

Social and Personal

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES B. WRIGHT will entertain at dinner on Friday night prior to the Assembly...

Dr. and Mrs. Hays Clements, of 1627 Walnut street, have issued invitations for a small dance to be given in honor of Miss Dorothy De Haven...

Miss Elizabeth Latta, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Latta, has returned from a week's stay in Atlantic City...

Mr. and Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, of Berthelmy, Opaeta, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Crozer Fox...

Mrs. John Tanner, of 1342 Pine street, will entertain at cards Wednesday, February 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson have issued invitations for a dinner on Tuesday, February 16, prior to the Bal Masque...

Miss Miriam Megarree and Miss Lorna Megarree, daughters of Mrs. Irwin N. Megarree, of the Essex, will give a small informal dance on Friday night in honor of Mrs. John P. Dalton...

Mrs. Francis W. Rawle is spending the winter in the suburbs of Baltimore, where she has leased Charles E. McLean's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Koons Blispham have been spending the past week in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lineaweaver, of Merion, are spending two weeks at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Huber, who are spending their honeymoon in Bermuda, are expected home next week. Mrs. Huber before her marriage, two weeks ago, was Miss Mary Hayes, of Overbrook.

Mrs. Benjamin Jamney Rudderow, of 280 South 21st street, will be at home informally Wednesday after 3 o'clock until Lent. No cards have been sent.

CHESTNUT HILL Miss Ethel Elkins, of 7800 Cresthill road, has as her guest Miss Virginia Griffith, of Owensboro, Ky. Miss Griffith has been spending the month of January here and will return to her home the early part of February.

Owing to the icy condition of the streets, Dr. Wilfrid B. Fetterman, of 747 Germantown avenue, met with an accident while driving his car through the park on Sunday night. His friends will be glad to hear, however, that there have been no serious results.

GERMANTOWN Mrs. Samuel Hawley 24, of 312 West Penn street entertained at bridge yesterday. Among the guests were Mrs. Boudette Earnshaw, Mrs. Charles T. Brown, Miss Emily Taylor, Miss Helen Bell, Mrs. Herbert Timanus, Miss Miriam Partridge, Miss Nellie Taylor, Miss Serena Hawley, Mrs. Ellsworth Hults, Mrs. Warner Earnshaw, Miss Effie Elliott, Mrs. James Pequinot and Miss Emily Taylor.

Miss Beatrice Flood, of Wayne avenue and Hertler street, entertained at dinner last night. The guests included her entire bridal party. Mrs. Mildred Caverly, Miss Helen Gormley, Miss Josephine Henry, Miss Florine Butterworth, Miss Jean Beagary, Miss Elinor Annette Flood, George Scattergood, John Gay, Clarence Rogers, James Butterworth, Harry Williamson, Charles Thomas Evans, Stuart Jellette, Thomas Bromley Flood and De Haven Butterworth.

ALONG THE READING The Review Club of Oak Lane will give a dance on Friday evening, February 12, at the Hotel Walton, the proceeds of which are for the building fund of the new clubhouse, soon to be erected. The committee in charge include Mrs. William E. Groben, Mrs. W. B. Dougherty and Mrs. Charles Asbury. The patronesses are Mrs. C. W. Asbury, Mrs. H. E. Asbury, Mrs. E. H. Austin, Mrs. E. M. Abbott, Mrs. H. A. Barber, Mrs. F. P. Bushnell, Mrs. S. A. L. Cartwright, Mrs. John L. Craig, Mrs. C. S. Crowell, Mrs. A. F. De Sanno, Mrs. H. M. Deemer, Mrs. C. W. B. Dougherty, Mrs. John A. Dexter, Mrs. C. F. Feurer, Mrs. M. Freeman, Mrs. F. N. Garriques, Mrs. William E. Groben, Mrs. H. K. Goshall, Mrs. Joseph Gabriel, Mrs. J. A. Horne, Mrs. T. C. Knauff, Mrs. Harrison Landis, Mrs. C. E. La Tourette, Mrs. E. N. Lippincott, Mrs. C. E. Lloyd, Jr., Mrs. E. Clarence Miller, Mrs. R. E. Marshall, Mrs. W. Harry Miller, Mrs. John B. Miller, Mrs. F. W. Munn, Mrs. S. L. Noble, Mrs. Owen Osborne, Jr., Mrs. W. A. Prince, Mrs. N. H. Rand, Mrs. J. S. Richmond, Mrs. W. R. Sheard, Mrs. W. H. Shelly, Mrs. W. F. Hager, Mrs. William A. Smith, Mrs. W. Heale Smith, Mrs. George W. Stewart and Mrs. J. N. Wallace.

