

HUSBAND'S FREE LOVE THEORY TOO MUCH FOR WIFE

Woman Asking Separation Swears Doctor Had Many Soulmates, But Held Himself Blameless.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Mary Caspe's husband, Dr. Abram Caspe, is an advanced thinker, according to his own point of view, if his wife's line of thought is a separation suit in line with facts.

He is a member of the Socialist party, but Mrs. Caspe asserts she did not object to the views he entertained until he began to advocate free love in his own home, "contending that men are not bound by any legal restraint from loving and living with more than one woman at the same time. It was altogether proper for a married man to live with other women if he loved them."

Incidentally, Mrs. Caspe says that although her husband has an income of more than $200 per annum, he appears to feel no obligation toward his children and her. She says she pleaded with him to discard his theories, but that her pleadings did not avail.

HEAD OTHER WIVES. "Within a short time," she says, "he began openly to consort with women of the same frame of mind, both married and unmarried, and began to neglect the family, staying away sometimes until 4 a. m. and sometimes never coming home. I went to his office once and found him entertaining his soul mates, as he introduced them, whom he loved. He frankly acknowledged to me that he lived with a Mrs. Hoffman and Mrs. Fabricant and that he no longer loved me. He held himself altogether blameless in loving these other women."

The plaintiff states that when she left her husband with her children he quit contributing toward her expenses, stating that he had no promise to support her when he married her.

Doctor Caspe denies his wife's allegation, and says the European conflict has injured his practice, which was of the "old school" order, and that it also suffered as the result of change of neighborhood conditions on the East Side.

The practice of the "old school" physicians fell off he says, and a lot of young men with new and highly unprofessional methods came into the neighborhood and took the practice away. The Court undoubtedly knows, continued Doctor Caspe, "that Socialists are as good family men as men of any other political belief, and certainly there is no connection between a man being a Socialist and his strict observance of marital duties."

PRISON OFFICIALS ON RACK

Accused of Granting Undue Privileges to Convicted Banker.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—John J. Malloy, superintendent of the Industrial Department of Sing Sing, today was confronted with the question of his conduct before the Kings County Grand Jury in the investigation as to prison privileges granted David A. Sullivan, convicted president of the Union Trust Company.

With the campaign drawing to a close fuel has been added to the fire by the Sing Sing scandal, as a result of which Governor Glavin has ordered Superintendent of Prisons Riley to suspend Warden Thomas J. McCormick. At the same time the Governor appointed Stephen C. Baldwin, a Republican, to investigate the Sullivan affair.

SEEKS TO DIVORCE ACTRESS

Doctor Charges Cruelty in That Wife Plans Return to Stage.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 28.—Dr. D. L. Griffith, 710 South Main avenue, today began action for divorce on the ground that his wife, former chorus girl, is corresponding with booking agents with a view to returning to the stage. He says this constitutes cruel and barbarous treatment.

When the papers were served on Mrs. Griffith she was dumfounded. Doctor Griffith met the young woman in Beaumont, Tex. Her stage name was Oia Blessing, and her father is said to be a "wealthy cattleman."

Christmas Toys Will Be Plentiful

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—American kids will not have to go toyless because of the war in spite of the fact that a very large proportion of our toys come from the warring countries and especially Germany. Inquiries among the big toy importers today elicited the information that the only result of the war on the toy market was a big boom for the American toy industry.

CHILDREN'S CORNER BEFORE THE SANDMAN COMES

AFTER they had many times postponed the date of their departure, Mrs. South-breeze finally declared that she wouldn't wait another day and they simply must start south at once.

"Here it is the last week in October," she said, "and we have been hiding and fooling Jack Frost from day to day."

"I know it, mother," giggled Jimmy South-breeze, "and it's time to 'Member how mad he was that night I staid awake and wouldn't let him into the forest?"

Mrs. South-breeze laughed in recollection. "That was a good joke, Jimmy, and I was proud that you could fool him."

"Then, mother," began Jimmy, hoping he could persuade her into staying over just one more day, "can't we—"

"No, sir, we can't," interrupted his mother, and she laughed good-naturedly at his crestfallen face. "I know exactly what you're going to say and there's no use in your saying it. Let your nose use me before because it really makes no difference. But now we really must go. Next week November begins."

"Well, what of it," asked Jimmy (for you see he was too young to realize about winter—real winter, and storms and all that), "November won't hurt us."

