SECOND PROTEST TO CONNELLY Market Street Merchants Want Gas Lamp Bill Reported.

Thomas Martindale, chairman of a special committee of the Market Street Merchants' Association, has sent a second letter to John P. Connelly, chairman of the Finance Committee of Councils, urging that the ordinance to change public gasoline lamps to gas be reported out of committee for action by Councils.

The ordinance would provide work for the unemployed by expenditure of $430,000 by the United Gas Improvement Company in extending its gas mains. The city would save more than $70,000 a year by the change. In spite of all appeals, the Finance Committee has kept the bene-ficial legislation in pickle for almost a year. Mayor Blankenburg has asserted that "some mysterious influences seem to be at work" to prevent passage of the

Then he bowed himself out, but in the anteroom, according to Special Policemen Dinbaugh and Cook, he stowed himself inside the overcoat of Thomas McCreary, 2124 East Lehigh avenue, who was the patient in the chair.

McCreary discovered his loss a few minutes later and Doctor Killian telephoned to the Trenton avenue and Dauphin street station house, giving descriptions of the missing coat and McKeever. These were relayed to a pawnshop at Albert street and Kensington avenue, where Mc-Keever is alleged to have appeared later. McKeever overheard the pawnbroker's clerk telephoning the police and he dropped the coat and ran. After a chase, in which several hundred pedestrians joined, he was captured. He was held in

BANK'S CREDITOR PAYS $10,000 TO SHOW GOOD FAITH

Denies Culpability for Situation Which Caused Suspension-Hopes for Early Reopening.

SCHAEFFERSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 12-Squire Irwin Herst, eigar manufacturer and tobacco dealer, whose indebtedness to the wrecked First National Bank has been tentatively placed at $10,000 by Examiner Logan, has placed that amount of money in the hands of the United States Treasury official. The money, it is definitely understood, will not be paid into the bank at this time, but will continue in the possession of Examiner Logan until Horst's exact indebtedness to the looted institution has been estab-

In putting up the $10,000 deposit, Squire Horst made it plain that it was but an evidence of his entire good faith in all his transactions with the bank. His banking business, he had been led by his implicit confidence in Cashier Binner, to leave entirely in the hands of the latter, whose lifelong friend he had been Horst insisted that he had no knowledge that ne owed the bank anything like $10,000, but was willing to accept the figures of the bank examiner until the truth shall have been fully established. An expert accountant is to go over Horst's books while the examination of the bank's account is proceeding and then there will be a comparing of figures with the hope that the whole transac-tion will be laid bare. Horst ineists he has nothing to fear and wel-comes the final accounting with entire confidence in his absolute freedom from culpability in the wrecking of the k. The money was placed in the hands of the examiner late yesterday. Up to this morning the bank officials have heard nothing in a substantial way from D. B. Klefer, the Middletown cattle dealer, whose indebtedness was fixed at $12,000, but confidence is expressed in his ability to make good by the early payment of at least a portion of the mone; he owes the bank.

The step taken in the Horst case will most likely be followed in that of Kiefer and makes plain the necessity of having all of the $41,000 shortage in the bank's funds paid in cash by the stockholders.

The response in the shape of payments of not only the first 25 per cent. of the $164, but the entire amount in most cases has proved a source of keenest satisfaction on the part of all who are identi fled with the undertaking of placing the bank squarely on its feet again.

There is confidence expressed that all assessments will have been paid by to-morrow evening, and in that event the bank may be reopened for business next Monday morning, providing Examiner Logan and his assistants shall have reached such a point in their almost ceaseless labors as will warrant the rec-ommendation of such a step. Although this is a legal holiday, observed by all the banks, there was no let-up in the work in the First National Bank, where every effort is now being made to bring order out of chaos in order that the stockholders may be informed just where they stand with reference to the true conditions ex-isting there and given the opportunity to

TENTH AND

U. S. FLAG PROTEST AROUSES IRRITATION IN GREAT BRITAIN

Resentment in London Somewhat Lessened by Still More Vigorous Language in Note to Germany.

LONDON, Feb. 12.

That the United States intends fully to protest all of its rights and privileges in the construction today placed on the American note to Germany and Great Britain. Although the compete text reached here too late for extensive comment by the morning papers there is no question that the vigorous language used in both communications came as a distingt surprise to the majority of British diplomats. There is a general disposition to resent the action of the American State Department in assuming, without first asking for official information, that the British Foreign Office has sanctioned the "misuse of neutral flagz." As a matter of fact the majority of Englishmen are arguing that inasmuch as Britain has always allowed the use of its flag by a merchantallowed the use of its flag by a merchantman seeking to evade capture it should have the same right. Were the American note not accompanied by the note to Germany, couched in such strong language, it is believed it would arouse severe irritation. But there is a general feeling that of the two the Kaiser gets the worst of it, and this brings satisfaction to the average Englishman.

However, this is no disguising the fact that a strong anti-American feeling is growing throughout England. Having growing throughout England. Having its basis in the belief that the United States should openly express sympathy with the cause of the Allies, it has been added to by the original protest against added to by the distance of domination of the seas, and the latest note can be expected to add to it. The majority of English officials insist that whether the Foreign Office sanctioned the use of the American flag by certain mall-carrying English steamships or not, the present protest need not have been made in the manner that it was. They take the po-sition that the attention of the British Government could have been called to the matter through diplomatic channels and without making the text of the note

The assumption, admittedly made on newspaper reports, that the Foreign Of-fice has officially sanctioned the use of the flag, is characterized as typically American American.

It is understood that so soon as he has considered the note. Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Secretary, will call it to the attention of the Cabinet. It will cause no surprise if the Government should disavow the allegations contained in the letter and place responsibility for the use of the American flag on high officials of the steamship lines, although this is, of course, not certain.
