

HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY AT HOME AND ABROAD, TOLD BY THE LENS OF THE CAMERA

"MADE IN AMERICA" LABEL AND ITS CREATOR

Effie Griffin, of 2625 North Thirteenth street, is the designer of a label to advertise and designate American-made goods. The label represents the Spirit of Commerce driving the trade of the world to America. Mrs. Griffin has made application for copyright of her design.

THE REV. CLEMENT CAPOZZI He was a priest connected with the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel. He has petitioned Bishop Rhinelander to take him into the Protestant Episcopal Church.

HOWARD LOOKING FOR BAIL

Last of Storey Cotton Group Brought Back After Pleading Not Guilty.

Arthur O. Howard, said to be the last man wanted in connection with the famous Storey cotton swindle here and who was indicted in 1905, was brought back to this city for trial today by United States Marshal Harry T. Harvey, Jr., from Providence, R. I., where he was arrested. Contrary to previous reports, Howard did not plead guilty at the hearing at Providence before United States Commissioner Cross. He pleaded not guilty, according to Marshal Harvey, and bail was fixed at $7500. Howard could not raise this amount at Providence, but said he could get it in this city. The man is now being held at the Federal building pending the result of his attempts to get bail. He will not be arraigned before a United States Commissioner here, but will go on trial at the December term of the United States District Court. Howard arrived in this city in the custody of Marshal Harvey on the Federal express that reached Broad street station at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

LUMBER SWINDLERS LOSE

United States Court Denies Their Appeal for Rehearing.

A formal order refusing a rehearing of the appeal of the five convicted promoters of the International Lumber and Development Company, a $4,000,000 swindle, was filed today by the Judges of the United States Court of Appeals in this city. The last resort of the convicted promoters to escape exchanging sentences is the United States Supreme Court, where their case may be heard on constitutional questions. The convicted men, who have made desperate efforts to keep from going to jail, are John R. Mackley and Isaiah B. Miller, of Chicago, the contractors, each of whom was fined $10,000 and sentenced to one year and three months in the Eastern Penitentiary; Charles M. McMahon, secretary and treasurer of the company, under a sentence of two years in the penitentiary and a fine of $3000; William H. Armstrong, Jr., manager of the company, also sentenced to two years and fined $200, and Colonel A. G. Stewart, special commissioner and vice president of the company, sentenced to one year and one day in the penitentiary and fined $100.

"LUMBER JACKS" IN BAD LUCK

Tale of Unemployment Touches Magistrate's Heart to Extent of Dollar.

The sympathies of Magistrate Wrigley were enlisted today in behalf of two six-foot tall and broad-shouldered "lumber jacks," who came East from the State of Washington in search of work and could not find it. He gave the men each 50 cents and wished them luck. The men were Henry Rusk and James Lighthall, who for many months had been living in lumber camps. Shortly after the opening of European hostilities they heard of many reservists leaving this country and decided this was an opportunity for them to get employment nearer home. Rusk and Lighthall were arrested as suspicious characters when they alighted from a freight train in the Wayne Junction freight yard of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway.

BLUECOAT "ON DUTY" IN SLEEP

Hears "Murder" Cry, Hops Out of Bed and Makes Arrest.

Hearing cries of "murder" shortly after seven o'clock this morning, patrolman Lafferty, who was in bed, responded to the call in bare feet, clad only in his shirt and trousers, and arrested Morris Lipton, 23 years old, a tailor, 353 Van Pelt street, who was being chased down the street by his wife. When arraigned in court some hours later, Lipton explained that his wife was jealous of some of his women customers and this brought about an argument which resulted in his hasty exit from the house. Mrs. Lipton declared her husband had struck her on the mouth. Lipton was held in $500 bond on the charge of assault and battery.

ROMANCE QUICKLY SHATTERED

Young Woman's Admirer Gone, Also Jewelry and Other Valuables.

The three-day romance of Anna O'Connell, of 5601 Baynton street, was shattered today when she learned that Thomas Flynn, a boarder at that address for only six days, had disappeared. It was also discovered that jewelry and clothing belonging to other boarders were missing. Flynn proposed to Miss O'Connell when he had been there only two days. He admitted that he only had $25 to start housekeeping, which Miss O'Connell declared insufficient. The boarder said that he was formerly a nurse at the State Hospital for the insane at Norristown.

