FAMOUS DANCER OUTLINES FIFTH FIGURE OF ONE-STEP

This article is the fifth of an illustrated series on Anna Pavlova's New Social-Dances and How to Perform Them, which is to appear on Tuesdays and Thursdays exclusively in this newspaper.

By ANNA PAVLOVA

ARTICLE V. The forward-glide, the fifth figure of my standardized one-step, offers another variation which not only makes the entire dance visually more artistic, but affords an agreeable change for the dancers.

STOLEN JEWELS RECOVERED

Owners Identify Their Property in Central Police Court.

Much of the $100 worth of jewelry, recovered last Saturday when Joseph Smith, 417 North 11th street, was arrested, was identified today in Central Police Court.

Charles A. Partridge, 135 North Park avenue; Albert A. Malis, 157 North Park avenue; Mrs. Hattie Broomall, 1528 North Park avenue, claimed part of the jewelry. Smith was held without bail by Magistrate Renshaw for further hearing February 2.

Black Handers' Shot Ruins Hat

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Because he had refused their demands for money, Black Handers fired last night from an ambush behind the Trinity Cemetery fence, in 156th street, at Andrew Postiglione, a tailor of 41 West 153d street. Postiglione returned their fire and then fled from the scene. An ambulance was called from Washington Heights Hospital, but the only bullet wound found was one that had cut through the tailor's derby hat.

TALK ON BOOBS! HORRORS!

PHILOMUSIANS PUZZLED

Program Calendar Starts Stir Among Members.

What's this, a talk on boobs? What sort of an animal or invention is a boob? How very interesting!

Lorgnettes were lifted inquiringly and chins tilted suspiciously into the air when the program calendar of the Philomusian Club announced that the Current Events Class would be treated to a talk on Boobs tomorrow morning.

Dignified members of this most dignified club, unversed in the quaint phraseology of modern slang, wondered just what the talk was going to be about, anyway, and those more sophisticated members who sensed at least the meaning of Boobs, even if they weren't quite sure of it, mused at the introduction of such a frivolous, not to say sacrilegious topic into their program.

The telephone at the club's headquarters at 244 Walnut street has been ringing right merrily in consequence. But alas, or perhaps, fortunately, there isn't to be a talk on Boobs after all. It's going to be on Boobs and a typographical error was responsible for the commotion.

THIEVES RUIN STOCK

Finding No Money, They Damage Interior of Meat Shop.

Many pounds of ruined scrapie and sausage and several dozen decapitated chickens are the only clues the Germantown police have to thieves who broke into the store of the Kansas City Beef Company, 242 Germantown avenue, and tried to ruin all the stock in the place when the safe was found to be open and empty. This is the third time in the last two months that the store has been entered, although it is within the shadow of the station house.

TRADE BOOM PLANS HAVE CO-OPERATION AS STARTING POINT

"New Philadelphia" Dinner on February 9 Will Be Attended by 500 Business Leaders of City.

Final details of the trade development campaign, which will herald Philadelphia's industrial pre-eminence around the world, were arranged at a meeting of the Executive Committee in the Bourse Hotel today.

Following the meeting invitations to the dinner are to be sent to more than 500 of the leading representatives of Philadelphia's banking, transportation, manufacturing, merchandise and maritime interests. Each of them will be urged to co-operate in the movement to advertise Philadelphia throughout America and across the sea as "the world's greatest workshop."

The invitation to the dinner sets forth that the speakers will be men who have done things and their talks will be "Philadelphia's ability to take advantage of the new opportunities born of new financial power and unusual conditions."

On the list of speakers will be the men whose executive genius to a great extent has dominated the industrial life in this city. Each will tell why the industry he represents is pre-eminent in Philadelphia.

Small manufacturers and individuals backing the lesser commercial enterprises here will profit from the movement, as will the great commercial houses. In the union of forces, which is part of the plan, the aim will be to boost Philadelphia and all that is made here. In the past small manufacturers have been hampered in their efforts to exploit their own wares, but incorporated in this new movement is the idea of co-operative advertising.

Director George W. Norris, of the Department of Wharves and Fisheries, in discussing the campaign today pointed out the need for united action and deplored Philadelphia's seeming inability to understand the advantages of co-operation.

"Great industrial concerns like the United States Steel Corporation and the Standard Oil Company," Director Norris said, "can afford to advertise and push their goods in all the markets of the world. The large local industries, such as the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Brill Car Works and the Stetson hat factory, can afford to have their own selling agencies all over the world."

"When it comes to the small manufacturer, however, he cannot afford to investigate foreign markets and credits, do foreign advertising and maintain a foreign selling force. The only way then in which the small manufacturer can get into the foreign markets is by some co-operative plan."

