WAR CAUSES AND CHARACTERS AND BLITHE ROMANCE IN THE NEW BOOKS

GERMANY'S REASONS FOR MAKING WAR

Latest Book By Gen. Bernhardi, Celebrated Adviser of Kaiser, Frankly Details Germany's Purposes - Plan to Obtain World Supremacy By "the Sword."

E NEED to enlarge our colo-nial possessions so as to afford a home and work to our surplus population," declares General Fredierich von Bernhardi, of the German cavairy, in his latest book, "How Germany Makes War," just published by the George Makes war, just published by the deorge H. Doran Company. "We must do this unless we wish to run the risk of seeing again the strength and productive power of our rivals increased by German emigration as in former days.

"Partitioned as the surface of the globe

Is among nations at the present time," he continues, "such territorial acquisitions we can only realize at the cost of other States or in conjunction with them; and such results are possible only if we suc-ced in securing our power in the centre of Europe better than hitherto. With we have to face a European war against superior enemies."

By some General Bernhardi is considered as the voice of imperial and milltaristic Germany speaking—by others not. Whatever the famous and most able militarist says, however, is of momentous in-terest, inasmuch as the plans outlined in his much-discussed book, "Germany and the Next War," have been practically followed by the Germans in their present campaign. Bernhardi writes with an amazing candor. He foresees the neces-sity and inevitably for war if Germany is to secure the territory needed for her commercial expansion. He anticipates the waging of a war by Germany and Austria if they are confronted by Russia. France and England, and foresees the present conflict, and the allied nationalities engaged. The book, written for militarists and commanders, was pub-Nebed in Germany two years ago, and a translation issued in England last year. This book, somewhat condensed, has just come from the presses. In view of what has occurred Bernhardi's forecasts are almost clairvoyant. At least one must consider Bernhardi as possessing second sight if, as some claim, Germany did not follow these outlined plans with deliberation and forethought.

Speaking of Germany's lack of terri-and Murder.

"Plants are no longer lifeless things, labeled and grouped under ponderous

Latin titles-they are highly developed walk, swim, run, fly, jump, skip, hop, roll, tumble, set traps and catch fish; decorate themselves that they may attract attention; powder their faces, imitate birds, animals, serpents, stones; play hide-and-seek; blossom underground; protect their children and send them forth into the world prepared to care for themselves-indeed, do all those things which we ourselves do! We know now that plants have even minds and souls with

With this startling introduction Royal

Dixon, a botanist of wide experience and one associated with tulip experiments in America, proceeds to tell, in "The Hu-

Company), of his amazing observations of plants and their habits. Mr. Dixon has written an extraordinarily engrossing book-and a book especially designed to fascinate children and familiarize them with the wonders of the world of nature.

Plants, declares Mr. Dixon, actually perform like human beings-eat, sleep, make love, walk and fly in the air. Others again-horrors upon horrors-are can-

"A man-eating plant grows in Nicaragua and is always found in deep swamps. For horror it has no rival. The vampire vine is not unlike the weeping willow denuded of its leaves, but is of a blackish-brown color, covered with a thick, gluey resin that aids it in binding its prey. By means of its finger-like claws it is enabled to catch small animals and envelop them in a network of its diabolical arms. Here they are hopelessly held until the last drop of blood is drawn from their bodies

by its infinitesimal sucking mouths."
You may not have known that some plants keep standing armles. Well, listen! "This moral effect of keeping a standing army is as apparent to plants as to men

There are some plants that wage war-fare; others, being rich, pay blackmail to their enemies; rather than fight against them, some actually hire soldiers and

Among the most interesting things in nature perhaps none is more striking than many plants which, like human beings and animals, rob and murder. "The murderer Liana is a parasite of the most unscrupulous kind, whose weak stem is unable to support its avaricious and ponderous head, and who, therefore, clings to its upright neighbors for support. I springs up a stalwart tree, sending ou clinging arms, wrapping them around the body of its victim until at last it reaches the sunlight. Eventually the sap of the tree is stopped from flowing and the liana waves its leaves in the breeze as if exulting over the dead."

