

TOMMANDER AND MRS. EDWARDS F. JUEIPER will entertain at dinner in honor of Miss Jean Bullitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Logan M. Bullitt, on Thursday night, December 31, before the dance which will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brinton Coxe for their daughter, Miss Ruth Coxe, at the Bellevue-

The wedding of Miss Maris L. Waish and Louis C. Madeira, 3d, will take place very quietly on Friday afternoon, December 11, at 4 o'clock, at the home of Miss Welsh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Dixon. Miss Welsh will be attended by her sister, Miss Emily P. Welsh, and Percy C. Madeira, Jr., will be his brother's best man.

Miss Welsh is the daughter of the late Samuel Welsh and a niece of Mrs. Archibald Thomson and Mrs. William Twells Tiers. Mr. Madeira is the son of Percy C. Madeira. His mother, who died a number of years ago, was Miss Marie V. Marie, of New York,

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winter Baily left today for New York with their daughter, Miss Molly Wood Bally, who will receive at the tea which Mrs. Robert Sturgis will give to introduce her daughter, Miss Henrietta Sturgis,

The third day of the fair which is being held at 213 South Broad street for the benefit of St. Vincent's Aid, opened this morning. The lunchcons have been very well attended each day, and judging from the crowded rooms and many people in attendance the babies at St. Vincent's will be well looked after for another year. This afternoon all the articles that are left over will be auctioned off at 4 o'clock.

The marriage of Miss Harriet G. Ader to Thomas Watson will take place Tuesday, December S, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Frederick B. Embick, on Devon road, Devon. The ceremony will be performed by Monsignor Nevin F. Fisher, of St. John the Evangelist's Church, 13th street, near Chestnut street, at noon. The bride's only attendant will be her aister, Mrs. Embick, and Mr. Watson will have his brother, William Watson, as best man.

Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, Constantin Theodor Dumba, will arrive in this city today to attend the concert which will be given at the Metropolitan Opera House for the benefit of the destitute women and children of the war zones. After the concert Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Thomson will entertain at supper in honor of the Ambassador at the Ritz-Carlton. Their guests will include Mayor Rudolph Blankenburg and Mrs. Blankenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Yarnall, Mr. and Mrs. Arturo de Heeren, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Barclay Warburton, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Gerhard, the Austrian Consul, Georg von Gravicic, and Mrs. von Gravicic, and the German Consul, Arthur Mudra, and Mrs. Mudra.

Goll, Gustavus Welzel, Bernard Fischer, Mrs. Emma Ladner, Mrs. Mary A. McCareley.

Each year those of us who are fortunate enough to own country estates remain in the country later and later to enjoy the outdoor life, putting off opening the town house until winter is really upon us, when the hustle and bustle of the busy streets, the hum of many motors and the lights and life of the hotels become an irresistible magnet.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bingham Penrose, who have been occupying their home at Devon, will not open their town house, 1720 Spruce street, until shortly before Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Gaorge Mason Chichester have decided to remain at St. Mary's Ferm, their place at Ardmore, all winter, while Mr. and Mrs. James King Clarke, of Ardmore, will leave for Palm Beach shortly after the helidays. Mr. and Mrs. George D. Rosengarten, who spent the autumn at their farm near Malvern, have gone to Hibernia, Fla., to spend a fortnight. They will return to their apartment at 135 South 18th street to spend Christman.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Ashton will remain at their Wynnewood home until late in the month, while Mrs. Charles H. Howell and her family have only this week opened their town house, 1633 Walnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stockton White, Jr., returned to their home, 1891 De Lancey place, this week and Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Pepper and their family, who have been spending the fall at Devon, opened their house, 1780 Pine street.

ALONG THE MAIN LINE

MERION. The Woman's Committee of the Marion Civio Association, which consists of the following prominent Merion women: Mrs. Norman Ellison, chairman; Mrs. Edward W. Bok, Mrs. Gideon Boericks, Mrs. William P. Gest, Mrs. George D. B. Darby and Mrs. Frederick W. Bockwell, have got together, and with the help of the other 60 women members of the association established a Merion Branch of the Emergency Aid, to meet every other Monday at the home of a different member.

The first meeting, held Manday morning at the bone of Mrs. Sulward W. Hok, was a most enthusiastic one. Sewing machines were humming all morning and needles bustly pited as manhors taked over their plans of supplying handages and other bicommy hospital articles for the wounded soldiers.

left the Bok residence with a bundle of work to be finished and ready to turn in at the next meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. William P. Gest, Monday morning, December 14. Apart from the work that each member has pledged to make herself, it is the intention of the Merion Branch that each one shall give out a certain portion of the sewing to some of the city's unemployed women, so that while suffering is being alleviated abroad those in need here may also profit.