"Much you know about November," replied Mrs. South-breeze. "After November begins a member of the South-breeze family would have no show at all. The storms would simply sweep us off the earth."

Now Jimmy South-breeze liked his own way very, very much. But fortunately he had considerable good sense. He was much impressed by his mother's firm manner, and he decided that this probably was one of the times when it was simply best to do as his mother said and make no further objection. "All right, mother," he told her, "what do we do to make ready?"

"We don't do very much," said Mrs. South-breeze. "It isn't like when we come North in the spring. Then we bring fragrance and a thousand little breezes with us."

"Don't we have to take them back South with us?" asked Jimmy. "I don't when we stay North so late," replied his mother. "They've all gone long ago. Only you and I, of all the warm breezes, are left."

"Then do we start at once?" Jimmy inquired. "Just help me look over these gardens first," said Mrs. South-breeze. "See if every root and bulb is well covered by the leaves, we blew over them. Then we're off."

Over the gardens they blew and found everything in perfect order. "Now we can go," cried Mrs. South-breeze, "keep close to me so you don't get lost."

"Wait a minute," called a blackbird. "I want to go with you! Please help me? I've stayed so long I'm afraid winter will catch me."

Obliging Jimmy boosted the lazy blackbird up on his back and again they started. Without a stop they blew over forests and cities, brooks and meadows, till the land of cold and snow was far, far behind them.

Copyright, 1914, Clara Ingram Julson. Tomorrow—A Funny Plaything.

LUCILLE CAVANAUGH A girl who finds health, happiness and contentment in dancing.

DANCING BRINGS HEALTH AND JOY TO FAIR EXPONENT

Lucille Cavanaugh, Premiere Danseuse, Loves Art for Pleasure She Finds in Tripping the Light Fantastic.

"Sing, dance and be merry, for tomorrow we die," is the motto of Lucille Cavanaugh, premiere danseuse of the "Whirl of the World" company. In her opinion there is no other occupation which is as healthful as tripping the light fantastic, as the saying is.

Questioned as to how the art might be mastered, the dainty little dancer replied: "It cannot be mastered by some—only even if they could practice for centuries. Dancers are born, but that has been said before. Nevertheless, the fact remains that you can tell a 'made' dancer the minute you see one—there is an indescribable something that gives them away, either a trace of the 'gauche' or a self-consciousness which shows that they are not really first-class artists. A 'really' dancer can often be detected when a child skips about the street to the music of a hand organ."

"Does it take many years of training to bring this out?" she was asked. "Sometimes, yes," was the reply. "There is no limit but to the amount of improvement possible to a dancer. There is not, or never was, a dancer who was perfect; some think they are perfect because they receive praise and applause, but they could become still more graceful if they tried."

PRACTICE BEFORE MIRROR. Miss Cavanaugh then went on to describe the methods she follows in improving her dancing. She told of weary hours spent in front of the mirror, where each movement of the dance is carefully studied; of hour after hour of rehearsing with a partner, so that each step becomes so automatic that there is no danger of forgetting; of, for she admits, until one knows all phases of the dance in detail as well as just exactly how the partner does them there is no hope of performing well.

"It is just like memorizing a poem," she said, "after you have repeated it over and over again for hours and hours, you finally get to know it so well that it is just part of you; you never have to stop to think of what is coming next."

Asked her opinion of the modern popular dances, she replied: "They are, after all, just stage steps simplified. I have never seen one of the so-called 'new dances' that I did not recognize as taken from some street and which has been known for years. Of course, they are modified and, in some cases, enlarged upon, so that most people would not recognize them, but that is what they are just the same."

GLIDING BRINGS HAPPINESS. "Do you approve of them?" she was asked. "Of course I do," she laughed. "I approve of all dancing. I just love it myself, and it makes me so happy that I am glad when I see that other people can be made happy that way. Sometimes when I am walking along some street and I hear good music I just can't resist the temptation to dance—it just makes me so overwhelmingly happy that I don't care who people may think of me."

"Good music, then, is one of the essentials?" "Yes, indeed. A person can't dance freely if she doesn't enter into the spirit of the music and if she doesn't feel confidence in the conductor; that is why so many rehearsals are necessary before a musical comedy can be staged. Good music is an inspiration to any dancer and accounts for the success of many shows that would have failed miserably without it.

"Costumes also have an effect on dancing. It takes a very good dancer, indeed, to perform well in one of the long, flimsy gowns that float in the air. That is almost an art in itself, for many dancers who can do well enough in the ballet skirt are hopelessly lost when they try to maneuver in one of the 'Greek' dresses."