CHARITY AFFAIRS Annual Card Party and Dance for St. Francis de Sales Church to be Held Tonight. The annual card party and dance of St. Francis de Sales Church, of which the Rev. Fr. C. J. Crane is pastor, will take place in the Bellevue-Stratford tonight. A great deal of time, thought and preparation has been given to make the affair the success that it always has been, and there will be places for any one desiring to play cards, as there will be several luncheons and theatre parties in the afternoon for the debutantes.

WEST PHILADELPHIA

Miss Anna Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Baker, of 322 South 44th street, entertained the members of her "300" club yesterday. Those present were Miss Helen Gage, Mrs. Herbert Gross, Mrs. Henry Adams, Miss Mildred Staub, Miss Helen Connell, Miss Florence Kofler, Miss Helen Buehler, Miss Rebecca Haag, Miss Anna Armstrong and Miss Menneto Baker.

Mrs. Edward Newton Haag, of 487 Cedar avenue, will entertain at luncheon, followed by bridge, next Monday.

The members of the Newman Catholic Club will have as their guest this evening Michael J. Slattery, at their club rooms, 303 North 53d street. Mr. Slattery will lecture on the conditions existing in Mexico at the present time. A cordial invitation is extended to the members and their friends. Charles F. Gerhard has arranged a series of lectures on health, science and travel, to be delivered on the "literary nights" in the club auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison N. Diesel, of 5033 Springfield avenue, will entertain a number of guests from out of town over the next week end.

SOUTH PHILADELPHIA

Mrs. John C. Connors, of 233 South Mole street, entertained last night at dinner, in honor of James McLoughlin, of Pittsburgh, whose engagement to Miss Genevieve Brannon, of 207 Tioga street, has been announced.

Miss May McCormick entertained at cards at her home, 243 South 11th street, last evening. A buffet supper was served. Her guests were Miss Catherine Sheehan, Miss Catherine Wolfe, Miss Frances Wolfe, Miss Helen Sheehan, Miss Catherine Flynn, Miss Mary Flynn, Miss Irene Keenan, Miss Marguerite Keenan and Miss Madeline Keenan.

TIOGA

Miss Helen Leblang, of 364 North Broad street, entertained the members of the Unique Club last night. Buffet supper was served during the evening. Those present were Miss Supowitz, Miss Gene Cohen, Miss Helen Margolies, Miss Elizabeth Deutch, Miss Rae Barron, Miss Gene Barron, Miss Helen Abraham, Miss Carol Burnstein, Miss Melba Buxbaum, Miss Clara Cohen and Miss Fannie Cohen.

Dr. and Mrs. John Schenba, 141 Erie avenue, will give a dinner, followed by cards, tonight. Pink roses combined with ferns will be used in the decorations. The guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lorenzo, of Womah, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Hoy, Mr. and Mrs. John Gluck, Mr. and Mrs. William P. McLaughlin, Dr. G. Franklin Bonnick, Miss Bruche McGarvey, Dr. John J. Schenba, Jr., Miss Nellie McGarvey, E. Walter Schenba, Miss Rose McGarvey, Eugene Burns, Miss H. Adele Schenba, R. J. Wilson, Miss Celene Schenba.

HOTCH POTCH

Play to be Given by Paint and Powder Club Tonight and Tomorrow

The younger set of Oak Lane will blossom forth in the musical comedy "Hotch Potch" to be given tonight by the Paint and Powder Club auxiliary to the Jenkintown Choral, in the Jenkintown Auditorium on York road. The club has been rehearsing under the direction of Mrs. M. Y. Smith and Fred W. Sutor for the last two months. The play will be produced again tomorrow night.

The cast includes the following: Bonapart, the obliging porter, George Hollowell; magazine clerk, George Plouderers; Lord Gilbert Duttonhead, a weary Englishman, Walter Scott Daly; Mr. Forest Van Ballin, a grouch bachelor, Harvey Patterson; Miss Araminta Arabella Pepper, a tender-hearted female, Miss Myrtle McKee; Tom Winton, a trifle bent, Walter Mills; Amos Courtaisel, a foxxy farmer, John A. Harder; Mrs. Clarendon, a charming widow, Miss Esther Wans; Edythe, Mrs. Clarendon's niece, Miss Margaret Waters.

