

ARTICLES OFFERED DAILY FOR PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS AND IDEAS IN HOME-MAKING

The New Evening Gown

I have just returned to town and found the most delightful invitation awaiting me. One of my best girl friends is going to be married and a big dance is to be given in honor of the occasion.

PRIZES OFFERED DAILY!

The Editor of the Woman's Page offers readers of the EVENING LEDGER a number of daily prizes for original ideas and helpful suggestions. These may deal with any subject which is of general interest to women, and include:

- Ways of Making Extra Money, Entertainments and Parties, Sewing Devices, Management of Children, Sickroom Suggestions, Labor-saving Devices, Household Hints, Renovation of Clothes, Home Decoration, Educational Hints,

A Foolish Mistake

There is one thing that the Business Girl does, sooner or later, and that is about the worst thing she could do. She goes without her lunches, sometimes because she thinks she has to, or sometimes because she doesn't like after she gets it.

A Clever Idea

If you are caught in a shower and your hat gets wet, take it off and turn it upside down to dry. The trimming will not be so apt to sag.

Beauty's Mirror

It is a great thing to be properly proportioned, and the woman who is fortunate enough to have a lovely neck and shoulders should take the best of care of them.

Pavlova Gives Her Second Lesson in the One-Step

Pavlova has standardized the modern dances for you; made the steps so graceful and yet so simple that all can do them alike and so all can thoroughly enjoy them.

The Side-Glide

Follow these articles carefully; practice them in your own home; you will be delighted with the progress you make! The lessons appear every Tuesday and Thursday.

A NEW STYLE IN EVENING GOWNS

My Duty to My Dressmaker

By a Customer Many people will be sure to think, when they see the title of this article, that of course a woman's duty to her dressmaker, particularly in war time, is to give her an order for a new frock.

Dressmakers and milliners are having a hard time of it just now, because the war is making so many appeals to our sympathies that a good many of us quite forget to settle our dress and hat bills.

Your Creased Gown

Dresses that have been laid away in drawers, or in trunks, often become very creased. Hang them in front of the fire for a while, and the creases will disappear.

JOHN ERLEIGH, SCHOOLMASTER

A GRIPPING STORY OF LOVE, MYSTERY AND KIDNAPPING

By CLAVER MORRIS Author of "John Bredon, Solicitor."

Guy Wimberley, son of Anne, the Marchioness of Wimberley, is at Hartree School, of which John Erleigh is head master. John and Anne are betrothed.

Their movements had thrown the slightest light upon the mystery. "The boy is dead," said Lord Arthur, after a pause.

laughing instead of crying. At any rate, we know Guy is safe. "Yes," she faltered. "Of course—I am a fool—but the shock—it had never occurred to me that such a thing could have happened. The money? Of course we will pay the money."

CHAPTER XVIII. "Lady Wimberley is offering £2000 reward," said Lord Arthur Merlet. "You had better have the bills made out at once—with a portrait of the boy—and full description."

"Oh, she's clever enough. They know they're being shamed," said Lord Arthur. "I must be going, my lord," he said. "I'll see that the bills are out in a day or two. I hope her ladyship is bearing up pretty well."

"What about her?" "We're keeping an eye on her, my lord. It's generally a woman that gives the game away," said Lord Arthur.

THE GARDENING CORNER. There isn't very much doing in the garden at present. It's true, and yet lots of little extra things do crop up.

On frosty days get manure on the ground. In fine, open weather transplant. Roses and fruit trees can be planted now, but the planting should not be done when the ground is water-logged with rain.

Ten days later the following advertisement appeared in the Times: "Glad to hear the good news. The money must be paid in gold. When will it be ready? Suggest March 4. Answer, if this will suit, in paper of March 1."

THE JEALOUS GIRL

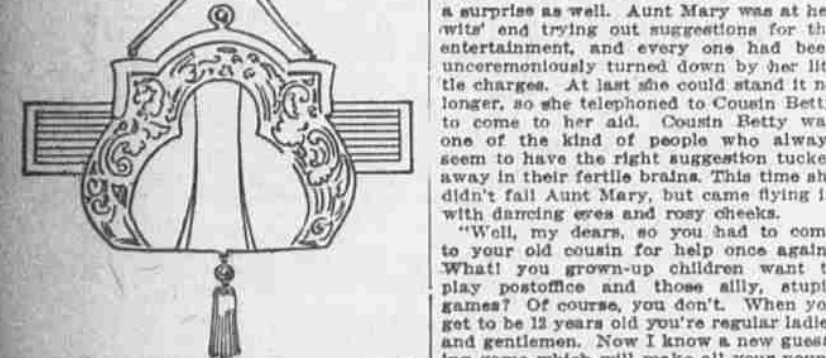

By ELLEN ADAIR

How She Wrecks Her Own Happiness

It is an extraordinary thing that, comparatively speaking, so few girls know how to manage men. And, more curious still, that these mistaken maidens invariably imagine that they are past mistresses in the art of male management.

Girls, for instance, will act toward their fiancés and men friends in the most extraordinary manner imaginable, and then be surprised when the latter show symptoms of cooling off and transferring their affections elsewhere.

Milady's Handbag

Seal leather is the last word in handbags. The deep-toned seal materials established themselves as fashion's favorites early in the season, and the seal articles followed as a matter of course.

Sardine Secrets

The sardine is a rather ill-treated little fish, and except for a few epicureans, very few people like sardines in any form. The housewife who has to provide a varied menu for every week in the year will be glad to learn that sardines can be served in numberless dainty ways, and they are appetizing as well.