CLINGING GOWNS APPROPRIATE. "The most beautiful costume of all, in my opinion, is the dress of the clinging plated type, but I don't like them when they have sleeves."

"Dancing keeps me in good health. I am never ill, and it is because I get plenty of exercise in dancing and am careful about what I eat. I never touch meat in summer and never eat potatoes. I play golf and take long walks whenever possible, but above all I keep happy, and that, I think, the real keynote to health, for I am just bubbling over with it all the time, and, well, I guess I don't look as though I were pining away, do I?"

MONEY CENTRE AT CAPITAL

Bryan Says Its Removal From Wall Street Was Timely.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 28.—According to Secretary of State Bryan, who spoke in the Auditorium here in defense of President Wilson's Administration, a money centre has now been transferred from Wall street to Washington.

"The change came just in time," he said; "if the old system could not stand normal conditions, how would it be in time of war with gold in hiding everywhere?"

KILLS FATHER FOR BURGLAR

Boy Shoots Him While Climbing Through Window.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 28.—Mistaken for a burglar while climbing in the window of his home at Glendale, ten miles south of here, John English, 16, was shot and instantly killed early today by his son, Fred, 20.

The father's body fell at the boy's feet, who called an officer, thinking he had shot a burglar. The boy fainting when he recognized his father.

COOK FORCED FROM TICKET

Quits Candidacy for Judge When Police Record Is Exposed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28.—John F. O'Brien, whose police record shows he is a notorious character and associate of thieves and hoboes, will run on the Democratic ticket for Judge of the Juvenile Court, because his record has been exposed and his name ordered stricken from the ballot.

He would have stood a good chance of election if his duplicity had not been discovered.

MODERN DANCING

MARTEL'S, 1710 North Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pa. For a good old-fashioned dance, WM. BIRTH'S ORCHESTRA—The Best Ever. Private Lessons Daily. Instruction in Modern and Old Style Dances Taught. BEGINNERS' CLASS TUESDAY EVENING. FOX TROT CONTEST—CASH PRIZES. HALLOWEEN NIGHT, SATURDAY, OCT. 31.

CHAS. J. COLL & SONS, 22 S. 40th Street. GRAND PRIZE MASQUE BALL Thursday Evening to 12 P. M. Branch 38th and Market Streets.

AL WHITE COLONIAL THEATRE BUILDING (Hilms) 12TH AND CHESTNUT STS. TEACHERS. ALL THE MODERN DANCES PRIVATE AND PUBLIC. ALSO STAGE DANCING.

MISS MARGUERITE C. WALZ Studio of Modern Dances 1604 WALNUT STREET. Mrs. Elizabeth W. Reed, Chaperone. Spruce 2281.

IF YOU WANT TO BE ABLE TO DANCE better than the average person consult Mrs. Bruce, Chestnut St. 1124. Strictly private instruction. Up-to-the-minute dances. Classes taught 7-10 p. m.

Standardized Modern Dances JESSIE WILSON STILES STANLEY BAIRD REED SUITE 204, PRESSER BUILDING 1714 Chestnut St. Phone Spruce 4462 J.J. Finn's Studio of Dancing, 5009 W. Dauphin St. Latest dance light; class or pri. Dia. 5007.

Grand Republican Rally

ACADEMY OF MUSIC THURSDAY, OCT. 29, 8 P. M. in the interest of the Entire Republican Ticket

The Following Speakers Will Address the Meeting: HON. BOIES PENROSE DR. MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH

Hon. Frank B. McClain Henry Houck Gen. Thomas J. Stewart John R. K. Scott, Esq. Hon. J. Hampton Moore Hon. George S. Graham Hon. Hampton L. Carson Hon. Edwin S. Stuart Dimmer Beber, Esq.

MR. WILLIAM T. TILDEN, President of the Union League, Will Preside

ACordial Invitation Extended to Everybody

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

Questions submitted to "Ledge" Column, published by the Real Estate Trust Building, at Broad and Chestnut streets, will be answered in this column.

Q. Is there a steamship line between Philadelphia and Los Angeles on which one may ship an automobile? E. A. S.

A. The American Hawaiian Steamship Company, whose office are at 421 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, will take care of shipment on steamship Pennsylvania. Next sailing from New York November 4.