The chorus, under the direction of Frederick W. Sutor, includes the following: Miss Edith Rand, Miss Maybelle Buck, Miss Elsie Daniels, Miss Eleanor Jones, Miss Dorothy Ruddack, Miss Helen Palmer, Miss Dorothy Mills, Miss Emily Smith, William Buck, John Betts, Watson Chesterman, Charles Jones, Joseph L. Jones, J. D. Ingalls Gayley, Howard McKee, Lyle Holmes, Carl Glanz and John Robinson.

MEYERS-GOODMAN Prominent among tonight's weddings will be that of Miss Elsie Goodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benno Goodman, of 2303 North 2d street, and Isadore Meyers, of 1906 Diamond street, which will take place at 6:30 o'clock at the Rittenhouse, 22d and Chestnut streets. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, of the Keneseth Israel Congregation. Mr. Goodman will give his daughter in marriage. She will wear a beautiful gown of soft white satin with opalescent trimming. Her veil of tulle will be arranged with the cap effect and held in place with a crown of orange blossoms. She will carry a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Morris N. Cohen, a recent bride, who will attend her sister as matron of honor, will wear her wedding gown of white satin veiled with net embroidered with pearls. Killarney roses and white lilies will form her bouquet. Frank Meyers will be followed by a dinner and ceremony. The bridegroom and bride on their return from an extended tour through the South will live at 1312 Elemer street, Logan, where they will be at home after March 1.

HILL-WILLIARD A very pretty rainbow wedding took place this morning at 9 o'clock, in the Church of the Annunciation, 19th and Dickinson streets, when Miss Marie Cecelia Williard, daughter of Fred W. Williard of 1303 Morris street, became the bride of Andrew W. Hill, of 1217 South Broad street. Rev. Dr. Hayes performed the ceremony, and also said the Nuptial Mass. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of ivory white satin, made en train, and trimmed with chantilly lace and pearls. Her tulle veil was attached to a lace cap, and was caught at the wrists with pearls.

MISS ELEANOR JONES Miss Jones will take part in the performance of "Hotch Potch" which will be given in Jenkintown, tonight.

MRS. FRANCIS X. HOPE Mrs. Hope, whose marriage took place yesterday, at the Cathedral was Miss Elizabeth O'Brien, daughter of r. Mand Mrs. Thomas O'Brien.

WEDDINGS

EVERY pretty wedding will take place this evening, at half past seven o'clock, at the Roosevelt, 297 Chestnut street, when Miss Edna L. Macmann, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Macmann, of 1318 Wagner avenue, Logan, will become the bride of Harry K. Fritz, of Tioga. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Forrest E. Dinger, of St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal Church, under a canopy of palms, smilax and pink roses.

The bride will be given in marriage by her father, will be gowned in white crepe train and silver lace, with a long court train extending from the shoulders. The tulle veil and cap of Princess lace will be fastened with orange blossoms, and she will carry a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and gardenias. Miss Helen M. Heintish will be maid of honor. She will be gowned in pale green chiffon and silver lace over white satin, a silver lace and green velvet hat, and will carry an arm bouquet of white sweet peas, white lilies and Japanese hyacinths.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Ethel Macmann, of Oak Lane, and Miss Edythe Hall, of New York, both cousins of the bride. Their dresses will be pink and green chiffon, trimmed with white lace and tiny pink rosebuds. Their bouquets will be pink roses, pink sweet peas and pink snapdragons.

The little flower girl will be Miss Katherine Seitz. She will carry a dainty basket of pink sweet peas.

Little Nelson K. Fite, a nephew of the bride, will be ring bearer.

Mr. Fritz will have Chester Paul Ray, Jr., as best man, and the ushers will be Horace D. Moller and George H. Macmann, Jr.

A large reception will follow the ceremony. Among the out-of-town guests will be Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hall and Miss Edythe Hall, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schlick, of Bloomfield, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Ramsey, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Leeds, of Columbia, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dubbs, of New Hope, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Albrecht, of Rumson, N. J.; Mrs. Alice Miller, of Elkton, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hazy, of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. George P. Carr, of Haddon Heights, N. J.

After an extended trip to New York and Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz will make their home in Logan.

trimming. A spray of orange blossoms held the front of the veil in place, and she carried a shower bouquet of gardenias, orchids and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Irene T. Williard, as maid of honor, who wore a soft gown of Helen pink taffeta, an old-fashioned poke bonnet of the same color, and she carried an arm bouquet of old roses and lilies. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Dunham, Miss Betty Donovan, and Miss Mary Donovan. All the bridesmaids wore quaint bonnets to match their gowns, and carried sweet peas.

