CAMDEN BROKER ACCUSED OF $8000 FARO GAME FRAUD

Lawyer From Richmond Lost His Money Trying to Beat Niagara Falls Club Game.

Arrested Man Held for Extradition Declares He's the Victim of Mistaken Identity—Looking For "Mr. King."

New and expensive faro system, on which J. Baxter Wilson, of Richmond, a lawyer, says he spent $500 before learned it did not work, has resulted in the arrest of a Camden toy commission broker, who declares today that he never saw the victim of the swindling before, never had anything to do with faro and advances the suggestion that the culprit may be his twin brother, the Camden man is L. M. Day, of Heights. He is under $10,000 bail at request of Prosecutor of the Peace, pending application by the District Attorney of Niagara County, N. Y., for extradition papers. The specific charge against Day is grand larceny of the first degree, according to the present of Prosecutor Kraft. Day is held in all cases in the warrant for his arrest. W. Moore and A. P. Moore, looking for Mr. "King," Wilson swore out the warrant for Day's arrest some months ago. Another man, known to Wilson only as "Mr. King," is believed to have figured in the transaction. Wilson is known to be still at large.

DOUBLE SHOOTING STIRS JERSEY TOWN; ONE VICTIM DEAD

Lambertville Man Fires Two Shots Into Wife's Body, Who Dies Soon After.

His Own Injuries Are Likely to be Fatal—Couple Had Lived Apart for Some Time.

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Oct. 1.—Frank Haughwout, while in a fit of despondency and jealous rage, killed his wife while she was on her way to work in a local canning factory at 7 o'clock this morning. He fired two shots, one entering her head and the other passing through her body. Then, turning the revolver upon himself, he sent a bullet through his brain.

A number of persons standing near Union and Elm streets, where the shooting occurred, rushed to the spot and carried Mrs. Haughwout to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Seals, 5 Elm street, where she died within a few minutes.

Haughwout was carried into a nearby shed and City Physician Frank W. Larson and Hunterdon County Coroner James I. Bumster were summoned. Later he was taken to the city lock-up, where his wounds were pronounced fatal. No hospital being nearer than Trenton, physicians did not think he could live long enough to reach there.

Haughwout had been out of employment for some time, and he and his wife had not lived together for some years. They had a daughter about 10 years of age. He was 32 years old and his wife a few days younger.

COUNCILMEN TAKE A RIDE OVER PROPOSED 'BUS LINE

City Will Pay Expense for Inspections of Thoroughfares.

At a cost of considerable money to the city, the Highway Committee of Councilmen left the Municipal Buildings at 11 o'clock today for an automobile ride up Broad street from Spruce street to Erie avenue and return. Ostensibly it went to look at the route which will be covered by motor buses should Council pass an ordinance permitting such vehicles to be operated on Broad street.

THE WEATHER Official Forecast

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. For Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Fair tonight and Friday; gentle north to east winds. The cold front has lost energy during the last 24 hours and the rains in the Southern States have ceased generally, but little having fallen since yesterday morning. Except for scattered showers in New York and New England, and in Oregon, Idaho and Utah, fair weather has prevailed throughout the country. It is somewhat cooler this morning in the Lake region, the Ohio Valley and New York, but in other parts of the country the changes have been unimportant. Temperatures are slightly above normal in the Missouri Valley and slightly below in the lower Lake region, with generally seasonable readings elsewhere.

$300,000 A YEAR THE OBJECT OF MUNICIPAL COURT GRAB

Jobs for Penrose-McNichol Henchmen Contemplated in "Marble Halls" and Contracts for Building and Furnishings Dazzling in Magnitude

Three hundred thousand dollars a year for jobs for the Penrose-McNichol henchmen in addition to a $200,000 initial outlay is about the sum that is saddled on Philadelphia if the Municipal Court land grab at 21st and Race streets through. This was the estimate today from computations made by persons familiar with the ways of institutions. But with the methods of the Municipal Court in mind few people would venture to name a salary plan list they thought would be accurate.

The jobs to be finished before the eyes of "faithful workers" are only a part of the lure the land grab scheme holds out, however. There is the taking of land, the architect's plan, the furnishings—and there are building contracts. Two million dollars for land and buildings, agreed upon as a conservative estimate, and a $200,000 salary list, those who know say, is a better prospect than the Penrose-McNichol gang has sighted in years. The thing is as good as an annuity, one man pointed out, for it keeps on coming indefinitely. When the contracts are finished there is still the fat salary list.

Most gang schemes are works that must be finished some time. But the Municipal Court's fat salary list would exist until abolished. How big it would be is beyond conjecture, observers say. "Tinkers in the Municipal Courts are being paid $200 a year. It is their duty to see that no one severs a list in court and to keep order. Their labor seldom last longer than six hours a day. There is no court on Saturday."

OATS FOR FRENCH ARMY HORSES SENT FROM HERE

British Steamship Carries Big Cargo to Bordeaux, France.

Meals of thousands of French army horses left here today in the holds of the British steamship Oatlands Grange, which sailed for Bordeaux, France, with 37,500 bushels of oats, valued at $215,000. Shipments of grain from this port, which had been declining before the war began, are now increasing under the insistent demand for the product from the warring powers. The British steamship Saturnus arrived here today to load a full cargo, and the Winton and Mulford are now receiving full cargoes.

THREE-DAY SEARCH FAILS TO REVEAL SLAYER OF GIRL

Hundreds of Men Join in Hunt for John Cope, Now Believed Hiding in City Underworld.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Oct. 1.—After a search of three days and nights by hundreds of men, the Bucks County authorities have not been able to lift even the corner of the veil covering the disappearance of John Cope after the shooting of his niece, Florence Cope, at Buckingham Valley Monday night. It is now certain that no one in the vicinity has caught a glimpse of Cope since he walked out of his brother's house after the shooting.

Back of Calvin Cope's farmhouse, where Florence was killed, is Cox's Hill, a foothill of Buckingham Mountain, so densely covered with underbrush that it could not be completely searched. But the authorities declare Cope would soon be starved out of these thickets.

PHILADELPHIA HAS BECOME GAMBLING CENTRE OF EAST

City Now Harboring Men of the Betting Fraternity and Handbook Makers Conduct Thriving Business in Hotel Corridors

Philadelphia is the gambling centre of the East today and perhaps of the entire country. In spite of its laws and the disposition of its citizens to uphold them, the Quaker City is harboring the big men of the gambling world and will continue to do so while the ponies run at the Havre de Grace race track.

"Ice" of the kind that glitters in the cravat, soft hats pulled down over the eyes, cigars tilted at a rakish angle, yellow and rawn and other loud-hued spats, flashing rings and suits of a more pronounced taste than Philadelphia wear bear evidence to the horde of followers of the Goddess of Chance now in the city.

An official of the Department of Public Safety said today that while all the big gamblers of the country were here at night detectives were watching them, and that no games of chance were being run here.

A walk along Chestnut street late one afternoon or evening after the special train from the race track set in will demonstrate to any one that a new element is mingling with the regular promenaders. In the lobbies of nearly all the hotels in the centre of the city the same thing may be noted.