Q. Where does the Interstate Commerce Commission hold its meetings in Washington, D. C.? H. E. H.

A. 1217 F street, N. W.

Q. Can you tell us whether Lippincott's Magazine has been for some time concerned, and if so, why they are and when the sale was consummated? A. Yes. To McBride, Nast & Co., of 21 Union Square. The sale was consummated on October 21, 1914.

Q. Kindly inform us in what month the regulations to govern destruction of records of telegraph and cable companies went into effect. A. February, 1914.

Q. Can you tell me (a) how long it took to build the Brooklyn Bridge? (b) Have tolls ever been charged on the bridge, and if so, what are they? (c) The Brooklyn bridge was begun on January 3, 1870, and opened to traffic on May 24, 1883.

(b) The tolls are: Foot passengers on the roadway, 5 cents or 2 tickets for 5 cents; roadway tolls for vehicles was abolished in 1911. In 1897 the bridge was leased to the elevated railroad companies (now operated by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit), they paying therefor 10 cents per car, trolley cars 5 cents per round trip.

Q. What is the quickest and best way from Philadelphia to San Francisco? M. E. M.

A. Leave Philadelphia, Broad Street Station, at 4:31 p. m. via Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, or 4:17 p. m. via Baltimore, Washington and Cumberland, both arriving at Chicago at 5 p. m. next day. Leave Chicago, Northwest Line Terminal, at 7 a. m. and take long walks whenever possible, but above all I keep happy, and that, I think, the real keynote to health, for I am just bubbling over with it all the time, and, well, I guess I don't look as though I were pining away, do I?"

Q. How large is the Dominican Republic, and what are its principal productions? H. C. D.

A. Dominican Republic is an independent Negro State in Haiti, West Indies, and has an area of 29,600 square miles, with a population of approximately 200,000. The chief productions are sugar, tobacco and coffee. Capital, Santo Domingo.

Q. I would like to know (a) when Thomas Jefferson was born, (b) What number was he in the line of Presidents of the United States and (c) whether he was ever sent to France as a Minister? F. Q. L.

A. (a) Thomas Jefferson was born at Shadwell, Va., April 13, 1743. (b) Third. (c) Yes. In the year 1785.

SHORTAGE OF TURKEYS

Dealers Declare Curtailment of Supply Is 25 Per Cent.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—The Thanksgiving turkey crop is 25 per cent short, according to reports from the 100 delegates attending the National Poultry, Butter and Egg Association convention here.

Prices for the great American bird will be correspondingly higher, the dealers asserted today.

MODERN DANCING

GEORGE R. H. BERNARD is giving private and class lessons in the latest room and stage dancing at his Studio, 2142 N. Carlisle St. Phone, Diamond 4418.

THE BEST IN TOWN ABOLIZY SCHALLERD George Bernard has connection whatsoever with any other dancing-master in Pa.

PALACE BALLROOM 39th and Reception Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays. Beginners' Class Tuesdays and Saturdays. reception follow, with orchestra music.

MONSTER HALLOWEEN PRIZE MASK BALL MONDAY NIGHT, NOVEMBER 3 10 CASH PRIZES Amounting $30 to $100

1728 LUCIEN O. CARPENTER That's All N. 15th St. Phone DIAMOND 4213 D.

THE C. ELWOOD CARPENTER SCHOOL 123 Chestnut St. Private and class instruction daily. Fox Trot, Latin Paso, Charleston, Va. Tango, Heaton, Ball Room.

THE MODERN DANCES Private Lessons & Classes Taught Anywhere. Studio at 123 Chestnut St. Phone 1596. MISS SLOANE and MR. BRUNT.

MISS LYONS' PRIVATE SCHOOL of dancing, 1710 Chestnut St. Private Lessons any hour. Studio rented for dances, musicals, cards.

Hallow'en Double Event

Next Friday and Saturday Nights MASK BALL. And Special Event for Next Monday Night. Million Dollar Fire Insurance Dance. Exhibition demonstrations. Prize One-Step and Heaton. War Contests.

Dance of Dandelion BIG TIME Large Attendance of the Best 30TH AND MONTGOMERY AVENUE

CRANBERRY CROP IN NEW JERSEY BREAKS RECORD

Growers Declare 1,000,000 Bushels of Berries Will Be Harvested, or 30 Per Cent. More Than Last Year.

There is a record cranberry crop being harvested now in New Jersey. Whether the historic side dish of the Thanksgiving turkey will be cheaper this year is a question that has not been settled by the growers.