Mr. Hill had for his best man his brother, Francis Hill, and the ushers were Joseph Willard, Charles Becker, Leo McCormick, and John J. Love. After a breakfast served at the home of the bride for the bridal party and immediate families, the couple left for an extended trip through the Southern States. They will be at home after March 1 at 527 Ashland avenue.

Among the prominent guests were Congressman William S. Vare, and Mrs. Vare, Senator Edwin H. Vare, and Mrs. Vare, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin S. Moorhouse, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. James Willard and John P. Smith.

OPERA CLUB Behrens Opera Club Will Present the "Magic Flute" Tonight.

The Behrens Opera Club will present "The Magic Flute" tonight in the Academy of Music. The opera is one of Mozart's, and the club, in order to do full justice to the work has been well trained by Ludwig Schmid-Fabry, "Die Puppenfee," a ballet by Josef Jany, composer of 60 dances, and coached by C. Ellwood Carpenter, will precede the opera. There will be three "toe" solo dances. The stage directing has been in the hands of Edward S. Grant.

The soloists will include Miss May Farley, soprano, who will sing the part of Pamina, and Miss Viola Brodbeck will sing the cadenzas written for the Queen of Night. Paul J. Breedy, will sing the tenor role of Papageno. Donald Reddick will make his debut, singing the baritone part of Papageno. The other members of the cast are Miss Jane Rutherford as Papageno and Rudolph Sternberg, basso, as Sarastro. There will be a chorus of 100, which will be chiefly composed of members of the Junger Maennerchor and Harmonie clubs.

Cricket on the Hearth While Germany and England struggle against each other, it is interesting to read a German opinion of English sportsmanship, and its relation to the national life, written by a German residing in England, 10 years ago (3):

The majority of your workers read little but the sporting press and care for little but betting and sport. I noticed as a strange thing that you regarded it as perfectly natural for a team of cricketers from South Africa to come to England during your war with the Boers and play cricket while England was fighting for her life in South Africa. If these young men had the leisure to play cricket they surely had the leisure to fight. But no; with you sport comes before the performance of your duty to your country. I read one night on the bills of your evening press during the Boer war "Brilliant Victory for England," and when I bought the paper I found that it was, after all, only an English eleven that had won a cricket match in Australia.

Of German sportsmanship, as set forth by a leading exemplar, their Crown Prince, Frederick William, there is an interesting glimpse in an account by D. R. Freeman of the young Prince's hunting trip to India some years ago, when he was widely entertained by British officials (4):

For sheer sang-froid, nothing that I saw of the Crown Prince quite equaled his behavior on the morning of one of the chestnut hunts arranged for him by the Maharajah of P... It was just before breakfast when one of these remarkable half doglike, half catlike hunting leopards, slipping away from its keeper, climbed stealthily into a big banian tree, under which the Prince's tent was pitched, and in a short fit of playfulness precipitated itself into the midst of a group of officers to whom Frederick William was holding forth on the joys of student dueling. The fact that, judging from the sounds, there had been high revel at headquarters up to the wee sma' hours may have had something to do with the nerves of most of the higher-ups of the party being a bit out of hand that morning. At any rate, without waiting long enough to see that the beast

BEST THOUGHT IN AMERICA Digest of the Magazines

- (1) Recreation—"Jim Turns Back the Clock." (2) Outing—"Out With the Gloucester Hunt." (3) Century—"England, a Nation of Mystery." (4) Saturday Evening Post—"The Crown Prince in India." (5) Everybody's—"The Magic of William Gillette." (6) Collier's—"Pickups."

SPORTS

Sports may be arbitrarily divided into three classes: de luxe sports served up at country clubs in silver loving cups; strenuous sports, when you pack your camping kit and make a business of it, and ordinary sports, when you spontaneously rise up and go skating or canoeing, because you feel like it. Most of us have to depend on this last class of ordinary sports, and the trouble with winter is that it interferes with so many of them.