ALONG THE READING

"Our Wild Animal Neighbors," an illustrated lecture by the well-known naturalist, Ernest Harold Baynes, will be presented by the Wyncote Bird Club and Jenkintown Club and Reading Room at the Jenkintown Club Hall, York and Greenwood avenues, on Monday evening, December 7, at 8 o'clock

The proceeds will go to the Emergency Aid Committee for the war sufferers. The lecture will be illustrated with 100 wenderful lantern slides of wild animals, which Mr. Baynes has studied and tamed, including bear, fox, skunks, raccoons and others.

Mr. Baynes is recognized as one of the leading authorities on animal life, his delightful lectures being known all over the country, and are exceptionally entertaining and instruc-

In the summer of 1913 Mr. Baynes acted in the "Bird Mask Sanctuary," given in Cornish, N. H., in which two of President Wilson's daughters took part, and which was repeated last winter in New York. The officers of the Bird Club, which was organized last spring by Mr. Baynes, are: Louis Wheelock, president; Mrs. W. B. Noble, vice president; Ernest Corts. treasurer; Mrs. Allan Wallis, corresponding secretary, and Miss Esther Heacock, recording secretary. The board of directors includes Delos E. Culver, Academy of Natural Sciences; Mrs. H. S. Eckles, Senator Joseph Heacock, Miss Nellie Wyman and Mrs. Kerr.

ROXBOROUGH

Mr. and Mrs. James Hindle gave a dinner and card party last night at their home, 4156 Manayunk avenue. Pink roses and ferns formed very attractive decorations. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henninger, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mainwaring, Miss Ray Sumner, Miss Anna DuGan, Miss Iva DuGan, Miss Marian Stone, Dr. Frederick Myers, Alfred Henniger, Raymond Henniger, Calvin Hain and S. A. Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wein, of East Walnut lane, will entertain at cards tonight at their home. Their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Struse, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Struse, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weger, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, Miss Emma Rehfuss and W. Martin. Five hundred will be played and will be followed by a supper.

COMPLETELY hypnotized by the symmetry of her silken-clad ankles as she boarded, with some difficulty, the Walnut street car, I did not at first recognize her; not, in fact, until we collided in reaching for the same strap. Her face was clouded and the usually quite maddening dimples had for the moment disappeared.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" she frowned; "I supposed you were one of the customary crowd of males who hold back and wait to watch us poor women struggling with our narrow skirts and those awful car steps. There was a time when the men elbowed us out of the way during the afternoon strap-hangers' rush, but nowadays they all hold, oh! so politely back, cloaking their crocodile thoughts beneath the convention of entirely assumed politeness."

With the customary hyena-like joy expressed when one hears of anybody being "stuck," they are telling the story among the clubs of a trip recently taken by a prominent middle-aged Philadelphia gentleman to New York. It seems that he is by no means of the sporty, baldheaded row, bright light type, but, on the contrary, the sort we have been brought up to regard as of the "old school" and, therefore, scarcely up to date. Hence, when he volunteered to take two young debutante nieces to the Big Burg on a sort of tour of inspection he did not quite realize what he was in for.

Their first desire upon arriving was to visit a famous dancing establishment, where one of the originators of the ultra-modern terpsichercan art had established himself on a most luxprious scale. Having risen from a hotel bell-hop to his present exalted position, he is now one of New York's idols, or ideals, whichever you please, and he is, therefore, very expensive, Our unsophisticated hero, having in mind the old-fushioned dancing teachers of 30 years ago, escorted his two youthful protages to the golden portula. He was separated from six perfectly good dollars hefore he was permitted to pass through them. The little party was then ushered into an elaborately decorated tearcom and there ordered the usual tes and southers No and by a giganile Negro, appareled as some-and Louis Philippe, came to their table and, bowing low, inquired if any one would care to dance with the celebrated owner of the estab-. . .

All three were surprised at such condescension, and as the girls were wild to be able to return to Philadelphia and boast of having actually danced with so famous a personage, they promptly accepted the invitation.

Time passed. He danced divinely, first with one and then with the other. After each number he would politely inquire whether they would care for another and, overcome by the kindness and good nature, they were only too delighted. Finally the shades of evening began to fall and uncle suggested moving on. He called for his check.

It came-it came, in fact, to exactly $65.50, itemized as follows:

21/2 hours with Mr. Squirman Wrassel Ø $25 $62.50 Ten 3.00 Total $65.50

Uncle didn't have the money with him, but he humbly inquired if they would accept a check and, after a little matter of identification, the management graciously condescended. Needless to state, the little New York outing was cut a triffe shorter than had at first been intended. BILLY LEDGER.

