when he brought her to the hospital.

BOY BRAVELY WAITS END OF LONG BATTLE TO SAVE BURNED LEG

Little Hero Hopeful That Removal of Bandages Today Will Show He Is Not to Be a Cripple.

KENNETH REDAMAR

A wide-eyed and hopeful little boy sits on an invalid's chair in the sunlight at the Frankford Hospital today. With a toy dog clasped tightly in his arms, he mutely watches while clad surgeons and nurses as they go from cot to cot comforting and relieving. With impatience he is waiting until they come to him and unwind bandages from his legs; for what is found beneath will determine whether or not the little boy will ever walk and play like other boys or be a hopeless cripple with one leg cruelly bent.

The child's name is Kenneth Redamar, and he is only six years old. He lived with his parents at 6034 Torresdale avenue until early last February when he was carried into the hospital with one leg charred and burned and swathed in soft stuffs. Playing with schoolmates about a boufie, Kenneth had either fallen or been accidentally pushed into the blazing pit. Frightened, his little comrades ran away crying, and Kenneth was left alone in terrible agony until a policeman carried him home.

For a long time physicians feared Kenneth would not get well. The child lay still and white among the covers. Nurses sometimes cried, because he suffered raised their heads and spoke to him as if he were almost a fully recovered patient. It was a small boy under such trying circumstances.

Magistrate Forced to Tell Gillman, Fishman and Gross to Get Out—Aron's Clean Bill of Health. Magistrate 'Joe' Call today notified District Attorney Rotan that he had dismissed from his office Joseph Fishman, 'Jake' Gillman, his former constable, and Samuel Gross. The dismissals are the result of pressure brought to bear on Call by the District Attorney following the latest straw-bail scandal originating in the Girard avenue Magistrate's office.

This ends the active investigation into the charge of Isaac Friedman, of 129 Girard avenue, that his name had been forged to a bail bond. The District Attorney said today, however, that he intends to keep a careful eye on Call's office in the future and will hold open the present case for further investigation should there appear a good chance to get further evidence.
