"Kill Whites," Says Plan of Revolt Found on Bacile Ramos, Jr., the Leader, Arrested in Texas.

BROWNVILLE, Tex., Feb. 6.—A plot to incite revolt in five Southern States and effect their secession from the United States has been discovered here by Government Secret Service agents. The plotters, mostly Negroes and Mexicans, whose object was the annexation of the seceding States to Mexico.

Bacile Ramos, Jr., said to be the head of the propagandists, has been arrested and placed under $5000 bond. Other arrests are expected. Papers found on Ramos include the names of prominent persons in Mexico and the United States who were involved in the plot.

Ramos' alleged plot was called "The Plan of San Diego, Tex., January 6, 1912." In papers in his possession, San Diego is the county seat of Duval County, Texas. The States included in the plot are Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and California. The plot was planned to kill every white male more than 16 years old.

Here is an outline of the revolutionists' plan:

"1.—First.—On February 25, at 2 o'clock in the morning, we will arise in arms against the Government of the United States. One as all and all as one, we proclaim our liberty as individuals and races (black, Mexican, Indian and Japanese) from the Yankee tyranny which has held us in slavery since remote times.

"2.—At the same time and in the same manner we will proclaim the independence and segregation of the States bordering upon the Mexican nation, of which Mexico was robbed in a most perfidious manner by North American imperialism.

"3.—The necessary armaments will be formed under the immediate command of military leaders, named by the Supreme Revolutionary Congress of San Diego.

"4.—Each of us will be furnished with arms, ammunition and funds of principal cities.

"5.—Municipal authorities shall be appointed immediately for cities captured.

"6.—It is strictly forbidden to hold prisoners. Whether effort to effect ransom is successful or not they shall be shot.

"7.—There are 15 articles of revolt setting forth plans for the success of the plot. Indians of Arizona were to be guaranteed their safety if they would join the revolution. The captured States were to be turned into an independent republic first and later annexed to Mexico.

Ramos was arrested January 27 in Hidalgo County, Texas, and placed in Cameron County Jail, in a cell charged with conspiracy. United States Commissioner Goodrich held him after a secret hearing.

WETTEST FEBRUARY IN CITY'S WEATHER RECORD

February, 1915, is only six days old.

To date it is the wettest February in the history of the Philadelphia weather service. It is the first in which produced more rainfall than have the 28 days of the average February of other years.

The average February rainfall is 3.14 inches.

The rainfall for the first three days of this month was 3.86 inches. Then came an additional fall last night and early this morning, bringing this month's record to 4.88 inches.

With 22 days still to go in the month, there is no predicting what the record of rainfall will be for February, 1915.

MYSTERY OF STEAMSHIP TRANSFER DEEPENS

Westwego, Formerly Steano Romano, Probably Held Here Indefinitely.

The mystery surrounding the sale and transfer of the former Rumanian steamship Steano Romano, now the American steamship Westwego, is growing deeper. Officers of the Union Petroleum Steamship Company, the new owners of the vessel, decline to discuss the situation.

With Captain Orrin Crowley on board, anxious to proceed to Galveston to load a cargo of cotton for Bremen, the vessel is tied up at Cramp's Shipyard. Shipping men predict the steamship will never make the trip. Jasper Yeates Britton, a local attorney, representing the Union Petroleum Steamship Company, returned from Washington today where it is said he was in conference with the representatives of the State Department and the British Embassy. He declined to say anything about the meeting.

The case of the Westwego is looked upon as another Dacia problem, only more intricate. One of the latest developments was the discovery today of the fact that A. C. Woodman, president of the steamship company, was arrested in England while he was on his way home from Bremen, where he negotiated the sale of the steamship with her Rumanian owners and succeeded in getting a provisional registry from the American consul.

Mr. Woodman, while admitting he was arrested, refused to give any of the details. He said he knew the trouble that confronted him, and he did not care to make it public. It is said he was suspected of being a German spy, and that he was arrested by a British sailing for this country, where he is being sent for his own safety. It is said that he has not firmly informed that his presence on British soil was undesirable, and that he need not be in a hurry to come back.