FIRE CAUSES $3000 LOSS

Fire of unknown origin damaged property owned by Mrs. C. McMurry, 1333 South 4th street, this morning to the extent of $3000. The flames were discovered by Walter Duncan, whose residence is directly opposite to that of Mrs. McMurry. He sent in an alarm, and Engine Company No. 49 responding, succeeded in confining the blaze to the second floor of the structure, although considerable damage was done by water to the stationery and sporting goods store which occupies the first floor of the building.

MAN ACCUSED BY GIRL

Declares Former Policeman and Woman Lured Her From Home.

Repentant and ill, Katherine Emma White, 633 North Tenth street, a 16-year-old runaway, told a story to Magistrate Henshaw in Central Station today which induced him to hold without bail for court Henry Langner, 30 years old, a former member of the police force, now engaged in the real estate business. In connection with the disappearance of the girl from her home more than a year ago, Mrs. Leonora Taylor, 1543 North Boulevard street, was arraigned last week in Central Station and held under $500 bail, charged with violating the Mann white slave act. The girl told the police she had been taken from one house to another in this city by Langner and Mrs. Taylor. She was found recently on a farm at Watertown, N. Y., operated by relatives of Mrs. Taylor, and brought to Philadelphia by Mrs. Mabel Keillogg, superintendent of the New York Society to Protect Children from Cruelty.

WOMEN BURNED RESCUING CHILDREN FROM FLAMES

Carry Three to Safety From Blazing Bedroom.

Two women were badly burned today rescuing three children from the home of Samuel Orr, 8606 Laycock avenue, which was almost completely destroyed by fire because the city water supply was inadequate. Neighbors were obliged to aid the firemen by forming a bucket brigade. The blaze is thought to have started when Samuel Orr, 9 years old, played with matches. Mrs. Orr, who was downstairs preparing breakfast, was startled by a cry from the boy that his bed was on fire. At the same time Mrs. George Young, 8608 Laycock avenue, saw smoke coming from the window. Beside Samuel, his 10-year-old sister and brother, 7 years old, were in the bedroom. The two women ran upstairs and, fighting their way through fire to the beds of the children, carried them downstairs to safety. Both Mrs. Orr and Mrs. Jones were badly burned. Firemen who arrived attached their hose to a city plug at Tinticum avenue and 54th street, but the supply of water was so feeble that a stream could not be forced to the second story of the burning house. The firemen carried their hose through the building and upstairs to the burning bedrooms. Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and

DOG FIGHT BRINGS JAIL TERM

Fisher Accused of Shooting Man Whose Animal Beat His.

Frank Fisher, a former circus man, of Market street near 56th, was sentenced today by Judge Martin, in Quarter Sessions Court, to three months in the county prison. Last April Fisher's dog and one owned by William Kader, 5611 Walton avenue, were fighting, and the former's animal got the worst of it. Fisher, it seems, took up where his dog left off and Kader went to a hospital with a bullet through his shoulder. Suit Against Boston and Maine BOSTON, Oct. 7.—A $175,000 suit against the Boston and Maine Railroad was begun today in the Suffolk Superior Court by Willis B. Sargent, of Somerville, who is seeking to recover on fifteen $10,000 notes made on February 3, 1913, and payable 5 per cent yearly, on which payment was extended until June 2, 1914.

MAYOR AND CABINET DISCUSS PROTECTION TO PEDESTRIANS

Steps Will Be Taken to Lessen Danger on Streets.

Protection to pedestrians from accidents while crossing streets was considered today at the regular conference of Mayor Blankenship and his Cabinet. Following the killing of nine persons one day last week by vehicles of various kinds, either through accident or careless driving, and the recent charge to the Grand Jury by Judge Sulzberger, the Mayor announced that "safety first" to citizens, who had the right of way at crossings, would be one of the things taken up and discussed at today's conference. Every director but Doctor Harbo, of the Department of Health and Charities, who is out of the city, was present at the meeting. Many letters were read from citizens protesting against conditions which cause accidents to pedestrians. The solution of the problem was left to Director Foster, of the Department of Public Safety. He will confer with traffic officials, and it is expected a new set of traffic rules, formulated to safeguard pedestrians additionally, will be issued.