Mr. Dixon tells of an infinite number of plants thus given to crime. Strangely, the majority of them are extraordinarily beautiful. "Lounging on the treetops, having nothing to do, they laugh in their glory—they toll not, neither do they Anatole France to Serve in War?

Anatole France, whose latest novel,

"The Revolt of the Angels." has just been published in an English translation by the John Lane Company, has announced that he has ceased writing, and in a letter written to the French

Minister of War, asks to be enlisted as a private.

In seeking to serve his country, M. France is only one of his country's great men who have either asked to go to the front or have actually entered service. Pierre Loti is serving in the fleet, and

Marcel Prevost has charge of cannon on

BOOKS

Wedding Gifts

Sure to be appreciated. A choice selection to choose

1210 WALNUT ST.

the field of battle.

from.

maintain an armed pr

nibals and eat living insects.

which to think and to worship."

speaking of Germany states of terry, the general says:

"This sort of thing is becoming intolerable. The freedom of action of our people is thereby hampered to an extraordinary degree. Such a state of affairs is highly daugerous, not only for the peace of Europe, which, after all, is only a secondary matter for us, but, above all, is most dangerous to our-theres. It is we whose economical, nabove all, is most datageness of the selves. It is we whose economical, national and political development is being obstructed and injured; it is we whose position in the world is being threatened after we have purchased it so dearly with the blood of our best. We must, therefore, strive to find out by all means who is for or who is against us. On this depends not only the possibility of carrying into execution the political alma bentting the greatness and the wants of our country, but also the very exist-ence of our people as a civilized nation. "It is impossible to change the partition of the earth as it now exists in our favor by diplomatic artifices. If we wish to gain the position in the world that is due to us, we must rely on our sword, renounce all weakly visions of peace and eye the dangers surrounding with resolute and unflinching cour-

There is no doubt in the general's mind as to Germany's right to carry on a campaign of invasion for "the posi-tion in the world due to us." Germany as a "civilizing nation has become a fac-tor in the evolution of mankind." There-fore, it is Germany's duty to spread her dealism" and labor, and, by the sword f necessary, to disseminate her "cul-ure." Germany, asserts Bernhardi, ry means to unhole her military supremacy." The Germans must become "the dominating race of Germany "has to accomplish a high calling in the development of mankind." But it can only put this task to good account if it exerts its mil-Itary strength to the utmost." many is entitled to more territory "in the sun," Bernhardi points out that on an area about the size of France Germany has a population of 65,000,000 against the 40,000,000 of France. Moreover, the German population is increasing at the rate of 1,000,000 a year.

Bernhardi foresces that in a war Germany will have to face France, England and Russia, and in all probability single handed. Germany is, therefore, "dependent on her own strength." The general makes short work of peace treaties. Inasmuch as this country in the last fourteen months made arbitration treaties with twenty-six countries what he says possesses a certain mordant quality.

"It is true the world is dominated today by the idea of war being an anti-quated means of policy, unworthy of a civilized nation. The dream of eternal peace has got a hold on vast sections of the community in the Old and particularly in the New World. Whereas, formerly. in addition to Emanuel Kant, only en-thusiasts and visionaries were the cham-pions of universal brotherhood, the governments of great and powerful States have now seized this idea as well, and are cloaking themselves with the mantle of a superior humanity. The arbitration courts, which the contracting powers ensage to obey, are meant not only to les-sen the dangers of war, but to remove them altogether. This is the publicly avowed object of such politics. In reality it is hardly caused by an ideal love of peace, but is evidently meant to serve quite different political purposes. T. E. H.

LIMERICKS ON LITERATTS

The hero was an editor* Who read submitted gems; To leave a pressing creditor He jumped into the Thames. Then love came to his lonely life— But the girl he didn't wed, Nor would he take another wife— Presumably he's dead.
The Clean Heart," by A. S. M. Hutchin
Little Brown & Co., Boston.

