CHINESE STOWAWAY FOUND AFTER A TWO-HOUR SEARCH

Immigration Officials Finally Ferrat Him Out of Locker.

Immigration officials, reinforced by officers of the Norwegian steamship Minnesota, this morning were compelled to search two hours before they found a Chinese stowaway on the ship. Since his capture, the Mongolian has refused to answer questions asked him by a Chinese interpreter. Suspected of knowing how the stowaway got on board the vessel, Frank Nolen, a mess boy, was taken in custody to await a further investigation. Both are now confined in the Detention House at Gloucester.

TYPHOID AT DREXEL HILL PUZZLES HEALTH OFFICIALS

Twenty-two Cases Reported and Various Causes Ascribed as Source. Drexel Hill is in the midst of a typhoid epidemic. There have been 22 cases reported so far, and the patients are being treated in Philadelphia hospitals. It has been rumored that there has also been one case of scarlet fever. The typhoid epidemic is the talk of this and surrounding towns, and the residents seem at a loss to explain it. Contaminated milk and the Springfield water have been mentioned as possible causes. One man here has suggested that the epidemic was caused indirectly by the war in Europe. It was explained that the large amount of gunpowder which is continually being exploded in Europe has caused a deluge of rain there, and the dry weather here has followed as a matter of course. Such warm and dry weather at this time of the year was declared to be unhealthy.

Many are inclined to doubt that contaminated milk is the cause of the typhoid, and it was explained that there would have been more cases if the epidemic had spread through the Springfield water, which supplies the whole surrounding country. Many Delaware County towns have had the same. Contrary to current reports, Garrettsford, the next town to Drexel Hill, is practically free from typhoid. The children in the Garrettsford school are being carefully watched, and every means of precaution is being taken to prevent and check the spread of the disease. Health officials visited Drexel Hill yesterday and ordered that several cesspools be pumped out. Milk inspections and other precautionary measures have been ordered.

BERLIN REPORT OF SINKING BRITISH SHIPS IS DENIED

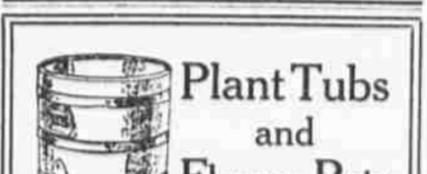

Captain Boag Says There Is No Danger in South American Waters.

Reports from Berlin that the German scout cruiser Karlsruhe had sunk seven British merchant vessels off the coast of Brazil were branded as false by Captain Boag, of the British tramp steamship Warley Pickering, upon his arrival here today from Santos and Rio Janeiro. Captain Boag said that the only German warship reported to be in South American waters, when he left there early in September, was the Dresden. Few, if any, British shippers were deterred from starting voyages because of the presence of the cruiser, Captain Boag said. He said that he had no fears and during the voyage he did not see a warship of any description until he arrived off the Philadelphia navy yard. The reported activities of the Karlsruhe have caused a rise in marine insurance rates to and from South American ports. The fact that the British steamships Hyades and Bowes Castle, sailing from Brazil, are long overdue is taken as an indication that they have been captured.

Police Recognize in Captive Man They Had Long Sought.

A street fight, in which Jacob Conrad, of 1276 Girard avenue, was engaged with another man at Kator street and Girard avenue, enabled the police today to serve a warrant nearly two years old on Conrad, charging larceny. He was held by Magistrate Morris, at the 23rd and Oxford streets station, for a further hearing before Magistrate Eisenbrown, who issued the warrant. When Conrad was arraigned this morning it was found that he had been wanted since January, 1913, on a warrant against street, who said Conrad stole $15 from
