P. R. R. FREIGHT YARD PLANS FOR SUBURB

Residents Say Smoke and Engines Would Ruin Malvern Avenue Homes. Want Road Electrified.

Residents of Overbrook are making a decided stand against the Pennsylvania Railroad, which purposes the building of large freight yards in that suburb and the laying of a new road which will be used for freight transportation Washington avenue, via Overbrook 6 52d street. They say the road as residential district.

The railroad was granted a franchise by the city of Philadelphia for the carrying out of this plan in 1965. This expires in 1915. Since the company has not begun the work it would be impossible to complete it before the time limit expires, and therefore the comrepresented in the Overbrook Associate tion and the Overbrook Club, have made Council has informed the railroad that it will have to come to some understanding with the citizens of that io-chity before the permit will be ex-road's project which is most objectionable to residents of Overbrook is the fact that the new in-coming line will run to the proposed freight yard along Mal-vern avenue, a handsome residential dis-trict, which would be ruined by the smake of the engines that would constantly be passing along the line. The freight yard will not be electrified, according to the plans application. cording to the plans projected by the company, and so would ruln, the resi-dents say, the extensive residental developments which are being carried on between Overbrook and Wynnefield. NOT TO ELECTRIFY YARDS in referring to this point, John J. Coyle, president of the Overbrook Association, said that the city of Philadel-phin would lose from $100,000 to $150,000 annually in taxes alone through the depreciation in value of real estate in that neighborhood, which would prob-ably be at least 50 per cent. He believes that the company's claim that it would be impossible to electrify a freight yard of such magnitude as theirs is to be is untrue, for he says that not only the members of the Overbrook Committee, at also representatives of the Cit, ouncil, have visited the electrified yards of other cities and are convinced that he proposition could not only be handled re, but that it could be profitably of rather then electrified lines and reight yards, the people of Overbrook would have the railroad extend their descent spair line connecting the Wash-bugton street wharves with Nowtown epare, via Fernwood, to Gienloch and Frazer, cutting out the Overbrook and Frazer, cutting out the Overbrook and 52d street yards. This, they claim, could be done at vastly resulter expense and at a saving of considerable mileage, and incidentally leaving the inshionable residential sections of Overbrook indisturbed. The relicoat's plan as it now stands is a extend the '2d street yards to Over-urack, eventually laying 90 tracks for plas purpose. These lines would pass underneath the Main Line passenger racks at Malvette avenue, and continue on that account is ward the Newtown square and Fernwo ranch, not joining that road, however, or turning north and recently directly nelling which would be done would be on that earl of Malvern avenue which less to two-in the Main thee and the filled Asylian. Two thrills marked the opening of the fourth day at the Bryn Mawr Horse Show, Lurman Stewart again being the principal actor in the little drama, which for a moment looked to be a tragedy, Mr. Stewart was riding Sice Gin. in class 66, a post and rall jumping class with unusually interesting entries. Sice Ginbecame "Slow Gin" just at an incepportune moment, and the decided halt in his gait threw Mr. Stewart completely over his head. The rider remounted al-

The judging will be confined xclusively to half-breed hounds which will be seen; bitches, dogs singly and in pairs. None of the entrants has been digging test for fox terriers. There are seven entries in this class.

In nearly all packs of hunting dogs there is a small terrier which runs with the hounds, and whose chief function seems to be starting the quarry out of holes or drain pipes. Field conditions, to this extent, will be reproduced at the pole grounds in a specially constructed ring, and at a given signal the terriers will proceed to dig. The little fellow who shows most marked ability at this sort of work will receive an award. MORE THRILLS EXPECTED TODAY. Horses in harness, saddle horses, and ponies under saddle ridden by children will feature earlier afternoon competitions, while, was as the case yesterday, a large field of prize-winning hunters and umpers ridden by daring and expert horsemen is expected to thrill the crowd