There was a Miss Ida Tarbell*
Who gave one Napoleon just—"war";
(She praised Josephine,
The Emperor's Queen)
And did up the Corsican well.

Jacobs Books and Stationery "Life of Napoleon Bonaparte, with a Sketch of Josephine," by Ida M. Tarbell. The Mac-millan Co.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE? ARMAGEDDON AND AFTER

By Cloudesley Brereton

16mo, boards, 50 cents.

A monograph by one of the educational leaders of England, which undertakes to show how Prussian tradition, starting with Frederick the Great, has succeeded in corrupting the Germany of to-day. The author takes the ground that the issue of the present struggle may be a great spiritual renascence or it may be the domination of the Huns.

Order from your bookseller now

To Be Published Immediately by G. P. Putnam's Sons

Standing Armies, Rob, Plunder organisms which see, hear, taste, feel, man Side of Plants" (Frederick A. Stokes

> LADY NEWBOROUGH Who reveals "The Secret of Louis-Philippe."-McBride, Nast & Co.

Relief From War Horrors Found In Light Fiction

There is fine quality of youth and vigor in Miss Shella Kaye-Smith's novel, "The Three Furlongers" (Lippincott) that invests with fresh interest the world-old theme of which she has treated -the misfortunes of a maid who has loved unwisely. The heroine herself, Jane Furlonger, is a finely drawn character. as vital and human as one could wish for, and stands out in splendid contrast to the weak, uninteresting figures will which the author has surrounded her. It is a depressing picture, with something o

By Crittenden Marriott

The author of "Sally Castleton, Southerner, "hashere written a novel of the American wilderness that has the tang and flavor of a James Fenimore Cooper tale. It is intensely exciting--the hero-ine, a charming French girl, mysteriously disappears among the Indians, and one reads the story with the same eagerness that the hero feels in his attempt to find the lost girl. $1.25 Net

For Sale at All Book Stores J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. PUBLISHERS, PHILADELPHIA

By Meredith Nicholson

"While the interest in the story itself will attract the reader, the interest in the pic-ure of The Poet will be greater. It is a rare performance in literature. Everybody knows who the Poet is, but if they want to know him as a kind of Good Samaritan in a different way than they know him in his verses they should read this charming idyll,"

-Boston Transcript "To read 'The Poet' is taking a walk over a good road on a bright morning; you wish the journey would never end."

— 8t Louis Globe Democrat

THE POET is a love story of real charm At all bookstores. $1.30 net. HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN CO.

LORELI KNIGHT In Rex Beach's "Auction Block."-

tige of humor to leaven the seriousness H. G. J. of the narrative.

Gay and clever little farcical comedy appears in "Oh, James" by H. M. Edinton (Little, Brown & Co.). The amusing plot hinges on the extraordinary efforts of James, a prosperous English merchant, to spend his ever-increasing income, which to him proves an embarrassment of riches. His wife is entirely unsympathetic, and will not help him, for she cares nothing about money or the luxuries it can give her, so he decides that he will realize his philanthropic ideals by established several pretty young girls in palatial residences with suitable incomes to match. While strictly moral and conventional himself, unconventional method of reducing his inconventional method of reducting his income rouses the suspicions of the young ladies, and before long James is enveloped in a maze of domestic diffi-culties that for a time threaten to en-guif him. His practical wife comes to the rescue, however, and things straighten themselves out in a most amusing way that leaves the unsophisticated James considerably the poorer financially, but richer by far in the experience of worldly the control of out the fine irony of that writer or a ves- life.

Mrs. Watts's New Novel

Author of "The Revolt of the Angels" (John Lane Company), who the gloom and tragedy of Hardy, with-will probably enlist as a private.

-The Rise of Jennie Cushing-

By MARY S. WATTS Author of "Nathan Burke," "The Legacy," "Van Cleve," etc.

The crowning excellence of "Nathan Burke," Mrs. Watts's great story of Ohio life and the Mexican War which captured the literary world at a single assault a few years ago, was not only the skill and charm with which it was written, but its air of the episodes having actually happened.

