OVERBROOK AGAINST P. R. R. PLANS FOR FREIGHT YARD THERE

Residents Say Smoke and Engines Would Ruin Malvern Avenue Homes. Want Road Electrified.

Residents of Overbrook are making : decided stand against the Pennsylvania Railroad, which purposes the building of large freight yards in that suburb and the laying of a new road which will be used for freight transportation from Glenloch and Frazer to the Penn-sylvania Rallroad wharves at the foot of Washington avenue, via Overbrook and 52d street. They say the road as now planned will ruin the handsome residential district. residential district.

residential district.

The railroad was granted a franchise by the city of Philadelphia for the carrying out of this plan in 1905. This expires in 1905. Since the company has not begun the work it would be impossible to complete it before the time limit expires, and therefore the company has not begun the complete it before the time limit expires. limit expires, and therefore the com-pany has applied for an extension on the permit. The citizens of Overbrook, represented in the Overbrook Associa-tion and the Overbrook Club, have made such a vigorous protest that the City Council has informed the railroad that it will have to come to some under-standing with the citizens of that lo-cality before the permit will be ex-tended.

that the new in-coming line will run to the proposed freight yard along Mai-vern avenue, a handsome residential district, which would be ruined by the smoke of the engines that would con stantly be passing along the line. Th freight yard will not be electrified, ac-cording to the plans projected by the company, and so would ruin, the resifreight yard will not be electrified. lents say, the extensive residents developments which are being carried on between Overbrook and Wynnefield.

NOT TO ELECTRIFY YARDS In referring to this point, John J. Coyle, president of the Overbrook Asso-Coyle, president of the Overbrook Association, said that the city of Philadelphia would lose from $100,000 to $150,000 annually in taxes alone through the depreciation in value of real estate in that neighborhood, which would probably he at least 50 per cent. He believes that the company's claim that it would be impossible to electrify a freight yard of such magnitude as theirs is to be is unitie, for he says that not only the members of the Overbrook Committee, but also representatives of the City But also representatives of the City Council, have visited the electrified yards of other cities and are convinced that the proposition could not only be handled here, but that it could be profitably

But rather then electrified lines and But rather than electrified lines and freight yards, the people of Overbrook would have the railroad extend their present spur line connecting the Wash-lington street wharves with Newtown Square, via Fernwood, to Glenloch and Frazer, cutting out the Overbrook and Edd street yards. This, they claim, could be done at varily smaller expense and be done at vasily smaller expense and at a saving of considerable mileage, and incidentally leaving the fushionable residential sections of Overbrook undisturbed.

The railroad's plan as it now stands is to extend the 52d street yards to Overbrook, eventually laying 100 tracks for this purpose. These lines would pass underneath the Main Line passenger tracks at Malvern avenue, and continue out that avenue as a low-grade line toward the Newtown Square and Fernwood branch, not joining that road, however, but turning morth and running directly to Glenloch and Frazer. The only tun-neling which would be done would be on that part of Malvern avenue which lies between the Main Line and the Blind Asylum. There would be no means of crossing the Pennsylvania lines between

CONDEMNS PLAN OF P. R. R. In commenting on the situation this morning. John J. Coyle said: "We feel that the Pennsylvania Railroad has been granted greater concessions by her native State and city than any other railto show its appreciation, but has showered favors on other cities and States to the exclusion of Fhiladelphia and Pennsylvania. It has erected a magnificent terminal in New York and has electrified its lines entering that city, but not only refuses to do as much for Philadelphia, but wishes, on the other hand, to ruin one of the city's finest suburba."