The prejudice against winter is rapidly wearing away, however, through a growing realization that winter is a splendid time for packing your kit and going in for strenuous sport. In spite of the popularity of summer vacations there is a constantly increasing number who find or take time somehow for a couple of weeks in the mountains while the ground is covered with ice and snow and winter sports are on. Three men, sedate enough business and professional men they were, turned boys again for such a trip into the Adirondacks, and one of them, Phil Reilly, describes the trip with a good deal of sparkle in "Jim Turns Back the Clock" (1):

Throughout the Adirondacks there is intense interest in all sorts of winter sports, and we had chosen the week of the mid-winter carnival, with its storming of the ice palace, fancy skating, hockey games, sledge and all the other winter sports. At Lake George everything centres upon the ice itself—skating and skating games, ice boating and horse racing on the ice, even the toboggan slide extends out upon the ice. It was at Lake George that Dunham first felt the thrill of holding an iceboat tiller and of bobbing his first lake trout through the Tending set lines on skates also gave us much amusement because the ice was like glass and we cut circles to keep warm until the little red and yellow fish, whitefish, shad or bluefish was attracted by the live bait. At Lake George, too, I first succumbed to the peculiar fascination of the ski jump. I can recall nothing of the excitement, and in this adventure I certainly got all that was coming to me. Some how before they are hurt, others refuse to groan afterward; I did both, and will forgive anybody for doing the same. How so many become proficient in this most daring of winter sports without breaking their necks is more than I can explain. "If an octopus could fly he would look like you," was Jim's description of my achievement.

Riding to hounds, properly performed, is just as serious and absorbing a matter as railroad wrecking or bank presiding. For the time being your mount and the hounds and the fox are the only considerations in the world. In "Out With the Gloucester Hunt" (2), Nelson Robins gives a spirited description of this sense of absolute concentration and absorption. He refers to the annual New Year's hunt in Gloucester, Va.:

When they hunt in Gloucester, they hunt. And when they hunt, they don't mean shotgun and dog, or a cold blind in the marshes; they mean a pack of hounds, a fox, and everybody riding. And, furthermore, they don't mean a bunch of fancy horse flesh, trappings and red coats. They mean everything from a wind-broken, sprained mule to a thoroughbred whose grandfather carried the colors to the front in the Brooklyn handicap.

I started for the hunt in ample time to arrive at the point from which the hunt would start at 7 o'clock. Every dog in the world seemed to have congregated at the meeting place. Suddenly, just as I had given up all hope of the hounds ever striking, one of them gave tongue not 20 yards away. Immediately a dozen voices took up the cry, and in half a moment the whole pack of 50-odd hounds were in full cry and making music such as grand opera never dreamed.

There is no sight in the world so full of color, excitement or real sport as that of a hunting field under such conditions. First, two fields ahead, was the fox, tall straight and every inch a hunter for his own sake. Next, running by sight by this time, was the pack, about 15 or 20 dogs bunched at the head and the remainder trailing close behind, and every one giving tongue. Then came the riders, racing as if their lives depended on it and forgetting that there ever was such a thing as a broken bone or a doctor or a fence.

After the first fence I forgot, too. The chase absorbed me and I thrilled like a violin string. Everything else in life was forgotten, and my one ambition was to be in at the death. We rode for a while a hedge of barbed the path, and there was but one convenient opening, and there a rail fence barred the way four feet high. Eight riders went at that opening, which was only a rail, and leaped wide. Three went down, but I was one of the five to land safely on the other side. It was on the other side of this barrier that the hounds killed. Two of them were standing in a tumbling sea of dogs, and one of them came out of the ruck bearing a limp, gray bundle. Pleasanton furnished the knife, and the brush was severed.

Of German sportsmanship, as set forth by a leading exemplar, their Crown Prince, Frederick William, there is an interesting glimpse in an account by D. R. Freeman of the young Prince's hunting trip to India some years ago, when he was widely entertained by British officials (4):

For sheer sang-froid, nothing that I saw of the Crown Prince quite equaled his behavior on the morning of one of the chestnut hunts arranged for him by the Maharajah of P... It was just before breakfast when one of these remarkable half doglike, half catlike hunting leopards, slipping away from its keeper, climbed stealthily into a big banian tree, under which the Prince's tent was pitched, and in a short fit of playfulness precipitated itself into the midst of a group of officers to whom Frederick William was holding forth on the joys of student dueling. The fact that, judging from the sounds, there had been high revel at headquarters up to the wee sma' hours may have had something to do with the nerves of most of the higher-ups of the party being a bit out of hand that morning. At any rate, without waiting long enough to see that the beast was a tame one, and muzzled at that, all but one of the party bolted as precipitately as though scattered by a bomb. The Prince—it was he who stood fast—with a nonchalant shift of his favorite slope-shouldered stance, coolly proceeded to explain to a rather non-plused coterie, in lieu of other literature, the intricacies of small-sword practice, thus touting his speech with expostory passes with his cigarette in the empty air.