In that book Mrs. Watts told with great power the story of a man. In this, her new book, she tells the story of a woman, and adds new characters of fiction to American literature as life-like and entertaining as her previous great successes, "Nathan Burke," "Mrs. Ducey," "Letty Thoroughly American in good humor, charm and optimism, sweet, wholesome and true to life, Jennie Cushing will be regarded as the most interesting of the many excellent characters that Mrs. Watts has given us.

Cloth. $1.35 net. At all bookstores.

Published THE MACMILLAN COMPANY 64-66 Fifth Ave.

you are tired of the weak and insipid novels so prevalent-if you want to read the work of a thinker-if you want to compare your ideas and your beliefs with those of a man equipped to talk of life-if you want to read the romance of a man who is abnormal in strength and in achievement-if you want to know the astounding motives which can compel a clash between capital and labor; if you want all these things, as well as a novel absorb-ing and powerful, ask your bookseller for

The Way of the Strong A Romance of the Wheat Fields By Ridgwell Cullum $1.35 net

GEORGE W. JACOBS & COMPANY PUBLISHERS 1210 WALNUT ST., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

BERNHARDI ANSWERED

Germany and England WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY

The Hon. JOSEPH H. CHOATE

The only book in which the real causes of this terrible war are clearly set forth. You cannot afford to miss reading it. By J. A. CRAMB. $1.00 net at all bookstores. Published by E. P. Dutton & Co.

Kaiser Wilhelm Within His Home as Husband and Father

New Light on Character of the "War Lord" by Governess of Daughter-Engaged in Pranks With Children daughter, presents him as he is practically unknown—as a husband sitting at break-fast in the midst of his fmily, as a father dilariously engaging in the pranks of his !

Miss Topham's book, "Memoirs of the Kalser's Court' (New York, Dodd, Mend & Co.), is one of the most illuminating documents revealing the character of the German Emperor that has appeared, and it comes, with the war in progress, with signal timeliness.
You may be bipartisan in your per-fervid admiration of the man whose genius brought the German Empire to its marvelous state of development, or you may be uncompromisingly bitter against the "war lord," who shook his malled fist at all Europe; nevertheless, you will be interested in the fascinating person-ality, as it is delightfully presented by the "little English governess."

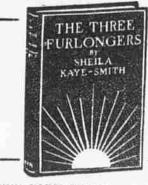

Speaking of her first impressions, Miss Topham writes:

"It is obvious that in the intervals of inspecting regiments and making war-like speeches, 'Papa' unbends to a considerable extent in the bosom of his family. But I learn with some regre that 'poor mama' seldom has time to set a really proper breakfast, because after she has poured out 'Papa's' coffee, buttered his toast and ministered to his other wants, she has only time to snatch the merest mouthful for herself before she is hurrying away to call the dogs and put on his clonk for a brisk early morning walk. 'Come on, come on, he says, with cheerful impatience, 'how you do dawdle over your food, to be sure. I've finished long ago. At Christmas the Emperor, says Miss Topham, walks abroad his pockets and those of his accompanying adjutants filled with coins. These he distributes in a promiscuous manner to whomseever he meets—gardeners, sentries, school children. The gardens at Christmas eve were of course filled with gardeners busily sweeping invisible leaves. But the Kaiser always took unexpected routes "One Christmas the Princess was walking with four of her brothers down the wide drive of the Neuer Garten, when

As human as "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," and as appealing.

NEW YORK TIMES:

"Her story is written with such sincerity of feeling and appreciation of moral beauty and contains so much human truth that the author deserves she * * * has given it also dramatic moments and strong emotional tension * * An achievement worth-while." SPRINGFIELD HOMESTEAD:

"One of the most interesting pieces of serious fiction brought out this Fall is 'The Three Furlongers' * * * An expert intermingling of incident, dramatic and emotional with the actual expression of ideals and motives.