FRANKFORD

Miss Salome Allen, of 4637 Frankford avenue, who is corresponding secretary of a chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was among the guests at an oyster luncheon given at the home of Mrs. Montgomery, in Germantown, Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Montgomery is regent of the chapter; Miss Katherine Rowen treasurer; Miss Emily Spear, recording secretary; Miss Florence White, registrar, and Mrs. Maura Manning, historian, Members and friends were invited. The dining room was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns.

The Frankford Symphony Orchestra gave its concert Thursday evening in the chapel of the Central Methodist Episcopal Church. The "Rosamund" overture, the "Ballet" from "William Tell," Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony" and Nevin's "Un Giorno in Venezia" were the selections by the orchestra, which consists of 40 musicians. Miss Elste Baker, of New York, assisted, and Carl Clemens was the conductor. There was a large, appreciative audience, and the concert proved a great success. Dr. Wm. Jefferson Guernsey, of 4340 Frankford avenue, is the president.

CHARITY AFFAIRS

Diocesan Fair at Horticultural Hall to Continue Today and Tomorrow.

A veritable midway, minus the hawking usually a dominant and most annoying feature of the typical midway, was visited, can be visited and, it is hoped, will be visited right here in the heart of town, where one can do Christmas shopping or afternoon teaing, all in the pleasantest surroundings. This spot is to be found in the ballroom of Horticultural Hall from 2 o'clock this afternoon until 10 o'clock tonight, likewise tomorrow. The cause of it all is the lack of funds of St. Martha's Settlement House, at 8th street and Snyder avenue, and the willing hand has been lent by the Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania, who, in spite of wars and rumors of wars, have come to the aid of this charity most nobly.

Most of the Episcopal churches in the city are represented in some way, and booths have been erected and decorated with most gratifying results.

In one corner is a delightful little nursery filled with dolls of all ages and nationalities. After making a purchase one takes Dolly across to the Millinery Shop, where the very latest Made-in-America idea is exploited and where Dolly selects a fetching bonnet to perch a-top her elaborately coiffed head. Another very clover idea is the Automat, where 10 cents secures the privilege of pressing the button to see what will happen next. From there one goes the rounds of cake and candy, chinaware fancy work booths and fortune telling, with the obiquitous "movie" as a wind-up.

A bevy of attractive girls as aids, in costume some attired in quaint creton frocks, with large picture hats framing their pretty faces, others carbed as nurses and still others as French maids, these last acting as lemonade venders, add much to the scene. Among those taking part are Miss Cornella Leidy, Miss Cordella Biddle, Miss Katherine Herman Kremer, Miss Edwina Elkins Bruner, Miss Ruth Coxe, Miss Angela de C. Forney, Miss Cecile Howell, Miss Frances Clark, Miss Susan Bruce, Miss Josephine Cooke, Miss Margaret Dunlap, Miss Gabriela Tilghman, Miss Edith Smith, Miss Marie Louise Wanamaker, Miss Pauline Disston, Miss Phoebe Adams, Miss Mary Brown Warburton, Miss Margaret Fox, Miss Ella Brock, Miss Alva Sergeant, Miss Roberta Downing, Miss Corinne Freeman, Miss Huberta Potter, Miss Elizabeth Wister, Miss Margaret Atlee, Miss Isabel Stoughton, Miss Frances Stoughton, Miss Christine Rehn, Miss Marjorie Taylor and Miss Iosephine Dodge.

This afternoon a musical tea will be given under the auspices of members of the Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany, who have charge of the tearcom. Mrs. Dorothy Johnstone Baseler will play, ably assisted by several wellknown musicians. Tomorrow afternoon, like yesterday, will be given over to children, and toys and balloons a-plenty will be on sale. Sad to relate, yesterday afternoon many of the latter shortly found their way to the ceiling, where they floated willy-willy, unheeding the wistful upward gaze of their late owners.

A dance will be held in the foyer temerrow night. The committee in charge includes Mrs. Charles Stewart Wurts, Mrs. George Emlen Starr, Mrs. Baltzar E. L. de Mare, Mrs. Edward S. W. Farnum, Miss Gertrude Leidy and Miss Clarina Townley Chase.

WILMINGTON

The principal social event of this week was the fashion fete given last night at the New Century Club for the benefit of the West End Reading Room. Costumes of the present time, dresses both beautiful and artistic, as well as striking and odd, were exhibited on the stage of the New Century Club. A living review was given of dresses ranging from the Empire period to the creations of Paquin, Callot and Premet. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Casenove G. Kee, Jr., Mrs. John Percy Nields, Mrs. George A. Elliott, Mrs. Frank S. Garrett, Miss Emily P. Bissell and Miss Katherine Dunham. Dancing followed the fashion