HE SITS ON "PICKLING VAT" LID

This is Charles Seger, who holds the 7th Ward for McNichol. He is chairman of the Finance Subcommittee of Councils. The $30,000,000 transit loan election measure is now in the Finance Committee. It has been there since January 7, but, although there has been a city-wide demand for immediate action on the Taylor transit plan, the committee has not met. Instead Seger tried to delay the transit program to prevent the award of contracts in the Blankenburg Administration by introducing a resolution calling upon Director Taylor to furnish information about the plan. This information was furnished every Councilman by Director Taylor months ago.

BANKER QUITS BED AT DEAD OF NIGHT AND ENDS HIS LIFE

Cashier of Lebanon County Institution Commits Suicide on Eve of Examination of Accounts.

SCHAEFFERSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 6.—The body of Alvin Binner, cashier of the Lebanon National Bank, was found at daybreak this morning on the lot in rear of his home by Triah B. Horst, president of the bank, who had been summoned by Mrs. Binner when she discovered that her husband was missing. She had been disturbed, she said, about 2 o'clock by her only aroused son, but her husband was not in the house when she awoke at 5 o'clock. Binner had fired two shots into his mouth. When death did not result instantly from the first shot, he deliberately fired a second shot.

The statement was made by Mr. Horst that so far as he knew there was no shortage and no irregularity in the books of the arrival here last evening of J. M. Logan, a national bank examiner, to examine the books of the institution. Binner is said to have left a note to his wife in which he declared that his accounts with the bank are all right, but that he had other troubles.

Binner had 33 years old and leaves his wife and four small children. He was a son of Joseph Binner, of Buffalo Springs, and stood high in the community.

CAMDEN LAWYER ENDS LIFE

John L. Semple, Suffering With Rheumatism, Shoots Himself.

John L. Semple, a prominent member of the New Jersey bar, and once accused of being involved with a gang of counterfeiters, shot himself through the heart in his office at 329 Market street, Camden, today.

Semple was found dying at 11 o'clock by his law partner, John H. Switzer. He was dead by the time Dr. F. W. Marcy, summoned by Mr. Switzer, reached the office.

Twelve years ago Mr. Semple was stricken with rheumatism. Unable to walk, he suffered incessantly but continued his law practice, his wife wheeling him into court in a chair. In spite of suffering, Mr. Semple managed to keep up a large legal practice. Shortly before he shot himself he was in consultation with Mr. Switzer. The latter was out of the office less than 15 minutes. When he returned he found Mr. Semple on the floor with a revolver by his side.

It was recalled today that about 10 years ago Semple was arrested on a charge of being a conspirator with a man named Taylor in the notorious counterfeiting case which caused a sensation at the time. He was counsel for Taylor and was accused with a band composed of Jacobs, Kendig, Ingram, Nowitz, Taylor and Bredell, of conspiring to flood the country with counterfeit $20 notes.

It was charged at the trial that Taylor and Bredell, whom he also represented, had used the services of Semple while in Moyamensing prison. Semple was tried twice. The first resulted in a disagreement and he was acquitted by a second jury.

Semple was 52 years old and in recent years had given most of his attention to civil cases. He was born in Burlington County, N. J., and was graduated from Princeton University in 1890. He studied law in the office of Frederick Voorhees in Camden and was admitted to the bar in 1881.

AGE BARS SPORTS OF YOUTH

Rockefeller Tells Girls His "Coasting" Days Are Over.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—John D. Rockefeller knows today that his age is a bar to the sports of youth. While automobiling he stopped to watch schoolgirls coasting. They recognized the "oil king" and invited him to join them. In refusing he said:

"I thank you, young ladies, but coasting isn't an old man's sport. When I was a boy I enjoyed it, although we never had such fine sleighs as you have today. No, my coasting days are over, but if you will come up to my estate I won't be afraid to meet you at golf."

Then he waved his hand to the girls and departed with a wistful glance.

PENN FIRST "AD" MAN IN AMERICA, SPEAKER SAYS

Founder Knew Value of Advertising, Professor Avers.