"It seems to be a strange inability on the part of Philadelphia's manufacturers and merchants to realize the advantages of union and co-operation, not only for foreign trade, but for domestic trade as well, and for the general upbuilding and improvement of Philadelphia."

"I am very heartily in favor of any movement that will emphasize the advantages of co-operation and devise some means to obtain it."

OPPOSING WOMEN LEADERS CLASH OVER SUFFRAGE

"Who Is Mrs. Thompson?" Riles the Anti-Chief.

DOVER, Del., Jan. 26.—Mrs. Henry B. Thompson, former editor of Delaware and leader of the anti-suffrage forces, will appear before the House Committee on Revised Statutes to inform the committee "who Mrs. Thompson is."

The cavalier's movements are correspondingly the same as those of his lady, he taking a step with his right foot and she moves with her left and turning to his left for the about-face turn. The next article will consider the last of the one-step figures.

Mrs. Thompson, to off-set the rally of the suffragists last week, is planning to bring a large delegation of "antis" to the State House, with a preponderance of women socially prominent as ocular evidence that representative of the State do not wish enfranchisement.

LOCAL HISTORIANS TO MEET

Frankford Society Will Celebrate Tenth Anniversary Tonight.

HOW HOUSEHOLDERS ARE GOUGED

Showing a standard 4-quart measure commonly known as a 1/2-peck measure and containing 7 1/2 pounds of potatoes and a combination 1/2-peck measure with a false bottom containing 3 1/2 pounds. Potatoes not in measure show the shortage and weigh 4 pounds. These are among the exhibits on view in City Hall courtyard.

ing, defrauding the housekeeper must have been as easy a profession as taking candies from babies until the agents of the bureau got "on the job."

Liquid measures, dry measures, antiquated scales and those of queer illegal construction, under-sized milk bottles, barrels and baskets with false bottoms, are revealed in all their naked crookedness, and if any dishonest tradesman happens in there by mistake it won't take more than one glance to show him that his game is up.

One of the most interesting exhibitions of "nervy" fraudulence is that of the cream bottles. Out of 4,174 examined in six months 26,223 were condemned and many of those of the half-pint size were made to hold nine drams less than they should have contained.

How did they get away with it? Must be the first question to project itself in the mind of any inquiring person, for seemingly the dishonest merchant hasn't hesitated to pick up "any old thing" lying around loose in his shop, from a stone to a fattion, to hitch onto his scales.

One scale from a wholesale fish dealer was freighted with an iron hook of anchor-like proportions calculated to "beat" the purchaser who bought from him out of at least 4 or 8 pounds at every purchase, and, judging from the exhibition of dry measures taken from the huckster who cries his wares in the street no villain of the "melodrammat" is more deeply dyed than he. The common yardstick also comes in for its share of attention, and inspection of the confiscated sticks show that the unsuspecting purchaser in many cases receives only 25 or 24 inches in every yard he bought.

"Never permit the merchant to measure anything for you with a stick that isn't metal tipped. Many of the sticks are so worn at the edges that several inches are lost," says a sign hanging over this particular exhibition.

Some other bits of sound advice placarded around for the benefit of the housekeeper.

"Be a business woman as well as a housekeeper. Housekeeping is the leading business in Philadelphia."

"Do not purchase goods and pay for oversteering at the price of the commodity."

"Provide your household with a good scale and a set of dry and liquid measures."

RIVER FREIGHT RATES VARY GREATLY ON GOODS CARRIED

Long Through Runs Thing of Past, Says Report.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Freight rates on river traffic in the United States "vary greatly with the character of the goods" carried, the Department of Agriculture announced today in a report on a recent investigation of the relation of such rates to farm prices.

Rates on hay are the highest, with eggs and wheat about tied for second honors. On a 25-mile route in Maine the rate for a barrel of apples was 15 cents, while the average farm price was $1.73. This was 87 per cent. of the farm price.

On cotton traffic in the South the percentage ranged from 65 to 75. Eggs varied from 65 to 70, and hay, because of its great bulk, was charged from 19 to 20 per cent. of its farm value. Wheat ranged from 70 to 75 per cent.

The inquiry covered 302 river lines, and disclosed that this traffic generally is local, the routes rarely extending more than a few hundred miles and the boats averaging less than 10 miles an hour.

"Long runs by through fast steamers are things of the past," the report says.

PENNA. COAL FAILS IN TEST

War Department Awards Contract to Virginia Company.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Secretary Garrison yesterday informed Representative J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, that the coal contract of 15,000 tons for use on the Panama Railroad would go to a Virginia company. The Government officials in Panama said the Pennsylvania coal had not come up to the test.

Pennsylvania coal operators and President Gilday, of the United Mine Workers of District No. 2, are urging the Secretary of War to reconsider his decision.