The crop of berries this year will exceed by far the American demand. Europe is not buying luxuries at present and never did take kindly to cranberries. Paris and London formerly imported the berries to sell to Americans abroad and a few French and English learned to eat them.

Even our own Southern States know little about the tart sauce which is considered a necessary adjunct to game and poultry in the Northern States. They are being educated, however, by the growers.

The Cape Cod berries are already in the market at $4.50 a barrel. This is $1 a barrel cheaper than last year. They are a profitable harvest, however, and will not last until Christmas, which is a second big day in America for cranberry sauce.

The connoisseurs choose the frost-bitten wild berry for some reason, but most persons prefer the large ones, which have been under cultivation for years.

Veteran Policeman, Aged 84, Ill WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 28.—William Heald, known as "Uncle Billy," Wilmington's veteran policeman, is on the sick list, but Police Surgeon Forrest does not think his condition is serious. Heald has been on the job for 37 years and will be 84 years old in February.

and are making inquiries concerning cranberries and receipts for preparing them. There are in the neighborhood of 30 ways to prepare the cranberry. They range from the common every-day stewed cranberries to jellied cranberries and those preserved and made into wine. Growers declare 1,000,000 bushels of the berries will be harvested in New Jersey alone. That means the crop will be 30 per cent. larger than last year. Most of the growers have their own warehouses and hold their harvests until prices suit them. There are cranberry sales organizations formed along similar lines to the California fruit growers' exchanges. Cranberries can remain in storage four months during the winter without becoming "mushy," and because of this the growers can hold their harvest until a suitable price is reached.

The Cape Cod berries are already in the market at $4.50 a barrel. This is $1 a barrel cheaper than last year. They are a profitable harvest, however, and will not last until Christmas, which is a second big day in America for cranberry sauce.

The connoisseurs choose the frost-bitten wild berry for some reason, but most persons prefer the large ones, which have been under cultivation for years.

Veteran Policeman, Aged 84, Ill WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 28.—William Heald, known as "Uncle Billy," Wilmington's veteran policeman, is on the sick list, but Police Surgeon Forrest does not think his condition is serious. Heald has been on the job for 37 years and will be 84 years old in February.

MR. DUBINSKY'S RECITAL Violinist of Philadelphia Heard in Varied Program. The recital given at Grifth Hall last night by David Dubinsky, of the Philadelphia Orchestra, was a capable and well-balanced exhibition of the violinist's powers and of his taste, and the generous audience which heard him felt a distinct sense of gratification in it. Starting with Brahms' Sonata in B major, Mr. Dubinsky went through Tartini, Vieuxtemps, three of Kreisler's famous arrangements, a Tchaikowsky melody and Sarasate's "Spanish Dance." In the Brahms, which Mr. Dubinsky played from the score, his bowing was a trifle uncertain, but the understanding of the music was marked, especially in comparison with the Vieuxtemps, which made none but technical demands upon the artist.

Mr. Dubinsky was obviously careful in his first number, but in the exquisite old-world pieces he threw off undue restraint, and played Martini, Couperin and Boccherini with the easy indifference they demanded. A clear tone, straight forward and clean drawing of the bow, and no trace of sentiment were the excellent characteristics of his work. The adagio of both sonata and concerto were best played, and indicated both Mr. Dubinsky's strength and his limitations, for the adagio "with fire" was not so ably done.

The Grand Organ Plays Tomorrow at 9, 11 and 5:15

Now Comes What Has Been Called "The Winter Easter" for Men—Which Means One Thing Expressed in Two Words—

NEW CLOTHES

It has been established by time, by custom, and by the general common sense of men, that the last few days before November 1 mark what might be called the "Winter of a Man's discontent" with his clothes.

Of course, any man who wants to pull against the same current of the times is welcome to do so, but your live men of mark know better than to try, and for them this young-old store is ready, not with boasting, but with the goods, meaning--- which we were careful not to put forward for sale until the men who ought to know were conscientiously satisfied that money could not buy better.

OVERCOATS AND SUITS

In that sincere knowledge we stand ready today for any open and above board test of our men's Winter clothing stock, and our capacity to merchandise it to your better advantage.

Wanamaker Warranted Overcoats for men, $15 to $40.

Wanamaker Warranted Suits for men, $15 to $35.

Wanamaker Warranted Suits for young men, $15 to $25.

Having regard to styles, the store which makes them can be depended upon to have all the best kinds.

(First Floor, Market) JOHN WANAMAKER PHILADELPHIA