The first "advertising man" in this country on record was William Penn, Herman V. Ames, professor of American constitutional history at the University of Pennsylvania, declared this to be true in a lecture in Houston Hall this afternoon.

"Systematic efforts to attract colonists by advertisement were made," said Professor Ames. "William Penn was almost the first to adopt these modern methods on an extensive scale. Not only did he make special trips to the Continent, but also to attract immigrants he distributed widely circulars in several languages presenting the advantages of Pennsylvania in glowing colors; advantages that made their impact on the landless and those persecuted for religious reasons."

Doctor Ames gave a review of the several movements which led to the peopling of the colonies and the first of the elements that made up their population.

School Children Hear "Billy" Sunday

For his doctrine of Christianity. His treatment of the text, "Why Studied Here All the Day Idle" was treated from a standpoint of the breadwinner of the family.

"I want to show you," he said, "that from a standpoint of profit and loss Christianity is on the right side of the ledger. I want to show you that it is better to live with God than without Him, but if you can prove that it is better to live without Him, I'll do it—but you've got to show me, I'm from Missouri.

"The men and women among you who go to church are better than those who do not, and you are better than your employer if he doesn't go, and he knows it, too.

"GOD HATES A LOAFER." "It is your letter of credit. Without it it's good-night for you. It pays to work and serve your employer to the best of your ability. It pays to work for God. His pay is better than that of the devil. I've served both and I know what I am talking about.

"Just you take a look in the penitentiary. In the insane asylums and places like that and you'll see the devil's pay. Those people have served him. They are diseased in body and mind. That's what Mr. Devil handed them and that's what he'll hand you, too.

"Another thing. Don't be a slot machine; don't work with your eye on the pay envelope and the clock. Don't be all the time trying to stir up trouble. Suppose God went on a strike! We'd all be starved to death in eight months! Just think of that once in a while, some of you fellows.

"Don't blow your money! If some of these thousands of unemployed had saved their money when they were flush they wouldn't be so badly off now—save it to the rainy day.

In closing his address, Mr. Sunday said: "I don't care what your particular occupation may be, you can serve God if you will. Turn over a new leaf and be in His kingdom. He'll give you a reward a little bigger than this world can give you."

"BILLY" GIVEN RUG.

At the close of the services the evangelist was presented with a handsome rug and a bouquet. He was also a guest at a banquet in the shipping room of the plant.

The presentation addresses to Mr. Sunday was made by Henry I. Magee, one of the members of the firm, and Myrtle Clinton, the employer. Other members of the committee who received Mr. Sunday were Archibald Campbell, John Keilig, J. R. Hoag, Claude Simpler and M. E. Steffen.

Before going to the factory Mr. Sunday called on Mr. and Mrs. John Wanamaker at their home, at 202 Walnut street.

Among the special delegations at the tabernacle last night the A. J. Reach Company was represented by 1000 employees, while 500 came from the Pine Tree silk mills. Other delegations represented the Bradford district of the United Gas Improvement Company, the William H. Wanamaker store, Electro-Dental Manufacturing Company, Crossingham Knitting Mills and Goodwin Combined Stores. Present also were Walter P. Miller, County Prison officers, J. A. Roehling, Sons' Company, Pennsylvania Military Academy and officers and friends from Fort DuPont. The Reach crowd presented "Billy" with a basket of flowers. "The muffled noise of his balls than there are flowers here," said the ex-ball player. The gas man gave a bunch of Easter lilies, while the delegation from William H. Wanamaker's sent up a basket of flowers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Postoffice Department's four-year stamped envelope contract, calling for the manufacture of more than 9,000,000,000 stamped envelopes at an expenditure of $8,126,598, today was awarded by Postmaster General Burleson to the Middle West Supply Company, of Columbus, O.

The Middle West Company underbid its only competitor, the Mercantile Corporation of New York, about 25 cents on the contract, by $1,200,000. A saving of approximately $500,000 a year is assured under the contract, which begins July 1 next.

Master Bakers to Discuss Possibility of Rise in Price.