ALL THE CRITICS PRAISE THE THREE FURLONGERS $1,25 Net. For Sale at All Book Stores J. B. Lippincott Co. Publishers, Philadelphia

ERTAINLY it would be interesting in the distance they saw the Emperor to view the formidable figure of approaching. Prince Pritz laughlingly William II, German Emperor, and suggested that there might be a chance dominating figure in the present war, of receiving some Christmas money, so under his orders they ranged themselves in military uniform beside the road. he is a hero to this individual or not. Miss Anne Topham, who for many years was governess to Victoria Louise, the Kaiser's daughter, presents him as he is practically unknown—as a husband sitting at break-unknown—as a husband sitting at break-and gave an emphatic nod, while the would be recipients giggled at each other and felt rather foolish." T. E. H.

Just Fifteen Minutes AT BEDTIME

it is possible for you to get knowledge of literature, broad culture, that every vorsity strives to give. University strives to give.

This is no idle promise. Dr. Chas. W. Eller, from his sixy years of reading study, and reaching—forty years of it as President of one of the world's greatest universities—has put aside those few great Poems, Dramas, Biographies, Histories, Works of Travel, Science, Philosophy and Religion that best picture the progress of the human race from the earliest times down to the present day. "I believe that the faithful and considerate reading of these hooks will give any man the essentials of a liberal education, even if he can devote to them but fifteen minutes a day."—Ellet.

What books? The snawer is -Ellot. What books? The snawer is contained in the free booklet mentioned below; it is the most valuable booklet ever written for the man who wants advice on what or how to read. It contains the story of

The Famous Five Foot Shelf of Books Now Yours for Only a Few Cents a Day One hundred thousand business men are using the pleasant, helpful reading courses therein laid out. They are reading the great histories, eacing the great plays, hearing the great orations, meeting the great men of history.

A Free Booklet For You

We want to send you by nail this "Guide Rocklet to tooks," absolutely free. Hooks," absolutely free.

It is the most valuable little broklet of the kind that has ever been written. It showhow to select a library withnut waste or worry—just what broks are most worth while, it contains the advice of the leading educator of his day on what and how to read.

No obligation—merely clip the coupen.

CLIP THE COUPON

Without any obtigation whatever to me, please send me a copy of the free "Guide Booke," with the story of the Five-Foot shelf.
P. L. E. 10-17-14

If you have children and want them to read the right books.

NEW SCRIBNER BOOKS

The British Empire and the United States

A Review of Their Relations During the Century of Peace Following the Treaty of Ghent

By WILLIAM ARCHIBALD DUNNING

With an introduction by the Right Honorable Viscount Bryce and a preface by Nicholas Murray Butler. This is the psychological moment for the appearance of a book which explains the century of peace between Great Britain and the United States. When nearly every world power except the United States is at war, the history of our relations with a country, one of whose dominions borders ours for a distance of 3,000 miles, cannot help being intensely interesting and helpful to an understanding of war and peace and their underlying $2.00 met; postage extra.

Notes on Novelists With Some Other Notes By HENRY JAMES

Here is a book which describes with penetrating analysis and in a thoroughly entertaining manner of telling the work not only of the great modern novelists of the last century. Stevenson, Zola, Balzac, Flaubert and Thackeray, but also takes up in a chapter entitled "The New Novel" the work of Galsworthy, Mrs. Wharton, Courad, Wells, Walpole Bennett and the other more important contemporary novelists. This chapter gives in a short space as been and authoritation. gives in a short space as keen and authoritative a criticism of present-day fiction as can be found. $2.50 met; postage extra.

Robert Frank By SIGURD IBSEN

Henrik Ibsen's only son is the author of this drama, which Henrik Ibsen's only son is the author of this drama, which William Archer, the distinguished English critic, considers convincing proof that he possesses "dramatic faculty in abundance." Mr. Archer defines it as "a powerful and interesting play which claims attention on its own merits, eminently a play of today, or, rather, perha tomorrow." The truth of this last comment is sufficiently meed in the fact that its motive is the attempt of a young statesman to end, once and for all, the struggle between capital and labor by dramatically for all, the struggle between capital and labor by dramatically $1.25 bet? pintage extra.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS