

"WHITE OF ANDY." CARNEGIE'S CHOICE FOR HIS EPITAPH Uses Words of Fugitive Homestead Burgess—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., Also on Stand in U. S. Probe.

HIGH SPOTS OF CARNEGIE'S TESTIMONY IN U. S. PROBE "It was white of Andy," epitaph he wrote on his tombstone. Attributes success to retention of capitalist views. "They grant demands of labor."

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—"It was white of Andy." That is the epitaph Andrew Carnegie wants put on his tombstone. He told the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations this afternoon that the sentiment was uttered by an ex-burgess of Homestead, Pa., and was made when he sent a message through Professor Dyke, of Rutgers, telling the man, then working as a laborer in a Honora, Mex., mine, that he wanted to aid him financially.

CHIEF OBJECT "TO DO GOOD." When asked to state his name and business he said: "Andrew Carnegie, retired business man, whose chief object in life is to do good to mankind." Carnegie declared that, summing up all his experiences, he believed the one big thing he had learned was that experienced men are the best, and that much of his success was due entirely to himself and his partners retaining their old men in their employ and to "always granting the demands of labor, however unreasonable."

Carnegie detailed the financial operations of his six foundations. "I also am paying $20,000 a year in private pensions," he said. He asserted that he also received money from widowed friends and paid them 6 per cent. interest on it to protect their investments. Carnegie invited the commission to attend the meetings of his foundations and welcomed investigation.

"We have nothing to conceal," he said. Carnegie jokingly lauded Henry Ford. Referring to Ford, he said: "I am not disposed to question anything that this prodigy has said," he declared. "Success to him. By all means let us give him a trial. His success in making good men out of criminals would not be more of a seeming miracle than his success has been with the Ford cars." Carnegie said that he had never had directors were in a position to know much about labor conditions in their plants.

26,000 MORE TRANSIT BUTTONS

Order Delivered Today Increases Total to 85,000. An order of 26,000 "for the transit plan" buttons was delivered to Director Taylor by the manufacturer today. By tonight more than 85,000 buttons will have been distributed. Business men's, labor, civic and fraternal associations are ordering the buttons in lots from 1000 upward for distribution among their members and friends. Merchants and manufacturers are also ordering many of the buttons for distribution among their employees and customers.

EUROPE SEEKS OUR PRODUCTS

Inquiries From Russia and Spain Regarding American Goods. Two cabled inquiries for lists of American manufacturers with prices of their products have been received by the Commerce Department today. One was from George C. Gibson, Assistant Secretary of the Foreign Trade Bureau of the institution. Both are from firms who formerly dealt with Germany and have since their source of supply cut off by the war.

THIS IS THE MAN

This is John P. Connelly, Chairman of Councils. He is chairman of Councils' $30,000,000 rapid transit loan election measure. The demand that it be met by the city is the chief object of his protest.

Connelly's home address is 238 Fairmount avenue. His home telephone number is Market 2049, Bell phone. His law office is Room 1526, Land Title Building. His business phone number is Spruce 6543, Bell phone; Race, 1376, Keystone phone.

TRANSIT INACTION RAISES CITY REVOLT

Continued from Page One. anger not only against Connelly, whose hand has been definitely shown in the transaction, but against Charles Seger, who holds the 7th Ward for Connelly. Seger's action in introducing a resolution in Councils yesterday calling upon Director Taylor to furnish information regarding the subway and high-speed lines was characterized by the officials as an insult to the citizens. Not only have two books been published embracing the whole project, but every newspaper in the city, including the Organization organs, have given the widest publicity to the proposed lines.

NO MEETING FOR A MONTH

Transit Association Will Not Meet. The East Germantown Improvement Association will meet immediately to take definite action to show Connelly just how important this matter is to the people of this city. POLICE COURT CHRONICLES

When John Casiday awoke this morning he found himself in jail. When he went to sleep he was a free man. But during his nap there was a lot of excitement. John was not aware. John lives at 464 Germantown avenue. Hearing that his cousin, Pat Casiday, was leaving Moyamensing Prison after a five days' visit, John went downtown to give him the "glad hand." Both the Casidays then celebrated Pat's freedom.

out the city's finance committee holding a session. It regularly meets every two weeks. As far as can be ascertained, no other meeting has been called. Mr. Connelly refused to be interviewed and the other members of the committee know nothing. It has been pointed out by the friends of the transit plan that the Organization is simply adopting a "watchful, delaying policy."

