MAY WHEAT MOVES

BETWEEN $1.66 AND $1.59 1-4 AT CLOSE

Wild Scenes in Chicago Pit During Fluctuations. July Falls to $1.38 3/4 at Finish.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—May wheat closed today at $1.59 1/4 per bushel, after having at one time successfully rocketed to a new record high price of $1.66.

The extreme fluctuation of May during the day of wild scenes on the Board of Trade was 9 1/2 cents per bushel.

After a wild opening the price dropped close to $1.63, where it remained until nearly noon.

An advance of from 4 to 5 cents at Liverpool and a cable that the New Zealand Government had authorized free imports of grain were arguments used by the bulls.

July wheat, which opened at $1.41 1/4, a cent and a half under yesterday's close, lacked support and sold down to $1.40 1/4, with a few minutes, July closed at $1.38 3/4, 5/8c under yesterday's final figures.

May corn opened at 85 1/2, and almost immediately went to 84 1/2, July opened 1/2 lower and sold down to 84 1/2.
