Practically all the money is invested in Germany. Reports that he was to abdicate have been widely circulated and there is a strong belief here that if the War Office carries the day he will withdraw from Rumania.

The great obstacle to a united Balkan confederacy against Germany and Austria has been Bulgaria. The latter has been inclined to sympathize with Germany, Her armies have had the assistance of German military experts. The German diplomatic methods have made a favorable impresgion. And Germany had confidently expected that Bulgaria would side with Turkey and in her favor if it became

The Czar was quick to realize this fact. He rushed confidential agents to Bulgaria and they at first pleaded for the absolute neutrality or Bulgaria. Then the Caar sent a personal appeal to Prince Borls, who is his golson, and the latter has ever since thrown his influence on the side of Russia. It is now believed that when war comes Bulgaria will be lined up on the side of the time of the tilles. the side of the Allies.

It has been pointed out to Italy that if she entered the war and brought in the Balkan principalities as her allies, her every future demand must have recog-nition. Russia has, it is understood here, suggested to Bulgaria that if Turkey enters the war on the side of Germany, the prize for Bulgaria if she sides with Russia, will be Adrianople.

It is recognized that Turkey cannot much longer maintain neutrality. The relations between Turkey and Greece are very brained. Constant friction is re-ported, with numerous acts of aggression on the part of the Turks. Therefore the necessity of keeping the Balkan states lined up together is fully realized.

The constant agitation of the Italian people for action against Austria is having its effect. The higher government officials are now confident Italy must act to maintain her position as the dominant power of the Mediterranean and that she must take Austria's Advistic negacestons. must take Austria's Adriatic possessions for the new map of Europe.

tons' Loss Was Heavy. Invaders Attack Puers and Threaten Antwerp.

LONDON, Sept. 21. A Reuter dispatch from Ghent says a small force of Belgians, supported by an armored train, defeated 2500 Germans, who lost many in killed, wounded and prisoners.

The Germans continue entrenching about Brussels, constructing strong earthworks before the sites of their guns. many of which have been posted. German and Belgian troops are fight-ing at Puers. Part of King Albert's army has retired to the ramparts of Antwerp. The German force at Puers is reported to have two of the great slege guns that smashed the forts at Liege and Namur. (Puers is about eight miles from the forts that protect Antwerp on the south-west. This report tends to confirm dispatches from Ostend that the Ger-pans were advancing guns to bombard Antwerp. During the last week the Belgian army has received reinforcements. The spirit of the troops is excellent and they are greatly encouraged by the successes gained during the last few days in sharp skirmishes with the Germans.

The German forces bent upon subjugating Antwerp have their line extending westward almost into Ghent. Their artillery is hard at work on the south bank of the Scheldt, seven miles from the city. Railway service has been sus-pended south of Ghent. Antwerp appears to be menaced more seriously than ever. The inhabitants, however, have not ceased to hope that the city will escape a direct attack.

At Ghent, it is impossible, because of the meagre reports received, to determine the progress of events across the French frontier. It is conceded, how-ever, that whatever may happen to the German armies in the southwest it is certain that the Kaiser's forces mean to conquer Antwerp and to remain in occupation of southern Belgium, re-gardless of what price they may be compelled to pay in lives.

A correspondent of the London Chronthe field, wires that the Belgian army is pushing on toward Brussels and is confident of regaining control of the city. No statement is made of the detailed movements of the Belgians.
According to the Chronicle man at Leb beke, Octave Verhulst, 30 years old; his two brothers, Leopold and Arthur, 21 and 19, respectively, were stood against the charred walls of their home after it had been burned and bayoneted to death by German soldiers while their relatives Another Ghent dispatch to the Chronicle quotes a newspaper as saying that 422 inhabitants of the small Belgian town of Tamines, in the Namur district, have been killed, presumably on account of some act against the Germans occupying the district. The dead include the priest and the local notables. After whole-sale execution, says the dispatch, the torch was applied so effectually that only one house remains standing in the dis-

The Admiralty Office has issued a re-lowing the naval battle near Heligoland.

The Admiralty states that when the German torpedo boat destroyer V-187

was sinking, the Goshawk ordered the British destroyers to cease their fire and lower their boats to save the survivors.

While this was being done an officer on the afterpart of the X-187 trained its after gun on the Goshawk and fired at 200 yards range, hitting the ward room. It is though that he believed the boat's crew intended to board and capture his vessel, which was still flying

It thereupon became necessary to destroy his aftergun, which was done with a few well-placed shots, after which every effort was made to save his life until the German cruiser Stettin appeared through the mist and opened a heavy fire on the British boats.

The destroyers were forced to retire to avoid destruction. The Goshawk removed her men from the boat, leaving it to the German prisoners, nearly all of whom

"It is to be regretted," says the note, "that a bluejacket in the forecastle of the Goshawk, exasperated at the inhuman hough it was done under considerable provocation. It was surely a venial offense, compared with that of the Ger

DECLARE BRITISH

Ghent Dispatch Adds Teu- Russians Slaughter Many, According to Report, and Vast Numbers Desert, Fearing Muscovite Domination.

> NEW YORK, Sept. 24.-Reports received at the Austro-Hungarian Consulate indicate that the Russians in Austrian Galicia are turning on the Jews, and many, according to the dispatches, have been slaughtered.

The dispatches which, are said to come from official Austrian sources, gave very few details, but said that the Jews were suffering heavily at the hands of the infuriated Russian troops, whose officers could hardly control their actions. Large numbers of Jews in Russian Poland, according to the reports, are deserting the Russian cause, fearing the increased domination of the Russian Government in the event of a sweeping victory over the Austrians and Germans.

Since the Czar's promises of freedom to the Jews at the beginning of the war, the status of the Jews and their probable action have been a subject of much interest.

A resume of the operations of the Austro-Hungarian army issued by the Foreign Office in Vienna was made public at the Consulate. It says that the battle near Przemysł will engage practically all the Austrian forces against a large Russian army. "The small cruiser Nenta," continues the statement, "while blocking Montenegro, has been attacked by the French man-of-war Escarmouche and sunk after a heroic fight. No other naval engagement has taken place.

"Communications of the enemy speak of the rout of our army in Galicia and of Serb victories, of the capture of Cat-taro, etc., which messages are all audacious lies. To date we have 41,000 Russian and 8000 Serb prisoners. The courage of our troops is admirable. The situation in the interior of our monarchy is excellent." It was further announced that three Austrian ships, the Iris, Dinorah and Baron Way, which were in the Russian port of Tangaroff, in the Black Sea, have port of Tangaroff, in the Black Sea, have been captured without giving them the usual grace to leave the port as pre-scribed by international law. None of the men of the crew, who were liable to military service, was made prisoner of war, but all were sent to prison. The wife of the captain of the Iris, with five children, is said to be retained in a little hut in the country with scarcely anything

Captain Stuparich, of the Martha Washington, of the Austro-American Line, tied up here, has received a letter from his wife in Trieste dated September 5 in which she says that a friend, Dector Fravento, an Austrian dector of the Red Cross, has been captured near the Servian border and that both of his eyes were put out by the Servians, after which he was pushed out on the street to shift for himself.

Hungarian newspapers which have arrived at the Consulate speak of atrocities said to have been practiced by the Servians and Russlans.