COUNCILS MAY FLOAT LOAN TO INCLUDE ITEM FOR THE SUBWAY LOOP

Councils is preparing to float a loan of $20,000,000 or $30,000,000 for municipal improvements, and it was rumored today that a loan of $30,000,000 would be an item of $500,000 for construction of the transit loop. It was said that this move was decided upon because of the general demand for action on the transit plans.

BUSINESS MEN'S DEMAND

The following are views expressed by officers of business associations today. CASPER WERNER, President Passayunk Avenue Business Men's Association: No matter what sort of a trick or conspiracy some of our City Fathers may have dreamed up to delay the construction of a subway they will not succeed. I am in favor of having a special meeting of all the South Philadelphia business men's organizations and adopting resolutions urging that the loan be taken out of Councils' Finance Committee.

PLAN TO GIVE STATE SHARE OF CITY PROPERTY REVENUE SERIOUSLY CONSIDERED

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. HARRISBURG, Feb. 5.—Governor Brumbaugh indicated today that Senator Spraul's suggestion that the present law by which cities and counties tax personal property be repealed and a new one passed by the Legislature giving the State a share in this form of revenue is being considered seriously.

"GO AHEAD, SHOOT," WOMAN'S CHALLENGE

Reached from Page One. The burglar sprang at her she dashed one of the plates to the floor. Then she dodged around a table. The plate had broken on the burglar's face, inflicting a deep gash. With the blood streaming from this he charged her around the table until it upset. When he caught her she beat him over the face with the other plate. The man was forced to let go, but he rushed after her again.

HITS WOMAN WITH PITCHER

After the battle had kept up until Mrs. Tyson was hardly able to lift her arms the burglar caught up the heavy handle of a cut glass pitcher she had broken and struck her over the head with it. "I'm going to make you pay for this," said the burglar, pointing to the wound in his face.

Wanamaker Athletic Carnival

Members of the John Wanamaker Commercial Institute will hold an athletic carnival on the ninth floor of the Wanamaker store at 23rd street. The organization, which is composed of young employees of the store, organized for educational purposes, will meet in the usual school session from the time the carnival opens at 10 o'clock. There will be basketball, boxing and gymnastics will be features of the program.

CURATE'S LETTER OF CENSURE STARTS POSTAL INQUIRY

Read by Three Persons, Including Bishop Rhinelander, Before It Reached Person Addressed. Episcopal Church circles have been stirred over a letter written by a curate to John Henry Howard, of 237 North 19th street, an acolyte in the Church of the Annunciation, at 12th and Diamond streets. Howard alleges that the letter addressed to him was tampered with and read by three persons before it was turned over to him.

Episcopal Church Circles Have

Among the persons interviewed by the postal authorities were Bishop Philip M. Rhinelander, of the Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania, and Rowland F. Phillips, a young student, who attends the Philadelphia Divinity School, at Woodland avenue and 12th street. No official action will be taken by the postal inspectors on the report submitted by the mail examiners until Chief Postal Inspector Cortelyou returns to the city. He is at present in the West on a Government bankruptcy case.

CENSURED FOR "GOSSIPING"

The incident which resulted in a letter being written to him in which he was censured for "gossiping" occurred on the evening of December 9, 1914, during a musical given by several church organizations at the Church of the Advocate, at 15th and Diamond streets. The curate, which has become a much discussed topic in church circles, was written by the Rev. Irving A. McGrew, who is the curate of the Epiphany Church of the Church of St. Luke and the Epiphany at 15th and Spruce streets. It was written on December 10, 1914, and read as follows:

"My dear Mr. Howard: Last night Mrs. McGrew and I had the doubtful pleasure of sitting in front of the altar in the Epiphany Church. I had intended writing to the dean to feel there must be some sense of fitness and reverence in a man who is studying for orders. "I don't think this over. Remember, other people expect the church to be respected, at least to the extent of his reverent behavior on the part of those who come to worship. This is not too much to ask of a priest." "Faithfully yours, "IRVING A. MCGREW."

BISHOP HAS LETTER

According to Howard, the letter-recipient was addressed to the Philadelphia Divinity School, because the Rev. McGrew believed him to be a divinity student. Howard says he knew nothing about the letter until it was shown to him by Bishop Rhinelander in the latter part of December. "I called on Bishop Rhinelander at his home after receiving a request from his secretary to call," said Howard today. When I called on Bishop Rhinelander he showed me the letter and questioned me concerning my alleged misconduct at the musicale which was mentioned in the letter written by the Rev. McGrew. I was indeed surprised to see a letter addressed to me in the possession of the Bishop. I asked him to tell me where he obtained the letter, but he refused to do so.

THE WEATHER

Official Forecast WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Rain tonight and Saturday; warmer from Sunday onward.