De Luxe Sports If competing for a loving cup at a country club is de luxe sport, then sitting back in a wicker chair on board one's own houseboat, playing with one's pet cat, may be termed the three-star variety. This is the way William Gillette, the actor, takes it. He has his famous houseboat Aunt Polly, and the cat is a very important part of the program, as described by P. C. Macfarlane (5):

Beside Yosaki, the accomplished Japanese gentleman who valets Mr. Gillette, cooks for him, chauffeurs his motor, and personally conducts his typewriter, there is another being that has the run of the star's dressing room, save only this cat. At home, on the Aunt Polly, there is always a particular puss who is in the closest intimacy with the actor. Just now the reigning favorite is a beautiful tiger-striped animal named Angelina. Her accomplishments are numerous. She always sits at table with her master. Her position is with hind legs upon the arm of his chair, forepaws upon the linen at the left of his plate. Her table manners are beyond reproach. Mr. Gillette has seen to that. He carefully ties a little cat napkin about her throat. Before Angelina, in small cut dishes, are her favorite foods. She waits quietly to be served until she has heaped the plate of her master. Presently Mr. Gillette serves to Angelina her own particular delicacies. Angelina dispatches these with feline singleness of purpose, and, having licked her Limoges clean, turns and licks her neck toward her dinner companion. This is the signal for the untying of her napkin, after which Angelina turns, and with a flirt of her tail at the table, leans upon Mr. Gillette's shoulder, from there, with another flirt of the tail, she leaps over the back of his chair to a high-cushioned seat upon a window. Such is the surprising "business" of Angelina's exit from each meal.

Approxos of increasing discontent with the baseball situation in this country, Grantland Rice spins an amusing fable (6):

Once upon an occasion a monster meeting of magnates and ball players was assembled. This meeting was not called to protect the interests of the club owners, nor of players, but for the general benefit of an army of 10,000,000 fans—the taxpayers at the turnstiles. The object of the meeting was to see that the main desire of these 10,000,000 salary providers should be met as far as possible. Moral: The year 1915 is a long way off.

AMUSEMENTS

Glacier National Park LIFE AND HABITS OF THE BLACKFEET INDIANS TRAVELogue by MR. LAURENCE D. KITCHELL

ACADEMY OF MUSIC Wednesday, January 27, 2 P. M. HOME RELIEF DIVISION EMERGENCY AID COMMITTEE On Sale at All Agencies and Door

Forrest Mat. Today CHARLES FROHMAN Presents THE GREAT THREE STAR COMBINATION JULIA SANDERSON DONALD BRIAN JOSEPH CAWTHORN in THE GIRL FROM UTAH

NEW MAN Traveltalks With Actual War Pictures Friday 8:15 Saturday 2:30 CAPTALS Tickets 50c, 75c, $1 at Market's, Amphitheatre, 25c

GLOBE Character Hoey & Lee Timely Parodists 8 OTHER NOTABLE ACTS Chestnut St. HOUSE Home of World's Greatest Photographs

THE THIRD PARTY WITH TAYLOR HUBBARD AND WALTER JONES AN INSTANTANEOUS HIT HERE! IRVIN S. COBB (Of the Staff of the Saturday Evening Post) AN ILLUSTRATED TALK

CASINO THEATRE Matinee Daily See the Greatest Burlesque Hits in Town COLLEGE GIRLS AMATEURS EVERY FRIDAY NIGHT

Florence Peremolnik VIOLINIST A REMARKABLE CHILD PRODIGY Assisted by JOHN THOMPSON, Pianist

Stanley PALACE Theatre VAUDEVILLE PHOTOPLAY EARLE'S DIVING LILLIES CROSS KEYS THEATRE 10c

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE "A Farcical German Animal War" - Evg. Loder, HENRIETTA, CHEER'S, MARY, and others. "Thou Shalt Not Kill," "Big Surrounding Show" - LA MILLO, "The Breathing Marble," Others.

BROAD MAT. Today LEO DITRICHSTEIN in "THE PHANTOM RIVAL" NIKON'S GRAND GARRICK Pop. Mat. Today LEW FIELDS in THE HIGH COST OF VIOLENCE

LYRIC MATINEE TODAY AT 2:15 CYRIL MAULE in "GIMMEY" TONIGHT 8:15 HARRY HALL, HIS & WALTER - DON. GREAT - CHEER'S CONCERT BY REAR. Introducing Singers, Pianists, Organists, $15.00 Organ. Cash 10c

DUMONT'S DUMONT'S MINISTERS in "THE PHANTOM RIVAL" EMPIRE GEO. STONE