

PERSONS AND PLACES THAT FIGURE IN THE DAY'S NEWS AS RECORDED BY THE PHOTOGRAPHER

MAGNIFICENT OPEN-AIR ORGAN AT SAN DIEGO EXPOSITION
This great instrument, housed in a graceful building, stands at the head of one of the sun-lit esplanades.

Photo by Goldenski.

PROVIDES BREAD FOR BELGIANS
Scott Logan, of Sheldon, Iowa, is a former New Jersey boy, who went west 35 years ago. He gave 200 barrels of flour for the millers' relief ship, South Point, soon to sail from this port. He is related to Judge Gaskill, of Riverton.

Photo by Harris & Ewing.

MISS CHRISTABEL PANKHURST
Daughter of the English militant and herself prominent in the fight for equal suffrage, she is now a visitor to America, where she is lecturing on the suffragists' side of the present war. Miss Pankhurst is a rather pretty girl and has the high color, blue eyes and light hair so often seen in her country.

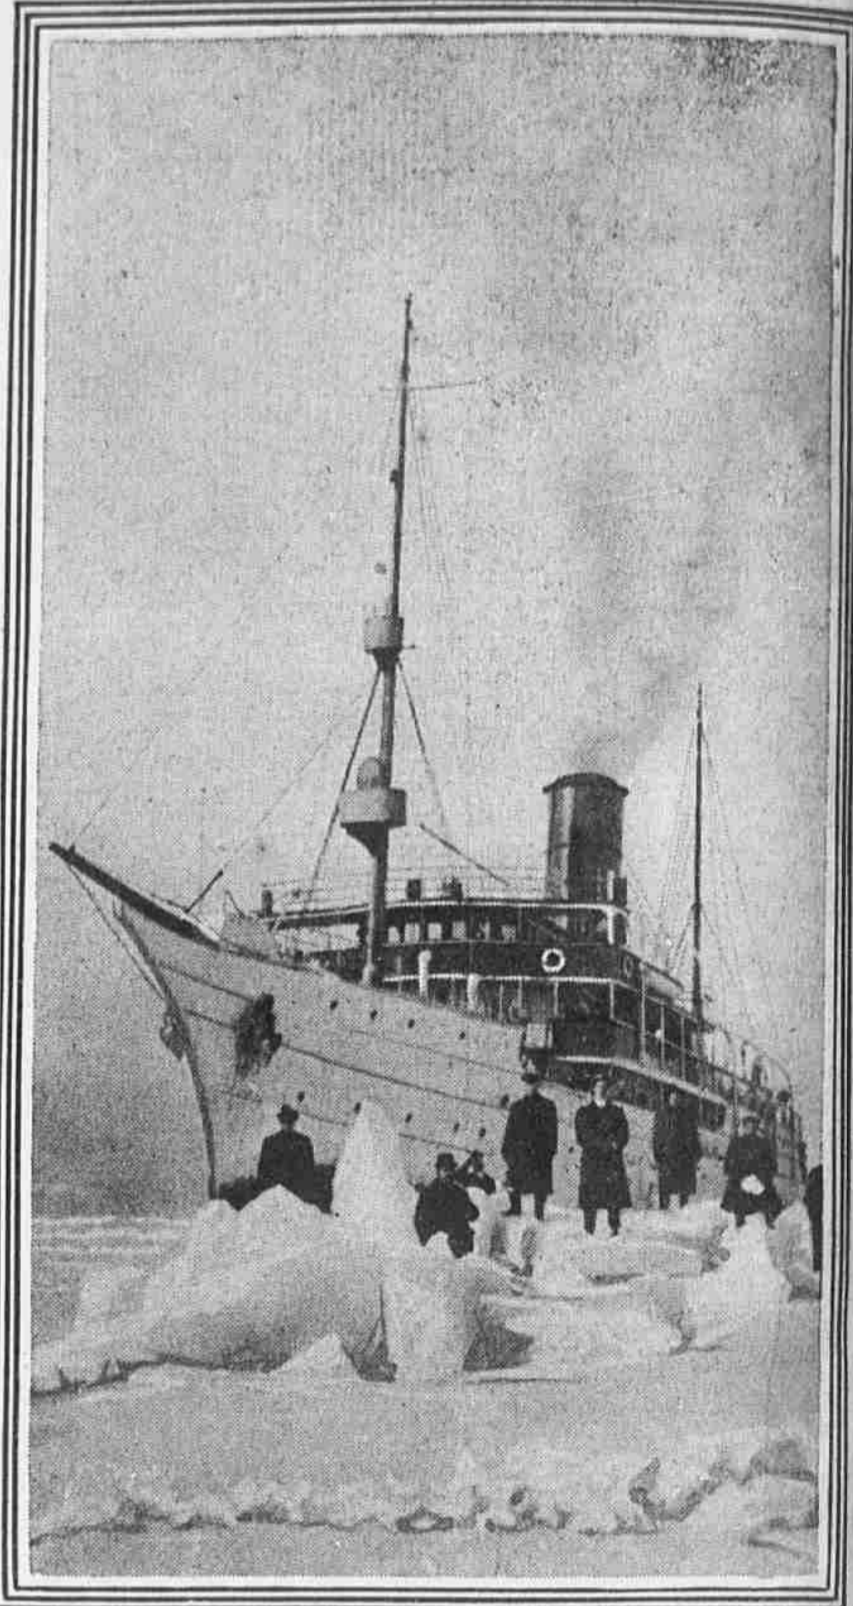

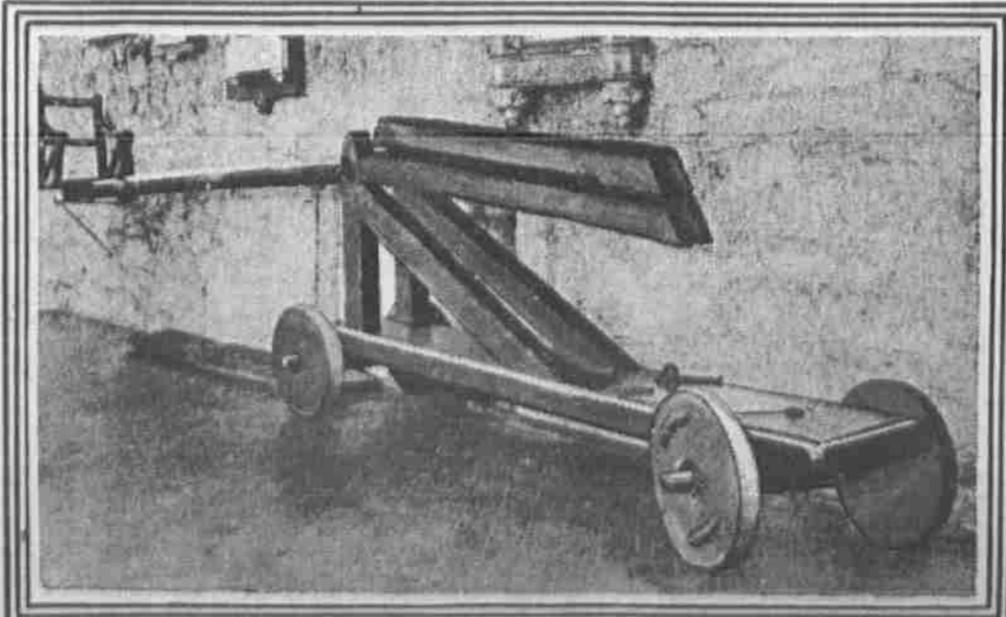

Photo by Kodak Pictorial News Service.

BREAKER FOR RUSSIA'S ICE-LOCKED HARBORS
This powerful ice crusher was sold some time ago by the Canadian Government to Russia for the purpose of keeping the Arctic zone port of Archangel open all winter. Russia is now said to be after the John Weaver, Philadelphia's ice breaker, because this craft has failed to do the work.

Photo by Harris & Ewing.

BATTLING OVER THE SHIP PURCHASE BILL
From left to right here are Representative Alexander, of Missouri, who introduced the original bill in the House on September 4; Senator Callinger, leader of the minority against the bill, and Senator Fletcher, who is pushing the Senate bill.

THERE'S USE FOR IT NOW

Ducking stool in Leominster Priory Church, England. It was last used in 1809. Its inscription calls it "An engine of universal punishment for common scolds and for butchers, bakers, brewers, apothecaries and all who gave short measure or vended adulterated articles of food."

Photo by Underwood & Underwood.

SHE WILL LECTURE IN UNITED STATES FOR GERMANY
Dressed in the field uniform of a German army officer, Miss Wilma Sands, an American woman, is coming to the United States from Germany to talk on German "kultur," institutions, economy, militarism and kindred topics.