Bread is still sold for five cents a loaf in Philadelphia, and according to representatives of the "Master Bakers' Association" no steps have been taken to raise the price. This organization, which represents the small bakers throughout the city, will meet in special session at Teatons Hall, 170 Woodlands street, at 10 o'clock today, to determine how much longer they can afford to sell bread at the old price and what weight.

It is doubtful, however, if the organization has any chance of success, as it is being made unless the price of wheat and flour continues to rise.

HORSE ENDANGERS MANY PEDESTRIANS ON BROAD STREET HAVE NARROW ESCAPE FROM RUNAWAY.

Scores of pedestrians at Broad and Chestnut streets had a narrow escape at noon when a horse, harnessed to a big cart, took fright at a passing automobile and ran away. Before being halted it crashed into half a dozen automobiles, a trolley car and several other teams. One wagon was knocked into the middle of the Union League pavement.

As the horse turned up Walnut street Reserve Policeman Devlin grabbed for the reins. He was half dragged and half pulled for more than a block before he subdued the terrified horse.

POLICE COURT CIRCUITS

Sammy Smith stole seventy-six smelts swiftly. The fish were in three boxes in the wagon of Joe Goldman at Marshall street and Germantown avenue. Goldman described the smelts to Policeman Williams and he got on the scent quickly. It led him to the home of Smith, at 5th and Dauphin streets, and he asked Sammy for an explanation.

Smith said he was in a moving picture theatre at the time the 76 smelts were stolen. But his attempted alibi did not convince Williams. The cop asked Sammy the name of the picture playing at the theatre which he visited. Sammy said it was "The Mystery of the Deep." But Williams proved it was "Brothers of Blood" or some dainty title like that, and then he took Sammy to the 4th and York streets station. Magistrate Glenn was inclined to believe Sammy's tale of the fish until he tried to work the alibi. He also knew that Sammy was wrong. This made him indignant so he held Smith in $50 bail charged with larceny of the smelts.

The suspensors of George Green prevented him from falling under a freight car, which was moving slowly near the Frankford station. Green was traveling in the air and was occasionally bumped by the train. He was wondering what would happen next when a policeman saw him. The bluescoat signaled the engineer to stop and took the nervous traveler to the Frankford police station. Green said he was trying to slide from the top of the car when his suspensors caught in a piece of wood. He admitted that he didn't know where he was going and thought that jail was as safe a place as anywhere.

"All I want is a chance to make a living," he declared to Magistrate Borja.

"We'll see how ambitious you are; go and chop some wood in the cellar," said the judge.

"I'd like to do that, but you see I got rheumatism and—" Three months in the House of Correction," interrupted the judge.

Charles Homazard thought he saw an apple on the head of a customer in the saloon of Felix Moran, at 154 German-

INDUSTRIAL PROBLEMS DIFFER ON SOLUTION OF LABOR'S UNREST

Agree Unanimously Only on Federal Labor Bureau, Conciliation Commission and Welfare Boards.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—When the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations publishes its investigations in this city the body will report to Congress. It is learned today, and recommended unanimously these three reforms to offset the industrial unrest:

Establishment of a Federal Labor Bureau, with branches in every part of the United States.

Extension of the Erdman conciliation act so that a Federal Commission may have power to tender mediation in industrial disputes in industries which are an interstate business.

That all corporations establish welfare boards in their organizations and make easy for any employee with a grievance to present the same to a responsible official for consideration.

On the weighty questions of labor's demanding share in profits, representation of labor on directors, public ownership and control of the railroads, the commission will be divided.

It is certain that on these points the most individual reports will be made. The eastern half of the country holds widely divergent views.

The commission today completed work in this city, convinced that it has staged the greatest drama ever produced in the history of the country. The Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller, the wealthiest men in the world and the one who, by their own efforts made possible the great steel and oil industries, rarely testify along similar lines from the same platform probably will never be equaled again.

WASTE OF PUBLIC FUNDS CONDEMNED IN HOUSE

Democratic Leader Underwood said "reckless expenditure of public money was the banker, destroying the people and that Congressional economy may be only escape from higher taxes."

Representative Gillett, of Massachusetts, accused the Administration of "wasting money in the pockets of the government." He also criticized Cabinet officers whom he charged with taking costly trips at Government expense.
